Permanent Cures of Cancer

We here give a few cases, where the efficacy of our Constitutional treatment in curing Cancer, is established beyond all question. We have plenty on fyle.

There is ample proof that where our remedy cures, it cures to stay and saves people from the torture of knife and plaster.

CANCER OF THE BREAST—A lady had Cancer of the breast, which rendered her right shoulder and arm almost helpless. Our remedy cured her over five years ago, and there is not the slightest return of the trouble.

CANCER OF THE FACE—This case of a gentleman who was so bad that his right cheek was almost eaten off with the disease, plasters aggravated his trouble. Our treatment cured him five years ago and he has been all right since.

CANCER OF THE STOMACH—Doctors pronounced the trouble cancer of the stomach. There was vomiting of material that looked like Coffee grounds, Great weakness and prostration. Cured over four years ago and well to-day.

CANCER OF THE NOSE—A severe case which was cured by our remedy in 1891 and has never returned to this day.

Full accounts of the above cases, together with the names and addresses of the persons, are given in our new book, "Cancer, Its Cause and Cure," sent to anyone, in plain wrapper on receipt of 2 stamps. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by The Times.

NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to contribute items of news to its columns. Anything that is phoned or sent in writing to the office, of a nature suitable for publication, will be received and published.—Ed. Times.)

—No police court yesterday.

—The City of Peterborough is being dry docked.

—The municipal pot should soon begin to simmer.

—A large force of men are now employed at the Cereal Works.

—The Marks Bros. Dramatic Company will close a very successful engagement to-night.

—Posters are being issued from the Times job rooms, asking for tenders for snow plowing.

—Plan of the Opera House for the Clachan Splore on Thanksgiving Day is open to-day at the G.T.R. ticket office.

—The great Clachan Splore, or Scottish merrymaking, at the Opera House on Thanksgiving Day, is creating great interest.

—Another full house greeted Marks Bros. last night, when they presented the four-act comedy drama, entitled, "Roger Jonson's Ransom." The Company close their present engagement to-night.

—Have your Xmas photos taken at Whiten's as soon as possible, if you want them finished before the Holidays. Studio corner George and Hunter streets, west side.

Rev. Mr. Bastow will begin a series of sermons on the Lord's Prayer to-morrow morning, which are expected to be of special interest and profit to all who hear them. The public is most cordially invited to attend the series.

—On Thursday night Mr. C. M. Patterson, of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce, was tendered an enthusiastic farewell at the Crown hotel by a number of his friends. He was presented with a beautiful pipe and case, the boys at the same time expressing regret at his departure from town.

—Lindsay Post: Benson house guests and boarders are delighted with the very complete system of steam heating lately introduced into every part of that extensive building. The system comprises over 80 radiators, fed by a large boiler in the basement, and no difficulty is experienced in keeping the temperature steadily at 75 degrees.

Saturday Socials

At the Y.M.C.A. this evening, the first of a series of weekly Saturday socials for men will be held. The parlor will be reopened after having undergone renovating and repairs. A social hour will be spent from 7.30 including a number of pleasing features. At nine o'clock the Wm. Hamiltons will play the Canadian General team at basket ball. The coffee room will be opened for the season—refreshments being served free. An invitation is extended to all men to attend.

The Band Concert

There was a large attendance at the Band Concert last night in the Market Building, notwithstanding the counter attraction at the Opera House. The concert was the first of the series, and was a great success, so far as the music is concerned. The program was one of the best ever presented.

Union Thanksgiving Service

The Union Thanksgiving Service will be held this year in the Murray Street Baptist Church. Rev. Dr. Torrance and Rev. D. O. Crossley will speak. The churches uniting in this service will be St. Paul's, St. Andrew's, George street, Charlotte street, Murray street and Park street. The public is cordially invited. Services commence at eleven o'clock.

The Town Wins a Small Suit Against an Ex Market Clerk

The town's suit for $70.50, against last year's market clerk, came before the division Court yesterday morning. The town offered to make a rebate of $25, but this was not agreeable.

The defendant had a counter claim made up of various amounts alleged to be owing him by the town on account of the inconveniences subjected while improvements and other works was in progress.

Judgment was given in favor of the town for the full amount.

Your Time Is Valuable.

AN IMPORTANT ITEM.

Special attention is directed to our fresh stock of Paine's Celery Compound. This marvellous medicine is recommended to you with full confidence. Paine's Celery Compound makes pure, rich blood; it banishes rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, stomach troubles, H. S. McDonald, Druggist.

Fine Venison

Our thanks are due to our neighbor, Mr. J. M. Brooks, the popular and genial proprietor of the Palace Restaurant, for a very fine piece of venison. May Mr. Brooks long continue to successfully handle the rifle. This great family journal is fond of venison, and the steaks so generously given by Mr. Brooks are unsurpassed in tenderness and flavour.

Address and Presentation

On the eve of the departure of Miss Lottie Middleton, of Smith, to Rochester, her Sunday School Class and friends gathered at her home and presented her with a handsome opal ring, and suitable address as a token of the high esteem in which she was held by them.

The World Needs Nerve

Needs it in business, in the study, in the household. Irritability, weakness, lack of strength—the blue feeling—why they just tell you that you lack nerve. You'll use Ferrozone! My! What an appetite you'll get. How quickly the color will return to your cheeks, how buoyant you will feel! Work! of course you'll work, for you will enjoy it. That is, if you will use Ferrozone. It gives nerve strength, muscular endurance, and invigorates the brain splendidly.

As Experienced Druggists, We Guarantee Accuracy and Perfect Satisfaction.

In this age of worry, bustle and business competition, strict care and attention in the filling of your doctor's prescriptions is absolutely necessary for the safety and welfare of your family. We guarantee accuracy and perfect satisfaction to all our customers. Our Toilet Department is always replete with the latest preparations and novelties.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

THE KEYSTONE STATE

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—I heard a speaker the other evening refer, at a small gathering, to the State of Pennsylvannia as the Keystone State. Why is it so called? An answer through the Letter Box of the Times will oblige,

A READER.

Reply—Pennsylvannia is called the Keystone State because it was the central, or seventh, in position of the original thirteen States.

A WINTER'S WALK IN CANADA

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—Lest some of your readers should miss this admirable article in the "Nineteenth Century," by Mr. Arnold Haultain, formerly of Peterborough, I venture to call their attention to it. Peterborough has an especial interest in it for it not only emanates from a former resident, since become distinguished in the world of letters, btu it also deals with the town itself, no other conclusion being possible. It has received the very highest praise in England, and Mr. Haultain is deserving of the gratitude of every Canadian.

Yours, etc.,

HAMPDEN BURNHAM.

REMOVING SNOW FROM OUR WALKS

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Permit me, through the columns of your excellent newspaper, to say a few words regarding the clearing of snow from the walks.

There is no better method of keeping the walks clear of snow than the horse-plow, carefully worked. If the old pattern of plow is found defective, modern inventive genius should be able to provide one more efficient. One thing is clear, that to get the 50 odd miles of walk in Peterborough cleared by citizens' compulsory labor, would call for a quadrupling of the police or other force to oversee it, or it would not be done well. It would be only half done, and in patches, and that would be worse than to leave it alone. The bylaw says the occupant or owner over the central area shall clear away all snow and ice from the sidewalk.

Now, sir, in a place with so much vacant land as we have in Peterborough, the idea of clearing the walks in any other way than by horse power is absurd. It is a backward move to resort to "hand power." I hope the Council will amend the bylaw in such a way as to make the snow plow do the work.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, etc.,

A RATEPAYER.

A "FAKE" CAMERA

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I returned a few days ago from a trip to the Northwest, where I spent several weeks during the harvest season.

I was very much interested in a camera which stood on a lawn near a farm house which I visited, and which had a commanding view of the gates to the grounds. I asked my friend why he kept it there, and, turning to me with a smile he said: Don't give it away, but that is only a fake camera, Come along and I'll show you, I went and found that what I took to be a camera was nothing but a cigar box mounted upon a tripod, and having an old silk spool fastened in front as a lens, the whole being covered by the usual dark cloth. To my question of what it was for, he said: It is the most effective means that I have yet devised for keeping off tramps. If there is anything next to soap and water that a tramp dislikes it is to have his picture taken, particularly when he knows it might be a means of leading to his identification. I tried dogs, but found they were no good. I used threats, but only to be blackguarded; and, as a last resort, I rigged up the camera, and it has proved a wonderful success. Last week a hobo came wandering along the road and gave me the first opportunity of trying the trick. He made straight for the gate, and was coming up the walk when I leveled the camera at him. The effect was magical. He took to his heels as fast as he could go, and I made believe to pull out a plate. Since then I have used it several times with similar results. In fact, some of my neighbors have adopted the plan and speak very encouragingly of it.

We then sat upon the porch, and not long afterward my friend observed two seedy looking specimens of the genus hobo coming up the road and said to me Now watch. Sure enough, the men came to the gate and were about lifting the latch when my friend took his position behind the camera, threw the cover over his head, and tried to get a focus on them. With a look of disgust the tramps walked away, talking together. What they said, of course, I couldn't hear, but I guess the language was not very complimentary to my host.

THE LATE MR. WILLIAM KERR

Death of an Old and Respected Citizen Yesterday Morning

Yesterday morning, Mr. Wm. Kerr, an old pioneer, passed away at his residence in Ashburnham, at the advanced age of eighty years.

The deceased was born in Little York, in 1821, and on March 3rd, 1832, came with his parents to South Monaghan, taking up residence in the vicinity of Bensfort. Early in the forties he moved to Hamilton Township, where he lived until about fourteen years ago when the family came to Otonabee moving into Ashburnham two years ago.

The deceased leaves a widow and seven children, viz; George, of Cold Springs; James and William, Cobourg; Mrs. Robt. Carter, of Jermyn; John and Annie, who lived at home and Edward, of Toronto.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 from the family residence, James street, Ashburnham, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

MALT BREAKFAST FOOD

Far Ahead of Liquid Malt Extracts for Imparting Health and Strength

When it is possible, judge four yourself, more especially in matters concerning health. A large number of worthy people in order to gain flesh and strength, use malt extracts. It should be well known that these liquid malts are spoiled by the admixture of fermented liquors, and are injurious to digestion.

Malt Breakfast Food gives to all who are seeking for strength and robustness the pure Malt in its simple and fresh condition. This Malt renders the starch of the Wheat soluble, giving a food in which digestion has already commenced, therefore easily digested by the human digestive agents.

It is an established fact—one worthy of special note—that one package of Malt Breakfast Food contains more nourishment and strengthening qualities than can be found in one dozen bottles of liquid extracts costing from fifteen to twenty times more money. See your Grocer.

A HERCULEAN TASK SUBDUING SOUTH AFRICA

Britain Has Fully Determined to Thrash the Boers to a Finish.

BOTH POLITICAL PARTIES AGREED ABOUT THIS

Extensive Plans to Finish Up the Boers Now Being Taken Up by the British Government—Kitchener to be Heavily Reinforced.

London, Nov. 25.

There is no choice left for the Liberals but to follow out the program adopted by the Salisbury government, and thrash the Boers to a complete finish. This is practically admitted on all sides.

The Post says: Strenuous efforts are being made to bring the war in South Africa to a close before the coronation ceremony. More troops are being sent out; new plans are being prepared for the more effectual dealing with the guerrilla bands which are the torment of Lord Kitchener, and which still continue to harrass and elude, and it looks as though there was to be a fresh infusion of energy into the wearisome and inglorious business. One is reminded of the prolonged resistance of a handful of insurgents in the island of Cuba—a band of desperate men who kept an army of two hundred thousand men at bay for years. The ever dwindling forces of the Boers are of course, replenished from the outside; munitions of war reach the country through Portuguese territory; while the press propaganda in favor of the Boers is energetically prosecuted with the money which Kruger brought with him from Pretoria. The concentration camps, however well managed, are of course, open to criticism. The death rate is large—appalingly large. Doubtless the best is being done under the circumstances; but the huddling together of thousands of women and children; the absence of necessary conveniences, the feeling of homesickness, the sense of exile and loss and dislocation—these factors swell the mortality.

The Mail says: England is heartsick of the whole business. Her military reputation has suffered; her generals have made serious mistakes; the flower of her army has been sacrificed; the expenditure has been appalingly large. We who sit at home do not know the difficulties which have to be encountered; but we see a handful of desperate men baffling the efforts of a large army, thoroughly drilled and equipped, and commanded by one of ablest generals in the world. Kitchener demands more men; the war is still to be finished; the herculean task of pacification has still to begin.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—A prominent politician said to a Times representative yesterday: Canada ought to feel the flush of shame. England is taxed to her utmost; she has drained herself of men; she is draining herself of money. New Zealand and Australia came noble to the aid of the empire. They send twenty thousand men; they ask: "Do you want more? We are ready to give our dear old mother all the aid she needs." Canada gave in the first instance grudgingly—that is to say, officially and governmentally; let that be understood and remembered. She is the largest and most important Commonwealth in the empire; she has been wholly dependent upon the protection of the Mother Country who has kept her free and secure. And the gratitude of the Dominion is to haggle over a couple of thousand men, while young colonies, only feeling their strength, offer ten times the quota which we gave without grace. It is possible (at the time of writing) that the War Office would decline another offer from Canada; but the young nation which is fond of proclaiming her wealth and resources, should have won the glory of a magnanimity and patriotism which should have emphasized her unique position. We have lagged behind ingloriously. We have said no sudden, generous word; our blood has flowed sluggishly; the spectacle even of our own boys lying in African graves has not moved us. We should not have waited for the War Office; we should have made an offer of ten thousand men. We have remained silent at a moment, not, indeed, of crisis but of gravity. We have stultified ourselves for the sake of a pro-Boer minority which delights to remind us that it is not British and never will be. The press of the country has been urging the government to take action; the latter is calculating the strength of the vote in Quebec. In view of the sacrifices made by New Zealand, by Australia, by Cape Colony and Natal, the attitude of Canada is one calculated to humiliate a free and generous people.

COUNTY ROADS

Leeds and Grenville Adopt the System That Will Secure Government Grant.

After discussing the matter three days the Counties Council of the united Counties of Leeds and Grenville, in special session at Brockville, decided to adopt a system of county roads, the counties to construct and maintain such roads. Several roads were designated, aggregating over 200 miles in the two counties. A committee was appointed to ascertain what amount the counties would receive from the Ontario Government's million-dollar grant, and a committee was appointed to wait on the Towns of Brockville and Prescott to solicit financial aid in carrying out the scheme.

The clerk was authorized to prepare a report dealing with the designation of county roads and forward the same to the clerks of the various municipalities for distribution among the ratepayers at the nomination meetings in January.

The question of taking a similar course is now under consideration by the Peterborough County Council, and a decision is expected at the January session.

1000 DRUNK ON FREE BEER

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 24.—The unusual spectacle of 1,000 drunken men marching in a line, or trying to march in line, was seen on one of the main thoroughfares of this city last evening. The men got their "jags" at the Thomas Ryan Consumers' Brewery, which threw open its doors to the public yesterday and allowed everybody to go in and take what beer he wanted.

The company is making a new brew of beer and decided to let the people sample it before it was placed on sale. In the past two weeks thousands of invitations were sent out urging the people to visit the brewery yesterday and bring their friends with them. The visitors began to arrive at noon, and at 1 o'clock there were 500 persons inside. A luncheon was also served, and after getting their fill many left to make room for others. From then until 5 o'clock several thousand persons visited the brewery. The people came in droves, every street car was crowded, and there was a long line of carriages outside.

It was a field day for free-lunch grabbers. They were among the first on the ground and never left until the last barrel was emptied. Then they went out together, 1,000 in number, and staggered down Butternut street, singing and carousing. Notwithstanding all this, there was almost no disorder, and not one arrest was made as a result of the free beer party. Over 300 barrels of beer were dispensed at the brewery during the afternoon.

Your Nerves Are Weak

You sleep badly, appetite variable. You eat but gain no strength. Morning tiredness makes you wish it were night. When night comes refreshing sleep is hard to obtain. You're run down, your blood is thin and watery, your nerves have grown weak, the thought of effort wearies you. You need Ferrozone; it makes blood—red, strong blood. An appetite? You'll eat everything and digest it, too. Strength? That's what plenty of food gives. Ferrozone gives hope vigor, vim endurance. Use Ferrozone and get strong. Sold by Ormond and Walsh.

SAYS HE'S A BIG CRIMINAL

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 25. — John Verrall, who says he is the nephew of "Lord Neville" of England, surrendered himself to the police last night and was locked up as a fugitive on twelve charges of forgery and embezzlement. Verrall submitted the following list of crimes and aliases committed and used by him in two years.

Forgery, H. V. West, Cincinnati, Ohio; embezzlement, Vincent Neville, Evans, embezzlement, Vincent St. J. Verrall, New York; embezzlement and forgery, V. R. Lord, Philadelphia; embezzlement, J. H. Verrall, Boston; embezzlement and forgery, Dr. West, Peoria, Ill.; embezzlement, H. Vincent West, Chicago; embezzlement, V. T. Berkeley, Boston; embezzlement, T. V. Latham, Halifax, N. S.; embezzlement, K. D. West, Toronto, Ontario. embezzlement, K. W. West Hamilton, Ontario; forgery, H. Vincent West, Dayton, Ohio.

Verrall told the police that it was either give himself up or kill himself and he had not the nerve to fire the shot. The only weakness in his story is that a Dayton pawnticket was found on him, indicating possible cheap methods in other cities. Beyond his assertion of gentle parentage, he will say nothing about his family.

Brisk Trade in Live Stock

Lindsay Post,—Large shipments of stock have been made from the north country and this section this week. Mr. Julius Brohm, of Haliburton, passed through yesterday with a couple of carloads of cattle to the Toronto markets. Messrs. McDougall, Brandon & Austin, of Fenelon Falls, sent a load of hogs to the Geo. Matthews Co., Peterborough, and three loads of mixed stock to Toronto to-day. Mr. T. Best of Maynooth, North Hastings, shipped two loads of cattle to the same point, bringing them out by way of Lindsay. Mr. W. J. Moore, local stockman, consigned a couple of carloads of cattle and hogs to the Toronto markets to-day. Mr. P. B. McIlhargey shipped mixed stock; Mr. N. McLeod, buyer for the William Harris Co., shipped a load of mixed stock to his firm. Mr. W. J. Moore paid Mr. Wm. O'-Brien, Emily, $50 for a cow, which was a beauty. The prices paid for live hogs was $5.10 to $5.15 per cwt.

DIES AT THE AGE OF 119

Abraham Elmer of Utica Would Have Been 120 Had He Lived Until Jan. 28

Utica, N. Y., Nov. 25.—Abraham Ephraim Elmer, believed to have been the oldest man in the United States, died at his home in this city last night. His relatives say he was nearly 120 years old. He had been in feeble health for years, but his mind and memory were good up to last Monday. His son in Wisconsin has the family Bible, and a copy of the record it contains is in the possession of his son in this city. It states that Mr. Elmer was born in the town of Warren, Herkimer county, on Jan. 28, 1782. According to this he would have been 120 years old on the 28th of next January.

Mr. Elmer used tobacco from the time he was 10 years old, and up to last week chewed a paper of tobacco a day. He had lived with his son, William H. Elmer, for twenty years. He had been in the habit of taking malted whiskey three times a day during this period, and his daughter-in-law says that this kept him alive during all that time. He would take a teaspoonful in double the quantity of water three times daily.

Throughout his life Mr. Elmer had been a hard worker, and when he was 104 years old he walked from Washington Mills to Chadwick's, a distance of ten miles. At this advanced age he also did his last work, as a shoemaker, earning $1 a day.

Mr. Elmer cast his first vote for James Madison for President, and voted at every election since up to the time when McKinley first ran for President. He would never wear glasses, and, as a consequence, cataracts began to form on his eyes. Fifteen years ago last February he lost his eyesight and has been unable to see since. His hearing was also very much impaired.

Mr. Elmer was one of a family of fifteen children, all of whom have preceded him in death. Of his children, four are dead. Two sons, David and Christian, took part in the Civil War and were killed in battle.

He is survived by six sons, one daughter, twenty-five grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren, and three great-great-grandchildren.

Is Chamberlain Sick?

London, Nov. 25.—The friends of Joseph Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, have for some time been concerned with regard to his health.

To-day Mr. Chamberlain wrote the Handsworth School, declining to distribute prizes at that institution, because, as he said, "It is absolutely necessary for me to confine my strength to public work."

Kaiser to Check the Yankees

Berlin, Nov. 23.—Emperor William to day again attended the meeting at Charlottenburg of the Society of Naval Engineers. His majesty exhibited great interest throughout, especially applauding the remarks of Herr Meyer, a shipbuilder of Papenburg, who explained how, in his opinion, foreign ship-building competition, especially American competition, could best be circumvented.

Herr Meyer's remarks were followed by an address made by Councillor Schwarz of the ministry of marine relating to the development of American ship-building during the last decade. Herr Meyer deprecated the continually increasing number of yards, insisting that attention should rather be devoted to enlarging and perfecting the existing establishments. He held that a portion of the yearly profits should be employed in obtaining the services of specially trained and skilled workmen. Once this is attained, said Herr Meyer, the Germans could calmly contemplate foreign competition and look upon the "American specter." with perfect equanimity, for "the Germans would be found to be the victors."

MAJOR MERRITT PROM OTTAWA

Says Corps Will be Recruited but Not at Government Cost

SAW SIR WILFRID LAURIER

But Could Not Convince Him That He Was the Man for the Position—What the Offer Is

"Yes, I think a corps will be recruited in Canada for South Africa, but one thing is certain, our Government will not spend a copper on it."

Major Merritt returned yesterday from Ottawa, where he interviewed the powers that be regarding the sending of a third contingent to South Africa, and pressed his claims for the command of the corps. The above is the text of his opinion as to the possibility of Canada being represented at the seat of war by another contingent. The Major interviewed Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but apparently could not convince him that he was the right man for the place.

"The Government's present offer is merely a substitution of my offer to the War Office last spring, with the additional condition that the appointment of the officers be made by the Canadian authorities."

"My scheme was to organize a force on the plan of the Cape Colony corps, with whom as aide to General Brabant, I served for a year. That is the only kind of corps that would be of service to the Empire at the present stage of the war."

A Peculiar Kind of Alliance

Vienna, Nov. 25.— Regarding the suggested Anglo-Russian understanding, it is said Russia already has agreements with two powers—Austria and France. The agreement with Austria has not been scrupulously observed by the Russian representatives in the Balkans, and the tendency of Russian policy in the near East is inconsistent with the spirit of the Austro-Russian agreement. Regarding the French alliance, it is known that Russia is unwilling to give France a free hand in the protection of French interests in Turkey. The recent naval demonstration nearly led to friction. From the economic point of view Russia will not sacrifice anything for the sake of France. Prohibitive obstacles are placed in the way of the entry of French products into Russia, and the representatives of M. Delcasse. French minister of foreign affairs, met with what was practically a polite rebuff.

MORE NONSENSE AS TO CHAMBERLAIN

Yankee Correspondent Still Endeavoring to Make a Case

HATED BSITISH STATESMAN.

Colonial Secretary Shows Good Sense by Remaining Quietly at Birmingham, Takidg no Interest in the Matter

London, Nov. 25.—Once more has Joseph Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, proved his right and title to be the most thoroughly hated British statesman. The storm now raging in Germany over his animadversions on the Prussian army has had a powerful reflex in Great Britain, where, regardless of party ties, Mr. Chamberlain has been severely criticised for uselessly "putting his foot into it." On all sides may be heard irritated expressions of opinion by English business men and politicians who, while they perhaps believe Mr. Chamberlain was correct in what he said denounce the uttering of such sentiments. It is recalled that Mr. Chamberlain's utterances regarding the Czar and the Anglo-American-German alliance have been the causes of the only serious outbreaks of anti-British feeling on the Continent in recent times. It is no exaggeration to say that the financial world of England would be delighted to see Mr. Chamberlain muzzled when speaking on England's foreign relations.

As might be expected, Mr. Chamberlain takes the whole affair with his usual cynical indifference. He is staying quietly at Birmingham, and is not exhibiting any particular interest in this storm which he has raised.

A Third Contingent

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—It is understood here that the government has received authority to send a third contingent to South Africa. The Citizen says, —If Canadian mounted troops go out again, every Canadian is interested in having the reputation of the country well sustained, and the government can contribute towards that result by developing an intelligent interest in the composition of the force to be sent to represent Canada. Any Canadian mounted force should include at least two sections (four guns) of horse artillery, if the force is to be made a complete, mobile unit for general service. Such a force would be complete in itself and available for any service, either in column or detached.

If, as reported, Col Evans, C. B., is to command the contingent, and it could not have a better officer, we believe he would be the first to advise that the Canadians take their own complement of horse artillery with them. Otherwise they will have to take British artillery and no Canadian cavalry officer has had any more vivid experience of what that means than Col. Evans himself.

The third contingent from Canada will go out to sustain or probably enhance the reputation already won by Canadian troops, and to do that the Canadian government should send it out as a complete fighting unit. If the contingent is to consist of two battalions of mounted troops each battalion should have a section of horse artillery. We believe every Canadian cavalry and artillery officer who has seen service in South Africa will endorse that opinion.

KLONDIKE PLOT NIPPED IN BUD.

Leader in Conspiracy Confesses to All Details of Scheme

THE PLAN OF THE REPUBLIC

Members of the Gang Bound by Death Oath to Seize the Officers—Expected Assistance from United States

Seattle, Wash, Nov. 25.—Of all the wild dreams of empire since the days of Louis Reil that concocted by a little band of plotters scattered along the valley of the Yukon from the upper lakes to Circle City is probably the most fantastic yet recorded.

A few days ago the story was made public of the exposure of the conspiracy at Skaguay and of hurried measures that were taken by both Canadian and American officials to thwart the scheme of the plotters to make of the Yukon and Northwest territory a republic. This story was discounted at the time by persons claiming to be informed concerning Alaskan matters. Absolutely authentic information has been secured, however, which completely corroborates the first story of the plot to overthrow British authority in the great gold fields of the Yukon.

RINGLEADER DETAILS THE PLOT.

Proof that a conspiracy existed is furnished in documents now in the possession of The Chronicle correspondent, which were obtained from one of the ringleaders in the plot.

The organization was formed in December, 1900, at Dawson. Its headquarters for months last summer were at Skaguay. It was called the Order of the Midnight Sun. Its members, 1,600 in number, took a hairraising oath to reveal none of its secrets. Death was the penalty for violation of this oath.

The plot might have succeeded temporarily as did Riel when he invaded the Northwest territory with a band of halfbreeds. But the leaders of the conspiracy lacked the requisite nerve some one "leaked" and the organization, it is believed, will disappear quietly and completely.

After the formation of the central camp at Dawson, which was to be the capital of the new republic, the would-be rebels issued a statement of grievances, certified copies of which with the grand seal of the organisation were circulated in secret in White Horse, Atlin, Hootalinqua, Dawson, Skaguay, and even in Circle City, for the conspirators depended on aid from Americans not only in Alaska but also in the states.

GIVES DECLARATION OF GRIEVANCES.

Following is a synopsis of the declaration of grievances:

1. Defective mining laws framed by a people hostile to the Americans, who number seventenths of the population of the Yukon.
2. Corruption in office.
3. Excessive taxes in the way of royalty, 10 per cent being exacted by the government on placer gold mined and 6 per cent. on quartz; also excessive fees charged for miners' licenses.
4. Unlicensed liquor and gambling traffic, the revenue of which, it is declared, goes to the officials in power.
5. Policy of leasing to favored individuals and corporations the best timber and mining lands in the country.
6. Unwise legislation, such as excessive tariff duties on American food and other products, alien laws, etc.
7. Boundary line dispute; the seeming unwillingness of the British Columbia government to meet the United States government halfway in the boundary line dispute — a condition which grows worse and more acute with time and will eventually cause trouble, perhaps war, unless attended to at once. At present capital hesitates to invest in this disputed district and the development of the country is retarded thereby. We pledge ourselves if successful in this undertaking to send a delegation to Washington, D. C., at the earliest possible opportunity, to the end that the boundary may be permanently fixed.

LEADER FLEES WHEN WATCHED.

Fred Clark, who was in charge of the "junta" established at Skaguay last March, is here. He confesses to his part in the work of the Order of the Midnight Sun. He was watched for two months by secret service men and then left one night when he got wind of the meeting Nov. 5, between Captain Horrigan of the Canadian police, Major Hovey, commanding the United States troops at Skaguay, Judge Brown and United States Attorney Friedrich.

Clark took with him part of the records of the organization, but the remainder were confiscated by the officials at Skaguay and are now in their possession. Clark admits that it was intended to cut the wires along the railroad after navigation ceased on the Yukon this winter and overpower the mounted police at White Horse and Dawson, the chief posts. There are only 235 police in the whole of the British Yukon.

The gold in the banks and in the possession of the government was to be seized. The leaders believed that the United States would not allow British troops to enter by way of Skaguay, on American soil, and that they would be unable to reach Dawson by the all-Canadian route inside of six months. Meantime the leaders hoped for intervention by the United States or at least expected to organize an army which would resist the Canadian troops.

HACKED HIS WIFE, KILLED HIMSELF.

THREATENED THE PASSENGERS

Then Drew a Knife and Tried to Kill His Wife—Severed All the Veins in His Own Throat

Queenstown, Nov. 23.—As the White Star Line steamer Cymric, from Liverpool yesterday for New York, was coming down the channel this morning Thomas Halliday, of Ohio, one of her passengers, attempted to kill his wife and then committed suicide. Halliday had recently been complaining of sleeplessness. He and his wife joined the Cymric at Liverpool after passing a couple of months visiting friends in County Down, Ireland. The deceased prayed all night long and showed evidences this morning that his mind was affected. After breakfast he announced that all the people on board the ship were to be killed, and drawing a knife from his pocket he commenced hacking his wife and slashing at his own throat. Mrs. Halliday struggled desperately to secure possession of the weapon, receiving terrible gashes on her hands and neck and eventually was obliged to desist. Halliday then continued to hack his own throat until he had severed all the veins and muscles and dropped dead outside his stateroom. The body of the suicide was taken ashore and Mrs. Halliday also disembarked. An inquest will be held.

Speaker's Sore Throat

Public speakers and singers know how useless and sickening are cough mixtures, sprays, lozenges &c., for irritable or sore throat, and state that the most satisfactory remedy is Catarrhozone, the advantage of which is that it acts quickly and is convenient to use in public places. Catarrhozone relieves congestion, allays inflammation and is a protection to the membrane. As a safe guard against colds and Catarrh it has no equal. Rev. Mr. McKay, Goderich says "Catarrhozone is an excellent remedy for throat irritation arising from throat irritation." Physicians, ministers and singers recommend Catarrhozone, druggists sell it for $1. Small size 25c. By mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

PROHIBITION CONVENTION WILL CALL ON ROSS

Temperance Men Will Ask Him to Give Assurance of Immediate Prohibitory Legislation

HON. DAVID MILLS' VIEW OF THE MATTER.

The cabled decision of the Privy Council yesterday in the matter of the Manitoba Prohibition law had to do solely with the first of the eleven questions submitted to the Council, but in this all the others were involved. The first question was, "Had the Legislature power to pass the Act?" and the answer was: "The Legislative Assembly of the Province of Manitoba had power to enact the Manitoba Liquor Act."

In regard to the other question, the judgement says: "Their Lordships are of opinion that the answer to question one answers questions two to eleven, and that therefore no useful answer can be given to these questions."

Questions two and three dealt with particular sections; and the others were.—

4. Had the Legislature jurisdiction to make regulations, limitations or restrictions on the sale or keeping of liquor by brewers or other persons licensed by the Dominion Government for the manufacture of liquor in Manitoba?

5. Has the Legislature power to prohibit or district the giving away in Manitoba, as a free gift by the owner thereof, of liquor which has been lawfully imported into Manitoba or otherwise lawfully acquired by owner?

6. If the Legislature has no power to prohibit the importation of liquor into Manitoba has it authority to declare it illegal for an importer to employ an agent residing in the Province to make the importation on his behalf or to prohibit the importation through such agent?

The seventh was a similar question.

8. Has the Legislature power to provide that no sale of liquor for export shall be made within the Province unless such liquor shall be delivered by the vendor at some point outside the Province

9. If not, has the Legislature power to compel a person buying liquor in Manitoba to convey it to a place outside the Province, without opening the package or parcel?

Questions 10 and 11 related to the Hudson Bay Company's claim to sell liquor under the deed of surrender of their lands.

HUGH JOHN'S VIEW.

Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, K. C., seen yesterday at Winnipeg in regard to the decision, said: "It was the judgment I expected, especially after I heard what had taken place during the arguments before the Judiciary Committee of the Privy Council. In fact, I believed when the Act was introduced that this would be the result, and that, although it went near to dangerous points, it was always within the competence of the Legislature of the Province. I would not like to express a further opinion on the matter until I see the full text of the judgment."

"Would the Act prevent the sale of liquor in clubs?"

"As we framed it, it would."

"But these clubs are not licensed for the sale of liquor."

"This is not in the shape or form of a license act."

"Will the Act prohibit the sale of liquor on Dominion Government premises, the military messes for instance?"

"I am not sure on that point. It will have to be seen what the Provincial Government's powers in this respect will be."

"How will it affect the manufacture?"

"The manufacture for sale outside of the Province will not be affected. But citizens will not be permitted to purchase beer from the local manufacturers. They will have to go outside the Province to purchase any liquor they may wish for. They may, however, purchase local manufactured beer outside of the Province for consumption in the Province."

HON. DAVID MILLS

Hon. David Mills, Minister of Justice, said yesterday that he was inclined to the belief that the judgment established the principal of provincial jurisdiction. He said: "The first decision of the Judicial Committee was in the case of Russell v. the Queen, and that upheld Dominion jurisdiction. Since then the decisions have gradually been getting farther and farther away from the decision in Russell v. the Queen, and I think it now it pretty clear that the power in the provinces to prohibit is pretty well established, and that Russell v. the Queen can no longer be regarded as good law. I have not read over with care the Manitoba statute, and I have not a very distinct recollection of the points submitted to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. I was present during much of the argument before the committee, and my impression was that the chief provisions of the Manitoba act would be upheld. But it would be necessary to examine with care the Manitoba statute, the points submitted for adjudication, and to read the judgment of the Judicial Committee before one could say how far the whole question is disposed of by the judgment."

TEMPERANCE MEN ACT.

A special meeting of the Ontario Alliance Executive was summoned by telephone yesterday afternoon, in consequence of the news of the Manitoba decision. Dr. J. J. Maclaren presided. After exchanging congratulations, it was decided to have a convention called immediately in North York, Hon. E. J. Davis' constituency, and Organizer John A. Nicholls will spend the next few days in North York, making the necessary arrangements. The executive also decided to arrange for a large, representative and influential prohibition convention to meet Premier Ross and his colleagues at the Parliament Buildings at an early date, to request that he implement his pledge by giving assurances of immediate prohibitory legislation. It was stated on excellent authority last evening that W. W. Buchanan of the Royal Templars will return to Ontario in March and enter into the provincial election. His nomination for an Ontario constituency for the local elections is a probability under consideration by leading members of the alliance executive and Royal Templar order.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

London, Nov. 25.—King Edward has checkmated the British nobles and others who propose to line their pockets with American and continental gold by sale of their seats in Westminster abbey for the coronation ceremony. He has decreed that, except in official capacity, none but British subjects are to be present. He also contended that the mere fact of any seat being sold dispossesses both the holder and the nominee from the right to occupy it. It is understood that large sums have been offered for seats, both in America and Europe.

Vienna, Nov. 25.—An official Servian statement declares there is absolutely no foundation in the reports that Queen Draga has been shot at or that she has committed suicide.

London, Nov. 25.—A special dispatch from Buda-Pesth to-day says a newspaper there asserts that Queen Draga and King Alexander of Servia recently quarreled and the king slapped the queen's face. The latter thereupon drank poison, but her life was saved by physicians.

Middletown, N. Y., A dozen women residing at Broadheadville marched to the farm of Joseph Arnold and informed him that they proposed to husk his small field of corn. Arnold at first demurred, but when he became convinced that his visitors meant business he reluctantly consented. The women handled the husking pegs like veterans and before night the corn had been as neatly husked as though done by a company of men. It was a novel sight to the residents of the village, who gazed in wonder at the workers who did not appear at all disturbed by the notoriety. The women seemed to enjoy the labor and desire to assist the farmers, who are burdened with fall work.

Kansas City, Nov. 23.—Louis Hammeralough of this city is financially interested in a patent recently secured by Charles E. Griffing for an electrical boiler which promises to revolutionize the making of steam power. A few years ago Hammeralough invested in the enterprise which was then only in the experimental stage, but now he declares that the inventor, Mr. Griffing, has perfected the boiler and that experts declare it will save three-fourths of the coal used in making steam. Recently a one hundred and twentieth interest in the company was sold for $2,500. The projectors are sure that the patent will yield several million dollars.

The secret of this wonderful boiler is a system of electrical wires in tubes which generate steam the instant water comes in contact with them. A large boiler is about to be constructed for exhibition in New York.

London, Nov. 25. — The friends of Joseph Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, have for some time been concerned with regard to his health. To-day Mr. Chamberlain wrote the Handsworth School, declining to distribute prizes at that institution because, as he said, "It is absolutely necessary for me to confine my strength to public work."

Wellington Kas., Nov. 25.—On her way to Medicine Lodge to contest her husband's action for divorce, Carrie Nation, the joint smasher, stopped here last night to wait for a train. The train was reported late and she went to the big Tabernacle, where the Rev. M. B. Williams is holding a revival. After the sermon she delivered a characteristic address. When she finished she went to the depot, where she found her train gone.

"It's a plan to discourage me," she cried and repaired to a hotel to remain over night.

New York, Nov. 21.—Considerable interest has been aroused in the building circles of this city by the announcement that a mammoth office building was to be erected in London on the plan of American architects and by American builders. H. S. Black, president of a construction company, who recently has been making a careful study of building conditions in London, said:

"American office buildings are vastly superior to British buildings. London office buildings are antiquated in design. They have few elevators, and they are not fireproof. The law regarding prevents the erection of office buildings of the sky-scraper, sort we have here, four or five stories being about the greatest height allowed. There is, however, no question but that English cities in general offer the greatest field for work in this line."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The income from Britain's foreign and colonial investments, which was £29,848,000 in 1880, was in 1899 the tidy sum of £59,707,000. It is to be noted that this great increase has taken place during a period of the keenest competition. The old free trade land seems to be doing pretty well in the struggle.

Few people in Canada would object to seeing Ireland enjoy the same measure of freedom and self-government which Canada enjoys. But is that all Mr. Redmond wants? An independent Ireland, which could be utilised as a base of attack upon Britain, would be another thing altogether. Scotland and Wales, as well as Ireland, would be thankful for a chance to manage their own local affairs, especially when the Imperial Parliament is always congested with business.

The ordinary municipal expenses of Philadelphia, a city of 1,300,000 population, are $29,000,000; of Chicago, a city of 1,700,000, $22,500,000; of Boston, a city of 560,000 $27,000,000; of Pittsburg, a city of 325,000, $10,800,000; of St. Louis, a city of 600,000, $10,700,000; of Baltimore, a city of 510,000, $10,800,000, and of San Francisco, a city of 350,000, $9,000,000.

The brigands of Bulgaria still hold Miss Stone, and are haggling over the price she is worth. They do well to hold out for a good sized sum, for when she is safe at home and Uncle Samuel goes brigand hunting with a free hand, her present captors will probably resemble the sum of thirty cents.

At last the horrible cruelty of the British concentration camp is exposed. A Boer woman, who is violently anti-British, writes to her father and mother that she is comfortably housed, well fed, well clothed, not compelled to work, and, with the other Boer women, allowed to play tennis all day. It may be asked where is the cruelty in all this? The cruelty, the diabolical cruelty, of the Government of which Mr. Balfour is a member, is shown in neglecting to provide these gentle ladies with golf links!

Some gentleman from New York has turned up at Halifax and claims that he is the genuine Prince of Wales. He wants to reside in the house where his greatgrandfather, the Duke of Kent, lived, hence goes to Halifax. It is some indication of the popularity of H. R. H. that his impersonators outnumber all other royal representatives in the leading lunatic asylums of the country.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Degley, Caledonia ave., Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Five boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, sustaining no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Mann, Marlin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James H. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. J. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not cure.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

Private Marriages of Royal Widows.

WRITING of the alleged morganatic marriage of the late Empress Frederick, the Paris correspondent of London "Truth" says:

"A Berlin paper stated some days ago that the Empress Frederick was at the time of her death the wife of Count Seckendorf, her house marshal. The other journals call on the Government to disprove 'the monstrous assertion.' Why should it be a monstrous assertion? The Count was an old and faithful friend of the Empress. He accompanied her in her artistic tours. Frederick esteemed him highly. It is now some years since her youngest daughter married. Why should she not marry a gentleman so distinguished as the Count? The truth is that the private marriages of royal and imperial widows are not the exception, but the rule, and have been so for centuries. Some august widows were satisfied to look much lower for their second husbands than the Empress Frederick is said to have done. In France and Italy marriage with a person of inferior rank was thought a sign of greater weakness than a 'friendship.' The worship of a first husband or wife does not necessarily exclude affection for a second. I had a relative who presented colored glass windows that cost £1,000 apiece to churches in memory of his first wife when he was walking about London with his second wife. There was never a widow more devoted to the memory of her first husband than the late Duchesse d'Orleans. Nevertheless, she was believed to have married her secretary. 'A conscience marriage' is easy in Catholic countries save in France. Nobody except the priest who officiates need know about it. 'A conscience marriage' might be celebrated very quietly in England by publication of banns with a slight change of names, changing, say, Guelph to Wolf, or Bonaparte to Goodshare. There is also the registrar's office, where things might pass with utter privacy. Scotland is the country of all others where private marriages can best be entered into. No solemnization is required. and the status that arises from a mere exchange of vows is stable."

A Contrast.

CONTRASTING the England of today with the England of forty years ago, E. L. Godkin says in the New York "Evening Post:" "The poor man in England who had ever left his home then was somewhat of a prodigy; now nearly half of his substance goes in excursion fares. A dissenting minister used to be an object of abhorrence and contempt; now he is quoted in Parliament by politicians. A lord used to be an object of dread and reverence; now he is hardly better than a foreign count. In the England that I remember, third-class passengers on the then newly-built railroads stood in boxes like cattle; now they sit on cushioned seats, the third-class cars being so like the first-class that the gentry have largely taken to using them. The loveliest parts of the country at this summer season are thronged with excursionists, and it is fair to say that there are no longer secluded spots in England. The famous seat of the lake poets, Cumberland and Westmorland, is so overrun with tourists that the road through the mountains seems to be leading to a fair; the small steamers on the lakes are thronged to their utmost capacity. Unhappy is the place which has some touch of 'Americanism' in its history. The railroads dump on it thousands of our countrymen, who poke their noses everywhere, cut chips off every wooden memorial, and apply the hammer to every stone one, and almost compel the inhabitants to move out. The 'American' in England used too often to be regarded as a low-class foreigner; to-day he is a welcome guest who has a right to have his curiosity gratified, and whose weaknesses and desires are referred to in almost every paper read before a learned society, so that now hardly anybody achieves fame so readily as an 'American' traveler. The old cabined, cribbed, confined English hotel, consisting of a private house converted into an inn, and kept by an ex-butler or housekeeper, has almost disappeared. New hotels, 'on the American plan,' are springing up everywhere, and the English railroads are copying them at their stations, to their great advantage. In fact, it would be difficult to imagine a greater transformation than the England of my youth has undergone."

Temptation.

In our carelessness we may often tempt other people without knowing it. Sir Edward Malet writes in "Shifting Scenes" that he had gone to a hotel, at Milan, and eager to see the sights, sallied forth, leaving his portmanteau yawning, his dressing-case ajar, and money on the table.

I thought of nothing save that I was once more in Italy. Still, I locked my door, and took the key with me. When I came back, an aged and shriveled housemaid followed me into my room. She was wringing her hands.

"Ah, mio signore," cried she, going up to the dressing-table and opening a little drawer. "Is this yours?"

In the drawer lay ten or a dozen gold pieces.

"Yes," I said, "they are mine."

"Ah, signore, how could you do it? How could you leave this money about? It was all lying on the table."

"Why, I locked my door. I knew it was safe."

"No," she cried, "it was not safe! It was cruel to put such temptation in my way!" She sank upon a chair and burst into tears. "Think of me, signore. I am very poor. I have six children to keep and a husband who can do no work. The money would make me rich, and you leave it on the table, the gold pieces all loose to dazzle my eyes and to put the devil into my heart! Through your thoughtlessness I might go to jail, my children might starve, my husband die. Ah, signore mio, never do it again! Think of the poor. Be merciful to us. Do not put temptation in our way."

It does not seem to have occurred to Sir Edward Malet that possibly the old housemaid was trying to work him for a gift of the gold pieces.

To find a food that will put an absolute stop to "running down" is better than finding a gold mine. Many people when they begin to run down go from one food to another and find it impossible to find a food that will stop the progress of disease. Grape-Nuts Food is the most nourishing known and will set one right if that is possible.

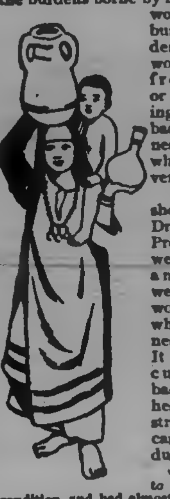
OVERBURDENED.

The Egyptian woman looks greatly overburdened, and yet the physical burdens she carries will not compare with the burdens borne by many an American woman. There is no burden like the burden of disease. The woman who suffers from inflammation or ulceration, bearing-down pains, weak back and nervousness, bears a burden which crushes her very life.



Every woman should know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It cures the womanly diseases which cause weakness and feebleness. It quiets the nerves, cures the aching back and throbbing head, and gives strength for wifely cares and maternal duties.

"When I first wrote to you I was in a bad condition, and had almost given up," says Mrs. Bella Snider, of Wilkesville, Vinton Co., Ohio. "I was suffering from female trouble of the worst kind; I couldn't eat anything without suffering great distress; throat hurt me by spells; was nervous and weak. Had numb hands and arms, heart trouble, pains all through my body and aching head and back. It seemed that I could not work at all. I got Dr. Pierce's medicine and took it as directed, and the first week it began to help me. I took three bottles and am glad to say that it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever took. I feel better than I have for years."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only, or if cloth bound volume is desired, send 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"MATT."

A TALE OF A CARAVAN

came more and more convinced that William Jones was worth studying.

Matt had not turned up that morning. Instead of looking after her, Brinkley took another stroll toward the vicinity of the Devil's Caldron. He had not gone far before he discovered that he was watched again. The figure of William Jones followed in the distance, but keeping him well in view.

It was certainly curious.

He walked over to the cliffs and looked down at the scene of yesterday's bathing adventure. A strong wind was blowing, and the waves were surging up the rocks with deafening roar and foamy spume. The place looked very ugly, particularly near the Caldron. All the passage was churned to milky white, and the sound from beneath was, to quote an old simile, like the roar of innumerable chariots.

He glanced over his shoulder and saw the head of William Jones eagerly watching, the body being hidden behind an intervening rock.

"Strange!" he reflected. "My predatory friend can't keep his treasure, if he possesses any, down in that watery gulf. Yet whenever I come near it his manner tells me that I am 'warm,' as they say in the game of hide-and-seek."

To test the matter a little further, he set off on a brisk walk along the cliffs, leaving the caldron behind. He found, as he had suspected, that he was no longer followed. Returning as he came, and resuming his old position, he saw William Jones immediately reappear.

That day he discovered no clew to the mystery, nor the next, nor the next again, though on each day he went through a similar performance. Strange to say, Matt had not put in an appearance; and for reasons of his own he had thought it better not to seek her.

On the morning of the third day—a dark, chilly morning, after a night of rain—Tim put his head into the Caravan, where his master was seated at his easel, and grinned delightedly.

"Mr. Charles! She's come, sor!"

"Who the deuce has come?" cried Brinkley.

"The lady, your honor, to have her picture taken. Will I show her into the parlor?"

But as he spoke Matt pushed him aside and entered. She wore her best clothes, but looked a little pale and anxious, Brinkley thought, greeting her with a familiar nod.

"So you've come at last! Tim, get out, you rascal. I thought you had given me up."

He assumed a coldness, though he felt it not, for he had made up his mind not to "encourage" the young person.

"I couldn't come before, they wouldn't let me. But last night William Jones he didn't come home, and I broke open the box and took out my clothes, and ran straight off here."

Her face fell as she proceeded, for she could not fail to notice the coolness of the young man's greeting.

"Well, since you have come we'll get to work," said Brinkley. "It's chilly and damp outside, so we'll remain here in shelter."

Matt took off her hat, and then proceeded to divest herself of her coarse jacket, revealing for the first time the low-necked silk dress beneath. Meantime the young man placed the sketch in position. Turning presently, he beheld Matt's transformation.

Old and shabby as the dress was, torn here and there, and revealing beneath glimpses of coarse stockings and clumsy boots, it became her wonderfully. As a result of much polishing with soap and water her face shone again, and her arms and neck were white as snow. Thus attired, Matt looked no longer a long, shambling girl, but a tall, bright, resplendent young lady.

It was no use. Brinkley could not conceal his admiration. Matt's arms alone were enough to make a painter wild with delight.

"Why, Matt, you look positively magnificent. I had no idea you were so pretty."

The girl blushed with pleasure.

The young man worked away for a good hour and a half, at the end of which time he put the finishing touch to the sketch.

"Finis coronat opus!" he cried. "Look, Matt!"

Matt examined the picture with unconcealed delight. It was herself a little idealized, but quite characteristic, and altogether charming.

"May I take it home?" she asked eagerly.

"I'll get you to leave it a few days longer. I must get a frame for it, Matt, and then you shall have it all complete. Now let me look at you again," he said, taking her by both hands and looking up at her sunny face. "Are you pleased? Will you take care of the picture for the painter's sake?"

Matt's answer was embarrassing. She quietly sat down on his knee, and gave him a smacking kiss.

"Matt! Matt!" he cried, "You mustn't."

But she put her warm arm round his neck, and rested her cheek against his shoulder.

"I should like to have pretty dresses and gold bracelets and things and go away from William Jones and to stay with you."

"My dear," said Brinkley laughing, "you couldn't. It wouldn't be proper."

"Why not?" asked Matt, simply.

"The world is censorious, little one. I am a young man; you are a young lady. We shall have to shake hands soon and say good-by. There, there," he continued, seeing her eyes fill with tears, "I'm not gone yet. I shall stay as long as I can, only—really—you must look upon me as quite an old fellow. I am awfully old, you know, compared to you."

He gently disengaged himself, and Matt sat down on a camp-stool close by. Her face had grown very wistful and sad.

"Matt," he said, anxious to change the subject, "tell me something more about William Jones."

"I hate William Jones. I hate everybody—but you."

"Really?"

"Yes, I do."

"Well, I feel greatly flattered. But about the gentle Jones? You say he was out all last night."

Matt nodded.

"He goes out nigh every night," she said, "and often don't come home till morning. Sometimes he finds things and brings 'em. He finds bits o' gold, and old ropes, and bottles o' rum."

"Very odd. Where?"

"He don't tell; I know."

"I wish you'd tell me, Matt. [illegible] I have a particular reason for wanting the information."

Matt hesitated.

"I'll keep the secret faithfully. Now?"

Thus urged, Matt informed her friend that on two occasions, out of curiosity, she had followed her guardian on his nightly pilgrimages, and watched him go in the direction of the Devil's Caldron. On both occasions the night was very dark. On getting clear of the coast-guard station, and among the sand-hills, Jones had lighted a lantern which he carried. Trembling and afraid, she had followed the light along the cliffs, then out among the sand-hills. But all at once the light and its bearer had disappeared into the solid earth, leaving her to find her way home in terror.

The explanation of all this was, in Matt's opinion, very simple. William Jones was a bad man, and went to "visit the fairies."

"Yes," she cried, "and every time he goes, the fairies give him sum mat, and he brings it home."

"Each time you followed him," asked Brinkley, thoughtfully, "he disappeared at about the same place?"

"Yes," said Matt; "and the light and him sunk right down and never come up again."

The result of the information thus communicated was to leave the young man of the caravan far more curious than ever. He determined to turn the tables on William Jones, and to watch his movements, not in the daytime, but during the summer night waiting for his appearance in the immediate neighborhood of the Devil's Caldron.

The first night he saw nothing—it was stormy, with wild gusts of rain. The second night was equally uneventful. Nothing daunted, he went for a third and last time, and lay in the moonlight on the cliffs, looking toward the village.

The night was dark and cloudy, but from time to time the moon came out with sudden brilliance on the sea, which was gently stirred by a breeze from the land.

He waited for several hours. About midnight he rose to go home.

As he did so, he was startled by the sound of oars, and, lying down, perceived a small boat approaching on a silver patch of moon-lit sea.

The moon came out, and he saw that the occupant of the boat was a solitary man.

It approached rapidly, making direct for the Devil's Caldron. Lying down on his face and peeping over, Brinkley saw it stop short just outside the foaming passage, while the man stood up, stopped, lifted something heavy from the bottom and threw it overboard. Then, after watching for a moment a dark object which drifted shoreward, right into the Caldron, he rowed away until he reached a sheltered creek close to the scene of the swimming adventure. Here he ran the boat ashore and leaped out.

The next minute Brinkley heard him coming up the cliffs.

Trembling with excitement he lay down flat on his face and waited. Presently the man emerged on the top of the cliffs, within a few yards of Brinkley's hiding-place. Just then the moon flashed brightly out, and Brinkley recognised him!

It was William Jones, carrying on his shoulders something like a loaded sack, and, dangling from his left wrist, a horn lantern.

He looked round once or twice and then hurried toward the sand-hills. Brinkley followed stealthily. The moon now went in, and it became pitch dark. Presently Jones paused, set down his load, and lit the lantern; then he hurried on.

For fifty or sixty yards a coarse carpet of greensward covered the cliffs; then the sand-hills began. Passing over the first sand-hill, Jones disappeared. Quick as thought the young man followed, and, peering over, saw the light in the hollow beneath; it rose higher and higher till it reached the top of the next sand-hill, where it paused. Crawling on hands and knees, Brinkley slipped down into the hollow, and then crept upward half-way up the mound; he found a huge rock, behind which he crouched and peeped.

As he did so, William Jones, light in hand, seemed to dive down into the solid earth and disappear.

CHAPTER X.

The Secret of the Cave.

For a minute after the disappearance Charles Brinkley lay as if petrified and, indeed, he was altogether lost in wonder. What had happened? Had an earthquake swallowed the mysterious one, or had he tumbled down in a fit? Brinkley waited and watched; five minutes had passed, ten minutes, and still the light did not re-emerge. At last, overcome by curiosity, Brinkley rose, and, stooping close to the ground, crept from the rock behind which he had lain concealed and crawled across the summit of the sand-hill. Suddenly he stopped short and went down on hands and knees, for he now clearly discerned, coming out of the solid earth or sand, the glimmer of the light.

It glimmered, then disappeared again. Just then the moon slipped out of her cloud, illuminating the hillocks with vitreous rays and he perceived, close by him, a dark hole, opening into the very heart of the hillock.

He crept closer and looked down, but could see nothing. He held his head over the hole and listened; all he heard was a dull, hollow moaning, like the sound of the sea. The light of the moon, however, enabled him to perceive that the hole had been covered by a loose piece of wood, or lid, about four feet square, and with an iron ring-bolt in the center; which lid was now lying by the side of the opening, ready to be replaced. A number of large pieces of stone, such as were strewed everywhere about the sand-hills, lay piled close by.

He lay for some time waiting and listening. All at once, far beneath him, the light glimmered again. Quick as thought he rose and crept away, only just in time; for he had no sooner gained the shelter of the rock, and crouched there watching, than he saw the light re-emerge, accompanied by a human head; a human body followed, and then he clearly discerned William Jones standing in the moonlight without the burden he had previously carried, and holding in his hand a lantern.

Setting the lantern down, William busied himself for several minutes and finally, having concealed the work on which he was engaged, extinguished the light. Then, after glancing suspiciously round him on every side, he walked rapidly down the sand-hill and disappeared in the direction of the sea.

Not until he distinctly heard the plash of oars, and saw the black silhouette of the boat pass out from the shadow of the rock on the moonlit sea, did Brinkley again begin to stir; and even then he did so very cautiously, lest his figure should be perceived against the moonlight by the lynx-eyed rower. Creeping on hands and knees, he again crawled to the mysterious spot, and found, as he had indeed anticipated, that the hole was covered up, and the wooden lid or trap-door so carefully covered with stones and loose sand as to be completely hidden.

His first impulse was to displace the debris, and at once to explore the mysterious place; but reflecting that he was unprovided with lights of any kind, and that the cavity below would most certainly be in total darkness, he determined to postpone his visit of inspection until daylight. By this time there was no sight or sound of the boat. Rising to his feet, he mused. It was all very well to talk of returning another time, but how was he to find the spot? The sea of sandy hillocks stretched on every side, and he knew how difficult it was to distinguish one hillock from another. As to the cairns of loose stones, such cairns were nearly as numerous as the hillocks themselves.

At last he thought of the rock where he had first concealed himself. Such rocks were numerous too; but pulling out his case of crayons, he marked the base of the rock with a small streak of color. Finally remembering that the drift sand might cover this mark so made, he drew out his penknife and made a large cross in the hard sand. Having taken these precautions, he made the best of his way down the cliffs, and, following the open greensward which fringed the crags, wandered back to the Caravan.

At daybreak the next day he strolled back along the crags, first taking a bird's-eye view of the village; and perceiving no sight of William Jones who had doubtless no idea that he would rise so early he soon found the spot where he had stood overnight, watching the approach of the boat; and first reconnoitering the neighborhood, struck off among the sand-hills. At first he was guided by footprints, but as the sand grew harder, these disappeared. At length, after a somewhat bewildering search, he found the sand-hill he sought, the rock with his mark upon it, the cross marked in the ground, and finally, the well-concealed mouth of the hole.

He looked keenly to right and left. No one was visible. Stooping down he displaced the stones and loose sand and disclosed the trap-door with its iron ring. A long pull, a strong pull, and up came the trap. Open Sesame! Beneath him was a dark cavity, with a slanting path descending into the bowels of the earth.

Anxious to lose no time, he squeezed himself through the aperture and began descending. While he did so he heard the hollow roaring he had heard the night before. As he proceeded he drew out a box of matches and a candle, which he lit. Proceeding cautiously on his back, and restraining himself with his elbows from too rapid descent, he found himself surrounded not by sand, but by solid rock, and, peering downward saw that he was looking down into a large subterranean cave.

Just beneath him was a flight of steps cut in the solid rock. Descending these carefully, for they were slippery as ice, he reached the bottom, and found it made of sea-gravel and loose shells, forming, indeed, a decline like the sea-shore itself, to the edge of which filling about half the cavern, the waters of the sea crept with a long, monotonous moan. Approaching the water's edge he saw facing him the solid back of the cliff, but just at the base there was an opening, a sort of slit, almost touching the waves at all times, quite touching them when the swell rose, and through this opening crept beams of daylight, turning the waves to a clear malachite green.

The mystery was now clear enough. The cave communicated directly with the sea, but in such a way as to make an entrance for any large object impossible from that direction.

Puncheons of rum and other spirits, bales of wool, planks of mahogany and pine, oars, broken masts, coils of rope, tangles of running rigging, flags of all nations, and articles of such material as is used on shipboard swinging tables, brass swinging-lamps, mast-head lanterns, and hammocks, enough and to spare, in short, to fit out a small fleet of vessels. Lost in amazement, Brinkley examined this extraordinary hoard, the accumulation doubtless of many years. All at once his eye fell upon a large convas bag, rotten with age and gaping open. It was as full as it could hold with pieces of gold, bearing the superscription of the mint of Spain.

O William Jones! William Jones! And all this was yours, at least by right of plunder, upon the Queen's seaway; all this which, turned into cash, would have made a man rich beyond the dreams of avarice, was the possession of one who lived like a miserly beggar, grudged himself and his flesh and blood the common necessaries of life, and had never been known, from boyhood upward, to give a starving fellow creature so much as a crust of bread, or to drop a penny into the poor-box! O William Jones! William Jones!

The above reflection and parenthesis belong, not to the present writer, but to my adventurous discoverer, the captain of the Caravan.

As Brinkley proceeded on his tour of inspection he became more and more struck with wonder. Nothing seemed too insignificant, or too preposterously useless, for secretion in that extraordinary ship's cavern. For what purpose had books been carried there? Certainly not to form a library, for William Jones could not read. As curiosity deepened Brinkley opened some of the forlorn volumes, covered with mildew, and full of hideous crawling things. Most were in foreign tongues, but there were several English novels half a century old, and a book of famous "Voyages," also in English. Near to them were some large paper rolls—ships' charts, evidently, and almost

RELIEF.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DRS. TAFT BROS.' MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analysed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

Our New Bock on Cancer

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new Book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. It was written for us by a physician who has given the subject a great deal of thought and study, and it will no doubt prove of considerable interest and be of great benefit to those suffering from cancer or tumor.

If you are afflicted with cancer yourself, or have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their marches.

There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long tiresome marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this harmless and wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and robs marching of the foot-soreness which is its invariable accompaniment. Mr. T. Buckart, "C" Co., R. C. R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm en route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed). T. Buckart.

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all druggists, or by mail, Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

SORE FEET

If your feet are sore, tired and aching, Foot Elm can give you wonderful ease and comfort. Price, 25c. a box at all druggists, or sent by mail, postage free. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

—The engagement is announced of Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell, of Peterborough, formerly of Toronto, managing director of the Central Ontario Power Company, to Miss Jessie Houghton Hill, daughter of James L. Hill, of Pittsburg, Pa. Miss Hill has been a visitor to "Penryn Park," Port Hope, Ont., this autumn, the summer residence of her sister, Mrs. (Captain) H. H. King, of Pittsburg, Pa.

A Favorite Prima Donna

The Port Hope Times says,—Madame Palmira Ronvini sang in the Methodist church Sunday evening two numbers, the first, before the sermon, "On the Cross" and "The Unseen Kingdom" at the close of the service. She has a brilliant and skillfully managed soprano voice and many of those who were fortunate to be present to hear this gifted singer, are loud in expressing their appreciation of the pleasure Madame Ronvini gave them by singing twice during the service. They say she is the finest vocalist that was ever heard in that church. This talented lady will sing at the Clachan Splore on Thursday afternoon and evening.

Died at Lansdowne

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 23.—Mrs. J. McNeil died suddenly at Lansdowne. Deceased was nearly 100 years of age, and was born near where she had lived all her lifetime.

THE CLACHAN SPLORE.

Tickets for the great Clachan Splore or Scottish merrymaking at the Opera House on Thanksgiving afternoon and evening may be had from the following members of the Committee: W. Menzies, Ald. G. M. Roger, Charles Cameron, R. M. Glover, Dr, Carmichael and W. H. Robertson, or from W. Bunton, G. T. R. Ticket Agent, where plan of hall may be seen.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Mr. D H Burritt Pluckily Saves Two Boys from Drowning.

While going up Aylmer street Friday afternoon, Mr. D. H. Burritt was called to by a little girl, who told him that two boys were drowing in the creek near Brightman's tannery. Mr. Burritt ran to the spot, throwing off his overcoat, plunged into the icy water and succeeded in getting the boys to shore.

One was the eight-year-old son of Mr. F. J. Lawson, corner Stewart and Murray street, and the other the five-year-old son of Mr. Norris, Murray street. Lawson first broke through the ice and little Norris bravely tried to rescue him and also fell into the water. Lawson was under the ice and it was with difficulty that Mr. Burritt rescued him.

Lawson is a delicate lad and was rescued just in time. He was almost unable to move after he was rescued. Norris stood the exposure better. They were taken to their homes by Mrs. Blackwell and Mrs. Tate, of Flemming terrace. The lad Norris is now as well as ever, but Lawson required considerable attention and has not yet thoroughly recovered. Mr. Burritt feels none the worse. He is being congratulated on his brave and prompt action.

CONTRACTORS RETIRE

The Quaker Oats Company will Finish the Erection of Their Buildings

Messrs. Bogue and McDiarmid, who had the contract for putting up the buildings for the Quaker Oats Company, have decided to dissolve partnership and as a result they wish to abandon their contract with the Quaker Oats Company. The company will take over the contract. The contract called for the completion of the brickwork by the first of January but it was extremely doubtful if this could have been accomplished. Under the new regime the number of workmen will be greatly increased and it is expected that the work will be carried forward in a manner which will insure the early completion of the buildings.

TWICE TOLD TALES

No Meal Extracted From Them by Some Who Most Need the Facts.

We have more than twice told the reader, of the fact that he or she may perhaps easily discover the cause of the daily ill feeling and the experiment is not difficult to make.

But there are readers who think truths are for some one else and not for themselves.

Some day the oft told fact will flash upon us as applicable when the knowledge comes home, that day after day of inconvenience and perhaps of suffering has been endured, the cause not being recognized or believed, although we may have been told of the cause many times over, but never believed it applied to us.

It would startle a person to know how many people suffer because they drug themselves daily with coffee. We repeat it, it is a powerful drug, and so affects the delicate nervous system that disease may appear in any part of the body, all parts being dependent for health, on a healthy nervous system.

Relief from coffee for 30 days has cured thousands of people who never suspected the cause of their troubles.

The use of Postum Food Coffee is of great benefit to such, as it goes to work directly to rebuild the delicate cell structures from the elements nature selects for the work. Relief from a heavy drug and the taking of proper nourishment is the true and only permanent method.

U. S. POPULATION

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—What percentage of the population of the United States lives in the towns and cities.

Reply.—The urban population returned by last year's census was 33.1 per cent of the whole, Indian Territory and Indian reservations being excluded. The limit of population for city or town in the calculation was 8,000.

SENATORS' SALARIES

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Will you please tell me what salary is paid to a United States senator, and how much to a Canadian member of the upper chamber, and oblige.

VOX.

Reply.—Canadian senators get about $1000 and milage. The annual salary of a United States senator is $5,000. He is allowed milage at the rate of twenty cents a mile to and from Washington. An allowance of $125 per annum is made for stationery and newspapers. The president pro tem of the Senate receives $8,000 a year.

INDIVIDUALISM RAMPANT

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—There is a certain stage in education when respect for authority is at low ebb. The mind, becoming conscious of its own powers, thinks nothing beyond its jurisdiction. Many things which formerly inspired awe on being seen face to face lose their terrifying powers.

With a general rise in education has come an intellectual leveling. As a preacher of this town once put it, "Every body thinks that he is competent to decide anything." The reverence which men once had for the distinguished divine, the learned jurist and the honorable legislator has been in part dispelled. These individuals are seen now to be mere men, and in the days of the wide diffusion of knowledge their acquirements seem not so wonderful after all. Everybody reads a little, speculates a little, talks perhaps a little more. The result is the present bewildering chaos of opinion in all matters of religion, ethics, economics and sociology. It is individualism rampant. And individualism rampant does not bow its head before the Church, Court or Legislature. "Every man his own Pope," is the present motto. It is not unnatural phase of progress in this onward age.

I was delighted to read your article on the Y.M.C.A. work, and cordially agree with your theory.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, etc.,

J. M.

A WOMAN'S PLEA

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—The man who goes out between the acts is so deplorably lacking in regard for the feelings of others as to frequently come in for vigorous condemnation from members of his own sex, though the annoyance they experience from his horrid passages to and fro are as nothing compared with what is experienced by women. A matron attended a theater the other evening and was subjected to repeated and aggravating inconvenience in the way indicated. She justly complained of this annoyance and at the same time makes a point which is none the less pertinent because it has not hitherto received general attention.

Some time ago the women were requested to remove their hats while in the theater. So far as my knowledge goes no woman of sense has ever objected to this, except that when one's neighbor goes out between acts the hat is greatly liable to be wrecked. We can only hold our headgear in our laps, and when a big man squeezes past we find it next to impossible to save our millinery from serious injury. Nearly every man who indulges in this ill-bred habit is big and gross, by the way. I think, Mr. Editor, that since the men have compelled us to take off our hats while in the theater they should be compelled to retain their seats until the performance closes. The mingled odor of whiskey and cloves which they sometimes bring back with them after these temporary absences is no fitting compensation for a ruined hat.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am,

ONE WHO KNOWS.

FALLACIES ABOUT FLOUR

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—I notice in a paper sent me by a friend, that the Department of Agriculture at Washington has upset the commonly accepted and widely taught ideas in regard to the evil effects of eating white flour bread, instead of graham and whole wheat breads. Digestion experiments were carefully carried out by the Department, with bread made from each of the several kinds of flour, and the proportions of protein assimilated and rejected by the whole system carefully determined. The whole wheat flours may afford a greater proportion of the mineral nutriments, however, as this phase of the subject was not studied, but as far as the available protein, fats, carbohydrates and energy are concerned that the patent roller flours are preferable.

According to the chemical analysis of graham, entire wheat and standard patent flours, milled from the same lot of hard Scotch Fife spring wheat, the graham flour contained the highest and the patent flour the lowest percentage of total protein. The results of the digestion experiments with these flours showed that they were valuable in the reverse order, that is, the standard patent roller flour afforded the greatest amount of assimilated protein, while the graham and whole wheat afforded lesser amounts. This paradox, that the flour containing the smallest proportion of protein, should afford the greatest proportion available for digestion, is explained by the coarseness of the particles of the whole wheat varieties. The bran, and germ of these flours resist the action of the digestive juices to a great degree, and consequently pass through the system unaltered. On the other hand, the finely ground condition of the patent flours improves its digestibility.

It was also shown that the addition of wheat starch to flour did not improve its bread-making qualities or the size of the loaf. The most desirable flour for bread-making appears to be one produced by blending hard and soft wheat flours, in which the undesirable properties of the gluten of each are counterbalanced.

Many people in Peterborough and elsewhere are firm believers in the health giving qualities of "brown" bread, as it is called, and it, therefore, might be well to publish the above.

Seventeen Years' Experience

A Vermont Farmer insisted on his wife learning to shoot with a revolver so that she could protect herself when he was away from home.

After he had extracted a bullet from his left leg, buried the cow and paid for his neighbor's buggy smashed in a runaway, he decided that his wife had better shoot with an axe.

Lots of People insist on tinkering their own watches, with the result that they are ruined. Why not consult FROST'S Watch Expert at once and save unnecessary time and expense? They thoroughly understand good watch repairing. Frost's prices are always low.

Death of Mrs. Murray

Friends will greatly regret to learn of death of Mrs. Michael Murray, which occurred Friday in Buffalo after a very brief illness. It is only two weeks since Mrs. Murray was here visiting her father Mr. Connor Murphy. Up to a few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Murray resided in Peterborough. A husband and five children mourn the loss of a wife and mother.

The funeral will take place this morning at nine o'clock from the residence of Mr. Connor Murphy to St. Peter's cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

Evasive Enough to Suit.

"Pat," said a certain well known priest, who resides a thousand miles from Peterborough, to his factotum, "I shall be very busy this afternoon, and if anyone calls I do not wish to be disturbed."

"All right, sorr. Will I say you're not in?"

"No, Pat; that would be a lie."

"An' phwat'll I say, yer riverence?"

"Oh, just put them off with an evasive answer."

At supper time Pat was asked if anyone had called.

"Faix, there did," said he.

"And what did you tell him?"

"Sure, and I give him an evasive answer."

"How was that?" queried his reverence.

"He axed me was yer honor in, and I sez to him, sez I: 'Was yer grandmother a bootwow?'"

Rev. Irl R. Hicks Is Not Dead

Notwithstanding a widely current rumor that the Rev. Irl R. Hicks was dead, he never was in better health, and never did a harder and more successful year's work than that just closing. He has just completed his large and splendid Almanac for 1902 and, with his staff of able helpers, has brought his journal, Word and Works, justly forward into international reputation. For a quarter of a century Mr Hicks has grown in reputation and usefulness as the people's astronomer, and forecaster of storms and the character of coming seasons. Never were his weather forecasts so sought after as now, his timely warning of a serious drouth this year having saved the people from loss and suffering. Millions of bushels of wheat were harvested through his advice to plant crops that would mature early. The American people certainly stand by Prof. Hicks, when it costs them so little and the benefits are so great. His fine Almanac of 200 pages is only 25c. and his splendid family journal is only one dollar a year including the Almanac. Send to Word Words Pub. Co. 2201 Locust St. St. Louis, Mo.

DUTCH CONSUL WAS PRO-BOER

Called as the Result of Investigations by the British

SHOT FOR HIGH TREASON

Kitchener Gives the Lie to Continental Charges of British Cruelty—Two Canadian Casualties

Brussels, Nov. 26.—The sudden departure of the Dutch Consul-General from Pretoria is explained by the fact that he was chairman of a committee formed for supplying burghers with food and clothes. It was proven at the Broecksma trial that this committee furnished burghers with khaki uniforms enabling them to pass the British lines.

SHOT FOR HIGH TREASON.

Johannesburg, Nov. 26.—A burgher named Verneck was shot on Thursday last for high treason. He was sentenced by court martial about a month ago on it being proven that he incited the Boers in the burgher camps to break their oaths of allegiance and rejoin their commandos. Another rebel named Meyer was sentenced to imprisonment for life.

STATEMENTS FALSE.

London, Nov. 25.—Regarding the story circulated by Boer sympathizers to the effect that the British people troops made use of the Boer women and children as shields in the fight at Graspan on June 6th, Lord Kitchener has cabled:

"The statement is absolutely untrue and devoid of all foundation. One child was killed and one woman and one child were wounded by the Boers."

CANADIAN CASUALTIES

Ottawa, Nov. 25. — The Militia Department has been informed of the following casualties among the members of the South African Constabulary:

Trooper Wm. Sewter, South African Constabulary, died of wounds at Krugersdorp, 20th November. The next of kin is his father, 1 Sewter, 53 Cardigel street, Norwich, England.

A. Zimlick, dangerously wounded near Krugersdorp, 15th Nov.—Father, W. Johnston, St. Mary's Postoffice Ont., and R. Zimlick, New Westminister, B. C.

CAPTURED AND RELEASED.

London, Nov. 26.—Grobelaar surrounded and captured a patrol of one hundred railway pioneers, during the recent fighting near Standerton. Col. Remington came up and released the British prisoners after sharp fighting. Major Fisher was killed and three other British officers wounded. The Boers retired.

Japs Like Submarine Ships

New York, Nov. 26.—Commanders Nishi and Sata and Lieutenant Ida of the Japanese Navy watched with keen interest a trial of the Holland submarine torpedo-boat Fulton to-day at Greenport, L. I. Commander Nishi will recommend the adoption of the boat by the Japanese navy.

After a mile submerged run and porpoise dives the visitors took a run in the Fulton. Lewis Nixon saw the Fulton work for the first time and said afterward:

"I came here expecting to criticise, but can find no fault. The performances of the Fulton exceeded my expectations in all places, and the advance over the Holland is most decided."

JOHN REDMOND, MP., AN IRISH TRAITOR

Says England is the Meanest Country on Earth.

AND IRELAND MUST BE FREE

The Man Who is Being Feted and Entertained in Canada a Hater of Britain and Everything British.

John Redmond, M.P., the Irish agitator, who has recently been feted and honored in Montreal and Ottawa by by St. Patrick's Association, is hardly the kind of a man that loyal Canada should honor. Most of our readers already know his character, but for those who do not, we reprint a synopsis of his speech delivered in the city of Cork, previous to his departure for the United States. He laid Uparticular stress on his contention that his mission to America could be taken as proof that the reunion which had occurred in Ireland, had also occurred in the United States, and that England, hereafter, would have to fight the world wide Irish race of twenty millions, "whose action is only limited to one consideration, namely, that all means were honorable and just in the sight of God, and who preferred to be linked to the meanest free country on earth than to the British Empire."

Mr. Redmond also said that his mission was to show England that she would have to count hereafter on a united Irish race, backed by the public opinion, and the support and sympathy of 10,000,000 of free people in the American republic. To-day, public opinion in every civilized nation was against England, and one of his objects in going to America, was to prove to the English statesmen that the public opinion of the world was upon the side of Ireland, and that the whole public opinion of the American nation, of the leading American statesmen and of all political parties was in complete sympathy with Ireland's demands for freedom. He would be able to tell their brethren in America of the unity solidarity and courage of the Irish people at home.

It will be seen from the above that when Redmond told the people of Montreal that he would be satisfied with home rule such as Canada possessed, he spoke an untruth. What he really desires is the absolute severance of all connection with Britain.

We know that in Peterborough as elsewhere there are many of a certain class who would be glad to see the downfall of the British Empire. What such have to gain by destroying the freest country on the face of the earth, is indeed a mystery. We owe no ill will to anyone, but so far as The Times is concerned we raise a protest against further entertainment of traitors. If Parliament should attempt to again pass a resolution along the lines suggested by Mr. Redmond, it should and doubtless will call forth an outburst of indignation that will shake the Dominion.

Because it pours a flood of poisons into the circulation that saps strength and digestion so materially as to render the body incapable of resisting disease, and consumption is the result. Catarrh is quickly started by Catarrhozone, a fragrant germ destroying vapor that goes to the root of the disease. It soothes and heals the inflamed mucuous surfaces, clears the head and throat, and positively never fails to cure bronchitis, asthma, or Catarrh. Nothing is so good for diseases of the respiratory organs as Catarrhozone. Large outfit. $1. Small size, 25c. Druggists or by mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

SERIOUS FIGHTING ON PANAMA RAILROAD

American War Vessels Land Men at Colon and Panama to Protect Interests

U. S. IS IN CHARGE OF ISTHMIAN TRANSIT

Bombardment of Colon Is Threatened—Much Commotion on the Streets—People Take Refuge on Ships

Colon, Colombia, Nov. 26.— No evening train left Panama yesterday. The Government troops are attacking the Liberals at Culebra. The Government gunboat General Pinson left her anchorage close to the other warships last night, and is now reported to be landing troops on the north end of Colon. There is much commotion in the streets. People are seeking refuge on board the United States gunboats Marietta and Machias and along the railroad and on the piers.

SERIOUS FIGHTING EXPECTED.

New York, Nov. 26.—Messages from the agent of the Panama Railroad and Steamship Company at Colon were received here to-day at the offices of the company. The cablegrams said that serious fighting was expected at Empire, a small place on the line of the Panama Railroad. They also stated that the Machias, Captain McCrea, had landed more men at Colon, and that the Iowa had for the first time landed marines at Panama. They also contained the information that the Colombian gunboat, Gen. Pinson, had arrived at Colon under the command of Captain Ignacio Foriaco, with troops aboard from Cartagena, and that the threatened bombardment of the city of Colon was to take place to-day at 3 o'clock, New York time. They said the city was in the possession of the rebels, and that Captain McCrea had forbidden the shelling of the town. Consul-General of Colombia De Brigard was at his office early to-day. He said that he expected advices to-day regarding the situation.

U. S. GOVERNMENT IN CONTROL.

Washington, Nov. 26.— The United States Government has taken charge of the Isthmian transit. A despatch received at the Navy Department to-day from Captain Perry, of the battleship Iowa at Panama reports that fact. Captain Perry says that Gen. Alban, with 600 men, is fighting the Liberals on the line near Empire. Transit in danger of interruption. Captain Perry has landed with a detachment of men from the Iowa and has started with a train to clear transit and also establish a detachment of men to keep it so. Commander McCrea, of the Machias, at Colon, has cabled the Navy Department notifying the department of the approaching bombardment of that town and asking for instructions. He has been instructed to take such steps as he deems necessary for the protection of American interests at Colon.

THE UNITED STATES AND SOUTH AMERICA

A New Phase of the War Now Going on in the South.

UNCLE SAM WILL NOW STOP IT.

Colombia Asks for Protection of Panama—Informs United States that Isthmus is Unsafe—Clears Way for the United States to Land Armed forces.

Colon, Columbia, Nov. 26.—It is reported that the Government has addressed a communication to the United States consul setting forth that it cannot guarantee protection for isthmian transit.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The answer of the Colombian Government to the representations of Consul General Gudger, to the effect that the Government was unable to guarantee the integrity of the railway communication across the isthmus, was purposely developed in order to make perfectly plain the fact that the United States were thoroughly justified in landing their forces at Colon. With this formal acknowledgment from the Colombian government of its inability to maintain communication, it becomes, it is said, not the privilege, but the duty of the United States under the treaty of Granada to guarantee that communication even though the use of force is necessary.

It is not intended to interfere between factions, conservative or liberal, unless a faction places itself in the position of obstructing the purpose of the United States to keep the Panama railroad open to free traffic.

LULL BEFORE THE STORM.

Mr. Herran, the Colombian charge d'affaires, has received another cablegram from General Arjona, the acting governor of Panama, stating that an immediate attack on that city by the liberals is not apprehended, and that all is now quiet in the vicinity.

It is the opinion of the Colombian officials here that the Government gunboat General Pinson, which left Colon after the occupation of that town by the liberals, has gone to Carthagena for troops to reinforce the government on the isthmus and then expect her to return very soon with sufficient force to change the aspect of affairs there.

Willemstad, Nov. 25.—The latest news obtainable here is to the effect that the Colombian liberal general, Lugo, has arrived at Empire station, distant about twelve miles from Panama, with a force said to number 1,000 men. The liberals are gaining and arming many recruits along the entire length of the railroad and now control the line up to within a point two miles from Panama. An attack on that city is expected momentarily, and much uneasiness is felt there. The liberal leader, Domingo Diaz, is expected shortly to arrive at Colon.

Two sailing boats, having seventy-five soldiers on board, which left Panama with General Alban, returned to that place at 3 p.m. yesterday and General Alban and fifty soldiers arrived there on board the gunboat Boyaca at 7 p.m.

The liberals here assert that General Lorenzo attacked General Alban's force after it had landed at Chame, near Chorrera, and defeated it, only General Alban and a few of his troops escaping.

The United States gunboat Marietta, which left Key West for Colon Nov. 18, was reported from Colon last night to have been signaled in the offing.

ARRESTS MINISTER OF WAR.

Caracas, Venezuela, Nov. 25. President Castro, believing that a conspiracy to overthrow him existed, caused the arrest to-day at Puerto Cabello of Ramon Guerra, the minister of war.

The president also brought about the arrest at Caracas of a number of partisans of Ramon Guerra, among them being Montauban, who claims to be a French citizen. The arrests have caused a great sensation.

London, Nov. 26.—The steamer Banrigh, which was detained here this week by the British authorities on the suspicion of being a Boer filibuster, has been released and will proceed to Hamburg.

A member of the vessel's crew is authority for the statement that the Banrigh will then proceed to Colon, where she will be used by the Colombian government as a gunboat.

Looks Bad for Miss Stone

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—It is reported at the State Department this morning that Consul General Dickinson has returned to Constantinople from Sofia. This is taken as a discouraging sign in the case of Miss Stone, and it is considered that it may indicate a breaking off of the negotiations for the release of the American missionary being held by Bulgarian brigands.

The purpose of the trip to Constantinople, it is said at the State Department, is probably to confer with the diplomatic officials of the Government at that place, regarding what action should now be taken, if any. No official news of Miss Stone's condition has been received at the Department in the last few days.

CUBA WILL JOIN UNION.

Santiago, Cuba, Nov. 26.—Gov.-Gen. Wood, who has gone to Guantanamo, did an enormous amount of work during his stay here.

He said he thought Cuba was destined to be annexed eventually to the United States on account of economical conditions, as the sugar and tobacco industries could not prosper so much in competition with the industries of Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines as they could if annexation were accomplished through the will of the Cuban people.

He pointed out that the United States Government had guaranteed a stable government for Cuba, which would be impossible to maintain without prosperity, and he declared that the United States would be morally bound to annex Cuba if solicited to do so by the Insular Republic.

SECOND PLACE FOR MAJOR MERRIT.

The New Corps Will Wear a Uniform Like Toronto Mt. Rifles

COL. EVANS TO COMMAND.

All Expenditure of Every kind to be Borne by the War Office—Force to be Taken from all Over the Country

Ottawa, Nov. 26. —It is more than likely that Major Merritt of Toronto will be offered a position on the mounted corps. It is said that he may be asked to be second in command. The dress that the contingent will wear will be the same as that of the mounted infantry at Toronto, a brownish grey serge. The report that it was to be khaki is not correct. The department has not yet commenced active operations, but as soon as the official despatch is received work will be commenced at once.

This will be in no sense a third contingent, said Colonel Borden, by way of correcting statements which have appeared in certain conservative papers. It should be made clear that this is no new offer, but is an offer made in March last, which offer grew out of the Merritt correspondence with the War Office. As a matter of fact we are doing the work for the imperial Government now just as we did in the case of the South Africa Constabulary. All the expenditure of every kind will be borne by the War Office.

NO SECTIONALISM.

"It is a mistake to say that the name of a commanding officer was submitted with the offer of last March. All that was done at that time was to ask the Secretary of State for War whether the name of a certain officer would be agreeable. This force will be taken from all parts of the country. There is one thing, however that will not be done. In the case of previous corps the men were grouped together in companies according to the localities from which they came. In this instance the men will be concentrated at some point, and will be mixed together indiscriminately. There will be no such thing as an Ontario or a Nova Scotia company. There has been a little too much of that, and it tends to sectional feeling."

COLONEL EVANS TO COMMAND.

The Minister of Militia and Major-General O'Grady-Haly were in consultation regarding the recruiting of the new force. Colonel Borden has made up his mind as to the officer he will recommend for commanding officer, but will await official notice of the acceptance of a corps from Canada before communicating with him. It seems to be generally understood that Lieut.-Col. Evans of Winnipeg is the officer the Minister has in mind.

Horses will need to be bought, but it is not thought that there will be any difficulty in getting suitable mounts. It is quite likely that the services of the deputy officer commanding in each military district will be requisitioned for the purpose of enrolling recruits, which will obviate the necessity of having special recruiting officers. The officer who is to command the corps will, however, have a voice in the procedure.

Andrew Carnegie's Task.

New York, Nov. 26.—It is estimated that in order to avert the "disgrace of dying rich"—that is, in order to leave his heirs a fortune that will be comparative poverty—Mr. Carnegie must give away $30,000,000 a year for ten years, assuming that his wealth does not shrink or expand. In other words, Mr. Carnegie must die "disgraced." He cannot possibly give awya such a sum with discretion, and he is not a man to throw money away.

He is strictly limited in his field of giving to benefactions that will create opportunity for the individual. To coddle the hopelessly weak, to pension the lazy and the incapable, would be to make of his wealth, a source of evil beside which the wild extravagances of a spendthrift would seem harmless. To indulge in public giving where the public is capable of giving and under a moral obligation to give would be wholesale discouragement of public morality and public enthusiasm.

The pressing need of this as of every other country is the widest diffusion of the fundamentals of civilization—scrupulous cleanliness, brain development, moral instruction, and respect for manual labor—that is, baths, schools that educate, not stuff the mind, character building and technical training. This is a vast field, but one in which every advance must be made with the greatest caution.

Mr. Carnegie had better die "disgraced" than die by false and pernicious philanthropy.

Electric Trunk Lines

London, Nov. 26.—William Langdon, in the presidential address at the Institutions of Electrical Engineers, has been forecasting the conversion of the trunk lines of railways into electrically worked lines, with trains of lesser magnitude despatched more frequently and higher rates of speed, resulting in substantial gains in economy and the purity of the smokeless atmosphere. He laid stress upon the necessity of working passenger and freight trains by the same system of electric traction, and predicted the gradual abandonment of steam propulsion for the railways of the United Kingdom, in which £1,200,000,000 has been invested. Sir William Preece's earnest plea for a national telephone system, has also attracted widespread interest, owing to the defects in the existing service.

Pain in the Back

makes life miserable. Can it be cured? Yes, in one night. Polson's Nerviline gives a complete knockout to pain in the back, for it penetrates through the tissues, takes out the soreness and pain, invigorates tired muscles, and makes you feel like a new man. Nerviline cures quickly because it is stronger, more penetrating more highly pain-subduing, than any other remedy. Don't suffer another minute, get Nerviline quick, and rub it in, for sure as you were born it will cure you. 25c.

GERMAN DISLIKE TOWARD ENGLAND

CASE OF POT AND KETTLE

Vienna Paper Neatly Counters on the Teutons Who Have Insulted Great Britain

London, Nov. 26.— The Paris correspondent of the Times quotes and contrasts two articles in the Journal des Debats and the Temps respectively on the subject of German attacks on Mr. Chamberlain for his Edinburgh speech. The article in the Journal des Debats is calm and moderate. It traces in the attacks profound hostility to Great Britain on the part of the Germans, and concludes that the Boer war is only the occasion, not the cause, for a display of Anglophobia, which existed before the outbreak. The Temps is so devoted to the Boer cause that, in attacking Great Britain, it minimizes, while not excusing German proceedings in the invasion of 1870. It adds that when Chamberlain compares the conduct of British troops in the South African war with the acts of soldiers of any other nation, he insults the whole people.

The Vaterland of Vienna is quoted by the correspondent of the Times in the Austrian capital as saying: Just at the moment when the agitation in Germany against the barbarism and brutality of the English in the South African war has reached a climax, it is proved by judicial sentences that in the midst of peace, Polish children, under German rule, are subjected to sanguinary ill-treatment, and that Polish parents guilty only of protesting are thrust into prison."

Popular Canadian Playgrounds.

The traffic over the Grand Trunk Railway System to the summer resorts located on their line during the past season has been somewhat phenomenal, especially the heavy tourist travel that made the highlands of Ontario their objective point. From statistics compiled to date over 25,000 passengers were carried into the Northern Districts during the past summer from points all over the continent; in fact, in view of the growing popularity of the regions, it is found necessary every year to increase the accommodation in this district by the building of new hotels and making additions to the hotels that are already located throughout the locality. First class summer hotels are being erected at a cost of thousands of dollars, one now being in operation on Lake Rosseau Muskoka Lakes, with accomodation for 200 people, and built at an outlay of over $100,000. The region is bound to be popular as there is no finer country on the continent of America for health, pleasure and recreation than the Highlands of Ontario and which include the Muskoka Lakes Magnetawan River, Lake of Bays region, and the 30,000 Islands of the Georgian Bay, not forgetting the many pleasant summer resorts situated on the shores of Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching.

Many are the expressions of praise emanating from travelers who have been in this region. A letter just received by a Grand Trunk official from Mr. Chas. F. Cutter of New York City in a specimen of what is thought of these districts, and reads as follows:—

"We are wishing we were on Lake Rosseau in sight of the autumn glories of "Fairyland," this very minute. More and better should be said about Muskoka than the bit of enthusiasm in that hasty personal note, more and better than I am artist enough to say, and in spite of the dictates of selfishness which say, Don't tell everybody; Muskoka's too good to give away."

"Indeed, the kindness of United States and Canadian friends encouraging my wish for a vacation in high and dry air with waterside delights, and free from swarms of men or insects have just given me and mine the best vacation of our lives. In the first place the trip to get there is easier, less expensive, though grander than any other between the Rockies and Switzerland. Rivers, lakes, Niagara Falls and the Gorge, and Lakes Ontario and Simcoe, stretch from New York City to Muskoka Wharf.

"The Grand Trunk trip, including all round the island studded waters of Lakes Muskoka, Rosseau and Joseph, at one's leisure in charming little steamers, with courteous officers and crew, substantial dinners, soft waters, clear exhilarating air the whole continuous round is perfect. Then camp, cottage, boarding house, or hotel life in this peace and grandeur, with refined friends, good books, and well behaved children, canoe and boating, bass right at your dock, pickerel around the next point, the finest bathing, sleep refreshing, no noise but one's own exuberance, dress to suit yourself, no business but fun, no roads but the trackless primeval forests—the whole "shooting match" challenges comparison with all other vacation grounds known to New Yorkers. Our only regrets are at leaving this paradise short of a six months' stay."

Four Sisters Burned to Death

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 26.— Four persons were burned to death and two seriously injured in a fire at 4.30 o'clock this morning, which destroyed the residence of J. G. Miller on Charles street, Knoxville, a suburb of this city. The dead,— Rose Miller, aged 23 years, terribly burned and died on the way to the hospital; Amelia Miller, 19, suffocated by the smoke; Amanda Miller, 16, suffocated; Sulvia Miller, 9, suffocated.

The injured,—J. G. Miller, the father, jumped from second story window, leg broken, and bruised, will recover; Mrs. Miller, badly burned and on verge of nervous prostration; two other daughter, aged 11 and 13 years, escaped without injury. The fire was caused by the eldest daughter, Rose, pouring kerosene in the stove to start the fire for breakfast.

SMALLPOX SPREADS AROUND MONTREAL

Eight Cases Are Reported at Rigaud and Other Places

A CASE TRACED TO SOREL

The Medical Health Officer of St. Henri Discusses Precautions Taken to Check Disease

Montreal, Nov. 26.—The smallpox still continues its ravages throughout the province. The latest reports received at the Provincial Board of Health office show that the disease has made its appearance in the parish of Rigaud, from which eight cases are reported, as well as in Masson Village, Ottawa Co., and Ste. Pie Deguire, Yamaska County.

PRECAUTIONS IN ST. HENRI.

Dr. Lanctot, the medical health officer of St. Henri, is confident that his city is taking every possible measure to fight off the few cases of smallpox that have been discovered there. "We know our patients," observed the doctor, "and know that they will not leave their beds, so that a night watch is not necessary. He has warned the other inmates of infected houses not to leave the house. In any case, however, in which it was found that anyone was in the habit of going out, or people from the outside were in the habit of coming in, a watch would be set day and night. During the past week it has cost the city of St. Henri $277 for special constables."

Dr. Lanctot had a hard case on Wednesday last when he found, after a long search, Napoleon Fillon, a carter, working for Cunningham & Wells, who was suffering from smallpox, but was still at work. He was found at the residence of Mrs. J. Giroux, where he boarded, and placed in quarantine there.

SMALLPOX FROM SOREL.

Another case of smallpox was discovered last night. The patient was Adelard Gauthier, aged 23 years. He was living on Cuvillier street. He became infected with the disease in a peculiar manner. Two weeks ago he met a friend in Sorel, who was taking the disease. His friend came to Montreal, where the disease developed. He was removed to the Civic Hospital. Gauthier is also there now.

A STEAM LAUNCH

His Lordship Bishop Grouard, Athabasca District in Town

There is a distinguished guest at the Bishop's residence just now in the person of his Lordship Bishop Grouard, of Athabasca, N.W.T. Bishop Grouard, is one of the pioneers of the church in the Athabasca and Mackenzie River districts, and during his forty years of residence in that country, he has encountered many hardships in advancing the cause of Christianity.

His visit to Peterborough is for the purpose of letting the contract to one of the local canoe factories for the construction of a steam yacht to be used in navigating the waters of the Peace River. After making arrangements for the building of the steam yacht he will immediately proceed to his home in the far Northwest.

A True Brain Food

must replace the feeling of lassitude and mental tiredness by clearness and strength of mind. Not that it goes directly to the brain, that were foolish. The true brain food must be carried by rich, red blood. If mental fatigue worries and alarms you, look not to the brain, but the stomach and assimilative organs. No remedy yet discovered possesses the marvellous brain strengthening power that Ferrozone has demonstrated in thousands of cases. Ferrozone does not stimulate the brain into a fitful glow, but by improving digestion, strengthening the nervous system, stimulating assimilation, giving new strength to the heart, it sends a stream of red, vitalizing blood to the brain. Thus it is a true brain food. Ferrozone is sold by Ormond & Walsh.

AUGINALDO'S APPEAL TO UNCLE SAM

He Asks That He Be Allowed to Go Before Congress

WANTS A PHILIPINE REPUBLIC

He Thinks The United States Might Listen To The Cry of the Philippine People—A General Executed

Manilla, Nov. 26.—Aguinaldo has written Gen. Chaffee, military governor of the Philippines, asking the latter's permission to go before congress and express the desires of the Filipino people. Aguinaldo further requests to be accompanied by eight friends whom he designates, four of whom are prisoners at Guam, while the others are prominent in Manila.

Sixto Lopez, who has been in the United States and in Europe in the interest of the Filipino insurgents, and who is now at Hongkong, has written to Gov. Taft asking to be exempted from taking the oath of allegiance to the United States upon his arrival at Manila, asserting this action might injure his labors in the behalf of peace.

A fund is being raised by the federal party in Manila for the purpose of attempting to prevent the execution of the Filipino, Gen. Isidoro Torres, who surrendered to the American authorities in the early part of this year, and who was later tried on charges of having violated the rules of warfare and sentenced to death.

Several congressmen will be asked to exert their influences in favor of Gen. Torres.

Lost in the Storm

New York, 26.—The great storm which came speeding up from the south on Saturday night has spent its force in this zone of the Atlantic coast, and the waters driven up on lowland and beach are subsiding. A more careful survey of the storm-swept coast indicates that the aggregate damage will exceed the general estimates of yesterday. Hundreds of small craft were wrecked or badly damaged wharves and piers at every exposed point were battered down, many buildings at seaside resorts were unroofed, lowlands were flooded, city cellars were filled and hundreds of town houses were damaged.

Estimates of the aggregate damage run slightly below and considerably above $1,000,000. Down at Monmouth Beach, where the big German ship Flottbek drove ashore yesterday, and there was a thrilling rescue of her crew by life-savers, an angry sea was still beating upon the beach. Breckers have been engaged, but until the sea calms nothing can be done towards saving the ship and her cargo. The big craft, firmly embedded in the sand was still intact, and Capt. Zingler, her master, who watched her from the life-saving station, was sure that vessel and cargo would be saved.

Storm-bound shipping was released early to-day, but sea coast railroad and trolley service will limp until wash outs are filled in. Linemen were busy restoring prostrated telegraph and telephone wires today, but it will be a couple of days before these services are completely restored. The extent of the damage to the Rapid Transit tunnel was not fully determined to-day.

Lecture at T. A. S. Rooms

The concert and lecture at the T.A.S. rooms last night was well worth attending. After several vocal and instrumental numbers had been given, an interesting and instructive lecture on Napoleon was delivered by Mr. Hampden Burnham, this being the principal part of the evening's entertainment. The lecture was followed by more music and another pleasant evening at the rooms was closed by the singing of God Save the

GEN. FRENCH TRIES A CAREFUL LAID PLAN

Capable General in Command in Cape Colony Profits by Errors of Past

ARE HEMMING BOERS INTO ONE SECTION

If the Plan Succeeds in Clearing the Country It Will Practically Clear Cape Colony of Boers

London, Nov. 25.— The correspondent of the Times at Pretoria says the fact that Commandants Touche, Myburgh, and Wessels have been left alone for some time in the north-east of Cape Colony is adduced as a sign of relaxing British efforts in the colony.

The correspondent declares this is only another instance of unreasonable impatience impatently manifested in regard to the progress of the war. The mistake was one frequently made, after clearing one district, of pursuing the Boers immediately into another, and allowing them to break back into the first.

To obviate this, now that he has cleared the midlands, General French has been obliged to allow the enemy to remain in comparative quiet in Barkly East district until he has made sure they will not break West when he will proceed against them. The building of blockhouses from north south-east to Dordrecht, which is now in progress, will, it is expected, prevent the Boers breaking west.

The columns now operating in this district, if they succeed in clearing the country, will practically free Cape Colony, east of the main line, from Cape Town to DeAar, of Boers.

Helped Rob a Bank

London, Nov. 25.—The pugilist Dick Burge was arrested in London this morning on a charge of complicity in the recent Bank of Liverpool frauds. It is said that the police have recovered a large amount of the money that was taken. The sums discovered aggregate £100,000. A number of other arrests are anticipated. An embargo has been placed on the banking account of a well-known bookmaker.

Later in the day Burge was brought up in the Bow street Police Court, charged with uttering checks aggregating £25,000, when knowing them to be forged, and was remanded.

THE GOLD MOVEMENT

When the movement of American gold to Europe started in the third week of October with the shipment of $250,000 in gold to Germany, it was thought that not more than $15,000,000 would be drawn abroad, while some of the best-informed bankers did not believe the amount not exceed $10,000,000. Tuesday's shipments brought the total to more than $17,500,000. Now predictions are made that another $5,000,000, at least, will be sent out this week, while before the movement ends $25,000,000 more may go. The last figure may be set down as an exaggerated estimate. The fact is so little is known about the cause of the present movement that the financial experts are pretty much at sea on the whole subject. Probably one of the important influences in the situation is the loss of South African gold. Practically no precious metal has been received from the Rand for more than two years, while on top of this Great Britain has been obliged to contract heavy loans in order to meet the expenses of war.

A VILLAGE PRO-BOER

Dr. Harbottle of Burford, who drew a revolver and fired a shot, wounding Mr. Herman Stewart in the head, is described by a Galt newspaper—in which town he used to live—as a clever but eccentric —man, says the Star. That the doctor was tormented by Mr. Stewart, followed by him to and from the post-office, in order to make sport for on-lookers, is admitted. That the doctor is a pro-Boer and held views at variance with those of the community in which he resided, and that he has been baited and subjected to many petty annoyances on this account is plain enough. But people did not shoot him. For two years they have made his life a burden, but they did not shoot him.

His neighbors did not go that length in persecuting him for his views. True he had to board up the windows of his house against stones. The doors and windows on the lower floor had to be so filled with sheet iron that they could be effectually closed on an instant's notice. The side of his house is marked in spots showing that people have thrown paint against it to evince their intolerance for his pro-Boer views. Some time ago he had to take legal action against several men for trespass and damage done to his property. But the villagers may remind us, nobody shot him. Nobody shot at him. The people did not lynch him because of his views. They let him live, and here now he rewards them by drawing a revolver and shooting at a highly respected citizen of Burford, who was following him up and down street, walking on his heels, and in a loyal, patriotic, and laughable manner holding the doctor up to the ridicule of the village, and putting him in fear of bodily injury.

It goes to show that when a man is a pro-Boer there is no telling what act of base ingratitude he may be guilty of. There is a lesson for Burford in this incident. That village has pursued wrong tactics with Dr. Harbottle. When a village finds that it contains a man who holds unpopular opinions, it should either lynch him or concede his right to hold what opinions he chooses. By killing the man at once without badgering him and making his life of so little value that he is willing to part with it on the scaffold, the danger that he will slay some loyal and highly-respected citizen is averted. True, to kill a man, even though his opinions may be unpopular, is not customary in British communities. And, as the whole, possibly, it would be more to the credit of Burford and all such places if pro-Boers were not forced to barricade their homes. It would be well to station such a man a vain disaffection with the institutions under which he lives, resting confident in the knowledge that if he is wrong his error will find him out.

There are pro-Boers in Toronto, yet their windows are not broken. They are not ridiculed in the streets. Perhaps some of them would have asked nothing better than to be made the victims of persecution, as it would have brought to their aid that fair-minded public opinion which believes that every man has a right to his views, whatever they may be.

Mr. Harbottle's remarks may have been exasperating when British arms were sustaining reverses in South Africa, he may have been entirely wrong in his views and perverted in his sympathies, but in Canada we hope it will not be considered fashionable that a man should be stoned because of the unpopularity of his opinions.

THE WILY HUNTSMAN

Respectfully dedicated to Mr. Michael Tooley and the Rest of the Gang.

Oh, now the crafty hunter
 Takes powder, gun and dog,
And shoots his ammunition
 Into the peaceful bog.
He ambles through the forest
 And snags on branch and bough,
And blazes at a partridge,
 But kills a humble cow.

He lurks behind the brushes
 To get the festive duck—
He lingers there till evening
 And mutters at his luck.
His garments are the fashion
 For swell Nimrods to wear—
He plugs the guide, mistaking
 The fellow for a bear.

Oh, now the crafty hunter,
 As comes the frosty eve,
Walks homeward in the gloaming
 With cunning up his sleeve.
He slinks through the darkest alleys
 Like one imbued with shame,
And seeks the jolly dealer
 Whose signboards speak of "Game."

A Child's Cry

Pierces the mother's heart like a sword. Often the mother who would do everything for the little one she loves, is utterly impotent to help and finds no help in physicians. That was the case with Mrs. Duncan, whose little one was almost blind with scrofula. But fortunately she was led to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and so cured the child without resorting to a painful operation.

The great blood-purifying properties of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery have been proved over and over again in cases of scrofula, eczema, eruptions and other diseases which are caused by an impure condition of the blood. It entirely eradicates the poisons which feed disease, and builds up the body with sound, healthy flesh.

"My little daughter became afflicted with scrofula, which affected her eyes," writes Mrs. Agnes L. Duncan, of Mansfield, Sebastian Co., Ark. "She could not bear the light for over a year. We tried to cure her eyes, but nothing did any good. We had our home physician and he advised us to take her to an oculist, as her eyelids would have to be 'scraped.' They had become so thick he thought she would never recover her sight. As there was no one else to whom we could apply my heart sank within me. I went to your 'Common Sense Medical Adviser,' read your treatment on scrofula, getting the properties of medicines there advised. With five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I have entirely cured my child.

"Hoping this will be of some use to you and a blessing to other sufferers, with heartfelt thanks, I remain."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are an excellent laxative for children. They are easy to take and thorough in action.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Bagley, Caledonia ave., Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Five boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, sustaining no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Mann, Martin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James H. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. H. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not cure.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

A TALE OF A CARAVAN

falling to pieces. And on top of the charts was a tiny prayer-book, slime covered and dripping wet!

What possessed Brinkley to examine the prayer-book I can not determine, but in after years he always averred that it was an inspiration. At any rate he did open it, and saw that the fly-leaf was covered with writing, yellow, difficult to decipher, fast fading away. But what more particularly attracted his attention was a loose piece of parchment, fastened to the title-page with a rusty pin, and covered also with written characters.

Fixing the candle on a nook in the damp wall he inspected the title-page and deciphered these words:

"Christmas-eve, 1864, on board the ship 'Trinidad,' fast breaking up on the Welsh coast. If any Christian soul should find this book and these lines where I place them, if they sink not with their bearer (on whom I leave my last despairing blessing) to the bottom of the sea, or if God in His infinite mercy should spare and save the little child." (The book trembled in his hand as he read. The writing went on:) "I cast her adrift in her cradle in sight of shore, on a little raft made by my own hands. 'Tis a desperate hope, but He can work miracles, and if it is His will she may be saved. Attached to this holy book are the proofs of her poor dead mother's marriage and my darling's birth. May she live to inherit my name. Signed, Matthew Thorpe Monk, Colonel, 15th Cavalry Bengal."

The mystery was deepening indeed. At last Brinkley thrust the book and its contents into his pocket, and after one look round took the candle and made his way up the rocks and out of the cave. When he saw the light of day above him he blew out the light and crawled up through the aperture. Then, standing on the lonely sand-hill, he surveyed the scene on every side. There was no sign of any living soul.

CHAPTER XI.

Mysterious Behavior of the Young Gentleman.

About this time Matt noticed a curious change come over her artist friend. He was more thoughtful and consequently less entertaining.

Now this style of proceeding would certainly have caused her some annoyance, but for one compensating fact which put the balance entirely on the other side. It was evident that, despite the change, Brinkley's interest in Matt was not lessening, nay, it rather seemed to be on the increase; and this fact Matt, very woman as she was, was quick to perceive.

Very often on looking suddenly at him she found his eyes fixed wonderingly and sympathetically upon her. She asked him on one occasion what he was thinking about.

"You, Matt," he answered, promptly. "I was trying to imagine," he continued, seeing her blush, and hang her head, "how you would look in silks and velvets; got up, in fact like a grand demoiselle. What would you say, now, if a good fairy were to find you out some day and were to offer to change you from what you are to a fine young lady—would you say Yes?"

"Ah!—by the way, Matt, can you read?"

"Print, not writing."

"And write?"

"Just a bit!"

"Who taught you? William Jones?"

"No, that he didn't; I learned oft Tim Penrean down village. William Jones, he can't read, and he can't write; no more can William Jones's father."

"Ah," returned the young man, assuming his flippant manner, "you find me tedious company, I fear. The fact is, I am generally affected in this manner in the present state of the moon. But come to-morrow, Matt. Your presence does me good."

However, the next day passed, and the next again, and there was no sign of Matt. He began to think the child had taken offense, and that he would have to seek her in her own home, when her opportune appearance prevented the journey. He was taking his breakfast one morning inside the caravan, when he suddenly became conscious that Matt was standing outside watching him.

"Oh, you are there, are you?" he said, coolly. "Come in and have some breakfast, Matt."

He rose negligently, went to the door, and held forth his hand; Matt took it, gave one spring, and landed inside the vehicle.

"Tim, another knife and fork for the young lady—some more eggs and milk; in fact, anything you've got!" said Brinkley, as he placed a seat for Matt at the little table.

Tim gave a grunt of dissatisfaction. This "bold colleen," as he called her, was becoming too much for him, but he perforce obeyed his master's commands. Matt sat down and ate with an appetite. Brinkley played negligently with his knife, and watched her.

"It is two days since you were here, Matt," said he. "I was seriously thinking of coming to look for you. Why wouldn't you come before?"

"'Twasn't that!" said Matt. "I couldn't!"

"Couldn't? Why?"

"Why, he wouldn't let me, William Jones. He says he'll smash me if I come here and talk to you."

As Matt spoke her bosom heaved and her eyes flashed fire.

"He ain't at home to-day," she said, in answer to the young man's query concerning the ex-wrecker "he's gone up to market-town and won't be back before night."

As Brinkley looked at her a sudden thought seemed to strike him.

"Matt," he said, "you and I will go wreck-hunting this afternoon; that is, if you've no objection."

She certainly had none; wherever he went she seemed willing to follow. In a very little while the two started off. It was Brinkley who led this time, Matt walking along beside him like a confiding child.

"By the way, Matt," he said, presently, "you told me once of treasures being hidden among the sand-hills. Did anybody ever find any?"

"Not that I know on."

"William Jones, for instance?"

"No. Leastways I don't know."

"Well, what would you say, Matt, if I told you that I had found one?"

"If you?"

"Yes. I wonder if you can keep a secret? Yes, on reflection I think you can. Now, before we go any further, Matt, first you place your hand in mine, and promise never to mention until I give you permission what I am about to confide in you now."

Matt's curiosity was aroused.

"Very good," replied Brinkley; "we will now proceed."

They passed on among the sand-hills, and came to the entrance of the cave. Brinkley removed the stones and sand from the hole, and entered. Breathless with curiosity, Matt followed. They reached the bottom. Brinkley struck a light, and pointed out to her all the wonderful treasures which the cave contained. It was such a surprise to the girl that for a time she could do nothing but stare and stare in speechless wonder. Whistling gayly, Brinkley turned about the casks of rum and brandy, and thrust his hands into the bags and let the gleaming gold slip through his fingers.

Matt's amazement turned into awe.

"Don't," she said, in a fearful whisper; "it belongs to the fairies."

Brinkley laughed.

"It belongs to a very substantial fairy, Matt, but I don't think that to-day I will mention that fairy's name. Did you ever see so much money in all your life before, Matt?"

She shook her head, but her eyes were still fixed upon the gold.

"I see," observed Brinkley, flippantly, "the sight of that gold fascinates you. Well, so it did me at first, but you see what use does. I can regard it now with comparative calmness. However, I have a particular wish to accustom you to the sight of wealth; therefore I shall bring you here and show you this now and again. Come, Matt, tell me what you would do if you were very rich, if all this flotsam and jetsam in fact belonged to you."

Without the slightest hesitation Matt replied:

"I should give it to you—leastways half of it."

"Ah, the reply is characteristic, and clearly shows you are not at present fitted to become the possessor of riches. But I shall bring you to the proper state of mind in time, no doubt. The next time I ask you a similar question you will propose to give me a third, the next an eighth, and so on, until you will finally come to a proper state of mind, and decline to give me any at all. And now that I have made you a sharer of my secret we will go."

They left they cave once more and made their way back across the sand-hills, Brinkley pausing to obliterate their footprints as they went. When they had proceeded some distance he paused, and took the girl's hand.

"Good-by, Matt," said he. "If it wasn't for that promised smashing I should certainly see you home."

"Then do," returned Matt. "I don't care if he does smash me!"

"Probably not, but I do. It would be an episode in your career which it would not be pleasant to reflect upon—therefore, good-by, Matt—and—and God bless you, my girl!"

He gave her a fatherly salute upon the forehead; a bright flush overspread her cheek as she bounded away. Brinkley watched her until she was out of sight, then he turned, and strolled quietly on in the direction of the Caravan.

"It's a strange game," he said, "and requires careful watching. I wonder what my next move ought to be?"

He thought very deeply, but when he reached the Caravan he found he had come to no definite conclusions as to his plans. He therefore partook cheerfully of the repast which Tim had prepared for him, and after he had smoked a couple of pipes in the open air he retired to rest.

The next morning he began pondering again.

"I have got my trump card," he said to himself, "but how to play up to it? I have a splendid hand, but it will want skillful managing if I am to win the game. One false move would do for me, for my opponents are crafty foxes, and they are two against one. What is my right move, I wonder? I wish some good fairy would guide me!"

He took out his pipe, which was his usual consoler, and smoked while he took a few turns on the green sward outside the Caravan.

Suddenly an idea struck him.

"I think I'll pay a domiciliary visit to Mr. Monk," he said. "I can meet him now on pretty equal terms. If I hint a few things to him the amiable gentleman may think of becoming just."

He called up Tim and sent him on some trivial errand down to the village. As soon as he was well out of the way Brinkley entered the Caravan, produced some papers from the inner pocket of his coat and locked them up securely in his trunk.

"So far so good," he said. "My amiable friend may not be in an amiable mood, and I don't wish him to get any advantage of me!"

He did not even take with him the key of the box, but having attached to it a small piece of paper, on which were some written instructions, he hid it in the Caravan and started off upon his journey.

It was a dark, gloomy morning, giving every promise of coming storms. As he passed through the wood which surrounded Monkshurst house, the wind whistled softly among the trees, making a moan like the sound of human voices.

"A gloomy place," said Brinkley; "a fit residence for such as he. Any dark deed might be committed here and who would know?"

The path which he followed was a neglected carriage-drive, strewed with stones, overgrown with weeds, and bordered on either side by the thick trees of the forest. Presently the trees parted and he came in view of the house.

A large gloomy-looking building, as neglected as the woodland in the center of which it stood. It seemed as if only a part of it was inhabited, and the large garden at its back was unprotected by any wall, and full of overgrown fruit trees.

The door was opened by a grim elderly woman. He inquired for Mr. Monk, and was informed that he was at home. The next moment he was standing in a lonely library, where the owner of the house was busy writing. Monk rose and the two stood face to face.

CHAPTER XII.

Buried!

It is not my purpose to describe the interview which took place between my hero and Mr. Monk. Suffice it to say that when the young man again emerged from the gloomy shadows of the dwelling there was a curious smile upon his face, while Mr. Monk, who had followed him to the door and watched his retreating figure, wore a horrible expression of hatred and fear.

No sooner had he disappeared than Monk left the house also, and following a foot-path through the woods, made straight for William Jones's cottage. Entering unceremoniously, he found that worthy seated beside the hearth; without a word he rushed upon him, seized him by the throat, and began pummeling his head upon the wall.

The attack was so sudden that for several minutes William Jones offered no resistance whatever. Indeed, so passive was he, and so violent was the rage of his opponent, that there was every prospect of his head being beaten to a jelly. Presently, however, Monk's fury abating, his unfortunate victim was allowed to pick himself up. He sat and stared before him, while Monk, looking like the Evil One himself, glared savagely in his face.

"You villain! You accursed, treacherous scoundrel!" he said. "Tell me what you've done, or I'll kill you!"

But William Jones was unconscious of having done anything, and he said as much, whereupon Monk's fury seemed about to rise again.

"Mr. Monk," cried William Jones in terror, "look ye now, tell me what's the matter?"

"I mean you to tell me what you have been hiding from me all these years. Something came ashore with that child—something that might lead to her identity, and you have kept it, thinking to realize money upon it, or to have me in your power. What means it? Speak, or I'll strangle you!"

But William Jones was evidently unable to speak, being perfectly paralyzed with fear. Monk stretched forth his hands to seize him again, when the old man, who had been a horrified spectator of all this, suddenly broke in with:

"Look ye, now, I know there was summat. It were a leetle book stuffed in the front of her frock!"

"A book!" returned Monk, eagerly, "and what did you do with it? Tell me that, you old fool! Did you burn it?"

"Burn it!" exclaimed the other. "No, mister, we don't burn nothin', William and me. You know where you put it, William dear. In the old place."

"Then curse you for an avaricious old devil," thundered Monk. "The book has been stolen—do you hear?—stolen by that young painter!"

He could say no more; the effect of his words upon William Jones was electrical. He gave one wild shriek and began tearing his hair. It now became his turn to moan and rave, and for some time nothing coherent could be got from him.

At length, however, Monk gathered that there was some secret hiding-place which Brinkley had discovered.

"I thought his poking and prying meant summat," moaned William Jones. "I fancied, too, I seen marks i' the sand, but I never could find no one near, and I thought they was my own marks. Oh, what will come to me! I'm ruined!"

"Curse your folly!" exclaimed Monk "you've brought it all on yourself by your own greed, and you don't deserve I should help you; but I will help you! Listen then! It is clear that this young man has possessed himself somehow of your secret and mine. But from what he said to me, I fancy he has not as yet divulged it to a single soul. He is the only human being we have to fear. We must cease to fear him. Do you understand?"

No, William Jones did not understand; so in order to make his meaning clear, Mr. Monk drew him out from the cottage, and whispered something in his ear. William Jones turned white as death, and began to tremble all over.

"I couldn't do it, sir," he moaned. "Look ye now—I couldn't do it!"

Monk stamped his foot impatiently, then he turned to his frightened victim.

"Listen to me, William Jones. You ought to know by this time that I have both the power and determination to effect my ends. Continue to oppose me, and play the fool, and all that power shall be used against you. Do you hear? I will ruin you! I will hand you over to the authorities as a thief—I will have you tried for concealing the papers which might have proved the identity of the child found washed ashore fifteen years ago! Do you hear?"

Mr. Monk evidently knew the nature of the man with whom he had to deal; for after a little more conversation, William Jones, cowering like a frightened child, promised implicit obedience.

"Now, then," said Monk, when he had brought matters to a satisfactory termination, "you will show me this hiding place of yours."

To this William Jones at first objected, but Monk was firm.

"Who knows," said he, "but there may be other things having reference to the child. I mean to see for myself. Now, William Jones!"

So William Jones, seeing that resistance would be useless, promised to conduct his friend to the cave, and after a good deal of hesitation and of continued show of unwillingness on William Jones's part, the two men started off.

When they drew near to the cave, William Jones gave a cry, and pointed to the sand. Looking down, Monk clearly saw footprints. They followed them, and found that they led right to the mouth of the cave.

"It's standing open!" cried William Jones, as he pointed down with trembling finger.

"Follow me!" said Monk, crawling down to the hole.

Jones followed in terror.

As he reached the rocks below he heard a sharp cry, and looking down saw, by the dim light of a candle stuck in the wall, Brinkley struggling helplessly in the powerful grip of Monk. He had been sprung upon from behind, and was helpless through a sort of garotte.

Horrified and trembling, William Jones was rooted to his place.

Suddenly he saw the young man fall backward lifeless, and, with one last gasp, lie perfectly still. Monk stooped over him, and looked into his face.

"O, Mr. Monk!" cried William, "is he—is he—"

"He is dead!" was the reply. "So much the better."

As he spoke, he bent down and searched the young man's pockets. His brow blackened, for he did not find what he sought. Then he took the

PAINES CELERY COMPOUND

Is the Medicine You Need for Your Case.

IT CURES DISEASE AND MAKES PEOPLE WELL.

THE TRIAL OF ONE BOTTLE WILL CONVINCE ANY SICK MAN OR WOMAN.

If you are a sufferer from rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, blood diseases, liver or kidney troubles, Paine's Celery Compound will surely and quickly banish your ailments and give you a new and happy lease of life.

Let us impress upon your mind the following facts fully supported by thousands of testimonials from our own Canadian people: Paine's Celery Compound drives the germs of deep seated disease from the blood, it allows the overtaxed system to fairly start on the road to health; it strengthens, it invigorates, it gives new tone to the system, it is food for the nerves and brain.

Mrs. J. Belanger, St. Henri, P.Q., for the second time writes regarding the cure of her daughter as follows:

"Eighteen months ago I sent you a testimonial in favor of your Paine's Celery Compound which had quite restored my daughter to health and strength after other remedies had failed to cure her. I am pleased to inform you that the cure has been a permanent one, and that my owes her present good health to your great life-giving medicine. I think more of Paine's Celery Compound to-day than ever before."

Major Heaton, of the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, perhaps, the best Scottish piper in Canada, will give "The Cock o' the North," at the Clachan Spiore concert here on Thanksgiving Day.

—Rev. J. P. Wilson, of town, and Dr. Ford, of Norwood, are announced to be the speakers at the annual Thanksgiving dinner [illegible] Lakefield this year. It is held under [illegible] auspices of the Methodist church.

—Mr. Sid. Johnston, express agent on the Haliburton train, has completed his count of deer shipped over that line this season. The total number of deer or saddles carried was 281—160 ahead of last year, and 108 in excess of the tally for 1899.

CHAINED FOR TEN YEARS
HAY FEVER
ASTHMA
EVERY [illegible] BRINGS RELIEF.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

Our New Book on Cancer

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. It was written for us by a physician who has given the subject a great deal of thought and study, and it will no doubt prove of considerable interest and be of great benefit to those suffering from cancer or tumor.

If you are afflicted with cancer yourself, or have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their marches.

There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long tiresome marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this harmless and wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and puts marching of the foot-soldiers which is its invariable accompaniment. Mr. T. Buckart, "C" Co., R. C. R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm en route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed), T. Buckart.

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all druggists, or by mail. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

SORE FEET

If your feet are sore, tired and aching, Foot Elm can give you wonderful ease and comfort. Price, 25c. a box at all druggists, or sent by mail, postage free. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

THE GRAVENHURST FREE HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTIVES

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The main building of the Gravenhurst Free Hospital for Consumptives is nearly completed and only a small amount of money has been received for furnishings. By the rate appeals are coming in we must increase the number of beds without delay. Certainly this free hospital is the country's most pressing need. Every mail brings distressing requests for help from clergymen, mission workers and from the consumptive poor. A poor widow wants to be cured for the sake of her little boy; a laborer's wife pleads for her young daughter, her boy and her two-year-old baby; a father with a large family of little children wants to be cured for his family's sake; a mechanic and his wife are to-day consumptives and unless help comes soon six children will be orphans and homeless; a young heroic girl, struggling to earn a living for her mother and herself, is now a consumptive and destitute; a young man giving his life to support an invalid mother and sister finds himself a victim of this terrible scourge. These are only a few of the heart-breaking appeals for help. We are dependent absolutely upon the generosity of benevolent people to provide for these sufferers. We ask the substantial assistance of your readers in this hour of need.

Yours sincerely,

WALTER JAMES BROWN,

Secretary National Sanitarium Association, 137 Bay street, Toronto.

THE FEAST OF NATIONS

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Being interested in the good old town of Peterborough, and especially in its churches, I send herewith a report of an unique entertainment given by the young ladies of the Central Church, of Woodstock. I think something of the kind might "go" in the George Street Church or St. Paul's.

The Feast of Nations is an unique affair, in the way of entertainments, but quite as pretty as it is unique. There are seven booths, representing Canada, United States, Germany, Turkey, Japan, Italy and India. These booths, all fitted appropriately, were presided over by young ladies, handsomely dressed in the costumes of the country their booths represented. As the young ladies were all pretty, and the costumes becoming, those who weren't there can easily conclude that they missed a great deal. There were Turkish ladies, prettily veiled, charming Japs, who did the "running" short-step walk to perfection; lovely American and Canadian girls; pretty rosy-cheeked German maidens, who looked the soul of hospitality, in their white caps and Dutch shoes, languishing senoritas from Italy, and bewitching young Indian "squaws."

Each booth had something good to eat in it, along the lines laid down by its particular country.

The entertainment opened with a grand promenade of the costumed girls, and then tableaux were given by each set. For the Canadians, Misses Dingnam and Hoksy sang "The Land of the Maple," the other Canadian girls joining in the chorus.

The German girls' specialty was their German band. They played one selection of their "kazoos" and then branched off into the German national anthem, "Die Wacht am Rhine," which they played to perfection.

The "hurdy gurdy," or hand organ, at which Miss Laura Scarff presided, made the Italian senoritas look just at home.

The Indian maidens didn't give a war dance, but they sang a weird Indian song, which was much more pleasing. The young "squaws" were Misses Gardner, D. Jones, Goodyear, R. Jones, Cummings, Miller, Ulman, E. Wilson, M. Ford, M. Hewer, and Clara Butler.

After the tableaux the different booths were thrown open to the "hungry, waiting throng," and until a late hour the fair attendants at all the booths had all they could do to attend to their numerous callers. Every booth, particularly that of Germany, was besieged all evening by a great crowd, and as soon as one set of tables were empty there were dozens more to take the vacant places.

The entertainment was a financial success, though a great deal of expense had to be gone to to fit up the booths, some of which were real works of art.

The German booth was given the prize of merit, the judges considering that it was the best after much deliberation. It was a hard matter to choose, however.

NICHOLLS HOSPITAL NURSES

GRADUATING EXERCISES OF THE CLASS OF 1901.

The Y.M.C.A. Hall was crowded last night with ladies and gentlemen who were there on invitation to witness the graduating exercises of the class of 1901 of the Nicholls Hospital Training School for Nurses. Mr. Richard Hall presided, and after a very brief address, in which he mentioned that some of the best work ever done in the hospital had been achieved during the past year and that 401 patients had been treated, called upon the secretary, Mr. John Crane, to present his annual report. The report was short but interesting. The hospital began its existence in 1885, in a flat of 6 rooms, with a lady superintendent and two or three nurses. In January, 1890, the hospital as it stands today was presented to the trustees, together with an endowment of $35,000, all due to the munificence of the late Mrs. Nicholls. Thirty-four nurses now hold diplomas from the training school and many of them have achieved marked success in their profession. There has been a rapid growth in the importance of the hospital. During four years preceding the last four the average number of patients per year was 80, while during the last four years the average was 340 per year. There were 70 more patients treated in 1901 than in 1900. There were 110 operations during the past year, some of them very important. The death rate was low as shown by the Government report. The hospital has not hitherto cost the town anything, but there is increasing difficulty in meeting expenditures as the financial receipts do not grow with the increased work at the hospital. The receipts last year were about $8,000 and the expenditures reached $10,000. Four physicians who have done much for the institution, Drs. Halliday, Pigeon, Boucher and Fife are now on the honorary list. In conclusion Mr. Crane urged that people could not better show their loyalty to the town than by being loyal to the hospital and not giving credence without question to every ill report.

After a song by Miss Staples, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt delivered a thoughtful and eloquent address, apotheosizing work of all kinds, and more especially the Christ-like work of healing the sick.

A piano solo by Miss Edwards followed and then Mr. Hall in courtly manner administered the nurses Hippocratian oath and presented the medals and diplomas. The class, looking very capable and comely in their white-capped uniforms, was composed of Misses Mary Maloney, Grace Reid, Edith Finley, Ethel Carney, Edith Wilkinson, and Lilian Staples.

Miss Bellegham sang a pretty solo. Miss Maloney was presented with the first prize for bandaging, and all of the graduates were fairly overladen with beautiful bouquets.

The valedictory address was read by Miss Staples, who referred in cordial terms to the good will existing among nurses and staff. Feeling reference was made to the late R. S. Davidson, the deceased member of the board. The address showed high appreciation of the worth and importance of the profession of nursing.

Refreshments were served after the exercises and the newly fledged nurses received the congratulations of many friends.

Will Build Them Up in Flesh, Bone and Muscle.

Malt Breakfast Food is the only cereal food that children will use and relish from day to day. It has a delicious flavor and does not pall on the taste as other grain foods do.

Oatmeal and other forms of grain foods owing to the presence of insoluble starch, are injurious to the stomach and digestive organs of the little ones, and frequently give rise to overheated blood and dangerous skin eruptions.

Malt Breakfast Food is easily digested by the youngest children, it quiets the stomach when irritated, and gives restful sleep. Malt Breakfast Food is specially recommended for the babies after weaning. It affords all the elements for solid, flesh-forming, bone and muscle-building. Thousands of mothers are bringing up young children on Malt Breakfast Food. Try it, mothers, it will give you pleasing results. Grocers everywhere.

A TALENTED VOCALIST

The Sweet Singer who is to Appear Here on Thursday

The great Clachan Splore or Scottish merrymaking in the Opera House on Thanksgiving Day—afternoon and evening—is to be the event of the season. The twenty minutes' address of Hon. Senator Kerr on "The Day An A' Wha Honor It," the singing of Madame Bonvini, the great prima donna; the inimitable performance of Prof McKay, the prince of humorists the scotch readings of Miss Currie; the dancing of the trained classes—all go to make up a superb programme, which cannot but delight the audience. The following are a few of the press notices of Madame Bonvini's singing:

Dundee (Scotland) advertiser: This is the first occasion on which we heard Madame Bonvini in Dundee, and the applause bestowed upon her efforts last night was enthusiastic and general.

Music and Dramatic world: Madame Bonvini was the star of the evening and displayed her splendid soprano voice to great advantage.

Berkenhead News,—Madame Bonvini had twice to appear before the audience who rapturously applauded.

Seventeen Years' Experience

A Vermont Farmer insisted on his wife learning to shoot with a revolver so that she could protect herself when he was away from home.

After he had extracted a bullet from his left leg, buried the cow and paid for his neighbor's buggy smashed in a runaway, he decided that his wife had better shoot with an axe.

Lots of People insist on tinkering their own watches, with the result that they are ruined. Why not consult FROST'S Watch Expert at once and save unnecessary time and expense? They thoroughly understand good watch repairing. Frost's prices are always low.

FRENCH'S SPLENDID WORK IN CAPE COLONY

The Whole Province Will be Clear of Boers in a Very Short Time.

THE WAR IS FAST TURNING INTO A FOX HUNT

Important Statement by Hon. Joseph Chamberlain—Latest Budget of Telegraphic News from the British Isles.

London, Nov. 27.

A correspondent of the Post telegraphing from Pretoria, states that Gen. French has perfected his plans for the rounding up of the Boers in Cape Colony. This capable general, while not making any noise, has been working hard. The result of this will be the clearing of Cape Colony of the enemy. The commandoes of Generals Wessels, Myburg and Touche are in the "round up" and will assuredly be captured.

The Post's special from Cape Town says that a feeling of buoyancy prevails, and preparations are being made for the great boom which is sure to follow the cessation of hostilities.

The Hague, Nov. 27.

Mr. Kruger was yesterday interviewed by a deputation of Boers, in the interests of peace. They petitioned the ex-President in the name of humanity, to bring the war to a close. Amongst those who addressed was ex-Commandant Ferne, who appealed on behalf of the women and children.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S STATEMENT.

London, Nov. 27.

Mr. Chamberlain has announced that the London conference upon the Appellate Court has resolved that appeals shall continue from the Colonies to the Privy Council.

The Colonies will periodically make appointment to the Judicial Committee at ample salaries. If the appointed members are judges—and this condition is not necessary—they will be liged to quit the Colonial judiciary.

The Colonies suggest, with a view to the avoidance of delays, certain amendments in the regulations relating to appeals to the Privy Council.

Mr. Justice Hodges, as representing Australia, has dissented therefrom, and proposed an entirely new court.

Mr. Chamberlain concludes by saying htat on the whole the existing system is satisfactory, and invites Colonial suggestions as to details tending towards the simplicity of procedure.

Mr. Justice Hodges, in his discussion has followed the instructions of the Federal Government.

The above decision, which is the result of the recent conference in London, clearly indicates two things: (1) That the attitude of Canada in this matter has carried the day; and (2) that the proposal for an Imperial Court of Appeal (to which Australia was well disposed) is for the time being shelved.

DRIFTING POLITICAL SHIPS.

There are no leads of open water beyond the ice pack into which both political ships are drifting. All the officers of the Liberal craft are agreed in denouncing the incompetence of the ministry in the various stages of the war, and the futility of the concentration camps, the devastation of the country, and the proclamations for bringing hostilities to an end. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Sir Wm. Harcourt and Mr. Morley go further and advocate specific terms of peace and the dismissal of Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Asquith, Sir Henry Fowler and Sir Edward Grey do not acquiesce.

The National Liberal Federation may pass a resolution in favor of the removal of Mr. Chamberlain as a first step towards peace, but the country is not prepared to desert the Colonial Minister, especially when under foreign fire. Otherwise the Liberals are without a definite policy, and at the mercy of the drifting pack.

The Ministers themselves are making little progress under the grinding pressure of the endless war so far. They are united in rejecting the precedent offered by Lord Canning's proclamation of amnesty during the Indian Mutiny, but are without resources for accelerating the slow procession of the war or reducing the cost of the campaign, which is staggering British taxpayers, if not humanity. The only practical method of getting Mr. Chamberlain out of the Colonial Office is one employed when Lord Lansdowne was conducted with pomp from the War Office to the Foreign Office. No associate aspires to succeed him in the Colonial Office and the vacancy is not yet in sight in the Treasury. If Sir Michael Hicks-Beach succeeds in producing financial proposals which his colleagues can accept there will be no Cabinet changes, and the slow drift will continue with weekly squadings reported by Lord Kitchener.

Drafts of the new rules of procedure for the House of Commons are published as feelers, and are without official sanction. Reforms of the question of abuse and private business are inevitable, and changes in the system of divisions and expansion of the committees are probable. The short session may be shifted from Wednesday to Friday, and it is possible that there may be a fixed dinner hour. These matters of detail are trivial in comparison with the ways and means of financing the war. The sugar duties will be doubled, and countervailing against bounties added, unless the ministers are alarmed by the anti-English agitation in Germany, which is seriously embarrassing the Government at at Berlin. Otherwise all surmises are guesses in the dark. The borrowing powers are still ample, although the Boer war has sent down consols from 112 to 92, but a large proportion of military expenses falls upon a limited class of income payers, which cannot endure increased burdens.

THE CORONATION CEREMONIES.

Keen interest has been excited by the report, for which a ritualistic paper is responsible, that the ceremonies of doing homage and annointing with oil and the celebration of the Holy Eucharist, will be omitted from the Coronation service. It seems improbable, however, that the statement is well founded. Nothing is known at Westminster Abbey of such changes, and English people generally would view with regret the abrogation of the service in any way. Homage is a survival of the old recognition of the soveriegn by the people and although it is no longer necessary to kiss the King's foot, this was done certainly as late as the Coronation of Edward VI. The ceremony of annointing dates back to the very remote past. It is appointed that annointing shall be made on the hands, breast, shoulders and elbows, and on the head last of all, but according to ancient rite, the soveriegn was annointed on the head first, and the King may in this matter decide to return to the early precedent. Every English monarch, with the exception of James II., has partaken of the Holy Communion at the Coronation Service.

American millionaires may buy up steamship lines, provide London with an electric transit system, and capture an occasional Holbein or Gainsborough, but society draws the line at the traffic in Coronation seats. Not even the era of good feeling has prevented acrid strictures on the reports that American women are having coronation robes made, their husbands having bought seats from British Peers. The social fiat has already gone out that no American woman shall enter the Abbey unless they have previously married Peers. The suggestion has been made that the attendance at the Abbey shall not exceed ten thousand, but nobody has seen the plans by which so large a number can be accomodated.

GERMANY'S NEW TARIFF BILL.

The Government's preamble to the new tariff bill, issued to the members of the Reichstag, sets forth the necessity of replacing the existing tariff by an entirely new one that shall not be inferior to that of any other country in delicacy of arrangement. Protective tariffs, it is added, have contributed materially to the prosperity of German industry and commerce. In connection with this prosperity, a dislocation in the distribution of the wage earning class has taken place to the detriment of agriculture. The increase in the wages of agricultural labourers caused by the increase of the wages of the industrial classes, has resulted in an almost intolerable increase in the working expenses of the agriculturists. On the other hand, there has recently been a setback in the upward movement of German industry. Whether this set back has reached its lowest ebb, or how long it will last, cannot be calculated to a certainty. In order to avert the disastrous consequences which that dislocation will eventually have, not on agriculturists alone, but on the whole community, the adoption of effective counter measures, can no longer be delayed. One of the bill's essential aims is to place home agriculture in a more favourable position by affording it such greater customs protection as will alleviate the disadvantage. Although it is not expected that grain imports can be entirely dispensed with, it is highly desirable to have the permanent home production sufficient for the greater part of the nation's requirements. In any case, the dependence of home prices on international prices will continue.

ANGLO-AMERICAN AFFAIRS.

From their contrast with the Anglo-German outbursts, the speeches of Messrs. Hay and Choate, on Anglo-American affairs, received a warm, almost a rapturous welcome. Nobody listens to suggestions from America. There must be, everybody says, some secret promise of American support for British policy in compensation for Great Britain's accomodating attitude towards the Nicaraguan Canal project. The regret rather is that the Foreign Office waited until November to do what might have been done with greater effect last March. Instead, it then seemed to be hugging small profits, and grudging concessions as a petty trader, instead of realizing the fact that in big businesses, a concession with no apparent equivalent often proves the best of bargains.

One small discordant note comes from Anglo-Canadian circles, where it is complained that Great Britain has concluded a treaty, vitally concerning the future of her junior American partner, that is Canada, without apparetnly taking the trouble to ask that partner's views. The new Imperialism, say these critics, has still a good deal of sham about it, if before annulling the Clayton-Bulwer treaty the views of the Canadian ministers were not not ascertained and fullye considered. "Downing street," says one journal, is very much in the sixties. It will take a colonial whirlwind to alter its ways."

AMERICAN COMPETITION.

Acute depression prevails in Northampton, Leicester, and Kettering, the principal centres of the English shoe trade. American competition is the cause in Northampton. Great numbers of working people are living on the verge of starvation. Work people and manufacturers alike express the belief that the people who bought American shoes this year will repeat their orders next season. The Daily Mail this morning makes a feature of a column story with the caption: "Northampton's distress; acute depression due to American competition." The writer draws a gloomy picture of the poverty of the workmen in this English shoemaking centre. The trade union leaders, the writer says, declare that the men must be paid better wages and treated differently in order to be able to compete with the Americans.

THE LIVERPOOL BANK ROBBER.

Goudie, who defrauded the Bank of Liverpool of £170,000, is still at large. Close enquiries are being made by the police among betting men in both Liverpool and London. Whether or not Goudie has been assisted in his escape and is now being hidden by his betting friends, is a matter upon which the police are seriously in doubt.

Details of the remarkable frauds are coming out slowly. The system by which Goudie manipulated ledgers and concealed an embezzlement of so large an amount, cannot be explained by the officials until every accomplice is under arrest. Bank bookkeeping in England, is a maze of red tape, with daily checks and balances, which do not always operate as safeguards.

THE SULTAN IS HARD UP.

Never has the Turkish Government been in such financial straits as at the present time. It is impossible to see how the expenses of the Ramazan and Bairam, due in December and January and involving £360,000 can be met. The Ottoman Bank utterly refuses to make any more advances and the penury is so acute that even the troops in many of the provinces are unpaid. The consequence is that there have been mutinies in several districts. Hostile demonstrations here recently have only been quieted by the authorities hastily scraping together a few thousand piastres as something on account. The discontent in the army forms the real danger of the situation.

ROYAL VISIT TO LONDON.

Satisfactory headway is being made with the many preliminaries incidental to the visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales to the Guildhall on Thursday week. Lord Salisbury, Mr. Chamberlain and other members of the Government have promised to attend. One of the toasts will be, "Our Colonial Empire," and in view of the dissatisfaction caused by the absence of colonial representatives from the Guildhall banquet on Lord Mayor's Day, it has been deemed advisable to send invitations to the Agents-General on this occasion.

RIOTING IN GALWAY.

Serious rioting followed the illuminations at Galway in honor of the election of Col. Arthur Lynch to Parliament. The Nationalists paraded the town, wrecking the doors and windows off the houses of Unionists and Nationalists suspected of voting for the defeated candidate, Horace Plunkett. The police had difficulty in clearing the streets. Vigorous baton charges were met by a shower off paving stones which resulted in numbers being injured. A large force of extra constabulary has been drafted to Galway.

SMALLPOX SPREADING IN MONTREAL DISTRICT

THREE NEW CASES IN THE CITY

The Number in the Contagious Disease Hospital Reaches Fourteen—A Sign Removed by Order.

Montreal, Nov. 27.—The spread of smallpox still continues in all parts of the province. Ste. Cunegonde is the latest place to report a case. A workman in the Montreal Rolling Mills was to-day discovered to be suffering from the disease. This will necessitate the immediate vaccination of all the employees of the mills, and other measures of precaution to prevent the spread of the disease.

The school in the village of Clairvaux, in the parish of St. Simon, Bagot county, has been closed on account of the illness from smallpox of one of the pupils. All the pupils will have to be vaccinated at once, the school will be completely disinfected and kept closed for sixteen days.

The latest reports at the office of the Provincial Board of Health show that the following places have been infected: The parish of St. Laurent, which adjoins St. Denis ward; St. Marcil, Richelieu, Ste. Louise, L'Islet County; Yamaska; Shawenegan Falls.

Dr. Elzear Pelletier, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, stated to-day that if the people would only resort to vaccination the disease would be completely stamped out within a month. The disease is of such a mild form that not a single case has been found where it has been taken by any one who was previously vaccinated. It has become virulent in many sections of the United States and may become so here if vaccination is not generally resorted to at once. Glycerinated vaccine, recommended by the board, has not been found to have had evil results in any case.

SMALLPOX IN THE CITY.

Since Saturday there has been three more cases of smallpox. The patients contracted the disease in outside places. They were promptly removed to the Civic Hospital, and the places where they had been living were quarantined. The names of the patients, etc., are: Charles Phaneuf, living on St. Dominique street. He came from St. Hyacinthe a week ago. Hector Fournier, a clerk, living on Notre Dame street, and Adelarde, living on St. Germain street.

Yesterday word was brought to Dr. Laberge that a drug store on St. Denis street had a big sign out with the following words: "Be prepared for compulsory vaccination." He at once gave words to have the sign taken down, which was done. The party who had put out the sign explained he had done so simply to sell his vaccine. Dr. Laberge pointed out, however, that the sign might easily give rise to much trouble.

There are now fourteen cases in the Smallpox Hospital. Each patient is doing very well. The disease is of a very mild type.

CANADA'S OFFER NOW ACCEPTED

COLONEL EVANS SENT FOR

He Will Leave Winnipeg to Ottawa at Once to Commence the Arrangements Necessary for Raising a Force

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 27.— Lord Minto has received from the Imperial authorities the official acceptance of Canada's offer to recruit a mounted regiment for South Africa, and has communicated it to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. A Cabinet Council has been summoned for this afternoon, at the conclusion of which a communication respecting the arrangements authorized will be made to the press.

In the meantime, Col. T. D. Evans has been telegraphed to at Winnipeg to come on at once to Ottawa, presumably to consult with the Minister of Militia respecting the selection of his officers, the work of recruiting, outfitting, mobilization and so forth.

A FEW DIRECTIONS.

The Militia Department would be glad to have it generally known that it is useless for applications to serve in the regiment to be sent to the department. All applicants should address to the district officer commanding, the district to which they belong, and thus save time. Numerous applications are coming in by every mail, and nothing can be done with them at the department, except to refer them to the proper quarters, and it has been found necessary in view of the heavy correspondence to confine replies merely to acknowledgments of letters received, and this only in the case of officers.

A REMARKABLE SERMON

The British are Denounced in President Roosevelt's Church

Washington, D.C., Nov. 27.—There was delivered in President Roosevelt's church, Sunday, the most remarkable tirade against the British. The sermon was preached by Rev. Herman Vanbroek Huysen, chaplain of the Transvaal Volksraad, who might have been expected to preach such a sermon, but the wonder is that he was invited to preach at all in a church where the President of the United States worships.

"The British army is hiding behind the skirts of our women and children," this preacher said, "and we have nothing left now to fight for except the independence of our country."

"May their hearts not turn to money and dollars," he said of American people, in his prayer. "May they see that which is right and not look with favor upon the nation murdering our women and children."

MAN SHE AIDED LEFT HER TO DROWN

Story of Heartlessness and Cowardice

HE REFUSED TO AID HER

Taff Stood on the Embankment and Told Her He Was Anxious to Catch the Train and Had no Time to Waste

Port, Arthur, Nov. 27.— A story of cowardice and heartlessness comes from Mokoman, on the Canadian Northern Railway. Mrs. Hunter, the wife of a section foreman on the railroad, was almost drowned in front of the eyes of a man she had risked her life to save, and he stood calmly by and saw her go down to what seemed certain death in the icy waters of the Kaministiquia River.

Mokoman, Mrs. Hunter's home, is diagonally across from the C.P.R. station at Kaministiquia, and about a mile or so east with the Kaministiquia River between. The river flows swift but smooth at Kaministiquia, and for a mile or so eastward to where the Mokoman falls and rapids break the water into a foaming, swirling, churning mass.

FERRIED HIM ACROSS.

To Mokoman one day last week went a picture agent named Taff to deliver pictures to Mrs. Hunter. It was one o'clock, and Taff wanted to get back to Kaministiquia to catch the C. P.R. "local" for Fort William. One can go by land from Mokoman to Kaministiquia by going around the bend of the river and crossing the bridge above the station. The district is three miles. The picture man was afraid he would not be able to make the distance, or he was too lazy to walk. At any rate, he induced Mrs. Hunter to ferry him across in a canoe. Mrs. Hunter had never been in a canoe, nevertheless they made the trip across and Taff was landed in safely. Turning the canoe about. Mrs. Hunter started for home, but had dipped the paddle not more than three, or four times when the canoe tipped over.

REFUSED TO AID HER.

Clinging to the side of the craft, she screamed for assistance. Taff, standing on the bank, coolly informed her that he was very anxious to catch the train and hadn't time to waste, besides which he would get his clothes wet if he essayed to help her. He made no move to save her. As the little boat with its helpless human cargo drifted swiftly down the stream toward the fall and rapids. Taff turned his back and proceeded to Kaministiquia. The accident occurred between one and two o'clock, and from that time until after five o'cloc kMrs. Hunter was tossing about in the icy water or lying on a pile of logs and stones by the shore where the waters, even in their anger more merciful than the man, had thrown her.

DELAYED TO REPORT ACCIDENT.

Taff in the meantime arrived at Kaministiquia, where he waited for over a half hour for the train he was so anxious to catch, but said nothing there about the accident. On the train, as it passed Mokoman station he said to Conductor McKinzie, "I guess the woman who lives there is drowned." In reply to the conductor Taff told what had occurred. He tried to exonerate himself by explaining his anxiety to catch the train, and also that he did not want to get his clothes wet. He told the conductor that he "could hear her squealing" as she went down the river out of sight. Mr. Hunter and the section gang heard the cries of his wife, but paid no attention to them, as they thought they were made by children from Kaministiquia at play.

Mrs. Hunter recovered consciousness early in the evening and made her way home unassisted.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

Pledges Support to Sugar Beet Industry and Approves of Public Meeting

The electric lights went out and the Council Chamber was in total darkness at about 8 o'clock last night, when the Board of Trade was to meet. About a dozen members assembled, however, and adjournment was made to the Police Court room, where a short meeting was held.

The President Mr. D. W. Dumble, announced as one matter for consideration an invitation to be represented at the meeting of Board of Trade in Ottawa early in 1902 for the purpose of considering the question of closer trade relations between the mother country and the colonies. There is to be a conference of colonial premiers in London at the time of the coronation ceremonies. It is felt that Sir Wilfred Laurier should carry with him to that conference a knowledge of the views of the leading commercial bodies of the Dominion.

It was decided that a larger representation should deal with so large a question and the matter was laid over.

The beet sugar question was taken up and discussed in an informal fashion.

Mr. Lawson Kennedy was asked to speak in behalf of the farmers. He thought the chief difficulty would be to get the farmers started growing beets and the first step was to get a guarantee from them. That was the difficulty in Michigan when the state had only three factories, now, however, it has 17, and they are supplied with beets. Land has increased in value from $25 to as high as $125 per acre in that state since the farmers began raising sugar beets. During the season trains are run from the towns carrying boys and girls to help in the beet fields.

Mayor Denne was present and gave an account of the steps he had taken in regard to the joint meeting of the Town and County Councils, Ashburnham Council and Board of Trade to be held next Tuesday.

On motion Mr. Robert Fair it was resolved that the Board approves the action of the Mayor in calling this joint meeting and pledges its support to an undertaking that must eventually result in great benefit to the town.

MANY KILLED IN AN EXPLOSION

Detroit Boiler Exploded Yesterday with Disastrous Results

ABOUT 100 MEN ARE BURIED

Several Bodies Recovered—36 Taken to Hospital, Some of Whom Have Died—Details of Wreck

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27.— The boiler of the Pentherby Injector Company, 7th and Abbatt streets, exploded at 9.15, and from 75 to 100 men are buried in the ruins. Three bodies have been recovered. Thirty-six victims have been taken to various hospitals. Off these several have died. Financial loss, $150,000. The ruins are still laboring. Park laborers and other city employers are assisting in the search, and the efforts to quench the flames. The foremen of the works has set men at digging under the elevator shaft, where he says 25 men are buried. The factory was composed of two buildings, separated by a 16-foot alley. The explosion took place in the rear structure, known as the mechanical building. This building, a three-story brick, 64 by 100 feet in size, was wrecked. The fire which followed destroyed the adjoining building. O. W. Johnson, president of the company, says he apprehends that the cause of the explosion will never be known, as the engineer, fireman and their assistants are all buried in the ruins.

Three others of the injured taken to the Emergency Hospital have died within the last half hour. Two other bodies are in sight in the ruins. The wrecked building is burning fiercely underneath, and it is improbable that ayn of those buried in the ruins are alive. Firemen and a large gang of Board of Works employes are working on the ruins.

The explosion demolished the three storey building in which it was located. Inside the structure some 60 emphoyes were at work. More than half of these were more or less seriously injured, and at least three were killed.

The rear or Mechanical building was 64 by 100 feet in size. It was separated from the large structure adjoining by a 16-foot alley. The mechanical building was instantly destroyed, and a portion of the wall of the other one blown in. No one in the latter building was seriously hurt, excepting one girl, Effie Davis.

The dead thus far ascertained are: Samuel Reilly, John Frey, tester; fireman, new employe, name unknown; Richard Ryan and two unidentified. The injured number 37 employed. The aged engineer of the plant was gotten out of the ruin at 11.00 and taken to Grace Hospital. He was too badly hurt to talk. The foreman of the works asserts that several bodies will yet be taken out from near the spot at which the engineer was found. Several employes are missing. The property loss is estimated at $150,000; party insured.

YUKON OFFICIALS SEEK AID TO AVERT A REVOLT

A Party of Them Arrive at Chicago on Their Way to Ottawa with this Object

LORD MINTO WILL BE ASKED FOR TROOPS

Conspirators Have a Force of 1,500 Men, and Aim to Make Dawson the Capital of a Republic

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Overland through Alaska, to the sea by water, to Seattle and through the United States on their way to Ottawa, officials of the Yukon are hurrying to plead at the Canadian capital for help to put down the rebellion threatened by the members of the Order of the Midnight Sun. Three of these officials have arrived at Chicago and others are on the way. That serious trouble is imminent in the far Northwest is candidly admitted by three members of the Yukon Department of Public Works who are in consultation at the Palmer House with local capitalists who have interests in that country. The men are D. M. R. Minard, accountant; J. C. Tache, resident engineer, and P. B. Mercier, assistant engineer. President H. S. Graves of the White Pass and Yukon Railroad Company was among those who talked over the situation with the Yukon officials. The White Pass and Yukon Railway is owned largely by American capital, its main office being in Chicago. A determined, united effort by a band of at least 1,500 men, who have been laying plans for nearly a year, is the plot as described by the officials, to establish an independent Government. Seven of the men are Americans, and they have grievances and the ability to set them forth in convincing style. They believe they have power to secure by force the rights which they declare have been denied them. Governor-General Minto, of Canada, is to be asked to send troops to the scene and at least to double the Mounted Police.

CONSULT AT OTTAWA.

Mr. Minard, the leader of the party of officials, said:—"We expect to proceed to Ottawa at once and will have a consultation with the high Government authorities about conditions in the Territory. This trouble may assume an international phase because so many members of the secret military order are Americans and we cannot try them for treason. The Mounted Police have always been competent heretofore to take care of all disorderly characters in the Territory, but this affair is of too serious a nature to be handled by police. Arms and ammunition, we are told, have been secreted in great quantities. Provisions have been cached at various strategetic points this side of White Horse, which is the railway terminus and beyond. Dawson was to be the capital of the Republic. The conspirators depended on aid from Americans throughout Alaska, and circulated copies of grievances with the grand seal of the organization in White Horse, Dawson, Skagway, Hootalinqua, and Circle City. Skagway is in American territory?"

THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB

Essay on Charles Lamb by Mr. Sherriff Hall

A pleasant evening was in store for those who attended the regular meeting of the Fortnightly Club at the Y.M.C.A. last evening. The chair was taken by the Vice-President, Mr. J. Jeffries. After a short musical program, comprising a piano solo by Miss G. Dennistoun, and a vocal selection by Mrs. Seward, the President, Mr. Sheriff Hall, read an able essay on the Life and Works of Charles Lamb. He described in eloquent terms his early difficulties, inability to receive a college education, his poverty, and his self-sacrifice throughout life to provide for his afflicted sister. Many well-chosen and illustrated extracts from the works of Lamb and from his correspondence with his friend Coleridge were introduced into the essay, and served to bring before the hearers the strongest evidence of the genius and character of the author.

At the close of the reading the chairman complimented Mr. Hall on his able handling of the subject and a vote of thanks was heartily tendered him.

The meeting dispersed after the singing of the National Anthem.

At the next meeting of the club, it is expected that a lecture will be delivered by the Hon. David Mills.

A MIDNIGHT BLAZE

House Owned by R. Jones, Harvey St. Destroyed

Fire broke out in the kitchen of a frame house on Harvey street, about 1 o'clock this morning, owned and occupied by Mr. Robt. Jones, tinsmith. The anchor ice prevented the supply of water, and the house and contents were totally destroyed. The fire spread so rapidly through the building that the family had barely time to escape in their night robes.

The house adjoining belonged to Mr. F. J. Jameson, and occupied by Mr. Robt. Mein, was also totally destroyed. The pumps at the water house were got to work and the fire was soon under control.

Mr. Jones' loss will probably be in the neighborhood of $1500 and understood to be covered by insurance. Mr. Jameson's loss is also covered by insurance. Mr. Mein's household effects are partly covered by insurance.

When it was found that the waterworks was not working the fire engine was taken to the Dickson raceway and water secured. It was fortunate there was no wind or a great conflagration would have undoubtedly taken place.

Hockey Meeting

A very enthusiastic crowd of hockeyists gathered at the rink parlors last night at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club. The President H. R. H. Kenner was in the chair, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. The Secretary's report which, although it did not show a very large cash balance, was very satisfactory in every respect as it showed a new set of goal nets and entire new outfit for the Colts. This report which showed that something over $1300.00 had been handled during the past year and contained a detailed statement of receipts and expenditures, was referred to the auditors, Messrs. McCabe and Scott, who were appointed by the President with the approval of the members present.

The President then delivered the following address:

Gentlemen,—In presenting the secretary treasurers report for the season 1900—01 it gives me pleasure to be able to say that the season just passed has been one of the most successful in the history of the club. The membership and receipts show an increase; interest was not wanting throughout the season and to repay us for our trouble a championship was awarded us.

Three teams entered in the O.H.A., two of them competed the season; the seniors dropped out after one game; the intermediate fought their way to the semi-finals and lost there to Port Hope after a couple of close games; but to the juniors fell the honors of landing a championship. One of the most gratifying features of their success is the fact that last year's junior series was the strongest and most closely contested in the history of the O.H.A.

The history of the season is too momentous to warrant us in giving it in detail; but a short sketch would not be out of place. Cobourg and Belleville were the first to fall an easy prey, next in turn came the Frontenacs, followed by Barrie, all of whom were very easily defeated. This put our boys in the finals against Stratford. Home and Home games were secured, first game here everybody expected a very close game, but instead the Colts obtained a lead of 12 goals. This won the championship but the juniors wanted more. Their ambition was to beat last year's champions on their own ice and win out with a clean record. This they would certainly have accomplished had they not had a misfortune which forced them to play six men against seven. As a result they lost the game but won the round by five goals.

Just a word as to the finances. Owing to the heavy drains combined with a couple of unfortunate undertakings, we consider we are fortunate in closing the season with a balance of [illegible]. But in addition to this modest cash balance we have on hand a set of goal nets, a complete new outfit for the Colts, and a considerable amount of club stationery, all of which we purchased last season.

Before closing, we must mention one of the most enjoyable features of the season, the complimentary banquet to the champions, tendered by the club. At the banquet the opportunity was taken to present each member of the team with a gold locket as a souvenir of a most successful season. A little later the boys received a championship medal from the O.H.A.

In closing I wish to say that the success of the season was due in a great measure to the hearty support of the executive and other members of the club, to the honest hard work of the members of the team and the untiring efforts of our excellent trainer "The King". Long live the King.

The only communication of any importance which was received was a circular from Newmarket Hockey Club informing them that Mr. Simpson was appointed delegate to the O.H.A., and asking for credentials. This matter was referred to the delegates.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Patrons & Patronesses; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McAllister, Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hatton.

Hon President, Dr. Bradd; President, H. R. H. Kenner; Auditors, R. F. McWilliams, R. Watt.

Vice-President F. Matthews.

Sec. Treas. W. McPherson; Executive McCabe, Stratton, Kerr, Rush and Wasson; Chaplain, W. L. Armitage Representative to O.H.O. F. D. Kerr.

After the erection of officers it was recommended that Mr. Buchanan, who by his hard work and great influence, proved of the highest value to the club last year, be appointed representative to the O.H.A. This gave rise to considerable discussion and it was decided to nominate Mr. Buchanan for office in the O.H.A. A hearty vote of thanks was also tendered Mr. Buchanan.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to last years executive, to which Messrs. Kenner and McPherson replied and thanked the club for their support. A vote of thanks was also tendered to Mr. Angus McIntosh, the efficient and obliging caretaker of the rink, after which the meeting adjourned.

WEDDING BELLS

A very pretty wedding was celebrated last night at the residence of the bride's father, 81 Wescott street, when Miss Florence Bacon was united in the sacred bonds of matrimony to Mr. Butcher, an employe of the C.G.E. works. Mr. Wm. Peacock officiated as best man, while the bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Mildred Bacon, and three-year-old Mendell Braund, the latter carrying the wedding ring in a basket. Mr. Potter performed the ceremony in the presence of about 60 friends and relatives. Mr. Butcher is secretary of the Salvation Army Sunday school. The presents were very numerous and costly and testified to the high esteem in which the bride and groom are held by their many friends.— The Times extends its congratulations.

ELECTROCUTION

A protest against electrocution comes from a Frenchman, M. Alexander Hepp, in the Figaro. He speaks of "this privacy with its shame-faced air," "the sickening idea of the silent, secret, execution," "the right to kill exercising itself with the refinement of cruelty, and calling in to do its work the greatest invention and the finest fruits of science." Prof. Broca, in an interview apropos of the execution of Czolgosz, relates his own sensations when he was electrocuted, or nearly so, by accident. He was performing experiments with a large-sized induction coil, and was holding two large electrodes when he was thrown violently upon the floor. Remembering the experiments of certain vivisectors, he thought to himself:—"My heart is going to stop beating. I am a lost man." He tried to call his assistant, but a hoarse cry was all he could utter. "I seemed to lose the feeling that I had hands and arms, the walls of the room seemed to lean over toward the right, and to turn green, and I fainted." The assistant cut the wires, and Prof. Broca slowly came to "I walked a few steps and experienced a strange feeling as if my head and legs alone existed. I tried to move my arms, but they were utterly paralyzed. My assistant pinched me hard. I felt nothing on my arm, but the tips of my fingers were most sensitive. I touched an iron ruler which seemed to me to be very cold, and I drew away my finger. About a quarter of an hour later I could move my fingers, and with much effort I was able to write a line. I walked about but was very soon winded. I went home, and was able to climb very slowly up to the fifth floor. A few hours later my heart beat very irregularly and I thought I should collapse. A couple of days later no trace of anything was left."

PROMINENT EDUCATIONALISTS

"I would be glad if the Canadian Housekeeper, a woman's magazine devoted to home life, were widely circulated and generally read. I know it is doing an educational work of the highest value." These are the words of Hon. R. Harcourt, Ontario Minister of Education, while other prominent educationalists such as John Millar, Ontario Deputy Minister of Education; Mrs. E. Rigby, Principal St. Hilda's Ladies College, and Lady Taylor, President National Council of Women, Toronto; Prof. Jas. Robertson, Dominion Commissioner of Dairying, Ottawa; Mrs. H. A. Boomer, Vice-President National Council of Women, and Mrs. May Thornley, ex-President W. C. T. U., London, join in their praise of the Canadian Housekeeper, the only culinary and strictly home magazine in Canada. The Thanksgiving Number has so many good articles on housekeeping and the preparation of the Thanksgiving feast that it can be safely called a "Complete Cook Book." If you prepare your dinner according to the instructions given, you will have a meal which you will be sure to relish. It teaches the art of good cooking and economical living, and the departments on Health, Decoration, Flowers and Household Helps, are proving very beneficial. Those subscribing now receive the fine Christmas number and special engravings of "Mother and Child," from the studio, New York; "More, Grandpa;" and the 16-color supplement, "Fruit and Flowers." At $1 per annum (10 cents per copy) this magazine should be in every home. Canadian Housekeeper Pub. Co., Toronto.

Like a Child.

A noteworthy result of the use of that splendid remedy, Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, is the feeling of youth and buoyancy experienced as soon as the pepsin and diastase contained in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets begin to act on the food.

The blood is very soon improved in quality on using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets because instead of being fed by the product of a weak, sour, enfeebled stomach, the full nourishment of perfectly digested food goes to make it up.

The whole body soon feels the influence of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets because this rich, new blood is immediately carried to every muscle and nerve, building up the wasted places and toning up the entire system.

The mind and mental condition soon become fresh and wholesome because the mind takes its tone from the body. If the body is healthy, we are happy in spite of trouble. If we are happy in spite of trouble and our bodies are healthy, we feel young, for children are the happiest and healthiest of mankind as a general rule.

This is what Mrs. Susan Coome of Strathroy means when she says she feels like a child again owing to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. She writes:

"I have been troubled with Dyspepsia and Sour Stomach for fifteen years. After every hearty meal I would suffer so that I grew almost afraid to eat. I would often have to lie down after meals, and as for pastry of any kind, I couldn't touch it. Nothing I ate would digest. I tried different remedies, but got no relief. I heard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and got some to try. They cured me. I can eat anything now without the least fear. I feel like a child again. You are welcome to publish this letter that others may learn of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and find health again as I did."

ENNISMORE.

A pleasing event took place in Ennismore on Nov. 12, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. James Harrington, when her daughter, Miss Bridget, became the life partner of Mr. M. O'Connor, of the same township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McColl, in the presence of only a few of the most intimate friends of the contracting parties. The bride was attended by Miss Katie Harrington, her sister, and Mr. Wm. Hickson performed the duties of groomsman.

"I wrote Dr. Pierce regarding my case, and received a prompt reply, free."

"I endured nearly four years of suffering," writes Mrs. J. L. Myers, of Washington, W. Va., "caused principally from improper medical attention after the birth of a child, and female weakness, resulting in a complication of diseases. Had a terrible cough and an incessant pain and soreness in lungs. Was reduced in flesh from 184 pounds to about 100 pounds in eighteen months. I had no appetite, and became so weak and nervous I could scarcely sit up. I doctored with our home physicians for two years with no benefit, I was finally induced to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. I wrote to Doctor Pierce regarding my case, and received a prompt reply, free, advising the proper medicines for my case. After taking four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and four of his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' three doses each day, also taking one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed and some of his 'Pellets,' I ceased coughing, and am now enjoying splendid health and have gained thirty-five pounds in weight. I again feel like my former self, thanks to Dr. Pierce and his great medicines."

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter FREE. All correspondence sacredly confidential and all womanly confidences guarded by strict professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia ave., Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Five boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, sustaining no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Mann, Martin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took [illegible] boxes. That is a year ago. I have [illegible] a symptom since. James H. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. H. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not cure.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

"MATT."

Satisfied that he did not breathe, he climbed up the path and rejoined his trembling companion. They passed out of the place, hurriedly replacing the trap-door, and piled on sand and stones.

"There!" said Monk, with a wild smile on his deadly pale face. "He won't trouble either of us again. Come, come!"

And he strode hastily away, followed by William Jones, leaving the young man of the Caravan in the subterranean tomb.

CHAPTER XIII.

William Jones is Serious.

The two men walked together through the darkness as far as the door of William Jones's hut; then they parted. Mr. Monk struck across the sand-hills toward his own home, while Jones entered the door of his cabin.

He would fain have found that cabin empty, for the memory of the last scene in the cave was still upon him and made him as nervous as a child. But the old man was there, and wide awake, and evidently pleased at his son's return.

"Where have you been, William dear?" said he. The question was innocent enough in itself, but it was full of hidden meaning for William Jones.

"Where have I been?" he repeated; "at work, to be sure!"

The tone of his reply startled the old man. He looked up, and saw to his amazement that William was as white as a ghost, and trembling violently.

"What's the matter, William dear?" he asked, eagerly. "Have you seen a wreck, my son?"

"No, I ain't!" responded his son, violently; "and look ye now, old 'un, you just be quiet, and let me alone, that's all."

The old man, knowing his son's temper, did as he was told, and William continued to potter aimlessly about the room. He was certainly trembling very much, and was almost overcome with a nervousness for which he himself could not account. For he was no coward. To get possession of a prize on the high seas he would have faced a storm which might well make brave men tremble, not to mention that he had on more than one occasion humanely hastened the end of shipwrecked sailors, whom he had found and pillaged on the shore. After these acts he had been able to sleep the sleep of virtue without being haunted by dead men's eyes. But now the case was different. He had not to deal with a victim without friends, a man whose body, described as that of a "shipwrecked mariner," could be buried and forgotten without more ado. In all probability there would this time be a hue and cry, and William Jones trembled lest his share in the ghastly business might ultimately be discovered.

True, he was not actually the culprit, and so, even at the worst, he might escape the gallows; but to a man of his sensitive and affectionate nature the thought of transportation was not pleasant. It was this that made him nervous,— this that made him start and tremble at every sound.

Presently a thought struck him.

"Where's Matt?" he asked.

"Don't know, William dear; she ain't been here for hours and hours. May be she's on the shore."

"May be she is —I'll go and have a look," returned William.

It was ten o'clock when he returned; he was still pale and drenched to the skin. The old man was dosing beside the fire, and alone.

"Where's Matt?" asked William again.

William Jones did look a little uneasy this time, and it is but due to him to confess that his uneasiness was caused by Matt's prolonged absence. Erratic as she was in her movements, she had not been accustomed to staying out so late, especially on the night when the rain was pouring, and not a glimmer of star or moon to be seen.

"Wonder what she's a-doin' of?" said William; "suppose I'd best wait for her. Here, old man, you go to bed, d'ye hear —you ain't wanted anyhow."

Hour after hour passed, and Matt did not come. William Jones began to dose by the fire —then he sunk into a heavy sleep.

He awoke with a start and found that it was broad daylight. The fire was out, the rain had ceased to fall, and the morning sun was creeping in at the windows. He looked around, and saw that he was still alone. He went into Matt's room — it was empty. She had not returned.

He was now filled with a vague uneasiness. He made up a bit of fire, and was about to issue forth again in search of the truant, when all further trouble was saved him —the door opened, and Matt herself appeared.

She seemed almost as much disturbed as William Jones himself. Her face was very pale, her hair wild, her dress in great disorder. She started on seeing him; then, assuming rather a devil-may-care look, she lounged in.

"You're up early, William Jones," she said.

"Yes, I am up early," he replied, gruffly; "'cause why? —'cause I ain't been to bed. And where have you been?— just you tell me that."

"Why —I've been out of course!" returned the girl defiantly.

"That won't do, Matt," returned William Jones. "Come, you'll just tell me where you've been. You ain't been out all night for nothing."

The girl gave him a look half of defiance, half of curiosity; then she threw herself down, rather than sat, upon a chair.

"I'm tired, I am," she said; "and hungry and cold!"

"Will you tell me where you've been, Matt?" cried William Jones, trembling with suspicious alarm.

"'Course I will, if you keep quiet," said the girl in answer. "There ain't much to tell neither. I were away along to Peacrees when the heavy rain came on; then I lay down behind a haystack and fell asleep, and when I woke up it was daylight, and I come home."

William Jones looked at her steadfastly and long; then, as if satisfied, he turned away.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Caravan Disappears.

Several days passed away, during which William Jones showed a strange and significant affection for his own fireside. He went out a little in the sunlight; but directly night came he locked and barricaded the door as if against thieves, and declined, on any inducement, to cross the threshold.

For William Jones was genuinely afraid; his hereditary calm of mind was shaken, not so much with horror at a murderous deed, as with consternation that his life-long secret had been discovered by one man, and might, sooner or later, be discovered by others. He did not put implicit faith even in Monk; it was his nature to trust nobody where money was concerned.

As to returning back to the cave until he had quite recovered his equanimity, that was out of the question. Even by daylight he avoided the spot with a holy horror. Only in his dreams, which were dark and troubled, did he visit it —to see the face of the murdered man in the darkness, and the hand of the murdered man pointing at him with cold decaying finger.

The day after the murder he had been greatly unsettled by a visit from Tim Linney, who demanded news of his master, and said that he had not returned to the caravan all night.

"Ain't you well, William Jones?" Matt asked.

"I'm well enough —I am."

"It's queer, ain't it, that the painter chap never came home?"

"How should I know?" growled William. "May be he's gone back to where he come from."

"Or may be he's drownded? Or may be summat else has happened to him?" suggested Matt.

"Never you mind him, my gal. He's all right, never fear. And if he ain't, it's no affair o' yours, or mine neither. You go along out and play."

Matt went out as directed, and it was some hours before she returned. She found her guardian seated in his old place by the fire, looking at vacancy. He started violently as she entered, and made a clutch at the rude piece of ship's iron which served as a poker.

"Be it you, Matt? Lor, how you startled me! I were—I were— taking a doze."

"I've been up yonder," said Matt.

"Up where?"

"Up to the painter chap's cart. He ain't come back, and the man is searchin' for him all up and down the place."

Fortunately it was very dark, so that she could not see the expression of her hearer's face. She walked to the fireplace, and, taking a box of lucifers from a ledge, began to procure a light, with the view of igniting the rushlight fixed to the table. But in a moment William blew out the match and snatched the box from her.

"What are you doin' of?" he cried. Wasting the matches, as if they cost nowt. You'll come to the workus afore you're done."

The days passed, and there was no news of the absent man. Every day Matt went up to the Caravan to make inquiries. At last, one afternoon, she returned, looking greatly troubled; her eyes were red, too, as if she had been crying.

"Don't you tell no lies. You've heerd summat! Stop! What's that there under your arm?"

All at once he perceived that she carried a large roll of something wrapped in brown paper. He took it from her, and opened it nervously. It was the crayon portrait of herself executed by the defunct artist.

"Tim."

"Who's he?"

"Him as come looking arter his master. The painter chap ain't found; and now Tim's goin' away in the cart to tell his friends. And he give me this— my pictur'; he gave me it to keep. His master said I were to have it; and I mean to keep it now he's dead!"

William Jones handed back the picture, and seemed relieved, indeed, when it was out of his hands.

"Dead?" he muttered, not meeting Matt's eyes, but looking right out to sea. "Who told you he were dead?"

Matt did not reply, but gazed at William so long and so significantly that the good man, conscious of her scrutiny, turned and plunged into the darkness of his dwelling.

An hour later a loud voice summoned him forth. He went to the door, and there was Monk, of Monkshurst. It was the first time they had met since they parted on the night of the murder. Monk was dressed in a dark summer suit, and looked unusually spick and span.

"Where's the girl?" he cried, after a whispered colloquy of some minutes. "Matt, where are you?"

In answer to the call Matt appeared at the door. No sooner did she perceive Monk than she trembled violently, and went very pale.

"Come here, Matt," he said, with an insinuating smile. "See! I've brought something for you — something pretty for you to wear."

As he spoke he drew from his waistcoat pocket a small gold ring, set with turquois stones. But Matt still trembled, and shrunk away.

"I don't want it!— I shan't wear it," she cried.

"Nonsense, Matt!" said Monk. "Why, it's a thing fit for a lady. Come, let me put it on your finger."

So great seemed her agitation, so deep her dread of him, that she could not stir; so that when he approached, laughing, and caught her round the waist, he slipped the ring on her finger before she could resist. But it only remained there a moment. With a quick, sharp cry, she tore herself free, and, taking the ring off, threw it right away from her upon the sand. Then, with a wild gesture of fear and loathing, she rushed into the cottage.

"I dunno. She's never been the same since— since the painter chap went missing. I'm afeard he turned the gal's head."

"He'll turn no more heads," muttered Monk under his breath; he added aloud and with decision, "There must be an end to this. She must be married to me at once."

"Do you mean it, master? When you spoke on it fust I thought you was joking."

"Then you were a fool for your pains. She's old enough, and bold enough, and vixenish enough; but I'll tame her. I tell you there must be no more delay. My mind's made up, and I'll wait no longer."

Sinking their voices they continued to talk together for some time. Now Matt was crouching close to the threshold, and had heard every word of the above conversation, and much that followed it. When Monk walked away and disappeared, leaving William Jones ruminant at the broken gate, she suddenly reappeared.

Curiously enough all her excitement had departed. Instead of weeping or protesting, she looked at William Jones— and laughed.

Monk had left his horse at the coast-guard station. Remounting, he rode rapidly away through the sand-hills in the direction of the lake. As he approached the old encampment, he saw that the Caravan had gone.

He rode on thoughtfully till he gained the highway, when he put his horse into a rapid trot. Just before he gained the gate and avenue near to which he had first encountered Brinkley, he saw the Caravan before him on the dusty road.

He hesitated for a moment; then hurried rapidly forward, and, arriving close to the vehicle, saw the Irishman's head looking round at him from the driver's seat. He beckoned, and Tim pulled up.

"Has your master returned? I am informed that he has been missing for some days."

Tim shook his head very dolefully.

"No, sor; sorra sight have I seen of him for three days and three nights. I'm going back wid the baste and the house to tell his friends the bad news. May be it's making fun of me he is, and I'll find him somewhere on the road."

"I hope you will," said Monk, sympathetically. "I think— hum— it is quite possible he has, as you suggest, wandered homeward. Good-day to you."

So saying, Monk turned off by the gate which they had just reached, and rode away up to the avenue.

Tim looked after him till he disappeared. Then the same curious change came over him which had come over Matt after she had been listening to the colloquy between Monk and William Jones.

He laughed!

CHAPTER XV.

A Bridal Party and a Little Surprise.

A week passed away. The shadow of the caravan no longer fell on the green meadow by the lake, and the struggling population of Aberglyn, unsuspicious of foul play, had already forgotten both the caravan and the owner.

And if facts were to be taken into consideration in estimating the extent of her memory, Matt too had forgotten. It was common talk now that she, the grammarless castaway the neglected protegee of William Jones, was to be married to the master of the great house! Nay, the very day was fixed; and that very day was only two sunrises distant and Monk of Monkshurst, had in his pocket a special license, which he had procured, at an expenditure of five pounds, from London.

Doubtless, in any more populous locality the affair would have occasioned no little scandal, and many ominous shakings of the head, but the inhabitants were few and far between, and had little or no time for idle gossiping. The coast-guardsmen and their wives were the only individuals who exhibited any interest, and even their excitement was faint and evanescent, like the movements of a fish in a shallow and unwholesome pool.

But the really extraordinary part of the whole affair was the conduct of Matt herself. Apparently quite cured of her former repugnance to a union with Monk, she made no objection whatever to the performance of the ceremony, and laughed merrily when she was informed that the day was fixed. Monk, in his grim taciturn way, was jubilant. He came to and fro constantly, and assumed the manners of a lover. Had he been less bent on one particular object two things might have struck him as curious:— (1) That Matt, though she had consented to marry him steadfastly refused to wear his ring or accept any other presents; and (2) that she still shrunk, with persistent and ill-disguised dislike, from his caresses.

It was now late in the month of August, and the weather was broken by troublous winds and a fretful moon. For several weeks William Jones, in his mortal terror, had refrained from visiting the cave; he had never set his foot therein, indeed, since the night of the assassination. At last he could bear the suspense no longer. Suppose some one else had discovered his treasure and robbed him? Suppose some subterranean change had obliterated the landmarks or submerged the cavern? Suppose a thousand dreadful things! Tired of miserable supposition, William determined, despite his terror, to make sure.

So late one windy and rainy night he stole forth with his unlit lantern and fought his way in the teeth of half a gale to the familiar place, which he found, however, with some little difficulty. He was neither superstitious nor imaginative, but throughout the journey he was a prey to nameless terrors. Every gust of wind went through his heart like a knife; every sound of wind or sea made that same heart stop and listen. Only supreme greed and miserly anxiety led him on. But at last he gained the cave, within which there was a sound as of clashing legions, clarions shrieking, drums beating, all the storm and stress of the awful waters clashing on the cliffs without, and boiling with unusual screams through the black slit between the cave and the Devil's Caldron.

Trembling, with perspiration standing in great beads on his face he searched the cave for the corpse of the murdered man, expecting to find it well advanced in decomposition. Strange to say, however, it had disappeared.

William Jones was at once relieved and alarmed; relieved because he was spared a horrible experience; alarmed because he could not account for the disappearance. A little reflection, however, suggested that one of those tidal waves so common on the coast might have risen well up

Let us impress upon your mind the following facts fully supported by thousands of testimonials from our own Canadian people. Paine's Celery Compound drives the germs of deep seated disease from the blood, it allows the overtaxed system to fairly start on the road to health; it strengthens; it invigorates; it gives new tone to the system; it is food for the nerves and brain.

Mrs. J. Desanges, St. Henri, P.Q., for the second time writes regarding the cure of her daughter as follows:

"Eighteen months ago I sent you a testimonial in favor of your Paine's Celery Compound which had quite restored my daughter to health and strength after other remedies had failed to cure her. I am pleased to inform you that the cure has been a permanent one, and that my daughter owes her present good health to your great life-giving medicine. I think more of Paine's Celery Compound to-day than ever before."

Major Beaton, of the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, perhaps, the best Scottish piper in Canada, will give "The Cock o' the North," at the Clachan Splore concert here on Thanksgiving Day.

SMALLPOX FROM SOREL.

Another case of smallpox was discovered last night. The patient was Adelard Gauthier, aged 23 years. He was living on Cuvillier street. He became infected with the disease in a peculiar manner. Two weeks ago he met a friend in Sorel, who was taking the disease. His friend came to Montreal, where the disease developed. He was removed to the Civic Hospital. Gauthier is also there now.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new Book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. It was written for us by a physician who has given the subject a great deal of thought and study, and it will no doubt prove of considerable interest and be of great benefit to those suffering from cancer or tumor.

If you are afflicted with cancer yourself, or have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their marches.

There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long tiresome marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this harmless and wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and robs marching of the foot-soreness which is its invariable accompaniment. Mr. T. Buckett, "C" Co., R. C. R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm on route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed), T. Buckett.

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all druggists, or by mail. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

SORE FEET

If your feet are sore, tired and aching, Foot Elm can give you wonderful ease and comfort. Price, 25c. a box at all druggists, or sent by mail, postage free. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

NEARLY ELECTROCUTED

How it Feels to be Killed by Electricity—Narrow Escape from Death of Mr. Allan McCarthy, the Well Known House Mover

Mr. Allan McCarthy, the well known house mover, had a narrow escape from death the other day. It appears that while moving a house in the south end of the town, the two power wires that are connected with the dynamo in Mr. McDonald's mill, came in contact with the chimney of the house, which was being taken along Aylmer street. Mr. McCarthy ascended the roof, and with a board lifted the wires over the chimney. They flew back, and came in contact with his hands. The men assisting were horrified to see Mr. McCarthy fall forward on the roof.

They immediately ascended, and found him lying unconscious on the roof. The only thing that kept him from falling was the fact that he was astride the top of the head at the same moment. When asked if it was painful, he said that he didn't know.

On recovering a few minutes later he was helped to terra firma, and was soon able to walk. To a Times representative Mr. McCarthy explained the sensation of being electrocuted, which felt exactly like a heavy blow with a sledge on both sides and happpened to stay there.

COFFEE IMPORTER

Tells Some Plain Facts

One of the heaviest importers of coffee in America, and who requests that his name be kept from public in connection with the following subject because of the effect it would have on his business, says: "I have used coffee for over thirtyfive years, ago was compelled to discontinue its use on account of its effect on my health. Since that time I have used nothing in its place but Postum Cereal Food Coffee and properly prepared, it is simply delicious with cream and sugar.

In connection with this I have also used Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food. While in Florida this winter I carried a package with me all the time, so if I was unable to get what I wanted for breakfast I could rely on my own supply.

Any one who could have known of my condition a year ago, and the very great improvement now, would have no cause to question the wisdom of my change from the old fashioned diet to the present."

Now and then a person gets Postum Food Coffee served under-boiled and consequently almost tasteless. A chemical change takes place in Postum after it has been actively boiled for 1 to 15 minutes; this change brings out the food value and the delicious taste. It does not answer to simply leave it on the stove for 15 minutes, it must stand on the stove until boiling commences, then be allowed to bubble 15 minutes.

A piece of butter twice the size of a pea should be put in the pot to keep it from boiling over.

Many a man or woman continues in a half sick state from month to month, not knowing that the drug in the coffee they use is the cause; try leaving off coffee and using Postum Food That change has worked salvation for many skeptical sick ones.

KILLKENNY CATS

(Communicated.)

No better illustration of the character of our class of Irishmen has been given than that of Paddy, say at Donnybrook Fair—swinging his shillelah—trailing his coat tail on the ground and daring any one to step on it "av yez plaze." Take a mixed gang of workmen composed of Italians, French, English, etc., and one Irishman—and it will be found that Paddy will raise a "ruction" of some kind. In nine cases out of ten it is the "low Irish" that are at the bottom of all riots, strikes, etc., in the States. Contentious beyond endurance. The Americans designate the class referred to as the "low Irish."

John Redmond, M.P., at present in Canada, is trailing his coat along shouting Home Rule. Might as well send all of the Boers back to the Transvaal and give them Home Rule. When the latter class of Irish are in the majority, there will be no objection to give them the same form of Government that we have in Canada. Not until the blighting effects of Papacy be reduced to a minimum will this be.

This J. Redmond, M.P., who boldly utters treasonable sentiments against the British Government has been met by a "deputation" and given a hearty welcome to this country by the following gentlemen, viz:

Sir Wilfrid Laurier.
J. Israel Tarte.

CIGARETTE SMOKING BY BOYS.

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—After service in one of our churches on Sunday evening, each one of the congregation was handed a pamphlet, dealing with the injurious habit of cigarette smoking by boys, which I recommend to the careful consideration of all who have at heart the well-being of their fellow-men and the up-building of our country. It shows that tobacco in all forms has the same injurious effect, and that nicotine, its active principle, is the most deadly narcotic poison aside from prussic acid, known to chemists, and is responsible for the ills of body, mind and morals of those who use it. Of the commendable rules laid down by the pamphlet, the one that most strongly appeals to common sense and consistency is as follows: "Let all men (especially clergymen and the employers of boys) who consider it wrong for a boy to indulge, abstain themselves from their cigar. We must practice what we preach. I know of nothing more harmful by way of example than set by men who cannot or will not do without their cigar. My boys say to me, "Why, look at so and so; he is a prominent man and he smokes." Until our public and influential men abstain, our boys will indulge. So long as our clergymen continue to smoke, not only in their private homes, but in public places and at smoking concerts (to say nothing of the propriety of having those concerts in our churches or Sunday schools) so long may we expect to see our youth follow such examples. Yours, etc.,

House Moved

The large frame house formerly belonging to Mr. Bradburn, on Aylmer street, has been moved 1200 feet along the same street, to make room for the Cordage Company's works. The building was purchased by Mr. J. J. Hartley, contractor, and was moved to Mr. Hartley's lot.

To Discourage Hasty Marriages.

ONE of the Philippine tribes enforces a "widow tax." The law governing it was undoubtedly founded on more than a superficial knowledge of human nature, and is productive of advantages. "Marriage in haste" among the Tagacaolos, of Mindanao, therefore, leads to a very prolonged and literal "repenting at leisure." Upon the death of the wife the widower must pay a certain sum of money or a certain amount of goods to his father-in-law before he is entitled to look about for an eligible successor to the deceased. With them money is a rare article, and the usual means of barter is by plates of the ordinary ironstone pattern. One hundred of these is considered ample payment to the bereaved parents, and then the man may "a-wooing go." On the other hand, if the husband dies, the widow at once becomes the slave of her parents-in-law, and so remains for life, unless some relative comes forward and produces the requisite payment. The natural result of this rule is that all married people are extremely solicitous of one another's health and welfare. In sickness the invalid is scrupulously attended to by husband or wife, who is perhaps haunted more by a thought of those one hundred plates than by fear of death in the family. Divorce they know not, but polygamy is universal, and a man may have as many wives as his means permit of. Therefore, in case of the death of a much-married man his parents either have enough slaves to render future work on their part unnecessary, or else they are in a position to open up a crockery store. A cheap means of life insurance, this payment is called "cabaloan" or "the widow tax."

Unnecessary to Suffer from Asthma

This distressing complaint can be perfectly cured by inhaling Catarrhozone, a vegetable antiseptic that destroys the germs which cause the disease. Catarrhozone is inhaled at the mouth from a convenient pocket inhaler adn after permeating the minutest air cells, is exhaled slowly through the nostrils. It stops the cough, makes breathing reular, and erradicates the asthma so thoroughly from the system that it never returns. Don't suffer from Asthma, use Catarrhozone, it will speedily cure you. Large outfit, $1, smalll size, 25 cents. Druggists or by mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Diamonds

Diamonds are the most interesting of all jewels. They've figured in history, poetry and song. They've linked hearts together, provided ready money, and are to-day what they have been in all ages of the world's history—the most precious and beautiful ornaments. Nothing more acceptable or economical as a gift to one's self or one's friend. Diamonds are always worth their money, especially if you buy them from us, and there is no reason for paying more than our moderate price

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia ave., Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Five boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, sustaining no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Mann, Merlin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James R. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. H. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not cure.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

WHY THE BOER WAR WILL TERMINATE SOON

The Boer Army is Being Gradually Driven from the Hills to the Flats.

AND THIS WILL MAKE RESISTANCE IMPOSSIBLE

A New Theory Regarding the War—The New York Sun Says It Will Cause the Boers to Collapse

New York, Nov. 27.—The Sun says, The British send word from Pretoria that they have forced the Boer guerrillas out of one-third of the high veldt and the whole region will soon be cleared of them. During the war the British have very seldom referred to the divisions of the Transvaal by the names that the Boers applied to them. It is of the utmost importance to the cause of the Boers that they retain their foothold in the high veldt. What is this region?

The Transvaal decreases in elevation above the sea from south to north. To indicate these different elevations the Boers divided their country into three zones, running east and west, the high veldt (hooge veld) of the south, the middle veldt, or "garden of the Transvaal" in the centre, and the lower bush (bosch) veldt of the north. These divisions are distinguished not only by their different elevations above sea level but also by their dissimilar aspects and industries.

The high veldt is mountainous or very hilly, from 4,500 or 5,500 feet above the sea, extending from the southern border to a little north of the latitude of Johannesberg. It is almost destitute of trees, is very dry during the winter months, and is splendid sheep pasture. This is the region of railroads and gold. As most of the larger towns are scattered over the high veldt, its people had more to do with the Outlanders and saw life in more varied aspects than the Boers further north.

The middle veldt, considerably lower and somewhat smaller in area, extends from about the latitude of Pretoria to the tropic of Capricorn. This is the region of great plains crossed by detached ranges of hills with timber in the gullies or "kloofs." Here were the large farms of the Boer cattle [illegible] who led isolated lives with their families and black herders. This region is now even more desolate than the high veldt, where some of the population still live in the towns, while the middle veldt has practically been swept clean of human inhabitants.

The low veldt, or northern part of the country, is nearly 2,000 feet lower than the middle veldt, is tropical in climate, and is the home of the tsetse fly, whose bite is fatal to domestic animals. Stock raising is therefore impossible, the sparse population devoting itself mainly to planting coffee and sugar cane.

Perhaps the British are too sanguine in their announcement that they will soon clear the high veldt of their enemies, but their prophecy is very significant if it is likely to be realized.

Campaigning would be next to impossible in the tropical, wet climate of the low veldt, where, furthermore, no horses could be used. The Boer remnant could scarcely engage in guerrilla tactics in the middle veldt, whose broad plains are relieved only at wide intervals by kopjes, or ranges of hills; besides, the guerrillas would be remote in the middle zone from the centres of the mining industry, whose present paralysis, enforced by the proximity of the bushwhackers, makes it impossible to restore the prosperity of the country.

No immigration can be encouraged, no quartz crushers can turn a wheel, so long as the Boer fighters are in the high veldt. When they are dislodged from that point of vantage, it appears that the war will be practically over.

NEW HOLLAND BOAT A WONDER

A Great Steel Fish With Brains, Says Lewis Nixon—Japanese Officers Amazed.

Greenport, L. I., Nov. 28.—Commanders Nishi and Sata and Lieut. Ide of the Royal Japanese Navy, witnessed a trial of the Holland submarine torpedo boat Fulton to-day. Commander Nishi, when asked his opinion of the boat, replied:

"Beautiful! Beautiful! I never expected to see anything like it."

He will recommend the adoption of the Holland boat by the Japanese Navy. After the mile submerged run and porpoise dive the visitor took a run in the Fulton. Lewis Nixon saw the boat work for the first time to-day and gave out a statement over his signature in which he says:

"I came here expecting to criticise but can find no fault. The performance of the Fulton exceeded my expectations in all particulars and the advance over the Holland is most decided. A harbor defended by two such vessels as the Fulton could not be bottled up as was done at Santiago. Even on the surface at 100 yards I could not hear the Fulton's machinery and am satisfied that on any kind of night and during the day in a choppy sea, she could approach near enough even in the awash condition, to land a torpedo. There are limitations which should be set as to fighting speeds below water. Five knots gives ample speed for diving and speeds above this will not in my opinion be used in actual torpedo warfare, but with this type of vessel deliberate and deadly precision is possible, for the crew will go about their death-dealing work with perfect safety to themselves.

"No man after seeing this vessel will look upon her as a tank with a gasolene motor, but rather as a great steel fish which are used all the mechanical developments of the past few years and over whose movements a man exacts as instand and perfect obedience to his will as if the fish had brains. The Holland submarine boat is a success and must be reckoned with in all schemes of national defence. To criticise it for not doing things it is not intended to do is simply begging the question and I predict that its bitterest enemies will shortly admit its efficiency and openly advocate its use. The questions of trim, arrangements of weight and stability, are now perfect in the Fulton and the entire class of which she is the pioneer will be similarly perfect in these respects."

MRS. DEREAMER HORSEWHIPPED

Sequel to the Supposed Duel Between Two Women in Ludlowville, N. Y.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 28.—As a sequel to the supposed duel, growing out of jealousy, fought last Sunday between Mrs. Arthur Higgins and Mrs. Charles Dereamer of Ludlowville, during which Mrs. Dereamer was shot in the hand, comes the horsewhipping of Mrs. Dereamer by Mrs. James D. Diffin of Ithaca, a sister of Mrs. Higgins. This morning the loungers at the corner grocery at Ludlowville were startled to see a woman dressed in deep black, with a riding whip in her hand, get off the train. She had a determined air and she took a lively clip toward the Dereamer home. In two hours she returned, and there was little left of the whip except the stock. As was surmised, she had gone to the Dereamer home, and, in the absence of the husband, had given Mrs. Dereamer a terrible beating. Mrs. Diffin is a large woman while her victim is small and delicate.

Mrs. Dereamer is young and beautiful, and Mrs. Higgins of Ludlowville became jealous because Higgins spent a good deal of time at the Dereamer home, and was plainly much attracted by the young woman's beauty. On Sunday last Mrs. Higgins and Mrs. Dereamer had an encounter, and as a result the latter is nursing a pistol wound in the hand.

THE GERMANS HOWL

Yet They are Guilty of Illtreating Polish Polish Children

New York, Nov. 28.—The Vienna Vaterland, quoted by the correspondent of the London Times and the New York Times in the Austrian capital, says: "Just at the moment when the agitation in Germany against the barbarism and brutality of the English in the South African war had reached a climax it is proved by judicial sentences that in the midst of peace, Polish children under German rule are subjected to sanguinary ill-treatment, and that Polish parents guilty only of protesting are thrust into prison."

CHAS. M. HAYS' TITLE

It Will be Vice President and General Manager

Montreal, Nov. 27.—The Grand Trunk to-day received a cable from London announcing that Mr. Hays' title would be vice-president and general manager. Other rumors affecting the positions off high officials were in circulation to-day. They are, however, groundless, as the above is the only intimation received from the London offices.

A DARING BALLOON TRIP

M. SANTOS-DUMONT TALKS OF CROSSING THE ATLANTIC.

The Brazilian Aeronaut is in London Now and May Make Some Tests There Similar to His Paris Trips—Also to Make Expert on Mediterranean.

London, Nov. 28.—M. Santos-Dumont, the Brazilian aeronaut, who won the Deutsch prize for doubling the Eiffel Tower in his balloon in thirty minutes, arrived here today. In an interview as to the object of his visit, he said he came here to join the Aero Club and also to attend the banquet to be held there shortly. In addition to this he was anxious to ascertain the practicability of making a few trials in England. He expressed the hope that there would be some trials in 1902. M. Santos-Dumont discussed his forthcoming experiments in crossing the Mediterranean in an air-ship in a hopeful vein. He said he saw no reason why the Atlantic might not be crossed in a balloon but he could not say whether he would make the attempt. It was, however, he said, merely a question of multiplying the capacity and powers of his present airship and it could be achieved with a balloon smaller than Count Zeppelin's. The principal requirement would be a powerful motor of several hundred horse power. This could be calculated exactly and it would not involve an impossible weight. The larger the motor the greater would be the relative economy of weight as compared with horse power.

REVOLT IN FRENCH CONGO.

Indirect Report That the Entire Colony is Up in Arms.

London, Nov. 28.—A despatch to the Leader from Antwerp says the situation in the French Congo is alarming. The entire colony is in revolt. Many agencies have been surrounded.

The officers who were sent to relieve Brazzaville, it is feared, will fall into the hands of the natives.

A BIG WAR NOW ON IN SOUTH AMERICA

Government Troops Victorious Along Railroad Line;

THE COLUMBIA REVOLUTION

The United States Send Troops and Will Protect Foreigners—Peace Prospects are Very Gloomy

Colon, Colombia, Nov. 28. — Heavy fighting all along the line of railroad to-day and yesterday has shown forth the strength of the government garrisons, as in the reports which have been received the liberals have suffered serious losses. Of these engagements that at Empire station takes on the most serious aspect, the number of killed on each side being estimated at over 100 men. An engagement at Culebra is also reported, in which it is stated that the liberals attacked and were repulsed with considerable loss.

The city is in a state closely approaching a panic. During the morning bloodshed was only averted by the presence of European and American marines and sailors, and it was not until after an agreement had been reached postponing the bombardment for four days that the residents became sufficiently collected to awake to the fact that fight was the best method of safety. To-night the exodus from the city began, every beast of burden being pressed into service. The townsmen do not trust the railroad and they are allowed to escape by the liberals who are glad to be rid of unfriendly neighbors.

BOMBARDMENT SUPPOSONED

The conference which resulted in so important a decision as the postponement of the bombardment of the city was held on the British cruiser Tribune, and at this the commanders of all the warships in the harbor were present, including General Ignacio Felacio in command of the General Pinson, the Colombian gunboat, and who issued the order for bombardment. There was also present Senor de la Rosa, secretary of General Diaz, representating the government on its civil side.

DETAILS OF EMPIRE BATTLE.

Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock the schooner Clapet and a railway barge returned to Panama, bringing 350 men from Chorrera, being the remainder of General Alban's expedition. Great crowds gathered at the wharf to witness the landing of the soldiers. They were received with bands of music.

At 3.30 in the afternoon, at the head of several hundred men, General Alban left Panama by train for Empire station, where the liberals were reported to be in fairly strong numbers. His purpose was to surprise and rout them. The train bearing these troops was held up just before it arrived at Culebra station owing to the liberals opening fire on Alban's advance guard. Alban disembarked his men from the train which returned to Panama. The fighting at Culebra lasted from 1.40 until 9 p.m. Rev. Mr. Loveridge and Rev. Mr. Jacobs, Baptist and Wesleyan ministers, respectively, narrowly escaped being shot. Their house in Culebra was riddled with bullets.

The government troops advanced and the fighting was stubborn all along the railroad line, until Empire station, a mile and a half distant, was reached. The liberals retreated slowly, Alban's men following them until the latter eventually reached Matachin station.

Between the stations of Culebra and Empire over 150 killed and wounded men could be seen along the track. There is no proper Red Cross organization and the wounded lack care.

AMERICAN MARINES LAND

Washington, Nov. 28.—The United States government has taken charge of the Isthmian traffic. A despatch received at the navy department to-day from Captain Perry, of the battle-ship Iowa, at Panama, reports that General Alban, with six hundred men, is fighting the liberals on the line near Empire. Captain Perry has landed with a detachment of men from the Iowa and has started with a train to clear transit and also establish detachments of men to keep it so.

Commander McCrae, of the Machias, at Colon, has cabled the navy department of the approaching bombardment of the town and asking for instructions. He has been instructed to take such steps as he deems necessary for the protection of American interests at Colon. While no specific statement is made as to the details of this instruction, it is understood that it leaves discretionary with Commander McCrea the prevention of a bombardment.

LIBERAL ARMY IS DEFEATED.

Mr. Herran, charge d'affaires of the Colombian legation, to-day received the following cablegram:

Panama, Nov. 27.—Colombian Minister Washington; Rebel army completely defeated at Culebra and Emperador Governor marched last night upon Colon. Traffic interrupted yesterday, but will be reestablished to-day.

ARJONA.
Acting Governor.

TELL OF SERIOUS FIGHTING.

New York, Nov. 28.—Messages from the agent of the Panama Railroad and Steamship Company at Colon were received here to-day at the offices of the company. The cablegrams said that serious fighting was expected at Empire, a small place on the line of the Panama Railroad.

They also stated that the Machias, Captain McCrae, had landed more men at Colon and that the Iowa had for the first time landed marines at Panama. They said the city was in the possession of the rebels, and that Captain McCrae had forbidden the shelling of the town.

Berlin, Nov. 28.—The foreign office to-day sent for the representatives here of the Associated Press and officially declared, that the announcement to the effect that the countries party to the triple alliance were making a concentrated demonstration in South American waters was false.

The informant of the correspondent said there had been no discussion between Germany, Austria and Italy regarding common action in this direction. He admitted that each country was sending warships to South American waters, but said they were acting entirely independently of each other and were merely protecting the property, rights and lives of their subjects.

It was further explained that Washington was fully informed concerning the intentions of Germany in this regard. The movements of German vessels in South American waters have been fully reported as well as the vessels destined to go out there. No other ships have been sent to South America.

German officials in Berlin are of the opinion that the presence in the powers composing the triple alliance will have the decided effect without making necessary a recourse to action.

All Saints' Church

There will be service at 11 o'clock to-day (Thanksgiving Day). Special offertory for Diocesan Missions. During Advent Rev W. L. Armitage will give a series fo sermons on "Isaiah, and the Advent," and "Holy Communion," respectively. The Junior Girls' Guild will meet on Friday at 4.15 p.m. Choir practice this evening at 8 o'clock.

GENEROUS TREATMENT

Mr. Robert Jones the Recipient of Generous Help.

Mr. Robert Jones, who is a trusted and esteemed employe of Mr. Adam Hall, was treated most generously by his employer and fellow-workmen yesterday. Mr. Jones, as our readers are aware, suffered a heavy loss the previous night by having his home destroyed by fire. Yesterday morning a subscription list was started, which was headed by Mr. Hall with a donation of $50, the employes increasing the amount by $42 additional. Such generous and friendly action is worthy of the highest commendation.

Mr. Jones has received other evidences of sympathy, which he desires to thankfully acknowledge.

ANOTHER INDUSTRY.

The Woodstock Wagon Company May Locate in Peterborough

An effort is being made to have the Woodstock Wagon Company locate in Peterborough, but whether it will be successful or not, remains to be seen. The merits and advantages of Peterborough as a manufacturing centre have been laid before the management of the Company, and further developments are expected daily.

The company employs forty hands, and would be a very desirable addition to our industries.

MR. STRATTON EXONERATED.

His Connection With No 5 Dam Will Do Him No Harm.

Lindsay Post: The Otonabee Power Co. has been granted a lease of Dam No. 5, at $2 per horse power by the Dominion government. The application was taken advantage of by the Peterboro Tories—backed up probably by shareholders of the Electric Light Co. —to make a violent attack on Hon. J. R. Stratton because his name appeared without his consent on the provisional prospectus. The hon. gentleman floored his traducers, and the attempt to deprive the people of competition in electric lighting and power supply proves a dismal failure.

The Pain of Sore Feet.

Just about the most tantalizing of all pains comes from sore feet. To get relief bathe the feet in warm water, and then rub them with Polson's Nerviline. It penetrates through the pores of the skin, takes out the soreness, reduces swellings, invigorates the tired muscles, tones up the circulation, and prevents the feet from becoming sore again. Nerviline is a protection and safeguard against the pains and aches of the entire family and cures rheumatism, neuralgia, toothache, &c. 25 cents.

THANKSGIVING

I thank Thee, Father, for this sky,
Wherein Thy little sparrows fly;
For unseen hands that build and break
The cloud pavilions for my sake—
This fleeting beauty, high and wild,
Toward which I wonder, as a child.

I thank Thee for the strengthening hills,
That give bright spirit to the rills;
For blue peaks soaring up apart,
To send down music on the heart;
For tree-tops wavering soft and high,
Writing their peace against the sky;
For forest farings that have been;
For this fall rain that shuts me in,
Giving to my low little roof
The sense of home, secure, aloof.

And thanks for morning's stir and light,
And for the folding hush of night;
For those high deities that spread
The star-filled chasm overhead;
For elfin chemistries that yield
The green fires of the April field;
For all the foam and surge of bloom;
For leaves gone glorious to their doom—
All the wild loveliness that can Touch the immortal in a man.

Father of Life, I thank Thee, too,
For old acquaintance, near and true—
For friends who came into my day
And took the loneliness away;
For faith that held on to the last;
For all sweet memories of the past—
Dear memories of my dead that send
Long thoughts of life, and of life's end—
That make me know the light conceals
A deeper world than it reveals.

To Close Up the Season

Mr. George W. Fitzgerald left for Montreal yesterday to close up his season's business with Messrs. Hodgson Bros., cheese exporters, who he represented in this district. Mr. Fitzgerald has represented this firm for fourteen years. Since the 1st of November he has bought about two tons of creamery butter and shipped it for his firm.

The cheese season this year was not as good all round as some others, and there had been some unpleasantness, owing to the high prices paid on the Board and the consequent rigid inspection and demand for highest standard.

TWENTY-SEVEN MEN KILLED BY EXPLOSION

A Melancholy Harvest of Death in a Detroit Factory

FLAMES ADD TO THE HORROR

Explosion of Boiler Wrecks Detroit Factory Pinning Scores of Employes Beneath the Fallen Roof

Detroit, Nov. 27.— Twenty-six men are dead, five of them unidentified and so terribly burned and blackened that identification is almost impossible, and 21 other men are lying in the various hospitals of the suffering from terrible cuts and burns and other injuries, all results of the explosion of one of the boilers in the Penberthy Injector Company's plant, at the corner of Abbott-street and Brooklyn-avenue, at 9.30 o'clock to day. Following are the dead.—A. E. Hoffman, A E Miller, Joseph Coffey, Steven Chrispn, Jacob Keobel, Robert Creer, Richard Ryan, Louis Henning, Eugene Bertram, Charles Marvin, George Schonor, William Mann, Edward Burch, Douglas Dickson, Patrick Malloy, R Mulkee, Joseph Koseck, Charles Lydy, Chris. Waldman, John Schwalbe, Peter Doll. Five unidentified bodies.

R. Bryant, A E Hoffman, Joseph Coffey, A E Miller, Eugene Bertram, Edward Bertsch, Charles Marvin, Stephen Crisp, Patrick Malloy, J. Frye and 10 unidentified bodies.

In addition to those more seriously injured, a dozen or more employes, who suffered comparatively slight injuries, were taken directly to their homes. Eighteen men and boys have not as yet been located, either at their homes or at the hospitals. The five unidentified bodies account for five of these, and the officers of the company say they feel positive that the major portion of the remaining 13 are by to-night at their homes.

SEARCHING FOR RUINS

To-night a great force of men is searching the ruins by electric light, and the work will not be stopped until every foot of the debris has been examined.

The Penberthy Injector Company's plant occupied half a square at the corner of Abbott-street and Brooklyn-avenue. It was composed of two brick buildings, separated by a 16-foot alley. The rear building, in which the boiler was located, and was completely destroyed was three storeys high. The boiler-room was located at the northwest corner of the building, on the first floor. It was in the manufacturing was done. The first floor was utilized as the engine and boiler-room and a room for testing the output of the plant. The finishing and brass manufacturing department was located on the second floor, and the third floor was devoted to the foundry.

CAME WITHOUT WARNING.

It is impossible to tell exactly how many men were at work in the various departments of the rear building when the explosion occurred, but the officers insist that the number was not over 65. The awful crash came without the slightest warning. The floors and roof of the rear building bulged upwards and then crashed down, a mass of debris.

Windows in houses for a block around were broken by the concussion, and almost immediately, and the horror of the fire was added to the suffering ones imprisoned.

CARING FOR THE INJURED.

Calls were sent out for all the ambulances in the city. Pending their arrival, neighboring houses were turned into temporary hospitals.

The first ambulance on the scene were totally inadequate to carry those who had already been extricated, and express wagons and similar vehicles were pressed into service. In a comparatively short time, all the laborers who could work to advantage were feverishly clearing away the debris.

The floors and roof had fallen at an angle, and formed a sort of huge cover, under which the fire burned fiercely. Not until the firemen had chopped thru this did their streams begin to have any appreciable effect on the flames. The sufferings of those who were buried beneath were later testified to by their charred and blackened bodies.

THE ENGINEER'S ESCAPE

Engineer Riley was among the first to be dug out from the wreck. His escape was little short of miraculous. He was knocked to the floor, and one of the smaller testing boilers was blown over him, forming a shield that kept the falling timbers, bricks and machinery from crushing him. The escaping steam, however, burned him frightfully. Riley's first words were; "How did it happen? The engine and boilers were all right."

Gradually the rescuers worked their way downward thru the pile. By this time there were no cries or groans to aid them, for the flames had destroyed those unfortunates who were not killed by the explosion of the fall. But the work of rescue continued with unabated haste. Stretcher-bearers stood beside the delvers and bore away the burned and blackened bodies. A vacant house adjoining the factory was converted into a temporary morgue. In several cases the charred corpses were so hot when recovered that they could scarcely be handled.

The hospitals were besieged by relatives and friends of the injured men.

FRONT BUILDING DAMAGED.

There were a dozen girls among the employes on the four floors of the building, but nobody was injured.

The property loss, according to Secretary G. Childs, is about $180,000. The firm carried $70,000 fire and some boiler insurance, but how much of the latter Secretary Childs could not state.

Subscriptions for the relief of the sufferers have been started.

Nothing is known as yet about the cause of the explosion. The boilers had been recently inspected, and the engineer was known as one of the most careful and capable men in the city.

TROOPS GO TO SOUTH AFRICA IN JANUARY

Government Consider Official Despatch from Mr. Chamberlain

APPLICATIONS STILL CONTINUE TO POUR IN.

Col. Evans Will Likely Have Charge of the Recruiting—Militia Men Should Apply to District Officer Commanding

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—The despatch from the War Office officially accepting the Canadian force for South Africa was considered by the Cabinet yesterday afternoon, and it is expected that the Colonial Secretary will at once be notified of the approval of the Government. Col. Evans will arrive from Winnipeg on Friday, and will most likely have charge of the arrangemetns for recruiting, and a temporary staff consisting of an adjutant and other officers will be appointed to assist him. Recruiting stations will probably be opened at Victoria and Nelson, B.C., Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, London, Toronto, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, St. John, Halifax and Charlottetown. In the main the same method will be followed as when the constabulary were recruited. The Minister of Militia considers that the force can be enrolled, equipped and ready to start by about the first week in January. No arrangement will be made as to a transport until it is known whether the Militia Department has power to deal with the matter. The troops will probably concentrate at Ottawa and embark at Halifax. Offers to serve in the force continue to flow into the department. All the Canadian nursing sisters who went to South Africa, with the exception of three, have again volunteered to serve. Of the three referred to, Miss Horne is sick at home, Miss Russell is with an invalid in Egypt, and Miss Richards is already attached to the Army Medical Corps in South Africa. The nurses who have volunteered are Misses Hurcomb, Pope, Affleck, Macdonald and Forbes. Many offers from medical men have also been received. Surgeon-Colonel Fisher, who was with the Royal Canadians, wants to go out again. He has, however, been recommended for service with the Imperial forces in England in order to qualify for the Army Medical Corps in this country, and it is doubtful whether his application will be acceded to. Dr. Ross, of Kingston, is also very anxious to go on active service. The department appreciate Col. Hughes offer of command, but think a cavalryman should be sent. Many militia men are applying to Ottawa to be enrolled in the force. The procedure is altogether irregular. Those desirous of going to South Africa should make application either to their commanding officer or the D.O.C. of the district.

MR. WALDEN'S SEND OFF

An Enjoyable Affair at George Street Methodist Church

Mr. Frank Mason's class held a reunion in the parlor of George street Methodist church on Wednesday night a large number being present. The pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson presided. The leaders of other classes were among the invited guests.

Mr. F. Mason gave the address of welcome, Mr. Winch responding. Topics were assigned to several speakers —all relating to class meetings. Messrs. D W Dumble, G W Parnell, Wm. Might and others taking part.

The tea provided by the ladies was excellent. The music was provided by Mr. Walden, Mrs. McCall, Miss Helen Mason, Miss Clara Bellegbem and Mr. Susee. Altogether a very pleasant and profitable evening was spent, and which will no doubt be very helpful to the leaders of the classes George street has a large number of most devoted class leaders who are doing much towards making the classes profitable and efficient.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation to Mr. Walden, Organist of the church and a member of Mr Mason's class, of a beautiful Mantel Clock, and the following address;

Peterborough, Nov. 25th, 1901

To Mr. F Walden, Organist of George street Methodist church, and a member of Mr. F. Mason's Morning Class;

Dear sir.—On hearing of your intended departure from our midst, we, the members of Mr. Mason's class, feel that we cannot let this opportunity pass of showing our appreciation of your services, which you have so efficiently and so unselfishly rendered in the church and Sabbath school, and other lines of church work.

As a slight expression of our feelings toward you we would ask you to accept this clock from the members of the class you have attended so faithfully. And as you are about to enter on another field of labour, we pray that the blessing of God may attend you and that wherever you may be situated your services may be as freely and faithfully performed as they were here. We wish you and yours a happy and prosperous journey through life.

Signed on behalf of the class — Messrs. F. Mason, Joseph Susee, Geo. W. Powell, W. Might, Mrs. F. Mason, Mrs. Jos. Susee, Mrs. Eliza Spence.

KILLED IN DETROIT

Edgar Miller, Formerly of Peterborough Killed in Detroit

The horrible accident at the Injector Company's works, in Detroit, on Wednesday evening, by which 27 people were killed, claims amongst its victims a Peterborough boy. The particulars of the accident are published elsewhere in this issue. The young man's name is Edgar Miller, son of Mr. J. H. Miller, of Peterborough, who will be remembered by many as having played goal for the Colts' Hockey Team two winters ago.

Young Miller left Peterborough on the 17th of June. He had an uncle in Detroit, Mr. Edward Miller, with whom he boarded, and he found employment in the factory of the Pemberthy Injector Co. His mother received a telegram from the young man's uncle informing her of the sad affair.

A brother of the deceased, Mr. Harry Miller, an employe of the Dickson Co., left at once to bring the remains to Peterborough, where they are expected to arrive to-day at noon.

Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved family.

Never Say Die

You may be weak, miserable, nervous, sleepless, your digestion may be poor, and you despair. Never say die, until you have used Ferrozone, the most wonderful blood maker, nerve strengthener and brain invigorator. It tones up the whole system. You can eat anything and digest it if you use Ferrozone. You sleep well. You make blood quickly, strength increases daily, in a short time you're well. Try Ferrozone, which you can obtain at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

THE FIRE AFTERMEATH

Additional Particulars of Wednesday Morning's Blaze

The fire which destroyed two dwelling houses on Harvey street early yesterday morning, came nearly being a holocast. Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their three small children were awakened barely in time to escape. The baby awakened its parents by crying, and they were immediately terrorized to find the house in a mass of flames. The smoke was suffocating and the family escaped with only their night clothes on them. Mr. Jones was able to snatch a few other garments but beyond these not an article of any description was carried out of the house. The alarm was quickly given and Mr. Jones and his family made their way to his father-in-law's Mr. Robert Duncan, on McDonel street.

The snow on the roofs of the other houses near at hand was the only thing that saved many of them from falling victims to the fiery element. As it was a house at 92 McDonel street, owned by Mr. George Hatton and occupied by Matthew Monohugh, was damaged considerably.

Mr. Mein's furniture was damaged by the removal, whilst also a portion of it was consumed. He has $500 insurance. The house which was owned by Mr. F. J. Jamieson is almost a complete loss. There is insurance on the same to the extent of $600.

A Scientific Voice Improver.

Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal chords, Catarrhozone cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly removes huskiness or hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone. Catarrhozone keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds, and throat irritation, thereby removing the singer's greatest source of anxiety unfitness of voice. The most eminent speakers and Prima Donna would not be without Catarrhozone and credit in no small degree their uniform strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence. The hard rubber inhaler fits conveniently into a purse or vest pocket, and may be used in the church, theatre, any place or time. Complete outfit, $1, small size, 25c. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE LATE JOHN R. KINDREL

Death of a Well Known Resident of Otonabee

We regret to announce the death of Mr. John R. Kindred, an old and highly esteemed resident of Otonabee, which sad event occurred on Tuesday last, after a lingering illness.

Mr. Kindred was 55 years of age and was born in the township. He married Miss Sarah, daughter of the late Christopher Howson, who, together with two daughters and one son, are left to mourn his demise. The son is Mr. Harold C. Kindred, principal of the Havelock public school, and the daughters are Misses Elizabeth and Josephine at home. He also leaves two brothers, Messrs. W A and O. M. of town. Mrs. S. Vyvyan, of Midland, is a sister of the deceased.

The late Mr. Kindred was beloved by all who knew him. Of a kind and loving disposition, he had many friends, by whom he will be greatly missed. He was a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters, and of the Methodist church, and was superintendent of the Sunday school in his neighbourhood.

The funeral will leave the family residence to-day at 1.30 o'clock, for the Keene Methodist church, where a short service will be held and thence to the Keene Cemertery. The Times joins in extending its sincere sympathy in the bereaved relatives.

Thanksgiving Service.

There will be a Thanksgiving service at St. Luke's church to-day, commencing at 10.30 when the Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, the Rector, will preach a special sermon for the occasion. The offertory will be in aid of the diocesan mission. Strangers are heartily welcome.

WHY NOT?

The London Spectator suggests that Great Britain should formally accept the Monroe doctrine and pledge itself not to infringe upon it. The suggestion is not a bad one. The Monroe doctrine provides for the protection of the western hemisphere from further aggression by monarchial countries. Great Britain has everything to gain and nothing to lose by the enforcement of the doctrine. She does not want any more territory over here, except possibly the acquisition off the small French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, which it is not likely the United States would object to. In case of war between Great Britain and any of the European powers except France, which is not a monarchial country the United States would be pledged under the doctrine to act as an ally of Great Britain to prevent any interference with Canada. On the other hand the official recognition of the doctrine by Great Britain would deter the European powers from attempting to infringe on it. Just as the stand taken by Britain just before the outbreak of the Spanish war prevented a coalition of the European powers against the United States.

DENVER'S EXPERIMENT IN CONSUMPTION

Enterprising physicians and citizens of Denver, Col., have undertaken an experiment of world-interest. They have founded a colony of consumptives on a ten-acre tract of land five miles from their city, for the purpose of thoroughly testing what is known as "the open-air cure."

The colonists are all in the early stages of the disease. They are compelled by the rules to live outdoors day and night, summer and winter. They are all provided with warm clothing, blankets and roomy tents, warmed by small stoves. All the work of the colony is done by its members. No profits are to be made by the enterprise. It is running on the co-operative basis, assisted by contributions of benevolent persons all over the country who take an interest in seeing the continuous-out-of-doors theory for the cure of consumption scientifically tried and, if it can be, proved.

In several States, Massachusetts particularly, the open-air-sanitarium idea has been more or less tested, and good results are claimed for it. Denver's colony, as its promoters expect, will become large enough to furnish conclusive proof of its value.

LAKEHURST.

—Mr. Sam Northey, of North Smith, preached in the Methodist church here last Sunday evening.

—Rev. Mr. Delve preached the anniversary services last Sunday at Combourne, the circuit on which he was stationed last year.

—Mr. Tom Elliott had quite an exciting adventure at the ferry a short time ago. As he was driving on the ferry, which had not been fastened, it began to move off, and as a result the horses and wagon were drawn into the lake. Fortunately, they managed to get them out, but not without a deal of trouble.

—Last week one of Boyd's buffaloes which has been at large here for some time, created quite an excitement while being taken back to Bobcaygeon. The horses, which drew the wagon, became frightened and ran away but were caught after a short run.

—The Deer Bay hunting party managed to get four deer. They all seem to have enjoyed their outing.

The Gospel of Happiness

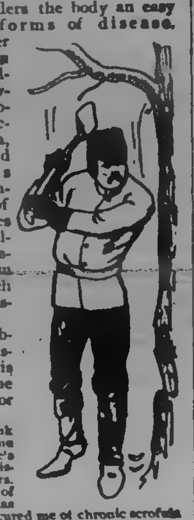
London "Outlook."

The true gospel of happiness, as we read between the lines of Lord Rosebery's playful address to the Royal Caledonian Horticultural Society on Wednesday, has its foundation in make-believe. It is foolish, as well as wrong, to covet your neighbor's orchids or be hurt by the superiority of his hot-houses, when you know that your own sweet-peas have been admired and that your luxuriant crop of groundsel will make things comfortable for the canary. Even if you have no garden of your own, you can more than supply the deficiency by reading a book on horticulture—for choice, Mr. John Reid's "The Scots Gardener," published in the reign of Charles I. On the principle of making books substitutes for the real thing, there is an infinitude of bustling travel to be got out of the "Continental Bradshaw," just in the same way that a sharp appetite may be appeased by a judicious perusal of cookery books. Carrying Lord Rosebery's theory a little further, we can picture the relief that study of a really sound work on dentistry would afford a man with a raging toothache, or how pleasantly a bankrupt could while away his valueless time over a volume on Currency and the Theory of Exchanges.

A Common Sort of Bore.

"If no better reason can be found, a decent consideration for the comfort of others should prevent one's talking of ailments," says Dr. John K. Mitchell in "Harper's Bazar." "Besides being bad manners, the subject is wholly without interest for any but the speaker; the hearer only listens more or less perfunctorily in hopes presently to seize the chance of telling her own melancholy condition. Besides, to talk of ills, mental or bodily, helps to fix them in the mind, to intensify them—and is all too apt to suggest the exaggeration of them in order to make a good round tale. Moreover, if you talk about them too much or too often, even the long-suffering physician may grow tired of being battered with symptoms whose catalogue he has heard recited a hundred times over, and thus the very means taken to impress them will bring about its own defeat. Still more determined, if you are nervous yourself, should be your stand against letting others talk of their ills to you. Even the healthy cannot stand the continual presentation of disease in them without liability to imaginary [illegible] [illegible] therefrom."

Woodsmen



Know that in spite of hard work in the clear forest air the blood often becomes impure. The heavy food served in the lumber camps is to a great extent responsible for this condition of the blood, which renders the body an easy prey to many forms of disease. There is no better blood purifier than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures eruptions, pimples, eczema, scrofula, rheumatism, and other diseases caused by an impure condition of the blood. It cures absolutely and altogether by cleansing the blood from the poisons which breed and feed disease.

Accept no substitute for the "Discovery." There is no other medicine "just as good" for the blood.

"I will forever thank you for advising me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. James Murphy, of Fonda, Pocahontas Co., Iowa. "It has cured me of chronic scrofula of twelve years' standing. I also had chronic diarrhea for twelve years. I am in good health now—better than I ever was in my life, owing to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took several bottles of the 'Discovery' before I stopped."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 pages, and over 700 illustrations, is sent free on receipt of stamps to defray expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper cover, or 50 cents for the book in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

If the Ontario Government decides to introduce a prohibition bill into hte Legislature, there will probably be a movement in the Dominion Parliament to transfer the seat of Federal Government to Montreal. It is an ill wind that blows nobody good.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia ave., Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Fiver boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, sustaining no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Mann, Merlin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James R. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. H. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not cure.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

"MATT."

into the cavern, washed away the body from its place on the shingle, and carried it away in the direction of the Caldron. "In which case," he reflected, "them coast-guard chaps would find it some day among the rocks or on the shore, and think it had been drownded in the way of natur'."

Satisfied that everything else was undisturbed he retired as hastily as possible, sealed up the entrance to the cavern and ran hastily home.

The morning of the marriage came — a fine sunny morning. An open dog-cart belonging to Monk and driven by one of his servants, stood at William Jones's door, and close to it a light country cart, borrowed by William Jones himself from a neighboring farmer. The population, consisting of an aged coast-guardman, two coast guardsmen's wives, and half a dozen dejected children, crowded in front of the cottage.

The bridegroom, attired in decent black, with a flower in his button-hole, stood waiting impatiently in the garden. Despite the festive occasion, he had a gloomy and hang-dog appearance. Presently there emerged from the door William Jones attired in a drowned seaman's suit several sizes too large for him, and wearing a chimney-pot hat and a white rosette. Leaning on his arm was Matt, dressed in a dress of blue silk, newly made for her, out of damaged materials supplied by Jones, by one of the coast-guard women, a light straw hat with blue ribbons to match, and a light lace shawl. Behind this pair hobbled William Jones's father, whose costume was nautical like his son's, but more damaged, and who also sported a chimney-pot hat and a white rosette.

The crowd gave a feeble cheer. Matt looked round and smiled, but mingled with her smile there was a kind of vague anxiety and expectation.

It was arranged that Monk should drive Matt in the dog-cart, while William Jones and his father followed in the commoner vehicle. At Pencross, where the ceremony was to be performed, they were to meet with one Mr. Penarvon, a country squire and kindred spirit of Monk's who had promised to be "best man."

Monk took the reins, while Matt got in and seated herself beside him, the groom getting up behind; and away they went along the [illegible] road, followed by Jones and his father.

The day was bright and merry, but Matt never thought of the old proverb, "Merry is the bride that the sun shines on"; she was too busy examining the prospect on every side of her. All at once, as the bridal procession wound round the edge of the lonely lake, she uttered a cry of delight. There, standing in its old place by the lake side, was the caravan.

Monk looked pale — there was something ghostly in the re-appearance even of this inanimate object. He was a man of strong nerve, however, and he speedily smiled at his own fears.

As they approached the spot they saw Tim standing near the vehicle in conversation with two strange gentlemen — one a little man in black broadcloth, the other a tall, broad-shouldered fellow wearing a light overcoat and a wideawake hat. Directly the procession approached, this group separated, and its three members walked severally to the road, he with the wideawake hat standing right in the centre of the road quietly smoking a cigar.

As the dog-cart came up he held up his hand. Unable to proceed without running him down, Monk pulled up angrily.

"What is it? Why do you block the road?" he cried, fiercely.

"Excuse me, governor," returned the other, coolly. "Mr. Monk, of Monkshurst, I believe?"

"That's my name."

"Sorry to trouble you on such a day, but I should like a few words with you."

"I cannot stay— I am going to be married!"

"So I heard," said the man, lifting his hat and bowing with a grin to Matt. "Glad to see you, miss. How do you do? But the fact is, Mr. Monk, my business won't keep. Be good enough to step this way."

Full of some unaccountable foreboding, inspired partly by the stranger's sauve, yet determined manner, partly by the reappearance of the Caravan, Monk alighted, and followed the other across the grass to the close vicinity of the house on wheels. The little elderly man followed, and the man who had first spoken went through the ceremony of introduction.

"And you— who the devil are you?" demanded Monk, with his old savagery.

"My name is Marshall, Christian name, John, though my friends call me Jack," answered the other, with airy impudence. "John Marshall governor, of the detective force."

Monk now went pale indeed. But recovering himself, he cried, "I know neither of you. I warned you that I was in haste. What do you want? Out with it!"

The little man now took up the conversation, speaking in a prim, business-like voice, and occasionally referring to a large note-book which he carried.

"Mr. Monk, you are, I am informed, the sole heir male of the late Colonel Monk, your cousin by the father's side, who is supposed to have died in the year 1852."

"Yes, that's true. What then?"

"On the report of his death, his name being included in an official list of officers killed and wounded in action, and it being understood that he died without lawful issue, you laid claim to the demesne of Monkshurst, in Cheshire, and that of the same name in Anglesea. Your claim was recognized, and in 1855 you took possession."

"Well. Have you detained me to hear only what I already knew?"

"Pardon me, I have not finished. I have now to inform you that you inherited under a misconception — first, because Colonel Monk was married and had issue; secondly, because he did not die in India, but reached the shores of England, where he perished in the shipwreck of the vessel 'Trinidad' on Christmas day, 1861."

Monk was livid. At this moment Jones, who had been watching the scene from a distance, came over, panting and perspiring in ill-concealed terror.

As he spoke, Marshall, the detective, clapped him playfully on the shoulder.

"How d'ye do, William Jones? I've often heard of you, and wished to know you. Pray stop where you are. I'll talk to you presently."

"I don't know what you mean," Monk now said, with dogged desperation, "with all this rigmarole, Mr. Lightwood, or whatever your name is. It seems to me you are simply raving. If I am not my cousin's heir, who is, tell me that?"

"His daughter," said the man quietly.

"He never married, and he never had a daughter."

"His daughter, an infant twelve or fourteen months old, sailed to England with him, was shipwrecked with him, but saved by a Special Providence, and has since been living in this place under the name of Matt Jones."

"Your intended bride, you know," added Marshall, with an insinuating smile. "But, where is the young lady?"

Monk looked round toward the dog-cart and on every side, but Matt was nowhere to be seen.

"I see her go into that theer cart," said William Jones.

"Call her," cried Monk. "I'll stay no longer here. Listen to me, you two. Whether you are telling me truth or lies, that girl is going to become my wife— I have her guardian's consent, and she herself, I may tell you, fully appreciates the honor I am doing her."

"Indeed!" said Mr. Lightwood, smiling. "Unfortunately I, as Miss Monk's legal adviser, must have a say in the matter. Doubtless this marriage would be a very pretty arrangement for keeping the late Colonel Monk's fortune and property in your possession, but I can not conscientiously approve of the young lady's marriage to an assassin."

"An assassin!— what— what do you mean?" gasped Monk, staggering as if from a blow.

"Tell him, Mr. Marshall."

"All right, sir. Well, you see, Mr. detective grimly, yet playfully, "you're detective grimly, yet playfully, "you're accused of making away with— murdering, in fact— a young gentleman who came to Aberglyn a few weeks ago in that little house on wheels; and this nice friend of yours" (here he again slapped William Jones on the shoulder) "is accused of being your accomplice."

"No, no. I never done it! I'm innocent, I am!" cried William Jones. "Tell 'em, Mr. Monk, tell 'em — I'd nowt to do with it."

"Silence, you fool," said the other; then he added, turning on his accusers, "You are a couple of madmen, I think! I know nothing of the young man you speak of! I have heard that he is missing, that is all; but there is no evidence that any harm has come to him, for his body has not been found."

"Don't you think, now," he asked, "it might be worth while looking for it in that little underground parlor of yours, down alongside the sea?"

William Jones uttered a despairing groan, and fell on his knees.

"I'm ruined!" he cried. "O, Mr Monk, it's your doing! Lord help me! They knows everything."

"Curse you, hold your tongue!" said Monk, with a look of mad contempt and hatred. "These men are only playing upon your fears; but they can not frighten me."

"No," remarked the detective, lighting his cigar, which had gone out. "I think we shall even manage that in time."

As he spoke he carelessly, and as if inadvertently, drew out a pair of steel handcuffs, which he looked at reflectively, threw up and caught underhand in the air.

"You accuse me of assassination!" said Monk, trembling violently. "I warn you to beware, for I will not suffer such accusations without seeking redress. If you have any proof of the truth of your preposterous charge produce it."

At this moment Matt, looking bright as sunshine, leaped out of the Caravan.

"There's my proof," said Marshall. "Miss Monk, this amiable bridegroom of yours denies being concerned in harming Mr. Charles Brinkley. Is he telling the truth?"

Matt's face darkened and she looked at Monk with eyes of cordial detestation.

"No," she said, "he's lying."

"Matt," cried Monk, fiercely, "take care!"

"He's lying," she repeated, not heeding him. "I see him do it with my own two eyes, and I see William Jones helping him and looking on, they thought that no one was nigh, but I was. I was hiding behind them sacks and barrels in the cave."

Monk now felt that the game was almost up, for he was beset on every side, and the very ground seemed opening under his feet. The wretched Jones in a state bordering on frenzy remained on his knees wailing over his ruin. The two strangers, Lightwood and Marshall, looked on as calm but interested spectators. Matt, having delivered her home-thrust of accusation, stood and gazed into Monk's face with cool defiance.

"It is a plot!" Monk cried, presently; "an infamous plot to ruin me! You have been tampering, I see, with this wild girl, whom you foolishly suppose kin to me by blood. Arrest me, if you please —I shall not take the trouble to resist, for I am perfectly innocent in this matter."

He smiled, while they looked on at one another as if somewhat puzzled.

"As to the girl's relationship with my dead cousin, the very idea is absurd. Where are the proofs of her birthright?"

"Here," said a quiet voice.

Monk turned his eyes and started back in wonder, while William Jones shrieked and fell forward on his face. Standing before them in the sunshine was the reality or the semblance of —the murdered young man of the Caravan!

CHAPTER XVI.

The "Murdered" Man.

Yes, it was the artist himself, looking a little pale, and carrying one arm in a sling, but, otherwise, to all appearance in good health.

Monk had strong nerves, but he could not prevent himself from uttering a wild cry of horror and wonder. At the same moment Matt went to the young man's side, and with an air of indescribable [illegible]

Down on the Modern Theater.

EVERYONE is familiar with General Sherman's famous definition of war. The great Italian actress, Eleanora Duse, now applies the same harsh epithet to stage life. She says it is "hell—downright hell."

Duse has confessed to an interviewer that she is "tired of the theater, but not of art; tired of the theatrical part of stage life, tired of the necessary co-operation of artists, managers, scene-shifters and lamp-lighters."

"Yes," she continued, "I am tired of all and everything liable to obstruct my artistic endeavors and to interfere with my plans, executed or intended. I am dreaming of entering the lecture platform, but will do things in quite a different way from the ordinary.

"I mean to enliven the lecture platform and broaden its scope by retaining some of the stage's features. My American tour will be my swan's song as far as stageland is concerned.

"After that I will endeavor to realize this dream of making the world acquainted with the great masterpieces of literature without detracting their attention by undue scenic effects and the awkwardness or stupidity of actors playing incidental parts.

"One or two ladies or gentlemen will be engaged as my assistants, merely to look their parts and give me the cue. As for myself, I couldn't think of assuming several roles as some do at dramatic recitals.

"I needn't repeat," she continued "that I leave the stage without regret yet at the same time I am almost forced to do something of the kind. I can't be for ever playing Dumas and Bardou, Ibsen and Sudermann. No one of account is writing new plays for me and those that are written might as well remain unacted.

"I tell you la Duse is threatened by literary famine. Shall I wait until the public tires of my repertoire? Besides, I must rid myself of the slavery of stage life. That's no life at all. I assure you it is hell, downright hell."

Curious Whims.

Eccentricity is often nothing but the exaggeration of individuality, as with a scholar of some distinction who died towards the end of the last century. His peculiarity expressed itself in the way in which he tried to carry his scholarship, or the symbolism of it, into the grave. By the terms of his will he left six thousand guineas to his sister on condition that his funeral was carried out on curiously-prescribed lines. His coffin was painted green, and was followed by only six gentlemen—no relatives being invited—who were to receive ten guineas each provided they did not dress in black. The body was fully dressed. Under the head was placed a copy of Horace, and at the feet Bentley's Milton. In one hand was a pocket edition of Horace, and in the other a small Greek Testament; and another copy of Horace was laid underneath. The hired mourners sang over the closed grave the last stanza of the twentieth ode of the second book of Horace; and subsequently, after a generous supper, another ode was sung. "Which done," ran the final injunction of the will, "I would have them take a cheerful glass, and think no more of me." A French historian had a whimsical fancy for reading and writing by candlelight. At full noonday, in the brightest summer weather, he would have his candle by his side, and he would carry it in his hand when showing his visitors to the door.

Appearances Deceived Him.

Wit and Wisdom From New Books.

"When the lights are out," he said; "when forever and a night the actor bids the stage farewell; when stripped of mask and tinsel, he goes home to that Auditor who set him his part; then perhaps he will be told what manner of man he is. The glass that now he dresses before tells him not; but he thinks a truer glass would show a shrunken figure."—"Audrey."

The Up-to-Date Undertaker.

A Yankee undertaker advertises "Why live and be miserable, when you can be comfortably buried for twenty dollars?" We shall expect something of the kind over here soon. Don't be surprised when you take up your morning paper if you read this sort of thing: "Billy Mergan looked down the barrel of his daddy's gun to see where the bullet went to when it went off. The funeral was handsomely conducted by Smith & Co., who have always a large staff on hand, and are open to bury the whole neighborhood at twenty-four hours' notice. A pound of tea given away with every coffin. Order early and avoid disappointment."

Awful Experience with Heart Disease.—Mr L J Law, Toronto, Can., writes: "I was so sorely troubled with heart disease that I was unable for 18 months to lie down in bed lest I smother. After taking one dose of Dr Agnew's Heart Cure, I retired and slept soundly. I used one bottle and the trouble has not returned."—99

.Perfect Manhood.

Is rightly yours; but if you are not the man you should be, if you are losing your energy, your Vital force, memory, annoyed by Varicocele, shrunken parts, and feeling if you don't care what happens, you are suffering from Lost Vitality, it creeps upon men unawares; do not deceive yourself or remain in ignorance while you are being dragged down by this disease: no matter what the cause may be, whether early abuse, excess, or overwork and business cares, the results are the same; premature loss of strength and memory, emissions, impotency, Varicocele and shrunken parts. OUR LATEST METHOD TREATMENT WILL CURE YOU. We guarantee it as a positive cure for these conditions; it is the outcome of years of experience; it equalizes the circulation, stops all drains, thereby vitalizes the parts, restoring them to their normal condition and make the man of you as nature has intended. Do not be misled by so-called Specialists and Institutes. Read the following facts:

1. We do not accept an incurable case for treatment.
2. Each time you call you see Dr. Goldberg personally. He has 18 Diplomas, etc., which should be sufficient guarantee to his abilities. All other chronic, private and Blood Poison Specialists either have some doctor in charge of their office or have an assistant to doctor you.
3. We are doing business on our own reputation, not of our predecessor.
4. Our records show more actual cures than all the other Specialists combined.
5. You need pay nothing until you are convinced that you are thoroughly cured.

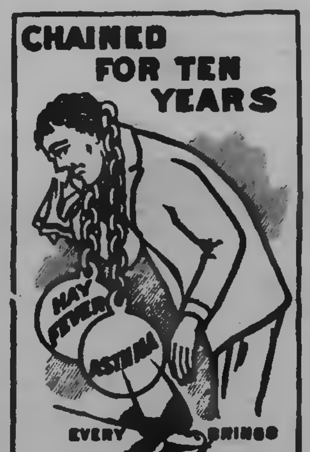
Asthma Cure Free.

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases,

Sent ABSOLUTELY FREE on receipt of postal. Write your name and address plainly.



There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DRS. TAFT BROS.' MEDICINE CO.:

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

Home address, 235 Rivington street.

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new Book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. It was written for us by a physician who has given the subject a great deal of thought and study, and it will no doubt prove of considerable interest and be of great benefit to those suffering from cancer or tumor.

If you are afflicted with cancer yourself, or have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their marches.

There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long tiresome marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this harmless and wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and rube marching of the foot-so... which is its invariable accompaniment. Mr. T. Buckart, "C" Co., R. C. R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm en route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed), T. Buckart.

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all druggists, or by mail. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

SORE FEET

If your feet are sore, tired and aching, Foot Elm can give you wonderful ease and comfort. Price, 25c. a box at all druggists, or sent by mail, postage free, Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by The Times.

NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to contribute items of news to its columns. Anything that is phoned or sent in writing to the office, of a nature suitable for publication, will be received and published.—Ed. Times.]

—The market was very light yesterday.

—The curlers will probably get to work today.

—There will be service in St. John's church this morning at 11 o'clock.

—The trouble with the anchor ice is about over for the present.

—The Sons of England will hold their election of officers on the evening of December 2nd.

—There will be no issue of the Times tomorrow on account of Thanksgiving day.

—New goods, imported direct from Germany and England, are being opened out at the Times Bookstore.

—A certain woman in town is said to be doing her own work in order to please her hired girl and keep her with her.

—Chief Rossel wishes it understood that the snow and coasting bylaws have not been repealed, and will be enforced.

—Have your Xmas photos taken at Whiten's as soon as possible, if you want them finished before the Holidays. Studio corner George and Hunter streets, west side.

—Dinna forget the Clachan Splore this afternoon and evening, in the Opera House. Plan of Opera House at Bunton's G. T. R. ticket office.

—Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald, who is away on a wood-purchasing expedition, sent home a magnificent black bear, which is now on exhibition at his wood and coal office. The animal weighs over three hundred pounds.

—At the great Clachan Splore this evening Hon. Senator Kerr, who is to deliver a twenty minutes' address on "The Day an' a' Wha' Honor it," will be introduced by Ald. G. M. Roger.

—A meeting of poultry men was held Tuesday night. The principal business was the revision of the prize list. Messrs Lleary and Doughty will call upon the merchants on Friday with a view to securing special prizes.

—The Warden has called a special meeting of the County Council for Tuesday next in order to allow the sugar beet industry to be considered by the whole Council and to have all the members meet the Town Council and Board of Trade. This is business.

The Times is requested by the committee to state that the entertainment in the opera house this evening will start sharp on time. This is absolutely necessary on account of the extreme length off the program, which consists of eighteen numbers.

The audience is also requested not to expect encores for the same reason.

Those who have not already done so should secure tickets at once, and get their seats marked.

Plan of the hall may be seen at the Grand Trunk Ticket Office.

Unnecessary to Suffer from Asthma

This distressing complaint can be perfectly cured by inhaling Catarrhozone, a vegetable antiseptic that destroys the germs which cause the disease. Catarrhozone is inhaled at the mouth from a convenient pocket inhaler and after permeating the minutest air cells, is exhaled slowly through the nostrils. It stops the cough, makes breathing regular, and erradicates the asthma so thoroughly from the system that it never returns. Don't suffer from Asthma, use Catarrhozone, it will speedily cure you. Large outfit, $1, small size, 25 cents. Druggists or by mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Scotch Heather

The committee of the "Clachan Splore" Concert wish to acknowledge, with thanks, the receipt of a muckel bunch of real Scotch heather from a thoughtful lady friend in Belleville. The bouquet is a well-preserved sample of the genuine sprig, with a freshness of its modest green foliage, and as full of its rare pink blossoms as if picked frae its native heath yestreen.

HORSE BUCKED.

Rider Severly Hurt

A Cincinnati man visiting in Texas, on a ranch, was thrown from a horse and so severely injured that his life was despaired of. He takes pride in telling how food saved his life. The heavy drugs given seriously injured his stomach and as he says "It seemed I would soon have to starve in the midst of plenty. My stomach refused to digest food, and I ran down from 165 to 133 pounds. When my appetite failed I was ready to give up and it looked as though I would soon wink out.'

One morning the foreman's daughter brought in what she called a splendid food and it turned out to be Grape-Nuts. A little skeptical I ate it and found it was good, and just the kind of food I could keep on my stomach which had been almost burned out by the vile drugs.

I felt that I had obtained a new lease of life for improvement set in at once. A week later I was weighed, and had gained two pounds. My weight has since steadily increased by the constant use of Grape-Nuts, and I am now better than I have been in years, as my friends will all testify.

In all kinds of athletic sports I notice I have a greater reserve force than formerly, for which I am indebted to Grape-Nuts. Taken in moderation it is the greatest food of its kind in the world, being equally well adapted to athletes and invalids." Paul Alwin Platz, 1906 Biglow Ave., Mt. Auburn, Cincinnati, O.

THE CLACHAN SPLORE

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—I notice that the Scotchmen of Peterborough are putting up a splendid programme on Thanksgiving Day, marking the anniversary of Scotland's patron saint. I hope the result will be to weld the sons of the Land of the Heather more together. There should be a strong Scotch society in Peterborough, and I think this will be the precurser of it.

OLD SCOTIA.

THE DISLOYAL ELEMENT

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I object to the item which appeared in the Times of yesterday reflecting on those who assisted in entertaining Mr. Redmond in Montreal and Ottawa. Mr. Redmond has said that all Ireland wants is a local Parliament, and surely it is not an improper request to make. It is notorious that the British Parliament has too much to do to properly legislate for Ireland.

Therefore, let us be fair in dealing with those who are working to secure for Ireland the boon of a local Parliament.

A LOYAL IRISHMAN.

Reply.—So far as the item referred to is concerned, it was communicated, and does not speak for the paper. The Times, however, has no use for men who are traitors to the British nation. Mr. Redmond may not belong to this class, but if not his words and actions greatly belie him.

JOHN REDMOND'S LOYALTY.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I am pleased to see the Times is not afraid to keep its readers informed regarding the movements of John Redmond, M.P., the Irish agitator. In this connection I beg to take the following from the Chicago Chronicle of Monday last, being one of a series of resolutions carried at Mr. Redmond's reception meeting

Resolved, That we thank the patriot soldiers of the South African republics for the humiliation they have put upon England in the field of battle, and for the exposure of her hypocrisy, greed and cruelty before the high court of Christendom; and further, that we hope that the four-color of the heroic Boers will soon float beneath the southern cross as the free symbol of the United States of South Africa.

What can our people mean by entertaining such men?

LOYALTY.

BRITAIN AND THE OTHER POWERS

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir permit me space in The Times to say a few words regarding Britain and the powers of Europe.

Mr. Chamberlain may have been indiscreet in his comparisons between reprisals in South Africa and like exgedients of baser degree in the Franco-Prussian war. Mr. Chamberlain is apt to be indiscreet in his public utterances. This is especially unfortunate inasmuch as Great Britain stands in great need of diplomatic wisdom at this time. The British authorities have had to contend with misconceptions, misrepresentations and manifestations of jealousy in other countries relative to conditions in South Africa.

In Germany falsehood has been especially rife. In that country the especially rife. In that country the replies to Mr. Chamberlain's comparisons have revealed what has probably not been misconstrued in the London Post's designation of "dangerous public sentiment." While it may be true as another British paper says, that the English people "cannot much longer endure these accumulated insults," it is not probable that serious conditions will arise from the present exchanges. There is too much at stake for both powers to believe that precipitate action would be possible.

What Germany and every other country should understand is that most of the sentiment about the Boers is inspired by impulsive sympathy for the weaker power in the struggle. Some of this feeling is merited, some of it is without legitimate foundation. The treatment of Boer prisoners is probably as good as the exigencies of the situation permit. The large death rate in the concentration camps has been plausibly explained by the refusal of the Boers to accept the hospital provisions and medicines and even the sanitary regulations demanded by their captors. The burghers mistrust the British, even in the latter's ministrations to the sick and wounded—a mistrust that no advanced nation would deem justifiable. They rely on their own primitive treatment of injury and disease—methods that may serve well in domestic life but which are wholly inadequate for the army camp.

The qualities of endurance and determination are admirable in friend or foe when wisely employed. They are so attractive in warfare that the persistent fighting of the few remaining Boers is calculated to win the world's thoughtless applause. But in truth there is little that is admirable in the conduct of those persons who are prolonging the struggle at the cost of their own numbers and regardless of the privations, the losses and the physical and mental suffering of their families. No sane person believes that the Boers can win. There is neither patriotism or heroism nor wisdom in protracting a guerrilla warfare that has no other aim than to harass the enemy—that takes no account of the present or future conditions of the weaker people.

As a writer recently pointed out, the finest courage displayed by Robert E. Lee was in disregarding popular odium in the South by making a complete surrender and in declining to accept Jefferson Davis' proposal to continue the struggle on guerrilla lines. The London Times commenting on this observation expressed a belief that will be shared by every fair-minded person—that in the days to come when the British and the Boers shall live together in the enjoyment of equal rights and generous prosperity in South Africa, both will regret that in these days of disastrous but hopeless strife the burghers did not have a Robert E. Lee, with the courage to save his people from self-inflicted and needless suffering.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, I am

Another Man Missing

Mrs. W. E. Abbs, Chatham, writes the police here for information as to whether the body of the man found recently in the Otonabee well answered the description of her brother, Bryan, who had been missing since June last. He was 62 years of age, 5 ft. 6 in. in height, thin grey hair, scar under left eye, and was about 135 lbs. in weight. This description tallies in no particular with that of the body.

Diamonds

Diamonds are the most interesting of all jewels They've figured in history, poetry and song. They've linked hearts together, provided ready money, and are to-day what they have been in all ages of the world's history—the most precious and beautiful ornaments. Nothing more acceptable or economical as a gift to one's self or one's friend. Diamonds are always worth their money, especially if you buy them from us, and there is no reason for paying more than our moderate price

HOW COL. HUGHES HANDLED THE BOERS

Humorous Article from Lieutenant Morrison, of Ottawa City.

COL. SAM HUGHES' RIGID METHODS

Contrasted With the Methods of the British Imperial Officers—A Reason Why the War is Prolonged.

The Ottawa Citizen, of which the gallant Lieut. Morrison is the capable editor, prints the following. As our readers know, Lieut. Morrison went to South Africa with the artillery division, where he greatly distinguished himself. His articles on the war are always readable and bright. The Times heartily endorses the proposal to give Col. Hughes a commission as major, in the third contingent as he would be the right man in the right place:

The Citizen says: A good many Canadians would like to see Col. Sam Hughes one of the majors of the mounted force now being sent out to South Africa, if he would accept such in lieu of the command he has applied for.

Col. Hughes has been subjected to a good deal of jocular criticism but he was a valuable man in his position as an intelligence officer in South Africa, though his opportunities were limited. Besides being a brave man he is a man of indomitable perseverance and energy and should make his mark in dealing with the Boers. When out before he was one of the few intelligence officers who could extract real information from the Boers and who could make surrendering Cape rebels cough up brand new Mauser rifles, ammunition, choice horses and saddlery. His methods were rough and ready but effective.

A British intelligence officer would sit in front of his quarters with a monocle in his eye, and a cigarette in his hand, and a string of rebels anxious to surrender (and get passes) would file up armed with a mobile museum of old elephant guns, flint locks, Martini rifles and shot guns of the pre-hammerless days. They would also each be leading a woe-begone old skate of a horse adorned by a moth-eaten saddle. The British officer would say: "Well, men. Come in to surrender, eh? Jolly good thing to do. You fellahs really ought to know better, don't ye know, than to take up arms. Vewy serious thing to do. Why, don't ye know, you might be shot for this?"

"Brought in your arms and horses, eh? Jolly good thing to do. Seen anything of the enemy about?"

Boers (in chorus): "Neeah, myn herr."

"Aw—just pile your arms down here, like good chaps, and hand over your horses. Don't see how you do such good shooting with those old tools. That must have been rather a good old elephant gun in its day. Make your own ammunition for it, I suppose."

"Yes, boss."

Officer (to orderly): "Just put that elephant gun aside, don'tyeknow. I want to take it home as a curio." (To the rebels): "When you have turned in your arms and horses, men, passes will be issued, and you can return to your farms, don'tyeknow. But see you don't get into any more trouble, or bai Jove! we'll have to take sewe-ah measures next time. Right—o! sergeant. Carry on. Orderly, bring that gun to my tent. Ta! Ta!"

The rebels armed with the protection of a British pass would depart to dig up their Mausers, get their own riding horses and resume business at the old stand. If any patriots called at their houses while they did not happen to be on the war path they would flash the passes at them with truculent impudence and the patriots could do nothing. The holders of the passes were peaceful subjects under British protection and a poor Tommy was liable to be shot for taking one of their chickens if he was hungry.

Col. Hughes' methods were less easy going and produced wonderful results. The Boer ought to be an ideal poker player for he is a bluffer from 'way back, but being an ignorant bluffer is called real hard he collapses. Observe Col. Sam at work: A bunch of rebels would be brought in to surrender with the usual old clo' outfit. Col. Sam would come out to receive them with a gun on his hip and pause to regard the outfit with his Eagle Eye fixed in a steel-blue glassy stare expressive of equal proportions of Angry Menace and Sovereign Contempt. Then he would remark coldly: "Sergeant, what are those Things?"

"Rebels came in to surrender, sir."

"Hugh! You a rebel! What have you got in your hands? A gun? Well, I'll be ——. Call that a gun? What's that behind you? A horse? Well, of all the —— —— —— impudence! Your name's Johan Weger and you own 10,000 acres out at Springbrook Spruit. And you have impertinence to come in here and produce that delapidated old shooting iron and that heap of perambulating crowbait to Me. Why, —— —— —— —— I've a good mind to hang you up to that telegraph pole. Shooting is too good for you. You're the same old —— —— —— —— that lead the commando that looted the loyalists over Uppington way. I suppose the rest of you were with the gang. Do you all understand English?

Rebels (in chorus)—Neeah, boss!

"Well, it don't matter a damm. I'll bet you understand Me. Now look here: You leave that —— —— —— collection of old iron here and hand over those alleged horses to the sergeant, and you foot it back home, d'yeee?—futsak! And by this hour to-morrow every —— —— —— —— man of you has got to be back here with a first class Mauser rifle in good working order, 100 rounds of ammunition and an A1 horse and saddle."

Rebels (in chorus): But, boss—

"Don't 'but' Me. You're blasted lucky that I don't string up a few of you as an example. Now, you be back here as I tell you by to-morrow or by the jumping —— —— —— —— I'LL GO AFTER YOU. You understand me thoroughly?"

Rebels (in chorus): "Yes, boss!"

"All right, you can go; and when you come in to-morrow I want you to bring in the rest of the gang or I'll go after them. I'll teach you people not to take up arms against Her Majesty the Queen. Don't forget what I say about those Mausers and horses. Geo to h'll out o' this."

Next day there would be a stack of brand new Mausers in the quartermaster's stores, a slick looking bunch of horses in the corral, and a lot of ex-rebels would be footing it home to their distant farms over the veldt firmly convinced that rebellion was not half such an entertaining recreation as they had been led to believe.

But that British officer could not have done that to save his life. Principally because it would not be "club form." That is the reason why the war is still going on.

THE ROBLIN CABINET

Makes a Journey From the Prairie Capital to Toronto on a Mysterious Mission.

Winnipeg, Nov. 30.—Premier Roblin, Hon. C. H. Campbell, Attorney-General; Hon. J. A. Davidson, Treasurer, and Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, left yesterday for Toronto. Mr. Roblin stated they were going on public business of importance, but refused to state in what connection. Their mission is understood to be in regard to the Liquor Act and also concerning the mortgage to be given the province by the Canadian Northern Railway in return for the guarantee of bonds authorized at last session of the Legislature.

CAPTURED BY THE REBELS

Commissary Wagon and Privates are Taken by Philippine Insurgents

Manila, Nov. 30.—The insurgents have attacked a commissary wagon between Magdalena and Gajayjaza, seriously wounding a sergeant and a private of the Egth regiment and capturing privates Dunn and Frenning, two horses, three rifles and 300 rounds of ammunition.

There has been a recrudescence of insurgent activity at Tanauan province of Batangas, southwest Luzon. An interpreter named Alberto has been killed in the maret place for refusing to donate a percentage of his salary to the insurgents. Other government employes have been similiarly threatened.

KILL THOUSANDS OF DUCKS

Hunters Find Wild Birds by the Millions in the Southwest

Phoenix, Ari., Nov. 30.—Wild ducks from the northern lakes are swarming southward in greater numbers than have ever been known in this portion of the southwest. Hunters are congregating below the international line, where game laws are unknown, in such crowds that the birds are being slaughtered by thousands. Every fall and winter millions of ducks are killed there by white hunters, Mexicans and Indians, but each year there is an apparent increase in the incoming flocks.

TO FLOAT RAILWAY COMBINE

Morgan & Co. Return Millions Put up For the Steel Trust

New York, Nov. 30.—In preparation for the final operations necessary to the flotation of the $400,000,000 of Great Northern securities stock J. P. Morgan & Co., syndicate managers of the United States Steel Company, today returned $25,000,000 to the $200,000,000 syndicate formed by them last spring to finance the steel corporation. This was all that had been called from the syndicate, although the bankers represented therein had pledged themselves to the extent of $200,000,000 if that amount had been necessary to the flotation of the $1000,000,000 trust.

The guaranteed profits to the syndicate were $50,000,000 worth of stock It is generally supposed that this stock had been disposed of in the market through the First National Bank and James R. Keene, at an average of 90 for the preferred and 43 for the common, which would make the profit $33,250,000, of which J. P. Morgan & Co.'s share would be $6,312,500.

REPORT ON NEW WARSHIPS.

Board of Construction Completes Recommendations for Congress.

Washington, Nov. 30.—The naval board of construction to-day completed its recommendations called for by congress relative to two new battleships and two armored cruisers, and also covering many technical questions, which have arisen as to naval architecture, armor, batteries, turrets, etc.

The recommendations as to battleships call for two ships of 16,000 tons each and two armored cruisers of 14,500 tons each. The battle-ships are to be heavily armored.

Neither the battle-ships nor cruisers have superposed turrets. The torpedo tubes also are entirely eliminated from these plans and the recommendations of the board favor an abandonment of torpedoes on heavy armed ships, leaving the torpedo warfare to be carried on by torpedo boats and the smaller cruisers.

Catarrah Poisons and Their Remedy.

The poisonous secretions from Catarrh are dangerous because they affect the stomach and bowels, giving rise to an unhealthy condition of these organs. Catarrh is the source of much ill health, and was considered practically incurable, until it was demonstrated to the satisfaction of the medical profession that by the use of Catarrhozone any case of nasal or throat trouble can be permanently and quickly cured. Catarrhozone by its unusual merit has enlisted the support and endorsement of the most prominent medical authorities, who freely state that any one giving it a trial is sure to receive permanent benefit. CABLE PARTED AND MINERS FELL

Eight Men Fell Down Mine Shaft a Distance of 700 Feet

LIVING MEN WERE RESCUED

Three are Dying, However, and Others Probably Fatally Injured — Crushed Chests, Broken Arms and Legs.

Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 29.—At the Lambert mines, near Masontown, eight men, after dropping a distance of seven hundred feet down a mine shaft, were all brought to the surface living, but with three dying and the others probably fatally hurt. Just as they got aboard the cage, the cable parted and the cage dropped. A few seconds later the miners on top heard the sound of a crash and splintering wood. The cage on the opposite side was immediately loaded with a rescue party, who on arriving at the bottom, found the men lying unconscious on the floor of the cage, with crushed chests, broken arms and legs. One man's skull was fractured.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Cartwright, Man., Nov. 27.—J. Asling was murdered in cold blood here last night at the house of W. Bourne. A stranger who looked like a half-breed, mounted on a light colored horse intercepted W. Bourne when the latter was near his home and asked him for money. Bourne declined giving him any and the man drew a revolver and tried to shoot Bourne. The latter ran into his home, closely followed by the stranger. They both got into the sitting room, when Mr. and Mrs. Bourne and Mr. Asling were seated They all arose at the intrusion, but before anyone realized what was the matter, the man shot Asling dead. He then ran out and got away. It is supposed the stranger came from the half-breed setlement near St. Johns. N. Dakota, about 25 miles southwest of Cartwright.

Colon, Nov. 27.—Private advices received here from Colon announced that Captain Perry of the United States battleship Iowa had placed guards on all trains of the Panama Railroad and Steamship Company. The guards were being relieved, the despatch said, by a relay system.

Local officials on the Panama Railroad and Steamship Company had no advices denying or affirming that Gen. Alban had been refused transportation for his troops by the isthmian officials of the company or that he had transported his troops as far as Culebra.

THE ISTHMIAN QUESTION.

London, Nov. 27.—In discussing the trend of South American affairs, several of the leading papers express novel convictions.

The Daily Telegraph says: —"The United States are acting in strict accordance with their diplomatic rights; but they may find it extremely difficult to adhere to their idea I programme."

The Daily News says:— "All this playes straight into the hands of the United States, and the energetic power has not been slow to take advantage of it by forceful acts, which may at any moment develop into an occupation of the isthmus."

The Morning Post, which hardly expects the isthmian squabbles to have any serious effect upon the relations between the great powers, says,—"Germany will not indulge in any special risks or exertions over a mere point of honor in the Venezuelan dispute. Without expressing an opinion on the abstract justice of the claim of the United States to control the isthmus, we believe no single power is likely to oppose it. The Monroe Doctrine is hardly likely to be contested so long as the European powers are divided among themselves."

THE REBELS DEFEATED.

Colon, Columbia, Nov. 27.— The Liberals were defeated in the engagement at Empire, and retreated to San Pablo. Over 150 men were lost on both sides, General Alban was slightly injured, and had his horse shot from under him. The premises of the Pacific Mail Steaming Co. are being guarded by American troops General Ignacio Faliarq has agreed not to land forces here or open fire upon the town until Friday morning at 6 o'clock. By that time the large foreign population will have retired to places of safety.

GENERAL SLIGHTLY WOUNDED.

New York, Nov. 27.—According to the Colon, Columbia, correspondent of The Herald, Gen. Alban has been slightly wounded in a battle with the revolutionists. His horse was killed under him.

London, Nov. 27.— "The course of events in Central America," says the Pall Mall Gazette, "is showing how inevitable it is that the United States should be the principal performer in these isthmian games, and that it is just as well that their Government and ours should have settled outstanding differences and be working amicably together for the preservation of an 'open door.'"

London, Nov. 27.— From the latest reports it seems that the emigration of Russians to Siberia—their Colonial Empire — is being carried on with great success and on model lines.

During the last five years the Siberian railroad has enabled Russia to successfully help 1,000,000 peasants over the Urals and establish them as small farmers in Western Siberia.

The Government's method has been to select suitable persons from each locality and send them as pioneers into Siberia to choose such land as would be fitted for the pastoral or agricultural occupations of their family and friends. These pioneers have then returned to their villages and have escorted whole families eastward—the railway fare being roughly a shilling for every hundred miles.

All along the route medical attendance is provided free, and for children, the aged and the sick food is issued gratis at the chief stations.

Some 13,000,000 acres have already been allotted to these emigrants, together with grain and meal to tide them over the first winter, and seed and implements for their first year's harvest.

Nearly 200 churches and 120 schools have been built in the first three years The capital required for the first year's work has been advanced to all in real need of it, and no interest has been charged. Moreover, no taxes are or will be imposed on the new arrivals until they have completed three year a residence.

All furniture and agricultural implements required have been sold by the Government to the emigrants on "easy repayment" terms.

REPORTS NOT BELIEVED.

Sofia, Nov. 27.—Referring to the report that the brigands have sent a message to American Diplomatic Agent Dickinson that unless he accedes by January 1 to their original demand for 25,000, Turkish pounds ($110,000) ransom, they will kill both their captives, Miss Ellen H. Stone and Mrs. Tsilka, "this report comes in private advices from Duonitza, the Bulgarian frontier town, which is the present headquarters of some of the secret agents through whom Mr. Dickinson has been in communication with the brigands, but it is not believed here."

THE KAISER'S WISE REMARKS.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—Another version of the Emperor's remarks in addressing the naval recruits at Kiel quotes him as saying:

"You must not think of yourselves, 'it is all very easy for the Emperor to command, but the soldiers have the difficult duty to perform.' I too, have taken my soldier oath, like yourselves, and I must perform my duty like yourselves, each in his place."

Wilhelmina, the youthful Queen of Holland, is now the centre of a sad tragedy. Her marriage to Prince Henry about a year ago was believed at the time to be a love match, but later events however, indicate that she has thrown herself away on a good-for-nothing fellow. Wilhelmina is one of the most beautiful and popular sovereigns of Europe, and her misfortune which has developed of late is a source of deep regret to her friends and admirers. It appears that Prince Henry had a quarrel with the Queen about his gambling debts, which Her Majesty declined point blank to pay. It is said that a very violent scene followed, and that the harsh conduct of Prince Henry is responsible for Queen Wilhelmina's recent illness. The Prince rushed away to Germany, but returned, though he has not yet been to the place where the Queen lies. It is also stated that a great coolness has sprung up between Prince Henry and the Queen's mother. Correspondents at The Hague telegraph that the feeling against the Prince is growing very bitter.

U. S. CONSUL DEAD.

Genoa, Nov. 27. — James Fletcher, United States Consul in this city, is dead.

FLYNVILLE, DOURO.

—Farmers in this locality are busy threshing. All kinds of grain are turning out well.

Messrs. Sullivan and Russel have purchased a Waterloo threshing machine from Mr. Ed. Walsh. They intend introducing the system that is followed in the North-west, of threshing by the bushel. They have engaged the services of two experienced hands, Thomas Morgan and William Crowe. We wish them success in their enterprise.

—Mr. S. G. Birch made a large shipment of turkeys on Wednesday from this vicinity to Dundas and Flavelle Bros. Lindsay,. Stans is a hustler.

—William Crowe has arrived home after a long absence in the back country, where he has been bushranging for the Dickson Company. William reports the weather very cold back north.

—Quite an exciting event took place in our village last week, being a race between Lewis Sullivans "Commodore" and P. C. Towns' "Split the Wind," the race being a mile heat for $100 a side. On the start the betting was two to one on Commodore,, but before the half mile post was reached, it was evident to all present that Split the Wind was going to be the winner. As they reached the mile post almost neck and neck a dispute arose as to which horse won, but after much discussion, the judges, Maurice O'Brien adn William O'Connor, decided in favor of Split the Wind. Both horses were in excellent condition, and were driven by their owners.

—Mr. John McManus shipped a car load of cattle to Toronto last week. He reports the markets good. Mr. P. Torpey is also doing a large business in the shipping line this fall.

—We expect soon to see a bride brought to our midst by one of our bachelor friends, as he has fitted up his beautiful residence and furnished it throughout. We wish you success, John.

—Mrs. P. Dwyer was visiting friends in the village this week.

—Miss Gorman, of Slopeville, was in the village this week.

—Mrs. McMahon intends erecting a commodious residence on her lot on Queen street. Mrs. P. Dwyer has the contract for the carpentering work, and P. Whibbs the masonry work. It will be an ornament to our village.

—Mr. Wm. O'Brien, our genial Clerk, passed through our village a few days ago on his way to Warsaw.

—Mr. P. Davey and Mr. John Towns have just arrived home from an extended visit in the United States, where they visited the Pan-American, and they also attended President McKinley's funeral. They are looking hale and hearty.

—The social held in our village hall on Thanksgiving night was a great success, and all present had a very enjoyable time.

Pimples and Blotches,

how unsightly, sometimes disgusting, mortifying to the sufferer and unpleasant to all. An evidence of poor blood and lowered vitality of the eliminating organs. They need toning up —the whole system does. You can quickly bring about the improved condition by using Ferrozone. Poisons are driven out of the blood, organs grow stronger, the blood richer, the nerves stronger. Pimples and blotches disappear. color becomes good. Glad! Just try and see how much joy can be gotten out of a box of Ferrozone.

THE AWFUL WRECK ON MICHIGAN ROAD

Further Particulars of the Great Calamity

A HORRIBLE HOLOCAUST

After the Wreck the Cars Take Fire and Many Are Burned to Death

One of the Most Horrible Accidents in the History of Railway Travel—The Cause of the Accident

Detroit, Nov. 29.—From 100 to 150 persons were killed or injured in the most disastrous railroad wreck in the history of Michigan railroads. Two heavily loaded passenger trains on the Wabash Railroad collided head-on at full speed one mile east of Seneca, the second station west of Adrian. The westbound train of two cars, loaded with immigrants, and five other coaches was smashed and burned, with the result of awful loss of life and fearful injuries to a majority of its passengers. The eastbound train, the Continental Limited suffered in scarcely less degree.

The track in the vicinity of the wreck is strewn with dead and dying. Many physicians from Detroit have gone to the scene. No. 4, the Continental Limited, had engine No 609, Engineer Strong, Conductor G. J. Martin; and No 13, double-header, engine No 88, Engineer Work, and engine No 151, Engineer Parks; Conductor Chas. Trell The Continental Limited, it is believed, disobeyed orders in not waiting at Seneca for the immigrant train, thereby causing the wreck.

TERRIBLE SCENES.

The track at the point where the collision occurred was straight, and at first the officials could not understand how the accident could have happened. The immigrant train, which ordinally is due to leave Detroit at 2.30 o'clock, was two hours late, leaving at 4.20. The two trains met at Montpelier, O., according to schedule, but the Continental Limited had orders to wait for the immigrant at Seneca.

WHERE THE BLAME LIES

The blame is therefore placed on the conductor or engineer of the Continental Limited. Had this train been held at Seneca, the accident would not have occurred. The Continental Limited was due at Seneca at 6.43, according to the changes in schedule, but apparently orders to wait were disobeyed, and the probabilities that the true story of why will never be told, as the train crews undoubtedly met instant death. Advices from the wreck state that the country for miles around is lighted up by the burning cars, and that the flames could not be quenched because of the lack of proper apparatus. Mangled bodies were picked up along the track by the farmers before the special train sent from Adrian arrived on the scene.

In some instances the bodies were mangled beyond all recognition. The bodies which the rescuers managed to pull from the burning ruins of the immigrant cars were so badly burned that their identity will probably never be ascertained.

The immigrant train was a regular train carrying two cars of immigrants going west, and was behind time. This train was composed of seven coaches, hauled by two engines, Nos. 88 and 151. Reports differ so far as to the number of coaches immigrants. One says there were but two, and another says there were five or six coaches carrying this class of tourists.

It is not thought that any Detroit people were injured, as the continental limited, immediately behind the immigrant contained the Detroit passengers for Chicago.

SOME OF THE VICTIMS.

Among the great list of dead, only one name is known here at present. This is Miss Dido Dentser, of Tupperville, Ont. She was alive when rescued and her expiring breath said: "Notify Wm. Moore." That was all. A special to the Tribune, from Adrian, gives the following list of persons as among the injured.—Geo. Sweeney, B. B. Richardson, express messenger head cut and both legs mangled; Mary Dolman, injured slightly; H. B. Whitney, an Ontario railroad despatcher, seriously injured.

The responsibility for the accident is now on the crew of the Continental Limited.

ANOTHER STORY OF THE WRECK

Detroit, Nov. 29.—One of the most disastrous wrecks in the history of the Wabash Railroad or any other Michigan railroad, occurred at Seneca, Mich, a small way station, about 70 miles southwest of Detroit, between 7 and 7.30 o'clock last night. Train No. 13, an immigrant train, with two engines, west-bound, collided, under a full head of stream, with train No. 4 east-bound about one mile from Seneca.

The result was that five or six coaches on the emigrant train were crushed, and its load of human freight sent into eternity in a moment, while one coach on train No. 4, which consisted of a parlour car, dining and baggage cars, were also telescoped, and four dead bodies have been taken from the ruins.

A TERRIBLE DEATH ROLL

But the number of dead, injured and burned will be anywhere from 60 to 150.

The people on that train were caught like rats in a trap and crushed. Then the wreck caught fire, and those who were not instantly killed were slowly roasted to death, and none of the few spectators who hastily gathered from the farm houses near by were able to afford aid.

The whole emigrant train was soon consumed by the flames, and every person on that train, it is reported now, was killed. Farmers residing along the track rushed in on the blazing mass to rescue those who they thought might be alive. The bodies hauled out of the wreck were taken to near-by farm houses, which are filled with dead, and large numbers of injured were taken to an hospital at Peru, Ind.

Along the track, long lines of burned bodies lie covered with blankets, presenting a gruesome sight. It may be that the exact number of killed, or who they are, will never be known.

At present it is impossible to get anything resembling a list of injured or dead from Seneca.

It is said here that the accident was the result of a misunderstanding of orders. It is reported in Seneca that No 4 should have waited at Seneca station, and No. 13 should have taken the siding. This was not done. Then the crash came.

The net result is that one whole train—No. 13 — is burned, the engines are complete wrecks on both trains, and on No 4 the coach between the dining and the baggage car is crushed into kindling wood.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

Special Services to be Conducted by Rev. A Murphy.

Rev. Arthur Murphy, M.A., will conduct a mission at St. Luke's church, commencing on Dec. 8. It will be continued for two weeks. There will be services conducted in the afternoon in the form of a bible reading and an evangelistic service will be held each evening. Special services for men and also for children will be arranged.

Rev. Mr. Murphy is a fluent speaker and a convincing debater.

Hunting Notes.

—A white deer was shot by a Guelph hunting party in Muskoka. The animal is a great rarity, and it is understood that the Smithsonian Institute has offered $1,000 for the specimen. What disposition will be made of the animal is not yet decided on.

—Eagle Lake cor. of Bobcaygeon Independent: A lady in this district shot a fine deer lately. Next day she had a little dear of her own. Both doing well. This beats all. We don't want to boast, but by jingo if we do, we've got the men, we've got the deer, we've got the women, too. Truly we are a great people.

—Minden Echo: A party of pot hunters, reported to be from Port Hope, went north of Minden to hunt deer without sufficient licenses. On their return from the woods they had an official visit from the constable here, acting under instructions from the department in Toronto. The constable found them loaded inside and out with venison; they were taking out several carcases of deer and a lot more cut up. On being brought before the Magistrate, Mr. Diuners was asked to contribute $20 and costs to the public funds, and the venison claimed by the unlicensed part of the gang was confiscated.

GENERAL CASTRO KILLED BY REBELS

Leader of the Government Troops Met Death at Bohia

THE SURRENDER OF COLON.

Despatch to Washington Says Arrangements Have Been Made for the Surrender To-Day

New York, Nov. 29.—A despatch to The Herald from Colon, Colombia, says,—"General Francisco Castro, who led the Government troops in the capture of the Barbacoas Bridge on Tuesday, was killed early Thursday morning during an engagement with the insurgents force at Bohia Soldado. General Castro has been acting as second in command of the Government force on the Isthmus.

LIBERALS GIVE UP.

Washington, Nov. 29. —The following cablegram was to-day received at the Navy Department, from Captain Perry, of the Iowa.—"Colon, Nov 29. —Arrangements for surrender to-day of Colon and Liberal forces have been completed."

Washington, Nov. 29.— A cablegram has been received at the State Department from Consul-General Gudger, dated Panama, saying that the Liberals have been defeated and that the Government forces are in possession of Colon.

THE RUGBY BALL

The Event Was a Brilliant Function and Largely Attended

The Rugby club's third annual reception and ball, held in the opera house last night, was a brilliant function and a success in every way. The large hall had been converted into a spacious ball room and was very tastefully and profusely decorated with many colored flags, pennants and bunting, the work of Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, who on this occasion have surpassed all previous efforts in the matter of decorating. Cosy corners were in evidence at the head of the hall, elegant robes for their construction having been kindly loaned by Messrs Harris, Lech and Clarke, while the stage was pleasingly furnished with upholstery and carpet, and adorned with potted palms loaned by Mr. Richard Hall. The hall presented a brilliant appearance, the handsome costumes of the ladies adding to the effect. The Misses Hurley furnished exceeding acceptable music, and the piano used was supplied by the Stanley Piano Company. The excellent supper served was very considerately provided by lady friends of the club, to whose generous assistance the success of the event is in no small measure due. The smaller hall served for a dining room and was very artistically dressed in the club's colors—a red cross over a white field; the tables were decorated in the same way, which with a plentiful sprinkling of cut chrysanthemums and carnations loaned by Messrs. Jordan, Mason and Blade, had a charming effect. Retiring rooms for both ladies and gentlemen were on the first floor.

The function in general was under the executive's management, and the following sub-committee had charge of the dancing were: Dr. Scott, hon. secretary, and Messrs. R. F. McWilliams, M. S. Clarry, Hal. B. Burnham, H. Rush, A. W. McPherson, H. R. H. Kenner.

The Lady Patronesses were, Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mrs. W. H. Hill, Mrs. G. W. Hatton, Mrs. D. J. Lundy, Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. John Burnham, Mrs. T. A. S. Hay and Mrs. John Crane.

The program was a lengthy one, calling for nineteen numbers and six extras, comprising waltzes, two steps, three steps, lancers and military dances.

There were over a hundred couples present, and every detail was successfully carried out. The team, which has for the second time in three years won the intermediate championship of the Canadian Rugby Association, although not tendered a formal reception, was warmly greeted and conplimented on every hand, and it is exceedingly gratifying that their recent victory should have been celebrated by so brilliant an event.

PROHIBITION.

If there is anything funnier than the present position of the Ontario Government and the party press with regard to the recent decision of the English Privy Council, we should like to get it for our Xmas number. Mr. Ross, when pressed by the prohibitionists for a statement of policy with respect to the question of prohibition or no prohibition for Ontario, turned up his eyes with horror at the idea that he was not in favor of prohibition. Of course he was, but—his hands were tied. It was uncertain whether a Provincial act would be legal, etc., therefore of course he could not say until such time as there was a test case (that refuge for the desperate.) The test came. A Conservative politician (who would have thought it,) brought in prohibition in Manitoba, and now the Privy Council of England say's it was legal and within Provincial rights. What applies to Manitoba, of course applies to Ontario, and there's the rub. Whoever has looked in the Globe for an explanation of the Government's opinion of the present state of things must have noticed the absent treatment accorded to it by that paper. It waited till somebody else should speak and "The Presbyterian" has spoken—for a referendum and to the effect that the late plebiscite was merely "academic." Fancy the farmers of Dummer and of Cavendish driving headlong over rough roads and ploughed land merely to record an "academic" vote! What on earth could they have been thinking of? However, the Globe does not commit itself to "The Presbyterian's" noble (?) stand, or—to anything else. Could it be enforced? Certainly not by luke-warm advocates of this type. Perhaps the "academic" language used by the Globe and its confrere really means that when they roared for prohibition a year or so ago they were merely lying. It begins to look like it. Why is it not hailed as a glorious decision—a righteous decision, etc., etc., if these papers are in earnest? Their fear really means that they are against it. "He that is not for me is against me." But away with this abominable hypocrisy, which is forty times worse than drinking. To take a drink and swallow it is far better than telling a lie and making other people believe it to be the truth. The way of the political transgressor is hard. Come, brace up Messrs. Editors, and shame the devil! What does the Examiner say? We shall enquire for the Review later. But what is religion or prohibition when politics are involved? The strain is too great. A half-century of Sunday School is but a tale that is told. We must elect our man, it doesn't matter who he is. So much for principles. As Josh Billings used to say "Principle is only for use on Sundays. Practice, is the thing for every day."

A Naval Battle on Horseback.

GENERAL PAEZ was the first president of the republic of Venezuela, and to him perhaps, more than to any other man, with the exception of Simon Bolivar, Venezuela owes her independence. Paez was a llanero—cowboy—on the llanos or plains of the Orinoco, and at the age of eighteen was superintendent of a large cattle estate. One of the most remarkable incidents of modern warfare, in which Paez played the principal part, is chronicled in Mr. W. E. Curtis's book on Venezuela.

General Paez is the only man who ever fought a naval battle on horseback. With his cavalry he actually attacked and captured a fleet of ships.

While Bolivar was trying to cross the Apure River with his army, during the struggle for independence, he was prevented by a half-dozen or more of Spanish gunboats, which anchored in the stream and moved up and down as he did.

"I would give the world to have possession of that flotilla," exclaimed he to Paez, who had then risen to be second in command, "for I can never cross the river as long as it is there! If it belonged to us, instead of to the enemy, the crossing would be an easy matter."

"I will have those flecheras (ships) or die!" exclaimed Paez; and, calling upon his llaneros—his regiment of cowboys—he said: "Let those follow Tio who dare!"

"Tio" was the pet name by which Paez was known among his reckless followers, but he never used it himself except in an emergency.

He spurred his stallion into the stream, followed by three thousand llaneros, and their horses, which are taught to swim as well as to gallop carried them directly to the gunboats.

It was night. The Spanish fleet was taken entirely unawares. The llaneros clambered from their saddles to the decks of the vessels, and then let their horses swim back to shore. Thus, after cutting off their own retreat, it was a question of win or die. They fought desperately, and every vessel was captured.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia ave., Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Five boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, sustaining no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Mann, Merlin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James R. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. H. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not cure.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

"MATT."

and sweetness, took his hand — the hand which was free —and put it to her lips.

"The proof is here," he said calmly, "here upon my person. I am not quite dead, you see, Mr. Monk of Monkshurst, and I thought I should like to bring it you myself. It consists, as you are aware, of Colonel Monk's dying message, written on the fly-leaf of his prayer-book, and of the marriage certificate of his wife; both these having been placed upon his child's person, concealed by the unsuspecting and illiterate Jones, and found by me after a lapse of many years."

Monk did not speak; his tongue was frozen. He stood aghast, opening and shutting his clinched hands spasmodically, and shaking like a leaf. Reassured to some extent by the sound of the voice, unmistakably appertaining to a person of flesh and blood, William Jones gradually uplifted his face and looked in ghastly wonder at the speaker.

"You will be anxious to ascertain," proceeded Brinkley, with his old air of lightness, "by what accident, or special Providence, I arose from the grave in which you politely entombed me? The explanation is very simple My young friend here, Matt, the foundling, or, as I should rather call her, Miss Monk, of Monkshurst, came to my assistance, attended to my injuries, which were not so serious as you imagined, and enabled me, before daybreak, to gain the kindly shelter of my caravan. Tim and a certain rural doctor did the rest. I am sorry to disappoint you, Mr. Monk, but I felt bound to keep my promise —to interfere seriously with your little arrangements, if you persistently refused to do justice to this young lady."

As he spoke, Monk uttered a savage oath and rushed toward the road; but Marshall was after him in a moment, and sprung upon him. There was a quick struggle. Suddenly Monk drew a knife, opened it, and brandished it in the air; so that it would have gone ill with his assailant if the herculean Tim, coming to the rescue, had not pinioned him from behind. In another moment the knife was lying on the grass, and Monk was neatly handcuffed by the detective.

"Now, governor, you'd better take it quietly!" said Marshall, while Monk struggled, and gnashed his teeth in impotent rage. "You're a smart one, you are, but the game's up at last."

Monk recovered himself, and laughed fiercely.

"Let me go! Of what do you accuse me? It was murder just now, but since the murdered person is alive (d—n him!) I should like to know on what charge you arrest me."

"Oh, there's no difficulty about that!" said Brinkley, looking at him superciliously. "In the first place, you have by fraud and perjury possessed yourself of what never legally belonged to you. In the second place, you attempted murder, at any rate. But upon my life, I don't think you are worth prosecuting. I think, Mr. Marshall, you might let him go."

"It's letting a mad dog loose, sir," replied Marshall. "He'll hurt somebody."

"What do you say, Miss Monk?" said Brinkley. "This amiable-looking person is your father's cousin Shall I release your bridegroom in order that you may go with him to the altar of Hymen and complete the ceremony?"

"I hate him!" cried Matt; "I should like to drown him in the sea."

Brinkley laughed.

"Your sentiments are natural, but unchristian. And the gentle Jones, now, who is looking at you so affectionately, what would you do with him? Drown him in the sea too?"

"No, no Matt," interposed William Jones, abjectly; "speak up for me, Matt. I ha' been father to you all these years."

Matt seemed perplexed what to say. So Brinkley again took up the conversation.

"On reflection we will refer William Jones to his friends the 'coast-guard chaps.' I think he will be punished enough by the distribution of his little property in the cave. Eh, Mr. Jones?"

Jones only wrung his hands and wailed, thinking of his precious treasure.

"And so, Matt," continued Brinkley, "there will be no wedding after all. I'm afraid you're awfully disappointed?"

Matt replied by taking his hand again, lifting it to her lips, and kissing it fondly. The young man turned his head away for his eyes had suddenly grown full of grateful tears

CONCLUSION.

My tale is told. The adventure of the Caravan has ended. Little more remains to be said.

Monk, of Monkshurst, was not brought to trial for his iniquities, but he was sorely enough punished by the loss of his ill-gotten estates Before the claim of the foundling was fully proved he left England, never to return. Whether he is alive or dead I can not tell.

William Jones, too, escaped legal punishment. A severer retribution came upon him in the seizure and dispersal of the hoards in the great cave. So sorely did he take his loss to heart that he crept to his bed and had an attack of brain fever. When he reappeared on the scene of his old plunderings his intellect was weakened, and he showed curious evidences of imbecility. But the ruling passion remained strong within him. I saw him only last summer, rambling on the sea-shore, talking incoherently to himself, and watching the sea in search of wreckage as of old.

And Matt?

Well, her title to Monkshurst and the property was fully proved. For a long time she did not realize her good fortune, but gradually the pleasant truth dawned upon her in a sunrise of nice dresses, jewelry and plenty of money. Chancery stepped in like a severe foster-parent, and sent her to school. There she remained for several years; but Charles Brinkley, who had first taken in hand the vindication of her claims, and who never ceased to be interested in her, saw her from time to time, and took particular note of her improvement in her grammar and the gentle art of speech.

"Matt," he said, when they met last Christmas in London, and when he saw before him, instead of a tawny girl, as bright and buxom a young lady as ever wore purple raiment and fine linen, "Matt, you are 'growed-up' at last!"

Matt blushed and hung her head, with a touch of her old manner.

"Yes, I am grown up, as you say. I wonder what William Jones would think if he saw me now."

"And if he noticed these pretty boots, Matt, and heard you play the piano and prattle a little in French. Upon my word, it's a transformation! You always were a nice girl, though."

"Do you really think so?" asked Matt, shyly. "Did you always think so?"

"Certainly."

"Even when I told you I liked you so much, and you told me 'it wouldn't do?'"

It was Brinkley's turn to blush now. It was clear that Matt, despite other changes, still retained her indomitable frankness.

"Even then," he replied, laughing. "But I say you were a precocious youngster. You proposed to me, you know!"

"I know I did," said Matt, "and it wasn't leap-year then."

She added still more slyly:

"But it's leap-year now!"

Their eyes met. Both blushed more and more.

"Matt, don't! It won't do, you know! Yes, I say so still. You're a rich woman, and I'm only a poor devil of a painter. You must marry some great swell."

But Matt replied:

"I shall never marry any one but you!"

"You won't? Do you mean it?"

"Of course I do."

He caught her in his arms.

"My darling Matt — yes. I shall call you by that dear name to the end of the chapter. You love me then? I can't believe it!"

"I have loved you," she answered, laughing, "ever since I first came —'to be took!'"

And she rested her head on his shoulder, just as she had done in the old days, when she was an unsophisticated child of Nature.

"So there's to be a wedding after all," he said, kissing her. "Matt I've an idea!"

"Yes?"

"When we marry, suppose we arrange to spend the honeymoon in —a Caravan."

The End.

South African Affairs

New York. Nov. 27.—The Sun says, The British send word from Pretoria that they have forced the Boer guerrillas out of one-third of the high veldt and the whole region will soon be cleared of them. During the war the British have very seldom referred to the divisions of the Transvaal by the names that the Boers applied to them. It is of the utmost importance to the cause of the Boers that they retain their foothold in the high veldt. What is this region?

The Transvaal decreases in elevation above the sea from south to north. To indicate these different elevations the Boers divided their country into three zones, running east and west, the high veldt (hooge veld) of the south, the middle veldt, or "garden of the Transvaal" in the centre, and the lower bush (bosch) veldt of the north. These divisions are distinguished not only by their different elevations above sea level but also by their dissimilar aspects and industries.

The high veldt in mountainous or very hilly, from 4,500 or 6,500 feet above the sea, extending from the southern border to a little north of the latitude of Johannesberg. It is almost destitute of trees, is very dry during the winter months, and is splendid sheep pasture. This is the region of railroads and gold. As most of the larger towns are scattered over the high veldt, its people had more to do with the Outlanders and saw life in more varied aspects than the Boers further north.

The middle veldt, considerably lower and somewhat smaller in area, extends from about the latitude of Pretoria to the tropic of Capricorn. This is the region of great plains crossed by detached ranges of hills with timber in the gullies or "kloofs." Here were the large farms of the Boer cattle raisers, who led isolated lives with their families and black herders. This region is now even more desolate than the high veldt, where some of the population still live in the towns, while the middle veldt has practically been swept clean of human inhabitants.

The low veldt, or northern part of the country, is nearly 2,000 feet lower than the middle veldt, is tropical in climate, and is the home of the tsetse fly, whose bite is fatal to domestic animals. Stock raising is therefore impossible, the sparse population devoting itself mainly to planting coffee and sugar cane.

Perhaps the British are too sanguine in their announcement that they will soon clear the high veldt of their enemies, but their prophecy is very significant if it is likely to be realized.

Campaigning would be next to impossible in the tropical, wet climate of the low veldt, where, furthermore, no horses could be used. The Boer remnant could scarcely engage in guerrilla tactics in the middle veldt, whose broad plains are relieved only at wide intervals by kopjes, or ranges of hills; besides, the guerrillas would be remote in the middle zone from the centres of the mining industry, whose present paralysis, enforced by the proximity of the bushwhackers, makes it impossible to restore the prosperity of the country.

No immigration can be encouraged, no quartz crushers can turn a wheel, so long as the Boer fighters are in the high veldt. When they are dislodged from that point of vantage, it appears that the war will be practically over.

The Contingent

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—The despatch from the War Office officially accepting the Canadian force for South Africa was considered by the Cabinet yesterday afternoon, and it is expected that the Colonial Secretary will at once be notified of the approval of the Government. Col. Evans will arrive from Winnipeg on Friday, and will most likely have charge of the arrangemetns for recruiting, and a temporary staff consisting of an adjutant and other officers will be appointed to assist him. Recruiting stations will probably be opened at Victoria and Nelson, B.C., Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, London, Toronto, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, St. John, Halifax and Charlottetown. In the main the same method will be followed as when the constabulary were recruited. The Minister of Militia considers that the force can be enrolled, equipped and ready to start by about the first week in January. No arrangement will be made as to a transport until it is known whether the Militia Department has power to deal with the matter. The troops will probably concentrate at Ottawa and embark at Halifax. Offers to serve in the force continue to flow into the department. All the Canadian nursing sisters who went to South Africa, with the exception of three, have again volunteered to serve. Of the three referred to, Miss Horne is sick at home, Miss Russell is with an invalid in Egypt, and Miss Richards is already attached to the Army Medical Corps in South Africa. The nurses who have volunteered are Misses Hurcomb, Pope, Affleck, Macdonald and Forbes. Many offers from medical men have also been received. Surgeon-Colonel Fisher, who was with the Royal Canadians, wants to go out again. He has, however, been recommended for service with the Imperial forces in England in order to qualify for the Army Medical Corps in this country, and it is doubtful whether his application will be acceded to. Dr. Ross, of Kingston, is also very anxious to go on active service. The department appreciate Col. Hughes offer of command, but think a cavalryman should be sent. Many militia men are applying to Ottawa to be enrolled in the force. The procedure is altogether irregular. Those desirous of going to South Africa should make application either to their commanding officer or the D.O.C. of the district.

DENVER'S EXPERIMENT IN CONSUMPTION

Enterprising physicians and citizens of Denver, Col., have undertaken an experiment of world-interest. They have founded a colony of consumptives on a ten-acre tract of land five miles from their city, for the purpose of thoroughly testing what is known as "the open-air cure."

The colonists are all in the early stages of the disease. They are compelled by the rules to live outdoors day and night, summer and winter. They are all provided with warm clothing, blankets and roomy tents, warmed by small stoves. All the work of the colony is done by its members. No profits are to be made by the enterprise. It is running on the co-operative basis, assisted by contributions of benevolent persons all over the country who take an interest in seeing the continuous-out-of-doors theory for the cure of consumption scientifically tried and, if it can be, proved.

In several States, Massachusetts particularly, the open-air-sanitarium idea has been more or less tested, and good results are claimed for it. Denver's colony, as its promoters expect, will become large enough to furnish conclusive proof of its value.

A Scientific Voice Improver.

Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal chords, Catarrhozone cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly removes huskiness or hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone. Catarrhozone keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds, and throat irritation, thereby removing the singer's greatest source of anxiety unfitness of voice. The most eminent speakers and Prima Donnas would not be without Catarrhozone and credit in no small degree their uniform strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence. The hard rubber inhaler fits conveniently into a purse or vest pocket, and may be used in the church, theatre, any place or time. Complete outfit, $1, small size, 25c. ·Perfect Manhood·

Is rightly yours; but if you are not the man you should be, if you are losing your energy, your Vital force, memory, annoyed by Varicocele, shrunken parts, and feeling if you don't care what happens, you are suffering from Lost Vitality. It creeps upon men unawares; do not deceive yourself or remain in ignorance while you are being dragged down by this disease: no matter what the cause may be, whether early abuse, excess, or overwork and business cares, the results are the same; premature loss of strength and memory, emissions, impotency, Varicocele and shrunken parts. OUR LATEST METHOD TREATMENT WILL CURE YOU. We guarantee it as a positive cure for these conditions; it is the outcome of years of experience; it equalizes the circulation, stops all drains, thereby vitalizes the parts, restoring them to their normal condition and make the man of you as nature has intended. Do not be misled by so-called Specialists and Institutes. Read the following facts:

1. We do not accept an incurable case for treatment.
2. Each time you call you see Dr. Goldberg personally. He has 18 Diplomas, etc., which should be sufficient guarantee to his abilities. All other chronic, private and Blood Poison Specialists either have some doctor in charge of their office or have an assistant to doctor you.
3. We are doing business on our own reputation, not of our predecessor.
4. Our records show more actual cures than all the other Specialists combined.
5. You need pay nothing until you are convinced that you are thoroughly cured.

CHAINED FOR TEN YEARS
HAY FEVER
ASTHMA
EVERY BRINGS RELIEF.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DRS. TAFT BROS.' MEDICINE CO.:

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates troubles which combine with asthma Its success is astonishing and wonderful

After having it carefully analysed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,
O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

Our New Book on Cancer

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new Book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. It was written for us by a physician who has given the subject a great deal of thought and study, and it will no doubt prove of considerable interest and be of great benefit to those suffering from cancer or tumor.

If you are afflicted with cancer yourself, or have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their marches.

There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long tiresome marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this harmless and wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and sore marching of the feet, so [illegible] which is its invariable accompaniment. Ms. T. Buckart, "C" Co., R. C. R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm en route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed), T. Buckart.

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all druggists, or by mail. Stott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

SORE FEET

If your feet are sore, tired and aching, Foot Elm can give you wonderful ease and comfort. Price, 25c. a box at all druggists, or sent by mail, postage free. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

—On Thursday, Dec. 5th, the Rev. J. H. Teney will be inducted as Rector of Omemee and Emily, by the Ven. Archdeacon Allen. The sermon will be preached by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M. A., of St. Luke's, Ashburnham.

—The regular tomorrow afternoon Gospel meeting will be held in the Y. W.C.A. rooms, George st. to-morrow afternoon, led by Mrs. H. P. Kennedy. All young women are most cordially invited.

—Thanksgiving services were held Thursday morning in the three Anglican churches and at Murray street Baptist church. At Murray street Baptist church the service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Torrance and Rev. D O Crossley. Rev. J. C. Davidson Rev. Mr. Langfeldt and Rev. W. L. Armitage occupied their own respective pulpits.

—The Belleville Intelligencer has a lengthy "write-up" of the Belleville Lock factory, of which Mr. W. C. Springer, formerly of town, is manager. The newspaper speaks glowingly of the success of the venture so far, and expects large things in the future. The annual meeting was held on Tuesday night, when the stock subscriptions were doubled. The factory at present is employing 14 hands.

At the meeting of the Federation of Labor on Wednesday evening, Major Miller made a motion that the Mayor be requested to call a public meeting to discuss municipal matters. He said it was important that workingmen should know the condition of municipal affairs and have the opportunity of considering well the stand they would take on public questions. Mr. R. F. McGregor seconded the motion and it was carried by a unanimous standing vote.

A Delightful Entertainment

The entertainment given in the Murray street Baptist church, on Thursday evening, was a most enjoyable affair. The popular pastor, Rev. Mr. Bastow, made an ideal chairman, and kept the large audience in good humour throughout. Miss Trotter, of Belleville Ladies' College who is always a welcome visitor here, where she formerly resided, gave several readings and recitations, in which her splendid talents as an elocutionist were recognized and appreciated. She was repeatedly encored. Miss Weddell added to the pleasure of the occasion in several vocal selections. Miss Clarke played the accompaniments.

THE LATE EDGAR MILLER

Arrival of the Remains from Detroit by C. P. R. Yesterday Morning

The remains of the late Edgar Miller, son of Mr. J. H. Miller, who lost his life in the explosion which occurred at the Penberthy Injector Company's works, Detroit, on Tuesday last, arrived on the C.P.R. mid day train yesterday, and were conveyed to the family residence, 519 George street. The interment will take place tomorrow afternoon.

Much sympathy is felt for the afflicted relatives. The young man left here in June last, and was employed by the Injector Company. He was only 20 years of age, and was a bright and industrious young man.

SENSE ABOUT FOOD

Facts About Food Worth Knowing

It is a serious question sometimes to know just what to eat when a person's stomach is out of order and most foods cause griping and pains.

Grape-Nuts Food can be taken at any time with the certainty that it will digest. Actual experience of people is valuable to any one interested in foods.

Mrs. Ella Nation, 1452 Grand Ave., Terre Haute, Ind., "Had suffered with indigestion for about four years, ever since an attack of typhoid fever, and at times could eat nothing but the very lightest food, and then suffer such agony with my stomach I would wish I never had to eat anything. I was urged to try Grape-Nuts Food and since using it I do not have to starve myself any more, but I can eat it at anytime and feel nourished and satisfied, and dyspepsia is a thing of the past.

When my stomach used to have that burning, hungry sensation my heart would flutter, just as sufferers with stomach trouble know about, and when I was so weak I could hardly walk I would get up and get some Grape-Nuts and cream and eat them and the trouble would stop right away, and I kept growing better and better.

My husband also had an experience with Grape-Nuts Food. He was very weak and sickly in the spring. Could not attend to his work. He was put under the doctor's care but medicine did not seem to do him any good until he began to leave off ordinary food and use Grape-Nuts. It was positively surprising to see the change in him. He grew better right off, and naturally he has none but words of praise for Grape-Nuts.

Our boy thinks he cannot eat a meal without he has Grape-Nuts, and he learns so fast at school that his teacher and other scholars comment on it. I am satisfied that it is because of the great nourishing elements in Grape Nuts.

It is a pity that people do not know what to feed their children. There are many mothers who feed their youngsters on almost any kind of food and when they become sick begin to pour the medicine down them. The real way is to stick to proper food and be healthy and get along without the medicine and expense."

THE CLACHAN SPLORE

ST. ANDREW'S DAY APPROPRIATELY CELEBRATED

The Scottish Merrymaking a Great Success—A Large Audience and Splendid Entertainment. The Opera House Filled to the Door.

The Clachan Splore or Scottish Merrymaking in the Opera House on the afternoon and evening of Thanksgiving Day was a huge success, the large hall being almost completely filled in the evening by enthusiastic Scotchmen and their friends. The afternoon performance, although not so liberally patronized as the evening entertainment, nevertheless fairly well attended. The delightful features of the entertainment was the "talk of the town" yesterday, and on every side was heard high praise of those taking part.

The clever performance of Prof. Sheets' class of lassies and laddies, who won the hearts of all by their graceful and charming dances; Prof. McKay, of Kingston, in his inimitable recitations; Madame Bonvini (Mrs. Prof. O'Brien), a most accomplished vocalist, and last but by no means least, Major Beaton, of the 48th Highlanders, whose wonderful execution on the bagpipes was regarded with great favor.

In the evening Ald. G. M. Roger, in a few appropriate words, introduced Hon. Senator Kerr, of Cobourg, who delivered an oration of twenty minutes' duration, that was alone worth many times the price of admission. The speaker said that he ever felt quite at home in Peterborough. It was his fourth consecutive annual visit to this town. He was an Irishman, but considered it an honor to be held as a Scotchman to the manner born. He was fond of Scotland, and said it was well for civilization, Christianity and freedom that there was such a place.

The speaker paid eloquent tribute to St. Andrew and St. Patrick and declared that it was well for any country to possess personalities as noble as they had been. He dwelt for some time upon references to Scott, who, he considered, occupied the same place in Scottish history as Shakespeare did in English literature. Though Burns died at 37, he, too, was endeared to the Scottish people. John Knox, likewise, occupied a large place in their estimation and that of the world.

Hon. Mr. Kerr, in concluding his eloquent speech, said: "We meet here not simply as Scotchmen, Irishmen, Frenchmen, or other nationality—though each should love his country more and more—we are all united as loyal, prosperous, contented, courageous, patriotic Canadians, Let us all join hands in fearing God, honoring the King and loving our neighbor, and let us give this Dominion of ours a mighty impetus upward and onward, so that it shall be the pride of the Empire and the envy of the civilized world."

During the address the speaker was frequently heartily applauded, and when he took his seat, this was continued loud and long.

The dancing of the Scotch reel by little Misses Gertrude McClellan, Kathleen Wallis, Mattie Robertson, Gladys Roy, Alberta Gooding, Lenore Sanderson and Masters Arthur and Edward Wood, took the house by storm; a sword dance by Misses G. Roy, Mattie Robertson, G. McClellan, I. Sanderson and K. Wallis, was a difficult number, and was splendidly given by these young ladies, and the Sailors' Hornpipe by ten lads and lassies also proved a highly pleasing number.

Prof. McKay gave no less than seven numbers, every one of which was a gem. He was repeatedly recalled, the audience being more than delighted with his inimitable personations. Madame Bonvini rendered her numbers with wonderful sweetness and simplicity, and had to answer recalls. She was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers by an enthusiastic admirer in the audience.

The absence of Miss Curry, who was down for two numbers, was regretted. She had been unexpectedly called out of town. The numbers were filled by specialties by the little Misses Jessie Spence and Alberta Gooding. These pretty and talented little girls gave the skirt dance and Highland fling in a manner that elicited the most vociferous applause.

The performance closed with a cake-walk, which was one of the best numbers on the program. Ten couples ranging from seven to twelve years of age, took part, and gave the audience a splendid exhibition. The prizes were awarded to Miss Jessie Spence and her partner Master Hugh Wallis, and Miss G. McClellan and partner, Master E. Wood.

The accompanists for the entertainment were Miss Hurley, Mrs Wallis and Prof. Sheets.

Prof. Sheets, to whose wonderful training is wholly due the success of the dancing, has just reason to feel proud of his little pupils. He has not only taught them to dance well, but has educated the little ones in physical culture and deportment that will be of immense advantage to them in years to come.

NOTES

At the afternoon performance Miss Kathleen Wallis rendered the Blue Bells of Scotland, on a violin in a very creditable manner.

The sand dance by Misses G. McClellan, L. Sanderson, A. Gooding, M. Robertson, G. Roy, K. Wallis, J. Spence and G. Sanderson, was remarkably well executed. It was loudly applauded.

Prof McKay received a bouquet of flowers thrown on the stage.

Hon Senator Kerr has a warm place in the hearts of the people of Peterborough.

Perhaps the most admired dance of the evening by Misses G. McClellan, M. Robertson, L. Sanderson and K. Wallis. They were beautifully gowned, and their dancing was unsurpassed in excellence.

We must not omit to mention the old-time minuet, which was danced by the young people, with all its grace and stateliness, and which carried the audience by storm.

The committee which was in charge of the affair was composed of Dr. Carmichael, Ald. G. M. Roger, Chas. Cameron, R. M. Glover, W. H. Robertson and W. Menzies. Each and every member worked hard for the success of the concert and is deserving of the greatest praise for the manner in which the affair was conducted.

Diamonds

Diamonds are the most interesting of all jewels. They've figured in history, poetry and song. They've linked hearts together, provided ready money, and are to-day what they have been in all ages of the world's history—the most precious and beautiful ornaments. Nothing more acceptable or economical as a gift to one's self or one's friend. Diamonds are always worth their money, especially if you buy them from us, and there is no reason for paying more than our moderate price

PETERBOROS CHAMPIONS

INTERMEDIATE CHAMPIONS OF CANADA IN RUGBY FOOTBALL

Won from Quebec Champions at Montreal on Thanksgiving Day by a Score 16 to 9

There was jubilant thanksgiving in sporting circles on Thursday evening, when the news was wired from Montreal that the Peterborough Rugby club, champions of the O.R.F.U., had won the intermediate championship of Canada from the Quebec club, champions of the Q.R.F.U. The Peterborough team was composed as follows: Full-back, Scott; halves, McPherson, Burnham and Macdonald; quarter, Bell; scrimmage, Revel, Noble and Dainard; wings, Dillon, Picard, Meagher, Rickey, Graham, Smith and Crowley.

The score was 16 to 9.

At the Queen's hotel after the game a number of ex-Peterboronians dined with the boys. The tables were arranged in one long row, with President McWilliams at the head. To his right sat Captain Burnham. Seated around either side were Messrs. R. B. Rodgers, F. C. Frances, H. R. H. Kenner, Dr. Bradd, H. LeBrun, J. A. Corry, E. G. Laverdure, A. C. B. Pousette, Ed. Still, Clarence Bell, Geo. Revell, Wm. Crowley, J. Picard, W. Dainard, Dr. Scott, J. MacDonnell, W. Robinson, W. B. Rickey, A. W. MacPherson, Art. Noble, W. Meagher, Ed. Dillon, J. Tiller, Fred Smith, R. N. Bell, Thos. Kelly and R. S. Clarry.

Badly Frozen

A Barnardo Home girl, from the Peterborough Home, who was a domestic in the family of Dr. Mallory, of Colborne, was badly frozen on the evening of Nov. 17. She is 12 years of age and according to a post card sent out by Constable Smith, of the village, who endeavoured to obtain information as to her whereabouts, the girl was not very bright. She had no coat or hat on at the time she disappeared, but otherwise she was comfortably clothed. After a search of several days the unfortunate girl was found under a barn on Dr. Mallory's premises where she had been since Sunday evening. She was almost frozen to death, and it is very doubtful if she will recover from her terrible experience. She was brought to town on Monday night and is now being cared for in the Nicholls Hospital. Her limbs are in a badly frost bitten condition. No reason can be assigned for the girl's strange action.

"I believe it to be the most effective remedy for the Stomach and Nerves in the market," is what Annie Patterson, of Sackville, N B., says of South American Nervine, for, she says, La Grippe and the complications which followed it left her next to dead with Indigestion, Dyspepsia and General Nervous Shattering. It cured her.—100

A CHURCH SOCIAL

Given by the Ladies of the Charlotte Street Church a Success

The ladies of the popular Charlotte street Church gave their usual Thanksgiving dinner in the basement of the church. It was largely attended, notwithstanding the counter attractions.

After the good things provided had been partaken of, a select program of vocal and instrumental music, addresses, etc., was rendered in the body of the church, the chair being taken by Rev. Mr. Crossley, the popular pastor of the church. Those taking part in the program were: Miss Dobbin and Mr. Henderson, who gave an instrumental duet on banjo and guitar, and responded to an encore. Miss F. Hall, a vocal solo, Mr. Kilgour an address. Mr. Crossley a song and Miss Minnie Cuncannon a song and an encore.

The pastor expressed the thanks of the Ladies Aid Society to all who had taken part in the program, and for the large patronage of the public.

The Popular Drug Store

MORE TROOPS NEEDED TO HUSTLE OUT BOERS

Kitchener Never Has Had a Sufficient Force for Ample Simultaneous Operations

LINES OF BLOCKHOUSES ARE GOING UP

Methuen and Other Commanders Sweeping the Country in the Western Transvaal

New York, Nov. 30.—The Times has the following from London: The correspondent of The Times at Pretoria In order to cope with the large number of Boers who keep in touch with Louis Botha east of the line of blockhouses from Wilge River to Greylingstad, twelve British columns are operating between the Delagoa and Natal Railways. In order to effectually clear this large area of Boers, new lines of blockhouses are being built.

In the Western Transvaal columns under Methuen, Kekewich and Hicks are sweeping the country, in conjunction with forces on the railway line and the constabulary posts. It seems blockhouses are to form the chief factor in the pacification of the country. New lines of blockhouses will soon entirely free Pretoria and Johannesburg centres of the enemy.

The concentration of British columns south of the Delagoa Railway has withdrawn troops from north of the line, with the result that the Boers are back again in that neighborhood, where sickness fever do not prevail and food is plentiful. Kitchener has never had sufficient troops to carry out comprehensive operations simultaneously north and south of the Delagoa line. The need for more men is thus clearly shown.

ONTARIO HORSES FOR SOUTH AFRICA

Arrangements for Purchasing Mounts for Canadian Force

MESSRS. BEITH AND SMITH

Men Who Will Do the Purchasing—Waiting at Ottawa for Lieut. Colonel Evans, Who Arrived from Winnipeg.

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—The Department of Militia this morning is completing such preparatory arrangements for the new mounted regiment for South Africa as can be undertaken, pending the arrival of the commanding officer, Col. Evans is looked for at the Department this afternoon, on the Winnipeg train, which arrives at 2.30.

Mr. Beith, ex-M.P., assisted by Mr. Harland Smith of Toronto, who are to be entrusted with the selection of the horses for the new regiment, will probably start on their mission immediately after consultation with Col. Evans. They expect to get most of the animals in Ontario and before visiting the various places to be selected as purchasing centres, will have notices in the papers of the day of their arrival.

They will pay current rates and want none but the best animals that can be got, suitable for the service.

Among the visitors in the Militia Department this morning was Major Jack Stewart of Hamilton, who is willing once more to serve the Government. A number of contractors were also in attendance. It is understood the contracts for uniforms will go to Montreal and Hamilton and for boots and saddlery largely to Toronto.

CALLS MARRIAGE A FAILURE

Having Borne Quadruplets, Triplets and Twins Now Seek Divorce.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Mrs. Josephine R. Ormsby, mother of a set of quadruplets, two sets of triplets, three pairs of twins and three single children, has concluded that marriage is a failure, and yesterday applied for a divorce from her husband, Charles T. Ormsby, who deserted her five months before the birth of the quadruplets, and has not since been seen. Mrs. Ormsby charges drunkenness, cruelty and desertion.

"No more marriage for me," said Mrs. Ormsby yesterday, as she looked down on her four sleeping midgets. "I don't intend to get married again, and don't need to. I have received hundreds of letters from men asking if I would accept their hands and salaries, but I'm done with them. The letters all went in the stove. Some of them actually offered to put up the money for a divorce, but I don't need their money, as I can now support myself. If Ormsby chooses to marry again he can do so, but I'm all through.

Mrs. Ormsby and her four treasures are exhibiting at a dime museum, and it is said that the children are earning $50 a week for simply being alive and cooing for the visitors.

Eight of the Ormsby children have died—both sets of triplets and one pair of twins.

Out of The Shadow.

The discouragement, the despair of ill-health, out into the noon-tide glory of health, vigor and strength. Are you seeking this way? Are you wishing to replace weakness by strength, despondency by hope and expectation, pale cheeks and lusterless eyes, by the roses bloom and sparkling eyes? If you but use Ferrozone, you will make rich, red blood, your nerves will grow strong. Old time vigor will return and with it endurance that will enable you to live an active energetic and successful life. Remember the name, Ferrozone. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

THE DUEL STORY IS DENIED

Prince Consort Has Cruelly Beaten Her and Seriously Wounded Her Recent Defender Major Vatets

Amsterdam, Nov. 30.— Sensational stories of royal scandal are again current. It is learned from an intimate court source that it is not improbable that Queen Wilhelmina will apply for for a divorce on grounds of cruelty and improper behavior on the part of the Prince Consort.

Public sentiment is intensely with the Queen. Last night a biograph picture of Wilhelmina, which was displayed at the Carre Theatre, was tumultuously cheered, while one of the Prince Consort was loudly hissed.

"There is no longer any doubt that the Queen's illness is due to her consort's ill-treatment. A personal friend of Major Vantet, adjutant of the Royal Household, tells me that Vantet had the courage to interfere once when the consort had actually struck the Queen. This led to a duel, in which Vantet was dangerously wounded in the stomach, and now lies at death's door.

"Prince Henry has been absent from Leo Palace, where the Queen still is, since the duel occurred. He is officially described as hunting in Germany, but it is believed he has been summoned by the Kaiser, whom he still regards as his Oberster Kriegsherr, to explain his behavior.

"It is now asserted that the prince was averse to the marriage from the first, but that the Kaiser insisted on it in view of the increasing Germany influence in Holland. This is said to explain the unhappy appearance of the prince at the wedding, which was then generally remarked.

"Dowager Queen Emma is heartbroken over the outcome of the marriage, and is now endeavoring to effect a reconciliation."

The original cause of the royal estrangement was the prince's debts, which the Queen refused to pay when she found they had been contracted in an "improper manner."

DUEL STORY DENIED.

London, Nov. 30.—Grave reports continue to be circulated regarding the difference between Queen Wilhelmina and her husband, Prince Henry. The story, however, that a duel resulting therefrom has been fought, and that the Queen's Aide-de-Camp, Major Vantet, was wounded is absolutely denied by the Major's brother who says the aide-de-camp, is suffering from peritonitis. At the theatre the biograph picture of the Queen are tumultuously cheered nightly, while those of Prince Henry are loudly hissed.

One Hundred Killed

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 30.—Dr. S. B. Bryant of the Emergency Hospital staff of this city, who was one of the corps of physicians who hurried to the scene of the Wabash wreck Wednesday night, says it is his opinion that over 100 persons were killed in the wreck. The Free Press quotes him as saying:

"When I reached there," said Dr. Bryant, "portions of charred bodies were strewn along the track. In places it was rather dark, and one could not distinguish the parts of the bodies from the other debris.

"But closer inspection revealed the burned corpses, and the stench was sickening. I recall that one man called to another: 'Look out and do not step on that dead body.' I could not say definitely how many bodies were lying there, but there were a great many. When the cars were dragged from the track those bodies were crushed to pieces, unless they had been removed. Whether they were removed of course I cannot tell, for I was not there all the time.

"From going among the injured persons, talking with them and others, from what you learned in every way, how many persons do you think were killed in the wreck?"

"There were 100 killed, I am certain of that," came the answer.

Frank H. Wilson, Boston, Mass., when interviewed in Detroit, said:

"When we left Seneca there were about fifty persons dead and as many more in the wreck."

Not Yeomanry

Ottawa, Dec. 3.—As to the suggestion to call the Canadian mounted corps about to be enrolled for South African service, The Canadian Yeomanry an, officer who served with one one of the contingetns says: "Without wishing to say anything derogatory to the imperial troops so designated, I must confess that the name 'yeomanry' appeals to Canadians who have been in South Africa as synonymous with inexperience and blundering. This feeling is so strong that I venture to say many who would otherwise gladly join the corps will not care to enlist if it is to be known as yeomanry. I would consider the name Canadian Rangers much more desirable and certainly and certainly more to the liking of those who have seen the real 'yeomanry' in active service."

THE RECRUITING ORDER ISSUED

Militia Department Getting Ready to Raise Our Next Contingent.

MANY APPLICATIONS ARE IN

Rev. Dr. Rose Expresses the Opinion That Canada Should Pay the Bill for the Contingent

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—Yesterday was pent in the Militia Department in forwarding the preparations for the raising of the Canadian regiment, which amongst other suggested names may be called the Canadian Yeomanry. The militia order for the commencement of recruiting was drafted and a cablegram sent to the Imperial Government asking for information as to the length of service and the transport. It is suggested that the regiment be raised either for one year and its strength kept up by drafts as required, or that it be raised till the end of the war, in which case also the drafts would be required. The points for recruiting will be the centers of the military districts and in the West the Mounted Police headquarters and divisional quarters. Already the applications for commissions number over two hundred. Col. Otter, D.O.C., reports that he has already received applications from eight officers and six men. Miss Pope and the other nurses who were in South Africa have applied for positions with the new regiment and will probably be allowed to go.

In the course of the Thanksgiving service at the Dominion Methodist Church the following references were made to the payment by the Imperial Government of the cost of raising the regiment;

SOME PULPIT EXPRESSIONS.

Rev. Dr. Rose stated that if we were a self-respecting part of the Empire we should pay our share of the cost. He had heard rumors that Canada was to be recouped for whatever expenditure she made in reference to the contingent to be despatched shortly. He deplored this and stated that we should not ask nor expect that such monies as are expended should be paid back. The Boer war has dragged out much longer than was expected and it is only right that Canada should aid the Empire. If this is allowed, he stated, it would cause profound dissatisfaction and indignation throughout Canada.

Rev. Salem Bland, in the course of his remarks, stated that a nation should stand for some ideal. What ideal, he asked, is Canada standing for? Some thought that Canada's ideal was to fill up her extensive country with a population, but such population should have a common ideal. He endorsed all that Rev. Dr. Rose had said and stated that if Canada allowed the Empire to pay for the equipment of the third contingent he for one would feel ashamed to be called a Canadian again.

MORE ORDERS FOR OUR HAY.

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—Fresh orders from the War Office for hay for South Africa have been received at the Department of Agriculture, which will take until the end of February to fill.

TWO MIDGETS MARRIED

Bride Weighs 98 Pounds and the Bridegroom 75

Blackstone, Mass. Dec. 2.—Dean Swift would have thought himself back among the Lilliputians had he dropped into St. Paul's church yesterday and seen the wedding in progress there.

Henry Lavillee, of Taunton, the bridegroom weighs scarcely seventy-five pounds, while Miss Martha Goyette, of this town, the bride, weighs ninety-eight. He is forty-one years of age and three feet six and a half inches tall, while she is twenty-one years of age and can boast of an altitude of only three feet and eight inches.

The bridegroom is a well-known business man, owning a block and conducting three stores.

WHY CANADA SHOULD DROP HOME RULE

Canada Has no Possible Excuse for Meddling with Irish Affairs

NOTING TO DO WITH IRELAND

The Efforts of Irish Agitators are not Honest Independence of Ireland is What They Are After

Canada has recently had a Home Rule delegation painting the woes of Ireland under the head of a brutal oppressor. People still flock to hear this sort of thing, in which there is no reality whatever. Ireland is governed as any other part of the British Empire is governed, by equal laws. Indeed, it has been frequently pointed out that in many essential particulars, Ireland is more liberally treated than England or Scotland. You might cover every mile of the country and not discover a single instance of opppression. The people make their own laws. They return men to the House of Commons, who take their part in the legislation which affects the empire as a whole. In the north the people are contented and prosperous. In other parts, where there is more poetic fervor than strong common sense, there is a disposition to listen to professional rhetoric, which has been the curse of Ireland. But there is equal opportunity; there is perfect freedom; there is no real grievance which affects any Irishman in the country. On the other hand, there is a sentiment which has been sedulously cultivated—a sentiment in favor of independence, which exploited in season and out of season, has paralyzed industrial effort; and we have seething discontent where there ought to be content and plenty. But that is far away, and we in Canada have our own problems to solve and we cannot see any justification for the irruption of Messrs. Redmond and Company. We have nothing to do with the Irish problem. We are working out our destiny. We are a busy people. We have no time to interfere with other people's affairs. Nor should we be asked to do so. We have an admirable constitution. We are content and loyal. It is impudent to ask us to pronounce judgment upon the British government because a handful of men prefer to keep up a seditious agitation rather than turn their attention to the creation of industrial activities, which is the great need of Ireland, and the lack of which keeps her impoverished. The delegation have indeed been greeted by crowds and sympathetic resolutions have been passed; but none the less it is quite gratuitous that our sympathies should be sought for an agitation which means, if it means anything, the subversion of the British Empire.

Should Parliament be asked to pass a resolution in accordance with the demands of Mr. Redmond, there should be an answer given that will not be misunderstood, to the effect that we are not to be made a tool of by designing traitors and Fenians.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

London, Nov. 30.—A remarkable tidal wave, accompanied by strong winds, has done much damage along the eastern coast of England, from Norfolk to Kent. Rivers have overflowed their banks, dams and sea walls have been invaded and miles of country have been submerged.

NO HOME RULE FOR IRELAND

London, Nov. 30.—Sir Edward Grey, M.P., speaking at Glasgow last night, declared that the country had been greatly shaken by what had happened during the South African war and that it was only honest to tell the Irish members of Parliament he believed it was impossible to repeat the Home Rule experiment of 1892. Sir Edward expressed his conviction that no Liberal Government, dependent on the Irish vote, could do what the Irish people demanded.

MISS STONE IS NOT DEAD.

Constantinople, Nov. 29. (Friday).

The report that Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary who was abducted by brigands and held for ransom, and her companion, Mme. Tsilka, are dead, is not confirmed. Previous similar reports have invariably proved to be without foundation, and it is supposed that the brigands are circulating such rumors with the object of exciting the friends of the captives, in the hope of exacting the full amount of ransom demanded.

MORE BROTHERHOOD NEEDED.

London, Nov. 30.—Lord Hugh Cecil, M.P. moving a vote of thanks to the auditor of Dublin Trinity College Theological Society for an address on "The Isolation of the Irish Church," said he believed the King might simply define himself as a Protestant in his coronation oath. For one church to set upon its forehead that it does not approve of another creed was not an appropriate or congruous state of affairs. There were people who expected to find the Pope behind every door, and a Jesuit under every table. (Laughter.) Indeed in his opinion he believed many conversions to Rome had their origin in exaggerated antagonism. (Cheers and cries of "No, no.") He pleaded for a greater feeling of brotherly love and sympathy between their church and Rome.

FOUGHT OVER HOLY SEPULCHRE.

Rome, Nov. 29.—The Vatican has received a report from Jerusalem giving details of the recent conflict between Latin and Greek monks at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, Jerusalem. It appears to have been the intention of the latter to take possession of a portion of the Holy Sepulchre, which has belonged to the Franciscans from time immemorial. The Franciscans warned the Governors of Jerusalem, who sent a Turkish force to the spot. The Greeks had already taken possession of the disputed territory, and refused to give it up. The Turks did not wish to use force, and were discussing the situation, when a number of schismatics armed with sticks and daggers threw themselves on the Catholic monks, striking many blows at them. When the fighting was over it was found that seventeen Franciscans had been seriously wounded.

RESULT OF THE FOG.

London, Nov. 30.—One week's fog, according to the official return published, sent up the death rate in the thirty-three great towns of England and Wales to 19.7. Three weeks ago it was only 16.7 per thousand. London suffered severely, the death rate rising from 16 per thousand three weeks ago to 19.4 in the black days of the week. In confirmation of what has been previously published on this subject, the present return shows that the deaths from diseases of the respiratory organs rose in London to the alarming total of 445, against only 196 in the preceding three weeks.

FUEL OF THE FUTURE

Paris, Nov. 27.— The exhibition of the industrial application of alchol has drawn crowds all the week and has exited a wholly unexpected popular interest. Germany and England sent engineers to study the apparatus exhibited. There are sixty patterns of illuminating appliances easily rivalling electricity, and as for power, there are forty models of stationary engines, from the one with a half horse power, used to run a sewing machine, to twenty-five horse power pumps, threshers and mills. Nine makers of automobiles claim that alcohol is cheaper than petroleum and has no nasty smell. One sees, also, splendid parlor heaters, kitchen apparatus and even a small agricultural locomotive

M. Sartiaux, the chief engineer of the Northern Railway, said to a newspaper correspondent: "Alcohol is undoubtedly the fuel of the future. This exposition foreshadows the greatest of industrial revolutions in the immediate future. The years hence, between petroleum and alcohol, coal mining will not pay. By new processes alcohol is now manufactured from fruit, grain, beets and even wood at 15 cents a gallon, the heating power or which is equal to two gallons of petroleum. It is only a question of a little time when the miners will ascend upon the joyous sunny surface, transform themselves into healthy ploughmen and grow fuel in the world's open fields."

Alcohol is having a great boom The newspapers hail the fuel as the greatest agricultural blessing.

Dublin, Nov. 27.—The power of the United Irish League in remote districts of Ireland is shown in a remarkable manner by a document that has been placarded in the seats of Ballymote, county Sligo. It contains the apology of one John McNiff, of Barrack street, Sligo, to the league for having "worked for the police by carting sand and materials for the erection of huts in connection with Phibbs, of the Leitrim Hill grazing farm." This Phibbs, it will be remembered, is the well known boycotted landlord. Judge O'Connor Morris told the Sligo Grand Jury that the police protection for this gentleman will cost the country £6,000 The police are living in huts on his property at presetn. The apology concludes, "I am sorry for having done this work. I have not done similar work for the same party since, nor shall I ever again, as I wish to live up to the principles of the league, at peace with my neighbors."

AMONG THE CHURCHES

—Yesterday being Advent Sunday, the Rector of St. Luke's preached on "The Second Coming of the Lord," at the morning service. The subject in the evening was "The First Miracle of the Saviour, changing water into wine." Eloquent and impressive sermon were preached on both occasions.

—The services in St. Andrew's church yesterday were the beginning of a two weeks' series of evangelistic meetings. The pastor preached in the morning from the subject "God's unspeakable gift" and in the evening Evangelistic C. W. Walden who has labored most successfully in Nova Scotia preached. The meetings will be conducted each night with song services, beginning at 7:45. A very cordial invitation is given to all.

—There was a celebration of the Holy Communion Sunday morning at All Saints'. The first of the series of Advent sermons was preached by Rev. W. L. Armitage on "Isaiah and the Advent," and "The Holy Communion," morning and evening respectively. Mr. J. Firth, of Toronto, sang at the evening service.

—Twenty-five gentlemen singers rendered the musical part of the song sermon in Charlotte street church yesterday evening. The subject was "True Manliness, or the Elements of a Noble Character." The music and song was very attractive.

Special From Norwich, Ont.

The recovery of Mr. Norman Batty, hardware merchant, one of Norwich's oldest and most successful citizens, has excited much comment. For years Mr. Batty has been an unceasing sufferer from Catarrhal Asthma, and although no end of time and money was spent, relief was not obtained until Mr. Batty commenced Catarrhozone treatment, which perfectly cured him. This case is only equalled by that of Mrs. Bannon, wife of J. J. Bannon, druggist, who was also cured of Asthma and Hay Fever by Catarrhozone after thirty years' suffering. Fully a hundred persons in this town have been cured of Catarrhal troubles by Catarrhozone, which is a remarkable proof of its value. Two months treatment, price $1. Small size, 25c. Sold by all druggists, or by mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

GOSSIP SAYS HAMILTON WILL RELIEVE KITCHENER

War Office Has Been Considering Recall of General Kitchener

MILITARY CAREER OF GENERAL HAMILTON

Appointment, If Made, Would Meet With Approval of Englishmen at Home And Abroad

London, Nov. 30.—The departure of Major-General Sir Ian Hamilton, military secretary at the War Office, to join Lord Kitchener's forces in South Africa, has served to revive the recent gossip to the effect that the hero of Khartoum will be relieved of the command of His Majesty's forces arrayed against the Boers.

In brief, the gossip goes that after Sir Ian has, to use a nautical expression, "got his bearings," Lord Kitchener will be called home and General Hamilton placed at the head of the South African troops.

In military circles, quite as widely as in political circles, the belief that the report is well-founded is general. It has long been the impression that the War Office was considering the recall of General Kitchener, and with the Roberts-Buller feud going on at home, General Hamilton would be the logical successor to the South African command.

To Englishmen at home and abroad the appointment, while not likely to be received with enthusiasm, would assuredly be accorded approval. General Hamilton came rapidly to the front during the early days of the Boer war, and was wounded at the second battle of Majuba Hill.

General Hamilton was born in Corfu in 1853. His father was Colonel Hamilton, who married a daughter of the third Viscount Gort. In addition to his fame as a soldier, Sir Ian has gained distinction as an author. His publications include "Icarus," "A Jaunt in a Junk" and "A Ballad of Hadji."

A PROFITABLE INVESTMENT

An Opportunity Now Offered to Secure Stock in the North American Oil and Refining Co.

Elsewhere we publish the prospectus of the North American Oil and Refining Company, of which Mr. F. W. Nelson, our well known stock broker, has been appointed local agent. This stock is likely to become a wonder, so far as profits are concerned. Four experts have gone over the territory, each unknown to the other, and they all located a spot to sink the first well within a radius of 20 feet.

As an instance of how much money there is in this class of stocks, we quote from Mr. Cockburn's letter to The Times:

"I was one of the promoters who floated The Boulder Oil Company. The stock started out at 5 cents per share, rose to 10 cents, and I being secretary of the company, know that the stock has been withdrawn from the market, and you cannot buy it at any price. We have oil of a very fine grade, and we know we will get oil in California also, and which will be white oil and worth $4 per barrel.

C. J. Newcomb, under date Oct. 28, 1901, says: "I find the best indications of there being two wide stratas of high grade oil running through your lands. Let me congratulate you."

O. H. Jones, geologist, and expert, under date of Oct. 25, writes: "I not only found the geological formations and indications first class in every particular, but I also found that there is a continuous belt or deposit of petroleum extending from the starting point to the limit, of the company's lands."

Samuel C. Pruder, Oct. 29: "I find that there are two distinct oil belts on the south of the railroad. One of these belts passing directly through your company's holdings. The oil belts are clearly defined at many points, and the geological formation is perfect for White Oil on your lands, all of which are covered with sandstone and shale. All of the company's holdings are east of the famous White Oil Wells of Placeritos Canyon, and are practically in the same district, being in the same oil belt. After going over all the field, I came to the conclusion that at a spot (designated) on the N. E. 1-4 of Section 17, Township 4 North Range, 12 West, would be an ideal spot for a well, and I will stake my reputation that oil will be struck at that point, under 1200 feet in depth, and that the oil will be of not less than 40 degrees gravity.

Mr. F. W. Nelson will be pleased to give any further information to investors. We believe this is a chance to make money fast that only occurs once in a lifetime.

At the same time if there is anything in the discovery it would go far towards explaining the remarkable and almost simultaneous outbreak of smallpox all over the United States and Canada.

Printers' Blunders.

THERE is a fatality often attending the final stages of the printing of a book or an article. Proof after proof has been corrected with scrupulous care, and there seems nothing more for author or proofreader to do, when a line or word falls out, giving an opportunity for some stupendous blunder in setting things straight. The corrector of the press is sometimes himself responsible for a literary atrocity, when some brilliant flash of stupidity occurs to him too late to be submitted as a query to the poor author. Thus a certain scholar found the Candian vessel, in which he described Besa as voyaging, transformed into the anachronism of a Canadian vessel. Mr. Howells tells us of the agony he suffered at the discovery of a fearful misprint in his "Pilot's Story." The tale is of a young planter who has gambled away the slave girl who is the mother of his child. She breaks out upon him with the demand:

"What will you say to our boy when he cries for me there in St. Louis?"

In this form the line passed the author himself and the first proofreader; but the final reader, evidently a pronounced realist, thought it could be improved, and accordingly changed it into:

"What will you say to our boy when he cries for 'Ma,' there in St. Louis?"

The whole edition had been struck off before the enormity was discovered by Mr. Howells himself, who happened to call on the publisher just as the sheets had come in from the printers at Cambridge. Mr. Fields at once decided that the sheet should be reprinted, so Mr. Howells had a hair-breadth escape from a mischance that might have gone far to ruin his career.

The hymnbook of one of the Methodist churches in England is guilty of an outrageous subversion of the moral standard when it attributes to Doctor Isaac Watts the sentiment:

My days of praise shall ne'er be past,
While life and thought and being last.
Or immorality endures.

Mr. William Archer mentions a curious instance of the inveterate persistence of a misquotation from edition to edition of a classic author. He has never come across an edition of the Waverley Novels in which the motto to Chapter XXV. of "The Talisman" did not run thus:

Yet this inconsistency is such
As thou, too, shalt adore;
I could not love thee, love, so much,
Loved I not honor more.
Montrose's Lines.

But the quotation ought to run:

Yet this inconstancy is such
As you, too, shall adore:
I could not love thee, dear, so much,
Loved I not honor more.
Richard Lovelace.

Obviously, the misquotation was originally due, in part, at least, to Scott himself, but it is impossible to believe that he was responsible for the nonsensical and unmetrical "inconsistency."

Papa Was Easy.

Edith—If you don't stop playing poker with papa I won't marry you.

Flyhigh—If I don't stop maybe I won't have to marry you.

The man who can hardly crawl, and has just strength to get through a day's work, has no strength left for family life. He wants to be quiet; to be alone, out of sight and sound of everybody.

What a difference between such a man and the healthy, hearty man, who romps with his children and rides his laughing baby to "Banbury Cross."

What makes the difference? Usually disease of the stomach, involving the entire digestive and nutritive system.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. When these diseases are cured the hindrance to the proper nourishment of the body is removed and strength comes back again.

"I am happy to say I am getting to feel fine," writes Mr. A. J. Vanderwater, of 873 West Division Street, Chicago, Ill. "In all I have taken six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four or five vials of the little 'Pellets.' They have done me worlds of good. These medicines have brought the great change in me from a slow mope of a man that could hardly crawl, tired and sick all the time, and could do no work. Now I can work, sleep, eat, and feel fine, and that tired feeling is all going away. I am very thankful that I wrote to Dr. Pierce. His 'Golden Medical Discovery' and his little liver 'Pellets' have almost made a new man of me. I feel young as I did at thirty years. No other doctor for me, only Dr. Pierce."

Farewell to Housewifery.

IS the housewife becoming extinct Madame Henri Schmall declares that she is. She gives reasons for her belief, which is a hope as well as a belief. Madame Schmall is an Englishwoman, the wife of a Frenchman, and has devoted herself largely to the interest of "woman's rights" in France.

According to this independent lady, the extinction of the housewife is greatly to be desired. Woman has progressed beyond the state of servitude to the home, and in the near future the wife "will have nothing whatever to do with her husband's dinner except to partake of it."

Of course husbands will continue to eat and to have dinners as formerly, but Madame Schmall expects the cook and the kitchen to disappear from the household, and the dinner to be served by a "universal provider."

The idea is neither strictly original nor even novel, thinks the "Youth's Companion." It has been tried in several instances in this country, and has not been encouragingly successful. But perhaps the conditions were not favorable, and Madame Schmall may be justified in assuming that when she has the direction of the enterprise it will result in a perfection satisfactory to the most advanced woman.

Whether the world will be better or humanity the happier when madam, the housewife, has disappeared, and whether the "universal provider" will fill the bill of "home cooking," are questions which must be answered by experiment and not by pure reasoning. There is every disposition to gratify the ladies, even the most progressive and most thoroughly emancipated ladies; but when home cooking and industries have been turned over to restaurant-keepers and servants jobbing by the hour, shall we still feel a thrill of emotion when we sing "There's no place like home?"

—On Thursday, Dec. 5th, the Rev. J. H. Teney will be inducted as Rector of Omemee and Emily, by the Ven. Archdeacon Allen. The sermon will be preached by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M. A., of St. Luke's, Ashburnham.

THE CHARITY OF ALL CHARITIES.

THE CARE OF THE SICK CHILDREN.

What The Hospital for Sick Children on College Street, Toronto, Has Done and Is Doing for the Little Sufferers of the Province of Ontario.

An institution that requires about $34,000 a year for maintenance, an institution that depends for support on the goodness of the generous people of the Province of Ontario, must needs have considerable faith in the love, affection and generosity of the people.

While the institution is located in Toronto its work is essentially provincial. It admits not only children from the city of Toronto but from every city, town, village and hamlet, yes, from every spot in the Province of Ontario.

So when you give—be your giving large or small—it goes for the benefit of every child of the province that is admitted and treated.

This statement is made because occasional reference is made to the Hospital as a Toronto institution for Toronto patients, whereas every sick child in Ontario has the same rights and privileges as those who live within the shadow of the great red pile on College street.

It costs about $34,000 per year, or a dollar per patient, per day, to maintain the Hospital. The Government of the province gives about $7,000 a year, or nearly eighteen cents per head, in other words, per patient per day. This amount is all expended in maintenance. The corporation of the City of Toronto does even more. It gives $7,500 per year or eighteen cents per head per day, and this too goes towards the maintenance, not only of Toronto patients, but for every patient in the Hospital, no matter from what part of the province the little one may come from. Yes, and this contribution of the corporation is increased by from $4,000 to $6,000 donated by citizens of Toronto for the maintenance of all patients, to say nothing of the $4,000 contributed yearly by Toronto people, the founders of maintained and named cots in the building.

During its lifetime the Hospital has handled 8,000 indoor patients and of these 4,000 were cured, and 2,700 were improved. Of these—and please note this—1,757 came from 1,206 places in Ontario and outside the city of Toronto.

Ten years ago the Hospital carried a heavy burden of debt. The building and its furnishings cost $150,000 and of this $20,000 was paid by the corporation of Toronto and $60,000 by its citizens. Year by year the debt has been reduced and it is now down to $12,000.

To clear the indebtedness this appeal is made. Hospital work cannot be carried on without money. Interest on mortgages has to be paid. An army of workers has to live. Nurses, domestics, officials are all human. They earn their wages whether they live in or out of the Hospital.

A hundred and twenty children per day—yes, in some months a hundred and forty—once it was a hundred and fifty—all these to look after and care for. Thirty nurses continually at work. A half-dozen maids with brooms and dusters; cooks and table maids to prepare the food and serve it, clerks in the office who work like beavers, typewriters who tap the keys of their machines for hours a day, answering sheaves of letters, preparing accounts, watching every doing in the immense building on College street, that never closes night or day—all the year round—a hive of two hundred people, small and large, a little town doing what it can for God's suffering little ones.

True, it is, that some have to pay—yes, all who can afford it are expected to pay—but those who cannot pay and can produce the certificate of a clergyman or known ratepayer of the province to the effect that they are too poor to pay, can have maintenance and treatment free of charge.

If all could pay there would be no need to appeal for money, but eighty per cent. of the work is free work for the children of those who cannot afford to pay.

Fancy a great family of nearly one hundred and fifty sick children. You who have had perhaps one or two sick little ones at your own home, therefore know something of the work, but when you visit Toronto drop in and see what they are doing to win back little ones from the grave.

It would only weary the reader to go on with more story. This year a giant effort is being made to clear away the debt. Every dollar of this debt handicaps the Trustees. Every dollar sent in helps to lighten the load that is being carried.

If every reader would send but a dollar what a grand fund would be raised in a few weeks of time. Let every one who can spare a dollar, send it to Douglas Davidson, the Secretary-Treasurer of the Hospital, or to J. Ross Robertson, the Chairman of the Trust. And please send it in at once for even the best of us are prone to forget our best intentions.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia ave., Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Five boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, sustaining no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Mann, Martin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James R. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. [illegible], G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not cure.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price, $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

CHAINED FOR TEN YEARS
HAY FEVER
ASTHMA
EVERY BRINGS RELIEF.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DRS. TAFT BROS.' MEDICINE CO.:

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

—There was a large market on Saturday.

—The Town Council will meet this evening.

—The stores are piling up with Christmas goods.

—Three weeks from Wednesday will be Christmas.

—Curling will probably begin in earnest this week.

—A new serial will shortly begin in The Times. Watch for it.

—Saturday was St. Aundrew's Day. In many places the anniversary is being celebrated by a banquet tonight.

—The business men have nothing to complain of as regards business, especially since the sleighing began.

—The annual meeting of L.O.L. No. 80 will be held this evening, when officers will be elected for the coming year.

—A drunk was run in Saturday. He was singing Annie Rooney for the benefit of the chief, after he was in the coop.

—Peterborough County Council will meet in special session to-morrow when the sugar beet industry will be considered and discussed in all its bearings.

—Have your Xmas photos taken at Whiten's as soon as possible, if you want them finished before the Holidays. Studio corner George and Hunter streets, west side.

—Lindsay proposes to send a couple of intelligent farmers to Michigan to acquire all possible information concerning the growing and handling of sugar beets, a business that is extensively carried on in that State.

—Two newspaper men in the eastern part of the Province have been fined $100 each for calling a man an Orangeman. There are hereabouts many who are paying dues annually to have the honour of the name.

—On Saturday last the Stanley Piano Company, with their usual enterprise, shipped a carload of their fine pianos to British Columbia. This is the third car of pianos this firm have shipped to British Columbia this year.

—Times are good this Christmas. Many pocket-books will be opened a little wider than they have been for some years past. The Times has bought with that thought in view, and if you wish some article of beauty and value, they will have it for you.

—The Wm. Hamilton Co. who installed them, started the wheels of the Cement Co.'s power house at Young's Point on Tuesday last. They are to run them for a week. Report says that the wheels are working magnificently. The Company's premises were lighted with electricity for the first time on Tuesday night.

—Dr. Bryce expects a stormy time this coming winter from smallpox. The disease seems to be coming from the east, despite the precautions taken to check its spread. "The outlook is not encouraging, but we will make a strong fight against it spreading," says Dr. Bryce. "Everybody should get vaccinated," declares the Provincial Health Officer.

—The Toronto Telegram says, — A surprise was given the local railway world this morning when a rumour was circulated that Mr. E. C. Jones, superintendent of the Midland division of the Grand Trunk Railway, was about to sever his connection with the management on account of ill-health. Mr. Jones has been ill for some time, and only when forced accepted a six months' leave of absence and spent it in his old home in Missouri. Since arriving there Mr. Jones has written several friends that his medical advisers there say that the climate in Canada is too strong, for him and that his lungs cannot stand it.

Permanent Musical Society

Tomorrow evening at the Y.M.C.A., there will be a meeting of all the singers and all the lovers of music, the object being to organize a permanent musical society. Mr. Mulligan is desirous that the members of the Royal Chorus should be present with their music in order to preface the business meeting with a repitition of the chorus numbers. The proposal to form a permanent society should meet with hearty approval and support from all musicians in Peterborough.

A WORD ABOUT OURSELVES

Why the Times Should Have a Liberal Share of Patronage

In chopping wood only the down-strokes count, yet the woodman doesn't consider half his energy wasted.

The first insertion of a newspaper advertisement seldom fails, but the first has to happen before the second can appear.

It is valuable only as the beginning of that systematic, persistent advertising effort which is necessary to win.

When once you have a good running start, all the strokes are the kind that count.

If you have reason to believe that you business of this section, advertise in the Times. Among its readers are the best people of Peterborough and the entire district, and if you keep your store news constantly before them you will get business that your competitors are now getting.

There is nothing theoretical about the value of an ad in the Times, because it has been proved to the entire satisfaction of other advertisers that as a medium it is unexcelled.

PINEY WOODS

Healthful But Not Always Curative

To go to the piney woods is a help, but if one carries along the bad habits of food and drink that have caused sickness, the piney woods will not produce a recovery.

Coffee drinking caused blindness in a Virginia gentleman, and his remarkable experience is worth reading. "I have been a coffee drinker since my earliest remembrance, if I missed coffee at a meal it brought on headache. This should have shown me that I was a victim to a drug habit. Finally, wakeful, restless nights came on. After dinner I was always drowsy and after sleeping would waken stupid and morbid and felt as though I had been drugged, and when this feeling wore off nervousness and restlessness would set in until I drugged myself with coffee again.

At last my eyesight began to fail. Some of the best optical specialists agreed that I had an affliction of the optic nerve, and after two or three years treatment my eyes slowly lost their power and I became almost sightless.

I was advised to go to a pine woods near the sea in a most isolated place. This I did and lived there for two years without any visible benefit. I gave up all hope of recovery until last Spring a friend expressed the belief that the coffee I drank was the cause of all of my trouble. He had been a slave to it and had been unable to find relief until he quit and took up Postum Food Coffee.

His experience startled me and I decided to try the change although I had but little faith in its merits. My first cup of Postum proved delicious and was a great surprise. It was evidently well made. I had not the slightest trouble in leaving off Coffee for the Postum filled its place perfectly.

During the past six months I have gained in flesh, my sallow complexion has become clear, and my eyesight gradually improved until now I am able to read and write. My mind is once more clear and active, and I no longer suffer from sleepless, nervous spells. You can imagine I feel grateful for my restoration." W. Harold Fenton, Brighton, Va.

THE PEAT INDUSTRY.

BIG POSSIBILITIES AHEAD FOR THE NEW FUEL.

Some Interesting Facts Concerning Peat—Ex Warden Robert Bryans of Lindsay Speak in Glowing Terms of the Future of the Industry.

The Lindsay Watchman-Warder of last week had the following: Some time ago quite a sensation was created by the installation of a complete plant for developing the big peat deposits near Victoria Road, on the Trent Valley Canal. For a while the plant was frequently visited by people from different parts of the province, and locally the new fuel was used to some extent, while the value of the deposits was held in high esteem by the people of the county. Recently it was announced that peat had been discovered at Beaverton also, and would be developed. Because little had been heard of the Victoria Road concern for some time the impression had got abroad that it had failed to meet expectations, and might be of little value. Some local tests of the peat as fuel, perhaps, helped to strengthen that opinion, so that the announcement of the Beaverton find created little interest. It turns out, however, that any idea that the peat industry at that point is a failure, is a great mistake. On the other hand, it is developing most encouragingly and promises to be a big feature in our north-country operations. Speaking of the fuel supply of the county the other day, Mr. Robert Bryans said:—

"I hope it will not freeze up yet for a while. There is a lot of wood to be brought from down the lakes. If it does not get up there will be a wood famine again this winter. Hardwood is soon going to be scarce anyway. I think there will be a good deal brought in this winter, for local hardwood bushes have been killed by the caterpillars, and they will be cut down this winter, but it is hard to get any guaranteed amount. I tried to bind a man to send me fourhundred cords from the north by train, but he would not do it. There are Spratts' woods and Isaac Reid's and Ray's out south-west here. They are about the only ones I know of. When they are done you will not see much more hardwood sold here." That led our reporter to ask about the peat supply, to which Mr. Bryans replied: "It is all right, but it is being largely sent to Toronto to make gas. It yields twice as much gas as coal will. The Toronto Gas Company has installed a gas plant back at the canal works, and it drives the machinery, dries the peat, and lights the premises. The gas furnace overcomes the old drying difficulty. They get as much for the peat shipped loose for that purpose as after it is pressed for fuel. But it is still being pressed for fuel, and answers well. It does best in a cook stove grate made to burn coal. There it is crowded together in a small space, and after it gets well lit, it can be banked up and gives out a very strong heat, and holds the fire for a long time. The Gurney stove company is making a special peat grate that is expected to answer the purpose perfectly. There is such a demand for the peat that I have been unable to get a car of the pressed sort that I ordered some time ago. They find that the further down they go the better the peat is. I understand the Beaverton deposit is not quite so good as that at the canal, but there are big possibilities ahead of the industry at both places."

THE TIMES LETTER-BOX

Letters from the People on Interesting and Timely Topics.

WHY THEY LEAVE THE FARM

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—As the Times has invited contributions on all subjects from its readers, I venture to discuss a matter that has frequently been discussed before, viz.; Why do our young people leave the country? Because the life is dull and uninviting. There is the round of work and sleep; but the young have few bright hours in which to enjoy themselves. There might be meetings and concerts, a social gathering in the winter evenings, which are so cheerless in the country; there might be a flinging open of the church doors—the church which should be the centre of influence—and an invitation to all to make the place a happy scene of wholesome entertainment. The church is closed. It is dark and sombre. It has a forbidding air during the week. And on Sunday it seems to open under a sense of protest. What is the clergyman doing? He is making up his sermon. The sermon is his notion of duty. But the sermon is not life or at least it rarely is so. It is orthodox. It has reference to something beyond our ken; it does with generalities, and quite passes by the poor life which the people live—that life which could be made so bright and winsome. The sermon has its place, but something more is wanted to brighten the lives of our young people in the country. There comes a time indeed, when we become detached from the world. Desire fails. The fires of ambition go slowly out. We are content to sit and let the world go by. The thought is turned inward and upward. We feel that the things we set store by are not for permanency. And our thought turns to the other life which seems at last to be the only reality. But the young are passionately attached to earth. The blood is warm. Hope is strong. And they want laughter, they want joy. Teach them that it is right to be happy, that it is pleasing to God that they should love life and love love; that they should care most for the scenes which they know; that they should find satisfaction in human intercourse whose keynote should be simple gladness. And, except indeed, on the lonely mission station, I know of no country district, in this province at least, where a various and happy life for the young could not be inaugurated by the church, which should give up the notion that sermonizing is her whole mission, and reach out heartily to take the young by the hand, blessing their play, their friendships and loves, and willing them to goodness, not by repression, but by the gentle guidance of tastes and passions in wholesome directions.

I hope that there will soon be an awakening from this most pernicious slumber.

PROSPECTUS

OF

THE NORTH AMERICAN OIL AND REFINING COMPANY

OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

Incorporated under the laws of Wyoming.

Location of Property, Acton, California.
Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent.
General Office, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Branch Offices, Los Angeles, California, and 150 Nassau St., New York City.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

E. A. Sunderlin, President, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Joseph H. Parker, Vice President and Gen. Mgr., Los Angeles, California.
Geo. A. Cockburn, Secretary and Treasurer, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Frank S. Livingston, Los Angeles, California.
F. L. Sherwin, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of 300,000 shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offered for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about 30 miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one section from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is of 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerites Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.00 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells it can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land. West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property is the Iola Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., C. O. O. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 400 bbl. white oil gusher) Hermonia White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page 243).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in 1875, and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 8 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from 300 to 725 feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania, in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders $12,000,000, and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing.

These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.75 to $4.50 per barrel on the field, nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price and stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary propositions that are now being handled in Southern California. The North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect a refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerites Field, as well as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land in the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land has been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in conjunction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as oil experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the entire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & Refining Co.'s lands are in a line with and on the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid revenues. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural petroleum of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining property.

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with maps and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details of these are too lenghty to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any time at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on application. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land and is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as their relation to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. A careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the probability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the business of refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct storage tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, charging therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for the lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in the future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and operated. The profits accruing from [illegible] will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, and a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which will eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. 2000 acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State."
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast Of North America and South America, Asia and Australia for a market.
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Piple line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th. Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no assessment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this district as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a great deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal investigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve that the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale 300,000 shares of its treasury stock at the low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of erecting a 500 barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been started, and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high quality will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Colorado Springs, Colo.

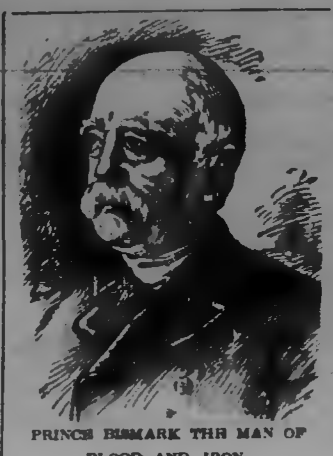
THE ANTI-BRITISH FEELING IN GERMANY

German Nation Looses Its Head Over Imaginary Insults by Britain.

The Boer War the Real Cause of the Remarkable Outbreak.

Germans Cannot Bear to be Told of Their Past Offenses.



PRINCE BISMARK THE MAN OF BLOOD AND IRON.

London, Dec. 3.—The Morning Post says the outbreak in Germany demonstrates the need of Britain being fully prepared for all emergencies. A powerful navy is the one thing needful.

The Globe says that Mr. Chamberlain's Edinburgh speech is not the cause, but the occasion, of the anti-British outbreak in Germany. His only reference to Germany, was in the following sentence:—"I think that the time has come—is coming—when measures of greater severity may be necessary, and if that time comes we can find precedents for anything that we may do in the action of those nations who now criticise our 'barbarity' and 'cruelty,' but whose example in Poland, in the Caucasus, in Almeria, in Tongking, in Bosnia, in the Franco-German war, whose example we have never even approached."

Other nations referred to have left the speech comparatively unnoticed. And even some German paper, noticeably the National Zeitung, the leading Liberal organ, points out that Mr. Chamberlain's reference to the conduct of the Franco-Prussian war was really an endorsation of the practices of German troops. So much so, that if necessary Mr. Chamberlain would support their adoption in South Africa. The Zeitung says:

"The much-debated comparison between the two wars hurts German feeling, because in Germany the South African war, and particularly the way in which it has recently been conducted, is condemned altogether. But from the English point of view the comparison is obviously as far as possible from being insulting. The English appeal in defence of their method of conducting the South African war, which they consider justifiable, to the German methods, which ipso facto, they thus describe as justifiable."

This is an exceptional view. The real trouble has been caused by the false news of the war supplied to the continent from Boer sources. Starting with a racial sympathy for the Boers and the usual continental antipathy to Great Britain, it has not been difficult for Dr. Leyds and his emissaries to accomplish their ends. Statistics have been published showing that the number of British soldiers captured during the war according to the reports published in Europe would be over a million, that Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener have each been reported killed by mutinous soldiers over a dozen times, and, with General French, too, have been captured twice as often. An Englishman in Munich, writing home, says that shop windows are full of colored prints representing British "atrocities" in South Africa—horrible calumnies, which are enough to drive any public to fury—and the German public are only too ready to believe them. Even now, Dr. Leyds is in Berlin, admittedly for no legitimate purpose, and Lord Kitchener has just denied one of the false stories which has helped to inflame German feeling. The horror of these stories is really heartrending, and a writer in The London Illustrated News says that the Germans go so far as to believe that Lord Kitchener has a Boer baby every day for breakfast. Believing such things, the Germans have taken Mr. Chamberlain to mean that their soldiers behaved even worse in the Franco-Prussian war. Hence the agitation. Dr. Leyds has done his evil work well. But so much praise cannot be conceded to the credulity of his dupes.

But there is the British side of the case. The honor of British soldiers has been attacked in Germany for the last two years, and little has been said in reply. The moment Mr. Chamberlain suggests a comparison with the record of their own troops all this uproar occurs. Are Britons to sit by and listen quietly to German slanders while the troops are performing deeds of gallantry in South Africa, and conducting the war on a plane never yet excelled by any troops in the world? Are the Germans not even to be told that they are deceived? Their feelings have evidently outrun their reason and they are past listening to arguments. The Daily Graphic recalled that charges were made against the German troops recently in China. They were contained in letters published in Germany, and ostensibly written from China by some of the soldiers themselves. The Graphic pointed out that British soldiers in South Africa had never approached such barbarities. The German press replied—as appears to be true—that the charges against their troops in China were malignant lies, and the Graphic retorts, "Your reply also answers your own charges against the British in South Africa." Much depends, however, on whose ox is gored, and the Germans apparently still prefer to believe Dr. Leyds and to go on burning Mr. Chamberlain in effigy.

Similarly false stories are now being repeated in the United States by a Boer clergyman who preached a sermon in Washington on Sunday last. According to the report in The New York World, the reverend gentleman said that the concentration camps were placed along the line of railway so that notice might be sent to Dewet and Botha that if the railway lines were disturbed food would not be supplied to the Boer families. The reverend gentleman credited Lord Milner with saying that the camps were so placed as a "military necessity" in order that by bluffing the Boers in this way the railways might be kept intact to carry the necessary supplies for British troops. These are the sort of lies that are being spread by Dr. Leyds and his satellites. The clearing of all supplies from the Boer territories is a military necessity, but the concentration camps are only a humane policy following this military plan. There is no "necessity" for them.

Men like Mr. W. T. Stead do not hesitate to make statements that they should know are untrue. Many times Lord Kitchener, the War Office and many of the Ministers have denied the Boer charge that natives have been armed against them, and no cases have ever been found to substantiate the charge. Yet we read that only on Sunday last Mr. Stead repeated it with great boldness. Possibly he may get the Germans to believe him and quote him. But he is such a malignant assailant of British troops that we cannot think that there are any reasonable people who will be inclined to accept any of his views on the subject of the war when he bases his judgment on such false statements.

YOUNG PULLMAN'S DEATH

Son of the Chicago Millionaire Passed Away Yesterday.

San Francisco, Dec. 3.—George M. Pullman, son of the late millionaire car builder, died at his country home at San Mateo this morning, aged 28. He had been ill several weeks with pneumonia, but until Thursday his condition was not considered serious. On that day he suffered a severe relapse, and grew steadily weaker. Early this morning he was attacked with a hemorrhage, and within a few minutes passed away. Arrangements are being made to take the body to Chicago for interment. Mr. Pullman was married for the second time a few weeks ago at Reno, Nevada, to Mrs. Braswell.

London, Dec. 3.—The terrible wastage of the army in South Africa is well illustrated by the case of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders. The London News hears from a correspondent that of the original regiment that went out to South Africa only a hundred men still remain in the field. The rest of the force now fighting, amounting to only 600 men, consists of drafts sent out since.

The Reason.

Advertising has become a paramount necessity for the following reasons. As the country became more populous the peoples' wants increased, and the centers where these wants were supplied, also became more plentiful. A time arrived finally when competition compelled a more economical method of reaching the public to secure trade. The newspaper columns offered the superior method. The crude announcements which first made their appearance as advertisements, gradually improved because of the necessity to attract more attention. Ads became better until now many advertisements are often more interesting than the average reading matter in the magazines.

EIGHT BUILDINGS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire Loss on the Richest Property in Essex County $30,000

139 SHEEP, 10,000 BUS. GRAIN

Also Hay Lifting Devices and Grain Cleaning Machines—The Origin of the Fire is a Mystery

Windsor, Dec. 2.—A mass of ruins is the only vestige left of the immense barns and cattle sheds of the Scotten Estate, the richest property in Essex County, situated at Ojibwa, below Sandwich. Fire broke out early Sunday morning and completely destroyed eight buildings, with almost all their contents, the total loss being about $30,000. The conflagration started in one of the cattle sheds in some way a few minutes after midnight and was discovered by John Dawson, son of A. W. Dawson, manager of the estate. In spite of the utmost efforts of the neighbors, it was impossible to save the building and 137 sheep were burned to death. Fanned by a brisk wind, the flames quickly spread from building to building, until the whole were one blazing mass. The barns being in the form of a hollow square could not be saved and it was only by the most strenuous efforts that the house was preserved. Two cattle barns the horse stable, granary and several corn cribs were consumed. The horses and cattle were saved and also some grain and many valuable implements. O. E. Fleming of Windsor, solicitor for the Canadian estate of the late Mr. Scotten, gives out the following list of things which was destroyed. Eight buildings, 139 sheep, 7,000 bushels of corn, 3,000 bushels of oats, 100 tons of hay, 100 tons of fodder, 300 bushels of rye, besides the hay lifting devices and grain cleaning machines in the barns and granaries. Mr. Fleming says the origin of the fire is a mystery, as none of the farm hands had visited the buildings after the animals were fed for the night.

The Scotten estate is the estate which was engaged in litigation with the Province as to the payment of succession duties.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH IN GREAT BRITAIN

Language in Britain that would not be Permitted in States.

THE TWO COUNTRIES COMPARED

How Men Like Redmond and Stead would be Treated in Uncle Sam's Domain.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The fresh and intemperate outburst of anti-British sentiment on the part of William T. Stead does not come as a surprise so far as its source is concerned, for Mr. Stead's chief distinction lies in his reputation for frantic protests against the established order. It may cause wonderment, however, to note that such utterances against the British government by one of its subject does not arouse official interference. There is a popular belief that the press and the public speaker have a greater degree of freedom in this country than in any other nation in the world. It is generally assumed that under any of the monarchies—even those having constitutional government—there is a stricter accounting for violations of sentimental allegiance than in the United States, which boasts of its popular freedom—a liberty of the people to criticise the government by the people.

Yet such a situation as that created by the election of Colonel Lynch to Parliament, for example, would not be tolerated in this country. Indeed, it could not be brought about under any possible circumstances. A citizen of the United States who had fought with the Filipinos, for illustration, could not be elected to the national legislature as was Colonel Lynch who helped the Boers to kill British troops.

Mr. Stead "thanks God that Germany and Europe have the courage to call baby murder a crime." "Compared with England's conduct," he exclaims, "Herod's slaughter of the innocents was saintlike. Great Britain ought to be beaten in this unjust war. In America we employed redskins just as we loosed Kaffirs against the Boers, and, thank God, we were beaten!" Mr. Stead uttered these things knowing—and knowing that the British public knew—that nearly every detail of misconduct upon which his charges were based had been absolutely and totally denied by the British commanders in the field; that they were sustained almost wholly by prejudiced Continental correspondents whose motives were so obvious and so malicious as to arouse the indignation, not the sympathetic response, of every British subject.

It has been shown in this country that there is no law competent to reach this kind of offence, yet Americans in public life, whatever their private convictions or prejudices, are slow to give expression to such seditious views. The public temper of the American people is a pretty good safeguard against unpatriotic conduct of an extreme character. This was shown in the cases of the men and the newspapers that found satisfaction in the assassination of President McKinley. Perhaps, after all, a popular government, for which the people are solely responsible, is more exacting than a monarchial form, under which popular responsibility is only nominal and patriotism is correspondingly less inherent and assertive.

FRENCH BUILDING BLOCK-HOUSE LINE

Big Task Before He Can Close in on the Elusive Boers

A VERY ROUGH COUNTRY

Water Scarce and the Distance from Railways Great—1,500 Men to Catch—French Operating in South and East

London, Dec. 2.—The correspondent of the Times at Pretoria says there are 13 Boer commandos, with a total force of 1,500 men, in the western districts of Cape Colony, where the configuration of the country, the scarcity of water, and the distance from railways makes the capture of the burghers difficult. There are seven commandos in Calvinia district, two in South Sutherland, three in North-east Piquetberg, and one in Clanwilliam. General French is operating with eight columns in the south and east of these districts, but there is nothing to prevent the Boers escaping north, where they cannot be followed, indefinitely. Once the line from Beaufort west of Clanwilliam is secured with blockhouses, the fugitive commandos can be dealt with in detail at leisure. The distance from Beaufort west to Clanwilliam, 250 miles gives a small idea of the difficulties of this task.

ASHBURNHAM COUNCIL

A Short Session was Held Last Evening—The Cereal Company

The regular monthly meeting of the Ashburnham Village Council was held last night. All the members present, the Reeve in the chair.

A communication was received from Hon. George A. Cox, on behalf of the Cereal Company, asking the Council to extend the time for completion of the Company's works to Oct. 15, 1903, inasmuch as the amount of $100,000 originally specified to be expended will be largely exceeded; also asking that the exemption from personal property and income taxes for forty-two years be granted to the Canadian Company to be formed.

The request was granted, on motion of Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Pellock.

On motion of Mr. Johnson, seconded by Mr. Sheridan, it was decided to advertise for tenders for snow-ploughing for each ward separately, for the term from the 17th December to 1st of May; tenders to be received up to the 16th.

The Treasurer submitted the following statement of receipts and expenditures from Nov. 6th to Nov. 30th:

WEDDING BELLS.

The Marriage of Miss May Armstrong and Mr Robert A. Robertson.

On the evening of Wednesday, Nov. 27, a quiet and pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. S. Hunter, Cavan, when Miss May Armstrong, daughter of Mrs. David Armstrong, Millbrook, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert A. Robertson.

To the strains of a wedding march, played by Miss Hamill, the bride entered the room, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The groom was assisted by Mr. Alex Laing and the bride was supported by her sister, Miss Annie Armstrong.

The bride was becomingly attired in castor ladies' cloth, with chiffon and applique trimming. The bridesmaid was dressed in brown ladies' cloth with pink trimmings.

After the ceremony had been performed by the Rev. Mr. Johnson, of Millbrook, the assembled guests partook of a tempting wedding dejeuner, shortly after which Mr. and Mrs. Robertson left for their future home in the north of Cavan.

The handsome presents received, testified to the high esteem in which the bride was held.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robertson unite in wishing them a happy and prosperous wedded life.

Prof O'Brien's Stay

At the earnest solicitations of many patrons, Prof. O'Brien, the palmist and phrenologist, has decided to continue his stay in Peterborough for a short time longer. This will afford those who have not had their hands and their heads read an opportunity to do so. Prof. O'Brien will be glad to meet the most sceptical and will easily prove to such that the science of palmistry and phrenology is no delusion.

Burleigh Falls Hotel

Messrs. T. H. Darcy and Sons have purchased the Burleigh Falls hotel. Mr. Darcy, senior, was proprietor of the hotel twenty years ago, which he sold out to Mr. John Holmes, of Lakehurst. Mr. Darcy has been living in Rochester and Buffalo for many years. The hotel will be enlarged and greatly improved during the winter, so as to be in good shape for next season's business.

Malt Breakfast Food

IS THE FOOD THAT SATISFIES.

"Malt Breakfast Food, eaten with cream or milk and sweetened to taste gives me more satisfaction than any dish of oatmeal I have ever used," says a Toronto gentleman who writes to the manufacturers. It is now a well known fact that oatmeal and other foods severely tax the digestive organs owing to the presence of insoluble starch. No starchy particles in Malt Breakfast Food; it is predigested, easily assimilated and agrees with all weak stomachs. At all grocers.

CONTRACTS FOR SNOW PLOUGHING AND SEWERS

Deputy Returning Officers Appointed for the Coming Municipal Elections—General Business

The Town Council met in regular session last night, when there were present Mayor T. H. G. Denne and Aldermen Edgcumbe, Shortly, Rush, Clinkscale Batten, Corkery and Best.

The minutes of the two preceding meetings were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS

From Town Solicitor reporting that in the case of Town vs English; the defendant Walter English put in a large council claim against the Town, which His Honor Judge Weller dismissed and gave judgement for the amount payable to the Town, $70.80. Fourteen days are allowed before the money becomes payable.—Received.

From Town Solicitor E. B. Edwards enclosing a by-law to close part of Mill Street and to open a new street in lieu thereof. The Hydraulic Power Co have executed a conveyance to the Town of the land intended for the new street. The solicitor also submitted a draft deed to the company of the part of Mill street so proposed to be closed for execution after passing the by-law.—Received.

From the Town Solicitor, enclosing the following by-laws: To authorize the construction of sewers on Perry street and the execution of a contract which Richard Sheehy therefor; to appoint the places for holding the elections and the deputy returning officers to preside thereat; and to authorize the execution of contracts for snow ploughing for 1901—1902. —Received.

Joseph Goseling complained of overassessment—Referred to the Court of Revision.

From Dennistoun, Peck & Stevenson stating that they are requested by the Central Milling Co. to ask for adequate surface drainage at the corner of George and Dalhousie Streets, as the water from George Street now flows northward from the C.P.R. track and on reaching Dalhousie Street turns to the west and floods the company's property—Referred to Board of Works.

Chas. F. Guy applied for permission to keep a candy stand at the corner of Hunter and George Streets—Referred to License Committee.

Jno. Carlisle applied for forty foot sidewalk in front of his new terrace on Stewart Street—Referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

The Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Co. asked that the necessary steps be taken on behalf of the Town to have the by-law granting that exemption from taxation for the next ten years confirmed by the Legislature,—Referred to the Manufacturers' Committee.

Andrew Allison's application for remission of dog tax was referred to the Court of Revision.

The Peterborough Light and Power Co. notified Council that the contractor on Mill Street has torn and is tearing up part of a two inch pipe of theirs extending from Hunter to Murray Street. This was done by ploughs and a large quantity of gas allowed to escape. They of course look to the Town for the damage thus sustained.—Referred to the Legal Committee.

Town Solicitor E. B. Edwards forwarded a by-law to authorise the Cordage Co. to construct a siding on Bethune Street.—Referred to the Board of works.

The Town Solicitor also submitted in writing his opinion as to the Town's position with reference to that portion of Bethune Street to be used by the Cordage Company for a siding. He thought the land in question was town property and under Council's control.

It will be remembered that this question was disposed of by the Town Commissioners selling the land to the Cordage Company.

Ald Best drew Council's attention to the fact that Mr. McIlmyre's solicitors had notified council that their client will hold the Town responsible for any obstruction caused in construct ing the Cordage Co's siding. This has been referred to the Town Solicitor.

From Stratton & Hall to the effect that Matthew Munro asks permission to remove an elm tree which obstructs his right of way at its entrance on Downey Street.—Referred.

Mrs. E. Baker asking for remission of a portion of her taxes,—Referred to the Court of Revision.

Jas. L. McCreary application for remission of dog tax was referred to the Court of Revision.

S. H. Mitchell applied for remission of dog tax,—Referred to the Court of Revision.

From A. Stevenson, Secy. C. T. T. as follows:—I am constructed by the Town Trust Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 6th and to say that in accordance with your request they have notified the Canadian General Electric Company of the cancellation of the sale to the Edison Company of the Townsend Street lots. The commissioners further instruct me to say that they prefer that you should use the gravel mentioned in your letter for the purpose of filling in the adjacent town lots rather than that it should be used on the streets,—Referred to the Property Committee.

J. W. Bennet wrote Council as follows: Some months ago I called the attention of the Council to the fact that the numbering of the houses on Park Street was a continual source of annoyance to the residents there, and from the newspapers I saw that the matter was brought up at a council meeting and referred to a committee, and I presume from the fact that nothing has been heard of it since, it has died a natural death. If not entirely dead would you kindly use such means as you can to restore it again to activity. My attention has also been called to the fact that a large number of streets are lacking the names on the corners, and I think it would be a convenience both to the residents and the strangers who are coming to town if the names of streets could be repainted.—Referred to the Property Committee with instructions to act at once.

John Wood, clerk of the village of Ashburnham, forwarded the following: Moved by Mr. Johnston, seconded by Wm. Sheridan, that this Council meet the Town Council of Peterborough and try and arrange something definite in regard to fire protection, date and place of meeting to be fixed by the Town Council.

In this connection Ald Best explained that the Fire, Water & Light Committee had met a committee from Ashburnham, some time ago, which had rejected the Town's offer of fire protection for $250 a year; and they now ask a further meeting to try and arrange more advantageous terms for the village across the river.

Ald Roger thought Ashburnham was now strong enough to support a complete service of their own, and it would be to the interest of both municipalities were they to do so.

Ald Best explained that Ashburnham claims that as they now have a water system of their own, which furnishes the village will partial fire protection, there is less likelihood of Peterborough's engine being called into requisition. In consideration of this fact they are now asking better terms.

This matter was finally referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

VACCINATION.

Opponents of vaccination are gaining adherents just now both in Canada and the United States, from the fact that vaccination, in a large number of cases, is causing unusually painful and in some instances serious and even fatal results. These consequences are attributed by the medical faculty to the impurity of the lymph used, but in view of the generality of complaints made and the wide expange of territory from whence they come, this does not appear to be a fully satisfactory explanation to the ordinary lay mind. Simultaneously we hear of cases of lockjaw, attributed to vaccination in the city of Quebec, and in Campden, N. J., and to our personal knowledge a considerable portion of those recently vaccinated in and about St. Johns suffered much more severely than is usual under similar circumstances. It is improbable that the lymph used in all these cases was impure, and it is still more improbable that it all emanated from the above source. For some cause or another that has not yet been explained, while smallpox this year is of a very mild type, not unlike ordinary chickenpox, and rarely proves fatal, vaccination is everywhere—that is so far as one may judge from reports in different newspapers—proving much more painful and disturbing in its results than was ever known before; and in fact in several localities is really much more aggravating than smallpox itself. Of course this may all be due to the impurity of the virus used, and very likely this will be the explanation vouchsafed to us; but in such a contingency, not one, but several persons who prepare and distribute the lymph have incurred a most serious responsibility and should be held to strict account for incapacity or culpable carelessness. In any event, no matter what the excuse may be, vaccination has received a black eye which it will require a long time to recover from. It has taken many years and persistent agitation to educate the masses to the importance and efficacy of vaccination, and reports of its disastrous effects this fall have spread like wild fire, and in a greatly exaggerated form, and it will take a generation to destroy the impression produced in the minds of large sections of the people in the province of Quebec, if not, indeed, beyond its boundaries.

V. C. HEROES AT COLENSO

Wonderful Resolution of a British Soldier With Both Legs Shot Off.

Our war correspondent, Mr. Bennett Burleigh, writes from Vryheid:

"There is still dispute as to how close the Boers actually were at Colenso to Col. Long's lost guns. Here is an account I have obtained from the Boer side. The account is furnished by one of the ex-Burghers now with us. I give it as narrated. The information is supplied by Piet Nel, who was a corporal in the Boer army, a position nigh equal to that of lieutenant in our force:

"'At the battle (Colenso) some of us were hid under the river banks, and others towards Hlangwani. When, with murderous rifle fire used at close range, not more than 300 yards, we had shot down the gunners' horses and most of the men, as well as the infantry escort to Colonel Long's batteries, none but dead and wounded remaining upon the field, I went out with eight men, several mule teams, accompanied by natives, to try and haul the guns away. Whilst approaching the batteries a Boer fell off his horse, and the horses that two others of my comrades were riding were shot under them. Instantly taking cover, we signalled back to the leaders of the mule teams to halt and screen themselves. Then we tried to locate our, as yet, unseen enemy. I crawled cautiously forward some distance, and got nearly killed, a bullet smashing full upon the front of a small rock behind which I had paused for a moment. Then it was that, but 30 feet distant, I saw a white, haggard face, with two gleaming, burning eyes, peering upon the barrel of a rifle. The khaki soldier, for such he was, probably thought that he had laid me out. That pause was my sole chance, so I fired, and shot him in the forehead, blinding for ever those burning eyes. That poor khaki must have been a man of rare courage, worthy of the best traditions of the British army. I found that both his legs had been blown off at the knees by the spiteful fire of one of our pom-poms. He had tied the shattered stumps with his putties, and, exerting all his remaining strength, managed to drag himself, gather, and pile together a low breastwork of loose stones in front of him. He was one of the infantry escort undoubtedly, and determined to defend the guns whilst life remained. The putties were thickly dyed with his blood, and it drenched the ground, a big, coagulated patch, beneath which his dreadfully mangled limbs rested. His Lee-Metford held five more cartridges in the magazine, whilst some 20 more he had drawn from his pouch lay handy by him ready for use.

"'Whilst I and my comrades, who came up, were looking at the dead soldier, we heard a faint voice asking for a drink of water. A few steps away we found a wounded British officer. He looked anxiously into our faces, and repeated the words, "Water, water." So I stooped down, and placed my bottle to his lips, from which he drank greedily. The draught revived him, for he smiled, and tendered me his sporting Lee-Metford as a reward. But I could not take it, for the barrel was filled with blood, and the outside was sticky and wet, and I felt sorry for the poor fellow. His dead horse lay upon him and pinned him by the leg. We moved the animal off, got him free, and made him as comfortable as we could, and gave him some more water. Subsequently, when the British sent the ambulance out to collect their wounded, we helped to bear him to one of those vehicles. Months afterwards I learned that this young officer was none other than Lieut. Roberts, V.C."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription Doubles a Mother's Joys and Halves Her Sorrows.

It does this by a pre-natal preparation in which the mother finds herself growing stronger instead of weaker with each month. Instead of nausea and nervousness, there are healthy appetite, quiet nerves, and refreshing sleep. The mind's content keeps pace with the body's comfort. There is no anxiety, no dread of the approaching time of travail. When the birth hour comes it is practically painless, the recovery is rapid, and the mother finds herself abundantly able to nurse her child.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor any other narcotic.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free of charge, and so obtain without cost the advice of a specialist in the diseases peculiar to women. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Annie Blacker, 6?? Catherine Street, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Your medicines have done wonders for me. For years my health was very poor; I had four miscarriages, but since taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' I have much better health, and now I have a fine healthy baby. I have recommended your medicines to several of my friends and they have been benefited by them."

FRASERVILLE.

A series of very interesting entertainments were given in the Methodist churches of Fraserville circuit on Nov. 25th, 26th and 27th. Mr. L. B. Spafford, who styles himself a cartoonist, reciter and instrumentalist, gave the programs. He certainly posses a marvellous genius for picture making. He played several instruments, sketched and recited for over two hours. Good crowds were in attendance at each appointment, and a neat sum was raised for a definite purpose at each place.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

Paine's Celery Compound is the medicine you should use when you lack nerve energy, when the body is poorly nourished, when you are weak, rundown, despondent or sleepless. Paine's Celery Compound braces the nerves, strengthens the liver and kidneys, and cleanses the blood.

Consumption is Infectious.

Every precaution should be taken to prevent its spread of the "White Plague." Persons coming into contact with consumptives should inhale Catarrhozone several times each day as it is a powerful destroyer of disease germs and renders them innocuous. Catarrhozone is a most efficient preventive and may be thoroughly relied upon to promote expectoration, soothe the cough, and benefit in many ways too numerous to mention. Both from a medical and scientific point of view Catarrhozone is the most valuable addition to the armament against consumption. Its merit cannot be too warmly applauded. THE CHARITY OF ALL CHARITIES.

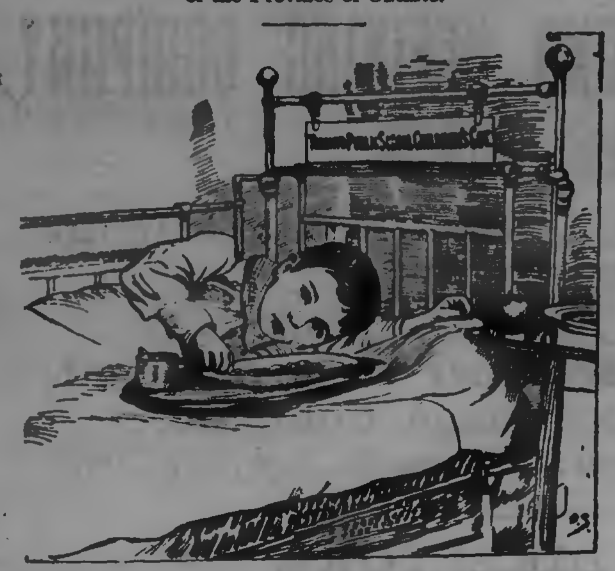
THE CARE OF THE SICK CHILDREN.

What The Hospital for Sick Children on College Street, Toronto, Has Done and Is Doing for the Little Sufferers of the Province of Ontario.



An institution that requires about $34,000 a year for maintenance, an institution that depends for support on the goodness of the generous people of the Province of Ontario, must needs have considerable faith in the love, affection and generosity of the people.

While the institution is located in Toronto its work is essentially provincial. It admits not only children from the city of Toronto but from every city, town, village and hamlet, yes, from every spot in the Province of Ontario.

So when you give—be your giving large or small—it goes for the benefit of every child of the province that is admitted and treated.

This statement is made because occasional reference is made to the Hospital as a Toronto institution for Toronto patients, whereas every sick child in Ontario has the same rights and privileges as those who live within the shadow of the great red pile on College street.

It costs about $34,000 per year, or a dollar per patient, per day, to maintain the Hospital. The Government of the province gives about $7,000 a year, or nearly eighteen cents per head, in other words, per patient per day. This amount is all expended in maintenance. The corporation of the City of Toronto does even more. It gives $7,500 per year or eighteen cents per head per day, and this too goes towards the maintenance, not only of Toronto patients, but for every patient in the Hospital, no matter from what part of the province the little one may come from. Yes, and this contribution of the corporation is increased by from $4,000 to $6,000 donated by citizens of Toronto for the maintenance of all patients, to say nothing of the $4,000 contributed yearly by Toronto people, the founders of maintained and named cots in the building.

During its lifetime the Hospital has handled 8,000 indoor patients and of these 4,000 were cured, and 2,700 were improved. Of these—and please note this—1,757 came from 1,205 places in Ontario and outside the city of Toronto.

Ten years ago the Hospital carried a heavy burden of debt. The building and its furnishings cost $150,000 and of this $30,000 was paid by the corporation of Toronto and $60,000 by its citizens. Year by year the debt has been reduced and it is now down to $13,000.

To clear the indebtedness this appeal is made. Hospital work cannot be carried on without money. Interest on mortgages has to be paid. An army of workers has to live. Nurses, domestics, officials are all human. They earn their wages whether they live in or out of the Hospital.

A hundred and twenty children per day—yes, in some months a hundred and forty—once it was a hundred and fifty—all these to look after and care for. Thirty nurses continually at work. A half-dozen maids with brooms and dusters; cooks and table maids to prepare the food and serve it, clerks in the office who work like beavers, typewriters who tap the keys of their machines for hours a day, answering sheaves of letters, preparing accounts, watching every doing in the immense building on College street, that never closes night or day—all the year round—a hive of two hundred people, small and large, a little town doing what it can for God's suffering little ones.

True, it is, that some have to pay—yes, all who can afford it are expected to pay—but those who cannot pay and can produce the certificate of a clergyman or known ratepayer of the province to the effect that they are too poor to pay, can have maintenance and treatment free of charge.

If all could pay there would be no need to appeal for money, but eighty per cent. of the work is free work for the children of those who cannot afford to pay.

Fancy a great family of nearly one hundred and fifty sick children. You who have had perhaps one or two sick little ones at your own home, therefore know something of the work, but when you visit Toronto drop in and see what they are doing to win back little ones from the grave.

It would only weary the reader to go on with more story. This year a giant effort is being made to clear away the debt. Every dollar of this debt handicaps the Trustees. Every dollar sent in helps to lighten the load that is being carried.

If every reader would send but a dollar what a grand fund would be raised in a few weeks of time. Let every one who can spare a dollar, send it to Douglas Davidson, the Secretary-Treasurer of the Hospital, or to J. Ross Robertson, the Chairman of the Trust. And please send it in at once, for even the best of us are prone to forget our best intentions.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia, Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Five boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, sustaining no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Mann, Merlin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James E. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. A. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, dyspepsia, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $50 for any case that these pills do not cure.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $50 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

A Sick Stomach

is always relieved, and its unpleasant consequences averted by taking thirty drops of Polson's Nerviline in a little sweetened water. It instantly relieves the nausea and by its soothing and stimulating powers, calms the stomach and enables it to complete the process of digestion. Nerviline has been proved more than a million times the best remedy for stomach and bowel troubles. Nerviline will cure you. 25 cents. [illegible]

Perfect Manhood

Is rightly yours; but if you are not the man you should be, if you are losing your energy, your Vital force, memory, annoyed by Varicocele, shrunken parts, and feeling if you don't care what happens, you are suffering from Lost Vitality; it creeps upon men unawares; do not deceive yourself or remain in ignorance while you are being dragged down by this disease; no matter what the cause may be, whether early abuse, excess, or overwork and business cares, the results are the same; premature loss of strength and memory, emissions, impotency, Varicocele and shrunken parts. OUR LATEST METHOD TREATMENT WILL CURE YOU. We guarantee it as a positive cure for these conditions; it is the outcome of years of experience; it equalizes the circulation, stops all drains, thereby vitalizes the parts, restoring them to their normal condition and make the man of you as nature has intended. Do not be misled by so-called Specialists and Institutes. Read the following facts:

1. We do not accept an incurable case for treatment.
2. Each time you call you see Dr. Goldberg personally. He has 18 Diplomas, etc., which should be sufficient guarantee to his abilities. All other chronic, private and Blood Poison Specialists either have some doctor in charge of their office or have an assistant to doctor you.
3. We are doing business on our own reputation, not of our predecessor.
4. Our records show more actual cures than all the other Specialists combined.
5. You need pay nothing until you are convinced that you are thoroughly cured.

CHAINED FOR TEN YEARS
HAY FEVER
ASTHMA
EVERY BRINGS RELIEF.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER

Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.

New York, Jan. 3, 1901.

Drs. Taft Bros.' Medicine Co.:

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

Avon Springs, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

Cancer Attacks the Middle-Aged

Persons approaching the meridian of life should beware of little lumps and growths.

It is a well known fact, that any physician will substantiate, that there is a greater percentage of Cancer among those of middlife than at any other age.

Persons at this time of life, would do well to regard with suspicion, any lumps or growths, on their body. Should these prove malignant or of a cancerous nature, they can be removed completely without operation, by the use of our painless home treatment.

It is the most successful remedy for the cure of cancers and tumors and has cured numbers of people here in Canada and saved them from the torture of the surgeon's knife or the painful plaster.

WRITE RIGHT.

"Scatter decent, helpful things."

Good philosophical, Ras Wilson once said to a new reporter, "Young man, write as you feel, but try to feel right. Be good humored toward everyone and everything. Believe that other folks are just as good as you are for they are. Give 'em your best and bear in mind that God has sent them in his wisdom, all the trouble they need, and it is fer you to scatter gladness, and decent, helpful things as you go. Don't be particular about how the stuff will look in print, but let 'er go. Some one will understand. That is better than to write so dosh bing high, or so tarnation deep, deep that no one understands. Let 'er go.

"So on the above plan," says M. W. Porter, of Topeka, Kan., "I will write what I know of Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food from personal experience. After a long period of indigestion and other disorders, with some misgivings, I took up the use of Grape-Nuts. Despite the hot weather, I kept gaining in strength and mentally, a thing I had never done at that season of the year.

I found the food an excellent stimulant for the brain, and I could do more and better work than I had ever done before. It was a revelation to discover how closely the brain and digestive organs were in sympathy with each other. Whatever retarded the work of one had a corresponding effect on the other and the food that tended to put one in proper shape acted accordingly on the other. I know that my great improvement mentally and physically came from dispensing with unwholesome food and using Grape-Nuts liberally.

Whitby, Nov. 6. 1901

T. H. G. Denne, Esq,

Dear Sir,—By request I went over the ground pointed out to me as the places where I would find escaping gas. At the excavation for the lift locks I found considerable gas, which I believe to be genuine trenton gas, and I think we would be able to get a gas deposit not far away of considerable importance. The gas escaping is from a crevice in the lime stone and is fed from a gas vein lower down in the trenton. I would like to make a test as I believe it would be successful, and would take a good share of stock in a company for the purpose of developing it, if a franchise of the town could be obtained. I am writing from Whitby and came here last night to meet the Board of Trade in regard to their water supply,

Yours truly.

BOARD OF WORKS.

Ald. Best submitted the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Board of Works beg leave to report as follows:

1. Your Board received a letter from Messrs. Poussette & McWilliams, on behalf of Mr. P. McNamara, in regard to the proposed Cordage Company's siding and referred it to the Town Solicitor for his opinion.

2. Your Committee advertised anew for tenders for a nine inch sewer on Perry Street from George to Aylmer Streets and on Rubidge Street from Dublin to Edinburgh Streets and received two tenders, as follows:

J. E. Hayes, Perry St... ... ...1.53 per ft.
" Rubidge St... ...1.37 "
" Private connections $3.00 each
R. Sheehy, Perry St... ... ...1.40 per ft
" Rubidge St ... ...1.28 "
" Private connections $15 each

We recommend that Mr. Sheehy's tender be accepted on his furnishing approval sureties.

3. We authorised the Chairman of the Board and the Town Engineer to appoint an inspector for the sewer construction on Perry and Rubidge Streets at $3.00 per day, to be paid on the certificate of the Town Engineer.

4. We received tenders for snow ploughing and a by-law authorising a contract for the same, which will be submitted to you.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted as read.

PROSPECTUS

OF

THE NORTH AMERICAN OIL AND REFINING COMPANY

OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

Incorporated under the laws of Wyoming.

Location of Property, Acton, California.
Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent.
General Office, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Branch Offices, Los Angeles, California, and 150 Nassau St., New York City.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

E. A. Sunderlin, President, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Joseph H. Parker, Vice President and Gen. Mgr., Los Angeles, California.

Geo. A. Cockburn, Secretary and Treasurer, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Frank S. Livingston, Los Angeles, California.

F. L. Sherwin, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of 200,000 shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offered for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about 30 miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one section from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is a 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerites Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.50 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells it can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land. West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property is the Iola Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., C. O. O. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 400 bbl. white oil gusher) Harmonia White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page 243).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in 1875, and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 8 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from 200 to 700 feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders $12,000,000, and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing.

These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.75 to $4.50 per barrel on the field, nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price and stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary propositions that are now being handled in Southern California. The North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect a refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerites Field, as well as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land in the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land has been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in conjunction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as oil experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the entire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & Refining Co.'s lands are in a line with and on the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid revenues. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural petroleum of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining property.

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with maps and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details of these are too lenghty to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any time at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on application. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land and is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as their relation to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. A careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the probability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the business of refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct storage tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, charging therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for the lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in the future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and operated. The profits accruing from [illegible] will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, and a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which will eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. 2000 acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State."
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia and Australia for a market,
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Piple line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no assessment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this district as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a great deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal investigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve that the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale 200,000 shares of its treasury stock at the low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of erecting a 500 barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been started, and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high quality will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Colorado Springs, Colo.

LAND FOR THE VETERANS.

Toronto, Dec. 2.—A circular letter has been prepared and will be forwarded in a day or two to the thousand or so veterans whose claims for land grants have been approved by the Department of Crown Lands. The letter informs the recipient that "for services rendered Canada and the empire he is entitled to a location of 160 acres in this Province, and this letter is to intimate to him that he may proceed to select the same."

A certificate is enclosed, which on presentation to any Crown Lands agent will enable him to select his claim at any of the certificate. The agent will issue a receipt giving particulars of the lot, which will be held by the locatee pending the issuance of formal papers by the department. There is also furnished a list of townships available for settlement under the act. Land guides will be furnished applicants, at the expense of the department, through whom the claims may be inspected.

The ordinary procedure of proving the non-occupancy of the lots has been simplified by providing that affidavits to this effect may be made by the applicant or his representative, corroborated by the land guide, and sworn to before the Crown Lands agent without cost. It is pointed out, in conclusion, that only one claim may be registered in each square mile, and that reduced railway fares wherever granted for actual settlers will be available for applicants under this act, on securing a certificate from the Bureau of Colonization.

COL. SAM HUGHES WANTS CLEAR FIELD IN AFRICA

Conditions on Which He Would Command in South Africa

WOULD NOT ACCEPT SECOND IN COMMAND

Had Not Sought to Command the Proposed Corps, but is Willing to Raise a Division of His Own

Lieut.-Col Sam Hughes, M.P., in the course of a letter respecting the new Canadian force, says: "Several weeks ago I received informal suggestions from prominent and successful British officers to the effect that, in the interests of the empire, which I have ever held dear to my heart, I should again go to South Africa and help to round-up the Boers, and assist in speedily ending the war. Soon after that I wrote, unofficially, to Dr. Borden, stating that if a mounted contingent of say 1,500 men, or upwards, viz, a brigade, were sent, I would be pleased to accept the command, provided, however, that I should have proper recognition regarding rank, and further provided that in South Africa in the field I should have an absolutely independent command, subject only to Lord Kitchener or Major-General Henry H. Settle, or similar superior soldier; in short, that I should be assigned a territory, the harder the better; that I should not be hampered by 'incapables,' and that I be held rigidly responsible for rounding up the enemy therein.

IS STILL WILLING.

"In the best interests of the empire I am still willing to proceed, under the conditions outlined above. I can speedily raise a division, much less a brigade, and would guarantee success; for there is not a doubt but the whole puny, petty, tricky Boer outfit could easily be rounded up in a few months. To round-up and bag the Boer is a simple and very easy job, but it must be gone about in an energetic, earnest, soldierly, business-like, practical manner. But so long as special recognition, in the shape of special decorations and honors from the War Office, is accorded chiefly for 'masterly retreats' 'narrow escapes,' 'brilliant rear-guard actions,' 'mishaps' and runaways in general, so long as 'inactivity' or activity in avoiding clash with the enemy is regarded as good strategy and tactics; so long as Lord Kitchener and other capable generals are encumbered with some officers who act as if they wish the war to be prolonged, just so long will a miserable handful of Boers roam at will over South Africa, laughing at thirty times their number of British troops. Let me say, in all kindness, that I would promptly have refused the command of a mere regiment, such as the proposed one, had it been offered me. In 1899 the position of second in command would have been accepted by me for the South African contingent under only two Canadian officers, i.e., Col. Henry Smith, now of Toronto, but late of London, Ont., and Col. W. D. Otter. To-day I would not accept second in command in a contingent under any Canadian officer. Therefore the statement said to be given out by the Militia Department that I had sought the command of the proposed corps, and that it was given to that estimable officer, Col. Evans, because he is a cavalryman, is absolutely untrue, so far as I am concerned."

ITEMS OF INTEREST

London, Dec. 3.—The expedition upon which Mr. A. E. Butter, of Faskally, accompanied by Mr. Darrah, has started across Africa to Lake Rudolf and the region beyond should be of uncommon interest. He leaves with the intention of penetrating into the great forest of Semliki, through which Stanley marched in search of Emin Pasha. The primary object of Mr. Butter's expedition, which is of a sporting nature, is to find a living specimen of the okapi, that strange beast, half zebra, half giraffe, a skin of which—the only one of its kind known—Sir Harry Johnston recently brought back from Africa and is now in the Natural History Museum at Kensington. No white man has seen this animal in the live state, but it is morally certain that it still exists, as the skin that Sir Harry Johnston secured was quite new.

SHIPBUILDING IN DUBLIN.

London, Dec. 3.—The movement to reviving the shipbuilding industry of Dublin—contrary to the expectations of most people—seems about to be crowned with success. Final arrangements for the sale of the derelict shipping yard by the Liffey have now been completed and the first order for a steamer has been given by a Dublin firm. The keel will be laid down on January 1 next year.

OBJECT TO LECTURES.

Liverpool, Dec. 3.—At a meeting of the Liverpool School Board a letter was submitted from the Board of Education on the question of temperance teaching. In the communication the authorities state that they cannot approve of temperance lectures being given as a subject of secular instruction, and that such lectures cannot, therefore, be given during school hours in any public elementary school.

FOR THE IRISH TUNNEL.

London, Nov. 27.—A fund has been started in Belfast, which, it is expected, will do much to further the scheme for a tunnel connecting Scotland and Ireland. Preliminary borings must be made before anything definite can be decided upon, and with the view of meeting this expense, a number of Belfast merchants and others interested in the project have subscribed £100 each. The high sheriff of Belfast has given a donation of £200.

IRISH ENCORE FIENDS VIOLENT.

London, Dec. 3.—The people of Belfast take their pleasures riotously. Last night at the Empire Theatre, Pat Rafferty, the Irish comedian, after having sung seven songs, declined to respond to any further encores. The next artist was refused a hearing, and as Rafferty still persisted in his refusal, the audience commenced to wreck the theatre. The curtain was rung down, and the police were sent for to clear the place, which they did, but not before considerable damage had been done.

DUCHESS ON THE STAGE.

Vienna, Nov. 27.— — A full-fledged Duchess has just made her debut here at one of the leading music halls in a song and dance entertainment. She is the Duchess Mortari, and is the patrician born wife of one of the most respected nobles of Naples, from whom she has now been legally separated by the Italian courts, but not divorced. She is about twenty-five years of age, and an exceedingly beautiful woman, whose action in regard to the variety stage is due partly to the necessity of satisfying her extravagance and partly to her love of admiration and applause.

TO SUPERSEDE RAISED LETTERS.

Paris, Dec. 2. — Dr. Labordi has communicated to the French Academy information about a new writing instrument for the blind. It is a revolution in the existing processes of writing, calculation and musical notation been used with great success. It enables the blind to read correctly what is written, and will probably supersede the Braille system altogether.

CHAMPAGNE AND CANCER.

London, Nov. 27.—J. Irwin Palmer, M.R.C.S., writing in the Medical Times, says: "There is a remarkable coincidence between the spread of cancer and the largely increased daily consumption of effervescent wines and waters among the wealthy classes. These beverages, and indeed, all effervescing drinks, owe their sparkle to the carbonic acid gas which they contain. My contention is that the upper classes by their habit of constantly imbibing effervescent beverages, which are solutions of carbonic acid of greater or less strength, so prepare their mucous tissues as to make them a favoring host to the cancerous fungus, if fungus it be."

Expert Bakers

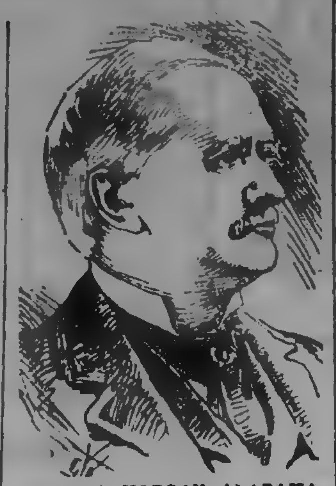
The beginner has to learn; but experience is fast teaching her that Cleveland's Baking Powder is the greatest of helps. It will aid more than any other one thing in making her an expert baker.

IMPORTANT MATTERS BEFORE U.S. CONGRESS

Senator Morgan Promises a Strong Resolution Regarding the Boer War.

Which Will Condemn Britain and Seek to Have Uncle Sam Interfere.

Important Telegraphic News from All Parts of the Union.



SENATOR MORGAN, ALABAMA

Washington, Dec. 4.

The present session of Congress promises to be a "hot" one in many respects. Senator Morgan, of Alabama, promises a resolution in regard to the Boer war that will ask for immediate action on the part of the Government. The attitude of the anti-British party is not yet clear, but it is generally understood that a strong and united effort will be made to secure the passage of a resolution condemning Great Britain in her relation to South Africa. The visit of John Redmond, M.P., to America at this juncture, as well as the activity of the Boer and Irish agitators, is regarded as a proof that Congress will be approached.

The main subjects of probable legislative action at the coming session are generally known. The trusts, internal revenue reduction, river and harbor improvement, construction of public buildings, pensions, revision of the currency and banking laws, irrigation and insular affairs and labor legislation will occupy a great deal of attention.

Three other subjects, somewhat allied in general tenor, will also be urged upon the notice of Congress—provision for an isthmian canal, subsidies for the rehabilitation of the American merchant marine and the construction by the government or authorization for private laying of a Pacific cable.

The canal question will certainly prove a long and probably bitter fight. The same opposition that has met the efforts made in the past to build an interoceanic canal will undoubtedly be active at work this session. The interjection of the Panama canal scheme into the situation will not, in the estimation of well-posted people, accomplish the purpose for which it is alleged to be designed. It is now thought that Panama will brush aside the Panama scheme at once and get down to the main question of whether a canal shall or shall not be built via the Nicaragua rout, and upon this the bill will be fought.

The demand for a Pacific cable probably cannot longer be ignored. Opinion was divided in the last Congress upon whether the Government should build and own the cable or whether a private corporation should be authorized to land it. This difference in opinion resulted in failure to act. Hawaii and the Philippines are demanding the cable, and the mercantile interests of the country will probably bring pressure to bear upon Congress sufficient to force action.

Senator Frye, of Maine, and Senator Hanna, of Ohio, have repeatedly declared during the recess that this Congress would pass a ship subsidy bill. The bill of last session has been modified, but it cannot be told until it is introduced and its provisions scanned whether the modified measure meets the objections raised against the old bill by an influential faction of the Republican party in the House. It is the general belief that some sort of a ship subsidy bill will be passed at this session.

In addition to these important matters, the purchase of the Danish West Indies is likely to receive some attention. It is understood that negotiations which have been conducted for months past have reached a point where they may be carried to a finish here in Washington. The difficulties that beset the agreement have been gradually eliminated one after the other, until there is good prospect of an early final agreement. If acquired, these islands will undoubtedly become a part of the territory of Porto Rico, the nearest large body of land.

The reciprocity question is certain to give the session much concern. While there is a very general sentiment in favor of reciprocity, there are a variety of opinions as to how far it should go, and what it should embrace. The trouble will be to reach a basis of agreement. Local and selfish interests are bound to intrude themselves, and make it difficult to reach a conclusion that will bring the desired results.

OPENING OF NEW RAILROAD.

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 4.

The Northwestern railroad has arranged to open its Moville extension to public traffic to-morrow. The line is nearly twenty-one miles long and connects the Sac City Division of the Northwestern with Sioux City, giving the shortest line to Chicago.

THE LATE JOHN H. BROWN.

Demise of a Well Known Resident of Otonabee Township.

There passed away on Sunday last Mr. John H. Brown, an esteemed resident of Otonabee. The deceased was only 39 years of age and had been ill about a year, having been a sufferer from paralysis, which eventually carried him off.

The late Mr. Brown was born in Asphodel, being the son of Mr. James Brown of that township, but now of Grey County. The deceased became a resident of Otonabee when a mere lad, and resided there until his death. For some time he carried on the business of a grain merchant at Indian River. He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Sarah, daughter of Mr. J. Caster, of Norwood. She predeceased him about 16 years, leaving two children, a son and a daughter. Mr. Brown's second wife, who still survives him, was Miss Ellen Clemes, of Warsaw, by whom he had two children. He also leaves besides his parents, three brothers; they are Messrs. Norman, of Algoma; Robert, of Grey County; and A. Brown, real estate agent, town. He also leaves three married sisters.

The late Mr. Brown was a well-known resident of the township and was a member of the township council in 1890. He was a prominent member of the Methodist Church, and of the Independent Order of Foresters.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to Cameron's cemetery.

INDIAN SCHOOL COMPLETED.

A Splendid Building Erected by the Dominion Government.

The new school building at Chemong for the use of the Indians, has been completed. It is a fine building, built of brick, and heated by a large furnace put in by Mr. Adam Hall, which is in itself a guarantee of perfection. The ground flat is divided into a large school room and a council room for the use of the Indian chiefs. The second flat is made into a large hall for public meetings and pow-wows. The ceilings are of metal, and are very pretty and substantial, while the floors are of hardwood.

Mr. T. Wilson, of town, was the contractor, and made a first class job. The contract price was $3200.

It was entirely through the representation of Mr. J. H. McClellan that the building was erected. He saw the necessity for such a structure, and went and interviewed the minister personally in regard to it. Much credit, therefore, is due to him.

OVER SIX HUNDRED MEN.

This Little Army Has Passed Through Mr. T. Cavanagh's Hands

Mr. T. Cavanagh, the genial proprietor of the Cavanagh House, is very popular amongst the workers in the lumber camps of the province. What "Ted" says, always goes, for he has ever been the lumberman's friend, and when he issues a call for men to go to the camps, there is an active response.

As an evidence of this, Mr. Cavanagh hired and sent to the woods the present fall, about 700 men, all told. Of these 480 were sent to Beaverstone, to the camps of W. A. McArthur, and 150 to Frank Perry's limits, Sault Ste. Marie. The balance was made up of men engaged for M. Boyd & Co., Bobcaygeon, and John Bartram, Collins' Inlet.

The average wages paid is from $24 to $30 per month.

Mr. Cavanagh also purchased ten span of heavy draught horses for Mr. McArthur.

MACEO'S KNOWING DOG.

Picked a $20 Bill Out of a Heap of Rubbish and Took It to His Master.

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 3.—Antonia Maceo, son of the Cuban General, and a student in mechanical engineering at Cornell University, has a dog worth having. This morning it came home to its owner with a twenty-dollar bill in its mouth. It was afterward ascertained that the knowing dog picked the note out of a pile of papers in a corner of the Post Office. Midget Addie Shoemaker, who has sold candy in the Post Office for many years, said she saw the dog nose around a pile of dirt and papers and then depart with something in its mouth. An Italian laborer claimed the note, but could not describe it, and Maceo still keeps

To Avenge His Son's Death

Tacoma, Dec. 4.—The Rev. Robert E. Barr, one of the best known Episcopal ministers in the state, has sold his real estate and other property at Whatcom, preparatory to leaving for South Africa. He will there join the British army as a private, his desire being to fight against the Boers. His son was a member of the British army, and was killed last year in an engagement in which the Boers greatly outnumbered the British. News has been received to the effect that young Barr and his comrades were unfairly taken advantage of. He was the only son, and the Rev. Robert Barr has felt his loss very keenly.

Thus feeling, he now leaves this country, probably forever, to consecrate his life to the cause in which his son fell. He will go to England from New York and thence by troopship to Cape Town. He has lived for a number of years at Whatcom, having been for two years past the rector of churches on Bellingham bay. He will carry with him the proceeds of the property he has sold, using the same for the benefit of his brother soldiers in the army.

THE SNOW BY-LAW IN VERY BAD ODOR

A Regulation That Does No Credit to Our Local Lawmakers.

A DEMAND FOR ITS REPEAL

Which Would be Welcomed by Very Many—A Few Reasons Why the By-Law is Worse Than Useless.

The snow by-law, better known as the fire-limit by-law, compelling residents within that limit to clean their pavements of all snow and ice, is likely to be repealed, and none too soon. A large and influential petition, including the names of the Police Magistrate (who has persistently refused to enforce the By-law), and of two ex-mayors. Why a thing should be done without system which can be done systematically, it would indeed be hard to say. If the sidewalks should be cleaned, why not have it done systematically and efficiently by the town, and not at hap-hazard and in patches by unwilling ratepayers who seek merely to avoid the Police Court summons. There is not a more unhappy spectacle in these days of bray and bombast than a poor old woman out on a stormy day trying to scrape ice off the pavement in front of her door with a knife and a fire-shovel. That the inhabitants of the fire-limit area should get out and work for the benefit of those living farther out who are under no corresponding obligation, is but little short of ridiculous. All said and done, salt and sand are much better instruments of cleansing and protection than faulty scraping. A plentiful use of coarse sand is the best and surest winter-footing procurable, and if our City Fathers had not been too rapt in their own great thoughts to heed the advice of lesser mortals, they would have given us a rough-coated pavement in preference to the dangerously smooth one. This difficulty, however, may be overcome by a proper use of salt, which is accordingly prohibited. What tremendous privileges the ratepayer has when we come to think about it. He is half-suffocated with dust in summer, half-killed by falls in winter, and half-starved with tax-paying all the year round. Surely the millenium, or some other haven of rest, must be near at hand. Sunday-cleaning is of course ignored by the makers of the by-law; yet it is as necessary as any and will be as certainly required by the inexorable police as that of any other day. Away with such a law!

RESENTED INSULT TO ENGLAND

A Briton Fined for Discussing the Boer War

Washington, Dec. 3.—Henry Brown's love of his native country cost him $10 in coin of the Commonwealth in the Police Court yesterday morning.

Brown is a little, bow-legged Englishman, who has spent all his life around horses. And he looks horsey from the edge of his jam-pot collar down to his thick-soled bluchers.

Henry Brown got in a discussion in a saloon with a man named Hinton about the relative merit of the Boer war. Hinton practically declared that the Duke of Alva, Tomas Torquemada and Buccaneer Morgan were angels bright and fair compared to Lord Kitchener, and said, further, England ought to be typographically erased.

Brown shouted for "St. George and Merrie England" as he punched Hinton all over the place. He was arrested, and when arraigned yesterday, he said to the judge, indicating Hinton:

"'E said England ought to be blown hoff the globe, and told me hi was a bloomin' 'idjit for standing hup for me country. So d'ye bloime me for a smashin' 'im?"

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who to himself hath not oft said, this is my own my native land?" quoted Assistant District Attorney Mullowny.

The judge did "bloime" him, and made the fine $10.

As Brown stopped to salute that fat policeman guarding the hallway the latter said:

"Brown,' tis lucky you're not an Irishman like my-elf, for' tis murder you'd be charged wid this mawnin'.

"For if iany man had said to an Irish man what Hinton said to you, 'tis sthiff and cold he'd be to-day.

NOTES FROM NOGEY'S CREEK

—Everybody reads The Times.

—Some one sent your correspondent a first-class receipt for roasting turkey but they forgot to enclose the turkey.

—No letter from this place last week. The head of our family has informed us that we have so much to be thankful for, we'll have to take a week off to hunt it up.

—We were in Peterborough three days off last week, but we are convinced that Mayor Denne was kept in ignorance of our visit. Anyhow, we were not hungry.

—There is before the legislature only one bill from Nogey's Creek,—a bill to have Deacon Jones' distillery moved three miles nearer town.

—We understand that the representative to the Ontario Legislature from Nogey's Creek wears a black beaver, has his boots greased every morning, and eats dinner by a printed dinner-guide, otherwise known as a bill-of-fare.

$50,000 BONUS ASKED FOR SUGAR FACTORY

Ratepayers of Town and County Will in All Probability Soon Vote on the Proposal.

MICHIGAN MEN ARE ALL READY TO NEGOTIATE

Outcome of the Joint Meeting of Town and County Councils and Other Bodies Yesterday Afternoon.

There was a better representation of farmers than of townspeople yesterday afternoon at the joint meeting of the Town and County Councils, Board of Trade, Farmers' Institute, etc., to consider the question of bonusing a beet-sugar factory. The townspeople, however, were all in favor of a bonus, while some of the farmers threw cold water on the proposal. Mr. John A. Moodie, representing American capitalists who are prepared to invest immediately, was introduced by the Mayor and laid before the meeting his offer to build a thousand ton factory at a cost of three-quarters of a million dollars if a bonus of $50,000 be granted. He told a lot about the business and a long discussion followed. The outcome was the adoption of a resolution introduced by Mr. George Matthews, to the effect that Messrs. Adam Hall, B. F. Ackerman, Dawson Kennedy and Wm. Collins be a committee to lay before the Councils of the Town and County, a request that bylaws be submitted to raise the bonus, or if thought best they may be submitted in parts of the County separately. The committee will ask the Councils to send deputations to Michigan to make investigation before the voting.

Mayor Denne presided and after briefly stating the object of the meeting called upon Mr. Moodie to make his case.

Mr. Moodie said that the capitalists he represented had been waiting for the results of the Government analysis and as soon as these were realized they decided to make overtures toward building a factory in Peterborough. The cost of building a factory with a capacity of 1000 tons of sugar per year would be about [illegible]. It would require the cultivation of about [illegible] acres of land. The company he represented is chartered under the Canadian Companies Act and all prepared to do business immediately. They ask a bonus of [illegible] and exemption from taxes for ten years. No smaller sum will be considered. The test of the quality was a surprise to the manufacturers. Either the farmers here are superior to those in the west or there is something in the soil or atmosphere. One little place in Western Ontario with a population of only [illegible] has voted a bonus of [illegible] for a beet sugar factory. Wallaceburg, another small town, has voted a bonus of [illegible]. It is not so much for the sake of the money as to get the people interested that a bonus is demanded. Mr. Moodie read from a Michigan paper statements showing how very profitable the industry is to the farmers. One man from two acres received $134; another from one acre and a half $125; another from three acres $188. There are men in Michigan who don't own any land and rent and cultivate as high as 100 acres and clear $20 to $25 per acre. Four thousand farmers who supplied the three factories in Bay City, Mich., received this season $700,000 for their beets. Next year a fourth factory is to be established in Bay City. It is estimated that 25 new factories will be required every year to meet the annual increase in consumption in the United States. It would require 25 factories to supply Canada with sugar. The first year the Peterborough factory would pay $4 per ton for beets. The second year the price would be based on the percentage of sugar, and according to the recent tests it would come to about $5.50 per ton—making the crop worth five times more than any other. A thousand ton factory would require 120,000 tons of beets which at $4 per ton would be $480,000 distributed among the farmers every year. It would require 10,000 tons of limestone—two kilns are kept going and the fumes are used in the manufacture. The lime is used in purifying. Twenty-thousand tons of coal would be used annually. Barrels and sacks, chemicals and other things would bring the annual expenditure up to three-quarters of a million.

There would be expended for labor in the factory alone $125,000 to $150,000 annually. Farmers would require additional help—a man for every ten acres, to work properly. It is necessary to act promptly. The machinery should be brought here in January. To come in free of duty—it will be brought in the United States or in Germany—it must come before the 1st of April.

Mr. Dawson Kennedy asked if the company would rent and cultivate 1000 acres of land so as to set the farmers an example.

Mr. Moodie replied that they could do so, but would prefer not. In Michigan men who work in the factories rent 5 or 10 acres each and grow beets. There is one factory in the state that rents several thousand acres. They built without securing the farmers and were obliged to take this course.

In answer to further questions, Mr. Moodie said that beets were delivered in October, November, December and January. Frost does not hurt them if they are not thawed after freezing. The crop when in the ground will endure frost without injury. The long days and cool nights here are favorable to production of beets with a high percentage of sugar. The largest percentage Michigan has shown is 14. Galt sent a deputation to Michigan, and as a result Galt will have a small factory. Berlin has voted to bonus a factory. The company will supply seed and will have an inspector for every 500 acres to visit each farm. The produce of a distance must pay freight. This would probably be 25 to 50 cents per ton up to 50 miles. When the canal is completed the beets may be carried cheaper. The pulp is given to the farmers free and is good fodder for hogs, sheep and cattle. Sheep may live on it almost alone. When the beets are delivered a bushel is washed and weighed, then a bushel unwashed is weighed, and deduction made for dirt. The sugar beet does not bleed and may be cut without injury. The factory would require 25 to 50 acres of land and plenty of water. The beets are not crushed but boiled and hot water is kept moving through them and carries off the sugar. The water is afterward evaporated. One Michigan factory paid 20 per cent on the common stock last year. They don't expect so much profit in Canada, as sugar is 1-4c. higher in the United States, but a thousand ton factory here could compete with the world. With half that capacity it would cost 1-2 cent per pound more to produce. They would produce the very best white granulated sugar. About two-thirds of the sugar consumed in the United States is made from beets. In Germany there are over 400 refineries. The factories in Montreal now get raw beet sugar from Germany and refine it. Fifteen or twenty boilers would be kept going in the factory all the time it was in operation.

Mayor Denne briefly addressed the meeting, referring to his visit to Berlin last fall. He was impressed with the cleanliness of the town and the thrift manifest everywhere. Berlin is the lowest assessed town in the Province—Peterborough comes next. It is peopled by Germans, who may be supposed to know something about beet sugar. The fact that they vote to bonus a factory is a consideration favorable to Peterborough doing likewise. He was not in favor of the principle of bonusing. But there would be only one factory in this locality. The Victoria County Council has appointed a deputation to visit Michigan with a view to a factory in Lindsay. An expenditure of $700,000 to start and $700,000 every year would mean much to the town and county. He suggested that an excursion party go to Michigan — there should be 50 or 75 men in the town and county who would pay $10 or $15 each to investigate.

In response to more questions, Mr. Moodie said they proposed to operate the factory the coming season. The factory would buy all the beets offered, even a single load. They would require the product of about 6000 acres, at 10 to 25 tons per acre.

Mr. Wm. Collins mentioned the many advantages that this place offers — he considered it better adapted for a factory than any other place in the county —and suggested that in view of these advantages a smaller bonus ought to be considered. A discussion ensued in which Mr. Moodie pointed out that the results might not be so good in growing quantities as when each farmer had only a small and carefully attended lot in a selected field. The Mayor pointed out that this rule would apply all over the Province. The experiments here were on all sorts of land and all over the district. Several of the farmers explained that they hadn't taken particular pains. M. Dawson Kennedy went contrary to methods as shown by Prof. Shuttleworth. and had a yield of 25 1-3 tons to the acre and 17 4-5 per cent of sugar.

Mr. Moodie said that if he were alone he might consider these points, but he was only there to submit the proposal of his clients.

County Councillor Anderson was asked to speak and said that he did not believe the whole county would carry the bonus. Farmers at a distance would vote against it.

Mr. Dawson Kennedy declared that at first he did not like the idea of a bonus, but on further consideration he was inclined to revise his views. He would favor a bonus.

Mr. Adam Hall said that it would be a great pity to let the opportunity pass and he believed there would be no difficulty in getting a grant of $50,000. Nothing could be so profitable as the sugar beet. The freight on coal is the only drawback to Peterborough as a site, and that will be removed when the canal is open. He would willingly vote and do all he could to carry a bonus. He didn't approve of the principle, but what other towns will do must be taken into consideration.

Reeve Adams of Ashburnham thought the farming community more directly interested than the town and village. The high percentage of sugar beets grown here is not so much a consideration to the manufacturers when it is remembered that they pay by percentage. The bonus asked would not be too much for this town and county to pay for the benefit. He endorsed the Mayor's suggestion of a trip to Michigan.

Mr. John Riddle considered South Monaghan too far away to do any bonusing. The other three townships should do it.

Mr. George Millet favored a bonus and thought the meeting should take some action.

Warden Fitzgerald was called upon and said that as an individual he was opposed to a bonus. The advantages this county offers are worth $50,000 more than Berlin's.

Mr. John Smithson expressed himself rather unfavorably to bonusing.

Mr. George Matthews then submitted his motion and in speaking to it said that if the town were to pay the whole bonus it would amount to only seven-tenths of a mill on the dollar of assessment for a term of twenty years, or one half that for half the bonus. Bonuses are given and freely given in other places. Factories here now have been offered large inducements to move out. It won't do for Peterborough to hold her head too high on account of natural advantages. Canada is a big country and factories can be operated as successfully elsewhere as here. The bonus should not be put up without conditions.

Mr. D. W. Dumble exhorted the farmers to take the right view. There is universal testimony that the direct and indirect benefit of the industry to farmers is amazing. They could do nothing else to bring up their farms so quickly, so easily and so certainly.

Mr. Matthews motion, seconded by Ald. Shortly was put and unanimously carried and the meeting adjourned.

GOLDWIN SMITH ON PROHIBITION.

The decision of the Privy Council on the Manitoba appeal, has aroused public interest to a far greater extent than was anticipated by those immediately concerned in the result. The leading men in the Dominion have already by pen and voice commented upon the wisdom of the other Provinces following Manitoba's example and passing a prohibitory law. Those who are conscientiously opposed to prohibition, argue that the closing of the bar room will mean that the dive will replace the properly conducted cafe where intoxicants are now sold. The enthusiasts on the other side claim that the young men will not be so tempted under prohibition as under the present license system. Professor Goldwin Smith, well known as Canada's foremost literary man, when asked what he had to say as to the judgment, answered as follows:

“There is no gainsaying the judgment of the Privy Council which decides that a Province has the power of passing a prohibitory law. But most of us will be sorry that a question of morality and health should have again become an object for the tricks and dodges of political party, while a well-spring of social bitterness will again be set flowing amongst us. Our lamentation will not extend to the catastrophe of any politician who, having made his game on the assumption that the judgment of the Privy Council, would be against the power, finds himself with embarrassing pledges on his hands. One has only to pray that the controversy now inevitable may not be so conducted as to bring undeserved discredit on this country by spreading exaggerated notions of the disposition of our people to drink. Canada is a temperate country. Even in the cities, where evil generally congregates, and which are the centers of foreign immigration, the revolting spectacle of drunkenness is comparatively rare. Nor is there any country in which opinion is sounder on the subject or in which the social penalties of intemperance are more severe or more strictly enforced.”

“WHITE SLAVERY!”

France has invited the other European powers to send delegates to a conference upon ways and means of suppressing the “white slave” traffic, which is gratifying proof of a national and international awakening in regard to this infamous system. An organized exportation of Polish women to the Argentine Republic has lately been uncovered, and one or two of the criminals have been caught. In Hungary and Bohemia, too the horrible traffic has been steadily carried on, while the luring of English girls of good family into Holland, Belgium and France goes on steadily. The conference has been planned for some months, notice of the French Government's intention having been given by Senator Berenger at the meeting of the National Vigilance Association in Amsterdam early in October. The plan of the French Government is that there shall be a general discussion of the existing laws, with a view to suggesting methods of strengthening them from the international point of view.

Yankee Advertising in Germany.

“One coming into New York or any other American city must perforce be impressed with the virtues of somebody's soap or pain-killer, painted in letters that seem to fill the landscape, and in London the trams and 'buses are one mass of travelling advertisements,” remarks Ray Stannard Baker in the “Outlook.” “This disfigurement is unknown in Germany, and yet the Germans have their own effective methods of proclaiming the excellence of their wares. Like everything else, advertising is limited by law; the cities provide certain large wooden columns at street intersections upon which placards may be pasted, and the streets are not disfigured by dead walls bearing patent medicine advertisements. Then, again, look at the gimcrack toy which your boy is playing with, and you will find upon it the words, 'Made in Germany,' and, if you travel in Germany, you will find that you are very persistently plied with circulars and pamphlets by post and otherwise. Last summer Barnum & Bailey's circus visited Germany for the first time, and brought with it American methods of advertising. I am not exaggerating when I say that they paralyzed the Germans—both paralyzed and scandalized them. They didn't think it possible for any business enterprise to make so much noise; it was positively undignified. For the circus managers bought up store windows and store fronts by the hundreds, and their enormous colored prints, such as had never before been seen in Germany, told the wonders of the show to gaping multitudes. They disapproved of all this, but they went to the show.”

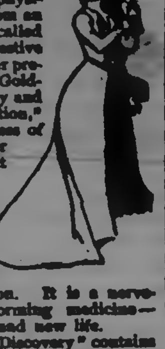
Book Postponed.

“How's your new book coming along?” “Oh, I haven't begun it yet.” “What's the matter?” “I am busy supplying my publishers with press notices explaining how I came to think of its title.”—“Judge.”

Doctors not seldom give up a case, but a mother never does. While life lasts, while there is a spark of vitality which love's labor may fan into a flame, she toils untiringly for the child she brought into the world. And sometimes where the doctors fail the mother succeeds. She has no prejudices. Any means she will use which will save her child.



The mother's prescription given below is a case in point. Her daughter was given up by physicians as suffering from an incurable disease, called “wasting of the digestive organs.” The mother prescribed Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and “Favorite Prescription,” and had the happiness of seeing her daughter restored to perfect health.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a nerve-nourishing, flesh-forming medicine—making new blood and new life.

“Golden Medical Discovery” contains no alcohol and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is a true temperance medicine.

“My sister (of Arlington, Washington Co., Nebr.,) was taken very sick and had several doctors,” writes Mrs. C. L. Harrison, of Elk City, Douglas Co., Nebr. “They could not do her any good, and told my mother they would not come any more, as no doctor could help her, that she could not get well. She had 'wasting of the digestive organs.' My mother said to my sister: 'Well, I almost know that Dr. Pierce's medicines will cure her.' So she bought six bottles—three of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' three of 'Favorite Prescription,' and some of the 'Pellets;' and now my sister is a well woman.

“We thank you for your medicine.”

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

When You Know How.

“I WILL be beautiful,” she said, as she turned away from the mirror. “Surely in this modern, progressive age it is possible for any girl to acquire beauty.”

So she invested in all kinds of cosmetics, had them applied by an artist, and went to a big ball. The next morning she scanned the society columns of the papers eagerly, but there was not a word about “the beautiful Miss Brown.” She merely figured among those who were “also present.”

“Still,” she added, “it is possible to be beautiful when you know how, and I will experiment until I discover the secret.”

Thereupon she employed a beauty doctor, and was rubbed and massaged every day for a month or more, but it was no use. The gossip departments of the papers spoke of this girl and that girl as “beautiful,” but never of “the beautiful Miss Brown.”

“Possibly,” she thought, “something is the matter with my gowns. Much depends upon proper harmony or contrast, which often makes the beauty. I will have one designed especially for me by the most gifted of costumers.”

The papers said she was “beautifully gowned,” but that was all.

“I will become engaged,” she cried, in despair. “If necessary, I will marry. Brides are almost invariably beautiful.”

But when her engagement was announced the papers merely referred to her as “the charming and gifted Miss Brown.”

“Alas!” she exclaimed, “can I not be beautiful? Is that great boon possessed by so many girls, no more favored by nature than I am, to be always denied to me? What is life to me, if I am thus handicapped? A mockery, truly! I will have none of it.”

In this humor she went boating, and, giving it the appearance of an accident, deliberately fell into the water, from which she was quickly rescued by an athletic young man.

“Why,” she cried, the next day, as she thought it all over, “was I not allowed to die?”

Then her glance fell upon a daily paper, and her eyes instantly brightened.

“Gallant rescue of a beautiful girl,” she read. “Pretty Adele Brown, the beauty of the season, saved from a watery grave.”

“Why, of course,” she commented, thoughtfully. “It's very simple when you know how. Now I think of it, a rescue or a scandal will make a girl beautiful any day.”—N.Y. “Town Topics.”

Funny Answers.

An English teacher, commenting on the “wonderfully funny” answers given by his pupils to questions, cites the following specimens:

A boy, aged ten, thus answers a question as to the cause of the Transvaal disturbances: “Krugger and Kannerbulism is one. He is a man of blud. Mr. Chamberling has wrote to him sayin' come out and fite or else give up the blud of the English you have took. he is a boardstaksman and a wickid heethin. lord Kitchener has sent for his geary blud and to bring back his scanderius bod ded or alive.”

An essay on Gladstone, by a boy of eleven, states: “Mr. Gladstone lovd everybody. he lovd publicans and sinners and Irishmen. he wanted the irish to come to England and have home rool, but Mr. Chamberlin says, no, no, so stare he got his blud up and killd Mr. Parnel. Mr. Gladstone died with great rispect and is burried in Westminster with pieceful ashes.”

The House of Rothschild.

FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN is not generally regarded as a very important financial center, but for more than a century it has been the headquarters of the foremost banking house of modern times—the Rothschilds. It was in this city that the great establishment had its modest beginning, and since rising to affluence and power and extending its operations to all parts of the globe, the ancient seat has never been abandoned. The following facts regarding the origin and development of the Rothschild house are taken from the August issue of the "Bankers' Magazine:"

The founder of the house was Mayer Anselm (1743-1812), the son of Anselm Moses Bauer, a small Jewish merchant of Frankfort-on-the-Main. His father wished him to become a rabbi, but he preferred business, and ultimately set up as a money-lender at the sign of the "Red Shield" (Rothschild) in the Frankfort Judengasse. He negotiated his first great government loan with Denmark in 1802, and his transactions on behalf of William, Elector of Hesse-Cassel, were so profitable that when he died ten years later he was a very wealthy man. He left behind him five sons, and branches of the business were established in Vienna, London, Paris and Naples, each being in charge of one of the sons.

The third of these brothers, Nathan Mayer, has generally been regarded as the financial genius of the family and the chief originator of the transactions which have created for the house its unchallenged position in the financial world. He came to Manchester about 1800 to act as a purchaser of manufactured goods for his father; but at the end of five years he removed to London, where he found full scope for his financial genius. The boldness and skill of his transactions, which caused him at first to be regarded as rash and unsafe by the leading banking firms and financial merchants, latterly awakened their admiration and envy. By the employment of carrier-pigeons and fast-sailing boats of his own for the transmission of news, he was able to utilize to the best advantage his special sources of information, while no one was a greater adept in the art of promoting the rise and fall of the stocks.

The colossal influence of the house dates from an operation of his in 1810. In that year Wellington made some drafts which the English Government could not meet; these were purchased by Rothschild at a liberal discount, and renewed to the Government, which finally redeemed at par. From this time the house became associated with the allied powers in the struggle against Napoleon, it being chiefly through it that they were able to negotiate loans to carry on the war. Rothschild never lost faith in the ultimate overthrow of Napoleon, his all being virtually staked on the issue of the contest. He is said to have been present at the Battle of Waterloo, and to have watched the varying fortunes of the day with feverish eagerness. Being able to transmit to London private information of the allied success several hours before it reached the public, he secured an immense profit by the purchase of stock, which had been greatly depressed on account of the news of Blucher's defeat two days previous.

Rothschild was the first to popularize foreign loans in Britain by fixing the rate in sterling money and making the dividends payable in London and not in foreign capitals. Latterly he became the financial agent of nearly every civilized government. It is said that since 1815 the Rothschilds have raised for Great Britain alone more than $1,000,000,000; for Austria, $250,000,000; for Prussia, $[illegible]; for France, $[illegible]; for Italy, $[illegible]; for Russia, $125,000,000; for Brazil, $70,000,000.

In 1895 they took $15,000,000 of the February loan of the United States through the Belmont-Morgan syndicate.

There are at present living eleven barons of the Rothschild name. Of these Nathaniel, Alfred and Leopold are located in London; Gustav, Edmund, Adolphe and James are in Paris, and Nathaniel, a baron of the Austrian Empire, is head of the house in Vienna.

"Maintaining an identity as unchangeable as the Hebrew race to which they belong, and with purposes as inflexible as the ruler of Russia, and a policy as far-seeing as the Church of Rome," says the "Bankers' Magazine," "the Rothschilds have steadily built up the prestige of their name until it now outranks that of any other, while their fortune has grown year by year until it has attained to colossal figures. Those who have a talent for guessing have set the actual sum at two thousand million dollars, but until some member of the firm displays a confidential mood, the correctness of this conjecture must remain unverified. Whatever the amount may be, its vastness is undoubted, and the accumulations of a century and a half are being swelled each hour by innumerable tributes from every quarter of the world."

Why She Quit the 'Phone.

"The young woman employed as a stenographer had a beau named Will, to whom she talked some twenty-five times a day," says the Boston "Record." "The lawyer who labored under the impression that he was paying for the stenographer's time was not pleased that Maggie should drop her work and rush frantically to the telephone every time the bell rang, and stand there for fifteen minutes debating whether or not Will ought to have told Clara that secret which he knew well enough was none of Clara's business. One day the lawyer left his office, and, going to another telephone in the building, called up his own office. Of course Maggie rushed frantically to the 'phone, and answered.

"'Hello,' said the lawyer, in a muffled voice. 'This is a lineman testing the wire. Kindly stand one foot in front of the receiver and say hello.'

"Maggie obeyed.

"'Thank you. Now stand two feet to one side and say hello.'

"Maggie complied.

"'Thank you. Now stand two feet on the other side and say hello.'

"It was done.

"'Thank you. Now stand on your head and say hello.'

Only One Hundred Left.

London, Dec. 2.—The terrible wastage of the army in South Africa is well illustrated by the case of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders. The London News learns from a correspondent that of the original regiment that went out to South Africa only a hundred men still remain in the field. The rest of the force now fighting, amounting to only 800 men, [illegible] out since.

German Etiquette.

THE visitor in Germany is often embarrassed by the superfluity of titles, which seem to be showered indiscriminately. The Germans are great sticklers for the dignity of station, and William H. Dawson, in "German Life in Town and Country," shows how actions of law have been instituted because of the withholding of titles rightfully acquired.

Mr. A. must be spoken of as Mr. Court Councillor A., Doctor B. as Mr. Privy Councillor Professor Doctor B. And wives must share their husbands' privileges, and be addressed as Mrs. Court Councillor A. and Mrs. Privy Councillor B.

The English "reverend" has no equivalent, but the clergyman becomes Mr. Pastor So and So. Mr. Brown, the editor, is addressed as Mr. Editor Brown, and on the same principle we have Mr. Stamp-Collector Jones, Mr. Postmaster Robinson, Mr. Road-Inspector Smith, and so on.

You address a lady whom you know but slightly as "Gracious lady" or "Gracious mademoiselle," as she may be married or single. "Obedient servant" is still a gallant greeting where the acquaintance is slight or where a lady is saluted; and it should be remembered that to salute first in public is not the prerogative of the German lady.

The superficial side of courtesy as seen in letter-writing is simply allowed to run riot. Here is the beginning of an official letter which a person of educated rank may any day receive, to his lasting edification:

"To his highly well-born Herr Doctor (for the doctor may be taken for granted). The undersigned permits himself devotedly to inform your highly well-born self that your honored writing has received, and so forth." And the writer may in conclusion assure the highly well-born recipient of his "most excellent high esteem," and subscribe himself as "highly respectful and most obedient."

Most people insist on receiving the exact degree of respect which they deem to be due to their position, as the pronouncement of a Berlin jury indicates. A lady accused a tradesman of an intended insult in that he had only signed himself in a letter "Most humbly" and not "Respectfully and most humbly," and the court took the complainant's view and fined the offender.

OF
THE NORTH AMERICAN OIL AND REFINING COMPANY
OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

Incorporated under the laws of Wyoming.

Location of Property, Acton, California.
Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent.
General Office, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Branch Offices, Los Angeles, California, and 150 Nassau St., New York City.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

E. A. Sunderlin, President, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Joseph H. Parker, Vice President and Gen. Mgr., Los Angeles, California.
Geo. A. Cockburn, Secretary and Treasurer, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Frank S. Livingston, Los Angeles, California.
F. L. Sherwin, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The Incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of 300,000 shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offered for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about 30 miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one section from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is of 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerites Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.50 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells. It can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land. West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property is the Iola Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., C. O. O. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 400 bbl. white oil gusher) Hermonia White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page 222).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in 1875, and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 8 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from 200 to 725 feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders $12,000,000, and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing.

These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.75 to $4.50 per barrel on the field, nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price and stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary propositions that are now being handled in Southern California. The North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect a refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerites Field, as well as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land in the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land has been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in conjunction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as oil experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the entire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & RefiningCo.'s lands are in a line with and on the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid revenues. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural petroleum of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining property.

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with maps and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details of these are too lengthy to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any time at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on application. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land and is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as their relation to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. A careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the probability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the business of refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct storage tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, charging therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for the lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in the future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and operated. The profits accruing from both enterprises will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, and a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which will eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. 2000 acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State."
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast Of North America and South America, Asia and Australia for a market.
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Pipe line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th. Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no assessment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this district as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a great deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal investigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve that the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale 300,000 shares of its treasury stock at the low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of erecting a 500 barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been started, and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high quality will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Colorado Springs, Colo.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia ave., Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Fiver boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, sustaining no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Moon, Merlin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James R. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. A. A. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, etc. Even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $50 for any case that these pills do not cure.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $50 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

A Sick Stomach

is always relieved, and its unpleasant consequences averted by taking thirty drops of Polson's Nerviline in a little sweetened water. Cancer Attacks the Middle-Aged

Persons approaching the meridian of life should beware of little lumps and growths.

It is a well known fact, that any physician will substantiate, that there is a greater percentage of Cancer among those of midlife than at any other age.

Persons at this time of life, would do well to regard with suspicion, any lumps or growths, on their body. Should these prove malignant or of a cancerous nature, they can be removed completely without operation, by the use of our painless home treatment.

It is the most successful remedy for the cure of cancers and tumors and has cured numbers of people here in Canada and saved them from the torture of the surgeon's knife or the painful plaster.

Time Extended To Next Fall

Through an oversight the following resolution with reference to the Cereal Company was ommitted from our report of the Council meeting in yesterdays issue:

Ald Rush moved, seconded by Ald. Roger,—That the consent of this council be given to an application by the American Cereal Co. for an act of the Legislature of Ontario extending the time for completion of said works until the 15th day of October 1902, and extending the said exemption from taxation to the personal property and income of any company incorporated in Canada, its successors and assigns, which may acquire and operate the said works.—Carried.

A Remarkable Child.

"Little Lina," the wonderful child entertainer, has been engaged to assist the MacDonald Male Quartette on the night of Dec. 16th. The Great Eastern Lyceum Bureau seems to have caught the public favor in securing this talented little lady. She is a general favorite wherever she goes, being invariably encored three or four times. With talent such as this the company should have no doubt of filling the Opera House.

POLICE COURT NOTES

Magistrate Dumble Disposed Several Cases Yesterday

At the Police Court yesterday Wm. Leahy, of Otonabee, was charged with assaulting his wife. In order to give Leahy a chance, the Magistrate enlarged the case for a week, it being understood that he is to behave himself or take the consequences.

A case that occupied the attention of the court all day was that of charge against W. Duncan of town who is charged with stealing a sum of money from Wm. Badge, the proprietor of a second hand store on Simcoe street. The theft is alleged to have taken place last July.

A great number of witnesses have been examined, and altogether the case has proved most interesting.

AN OLD PETERBOROUGHH BOY.

Dr. W. H. Pendry Elected to the New York Assembly.

It was about twenty years ago that Mr. W. H. Pendry, who was for several years a resident of Peterborough, moved to Brooklyn, N.Y., Mr. Pendry will be remembered as having conducted an auction business in town, and was for some time on the staff of the Times, which no doubt laid the groundwork for his future progress. After taking up his residence in Brooklyn, Mr. Pendry graduated as a veterinary surgeon, and soon had a large and lucrative business. In a letter to Mr. Ed. Courtney, his brother-in-law here, Dr. Pendry tells of his election to the Legislature. He says:

"I was pleased to receive your letter of the other day, I am glad to receive also your congratulations of my election to the Assembly of a State like New York. The district I represent has over seventy-seven thousand people in it, several times more than you have in your town. It was a three-corner fight, there being over twelve thousand votes cast, I receiving seven hundred and forty-seven more than the next highest man. The district has been lost by my party for the last four years and I get of course due credit for having won it back again, especially in a three-corner fight. In the Assembly district there are thirty election districts, all of which voted for me in the Convention, there being one hundred and nine delegates, all of whom voted for me, something that it is said has not been done for many years. The party that I ran against had been elected twice before. I only hope that I shall prove all my friends seem to think I am and that they have not over-estimated my ability."

WEDDED AT NIAGARA

A Niagara Falls paper contains the following account of the marriage of Miss Winifred Judd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Judd, No. 201 Rubidge street, town:

"At 8 o'clock yesterday morning at the parsonage of St. Mary's church, occurred the wedding of Miss Winifred Judd and Mr. Matthew Dick. The Rev. Father Wright was the officiating clergyman. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Dairne, of Sixth street. The bride wore a going away gown of castor broadcloth, and a large picture hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Dick are well known in this city, and are very popular with a large circle of friends. They left immediately for Chicago."

Weary Brain Workers.

Fagged out, ideas come as slowly as molasses. You think of things just a minute or two too late. Snap's gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure—that's gone too. The doctor would tell you that you are run down, not eating enough, nor digesting enough. Your stomach needs aid, your digestion needs a bracer, too. Your blood requires Phosphorus and Iron that it may be formed readily. Now Ferrozone is a wonderful nerve bracer and blood maker. It's food for the blood and nerves, it will make you strong quickly and permanently. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Watch Coffee

Watch Carefully Its Effect on You.

Any brain worker who depends on thought for his success in life, uses up daily, by brain work, a varying amount of the delicate particles of potash and albumen, of which the brain and nerve centers are composed.

This breaking down of the little cells each day, from brain work, is a natural process, and the cells can readily be rebuilt from the right sort of food, if the system is not interfered with by drugs. If brain fag or nervous prostration sets in, the evidence is plain that nature is not rebuilding as fast as work is tearing down. There is some reason. What is it? Look first to the coffee cup, for coffee is known to interfere with and prevent the proper nourishment of the nerves in highly organized people.

Frequently this trouble first shows in dyspepsia, lack of power of the bowels to operate properly or palpitation of the heart or some other lack of vitality and healthy vigor. Then comes brain fag and that tremendous collapse called nervous prostration. There is but one thing for a sensible man or woman to do,—quit coffee absolutely. "Hard to do," you say. Take up Postum Food Coffee, use it regularly, have it well made, so it tastes good. You will find a well-defined, unmistakable change in your health, and there is a reason for it.

You will have become free from the breaking down force of coffee, and, on the other hand, you will be taking a powerful, nourishing liquid food which quickly rebuilds the new cells. These are facts,—profound facts, ready for any one to prove to their own satisfaction by actual use. Postum Food Coffee is made at the famous pure food factories of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., and is used by brain workers all over the world. Don't call it a "substitute" for coffee; leave out the coffee proposition altogether. Postum is a liquid food and a true food drink.

A SIGN OF PEACE IN SOUTH AFRICA

Boer Regiments Forming to Fight the Forces of the Two Republics.

THE END OF THE STRUGGLE IS NOW IN SIGHT

This is the Opinion of the Correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger—How Britain Feels Regarding Ireland.

London, Dec. 5.

The end of the war may now fairly be said to be in sight. Late dispatches from Pretoria state that the system of blockhouses which Lord Kitchener is constructing, is driving the Boers out of Cape Colony and successfully rounding them up.

It is stated on high authority in the city that there is an extremely good undercurrent of confidence in the prospects of peace. Lord Salisbury's cryptic allusion to something that was going on behind the scenes is understood to refer to the formation of Boer battalions, two of which are actually in operation. One of these battalions is commanded by a brother of Cronje, who is now a prisoner at St. Helena. If this hopeful feeling is not reflected in the newspaper press during the present week it is none the less operative in financial circles of the highest authority and respectability.

There is also no doubt that public weariness with the war is increasing. Lord Salisbury stated a short time ago that our friendliness with foreign Governments was untouched. No sooner were the words out of his mouth than the explosion of anglophobia, more marked in Germany than in any other part of the world, illustrated the unreality of Lord Salisbury's optimism. Commercial affairs are almost at a standstill, the Ministry is stale, and quiet citizens who years ago never dreamed that the naval and military forces of the country were any concern of theirs are now giving close attention to the organization and preparedness of the British nation for war.

There is little doubt that the general sense of the public at this juncture is strongly in favor of resisting both home rule and any sentiment in South Africa which would enable the Boers to rearm and again attack us at two days' notice, as was done in 1899. On the other hand the average citizen has no objection whatever to the Boers and the Irish Celts enjoying any measure of freedom they like which is compatible with inability to attack England. England did not begin the African war, and if the Boers had beaten us they would have shown no more mercy than the Irish Celts if they had defeated us. We should have been driven out of South Africa and of Ireland. We shall budge from neither unless beaten. There has been no particular day during the war when a settlement could have been made, and, therefore, it is evident that no end to the war can be arrived at until the commandoes are beaten in the field. Under reasonable conditions this ought to be done within a short time, with an expenditure of another £120,000,000 sterling. The necessity is a disagreeable one but the only alternative is the disruption of the Empire. When at last the war is over the opportunity will have arrived for real generosity by the nation, not the exercise of a vicarious sentiment practiced from motives of economy or political convenience, as was the case in the Majuba settlement of 1881.

UNCLE SAM'S NAVY.

An Immense Addition to the Fighting Force in the Shape of Battleships.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Information concerning new battleships and armored cruisers which are now in process of construction is furnished in the annual report of Secretary Long. The following table gives the names of the new ironclads, together with an approximate date of completion:

BATTLESHIPS.

Maine	October,	1902
Missouri	March,	1903
Ohio	May,	1903
Virginia	May,	1904
Nebraska	July,	1904
Georgia	July,	1904
New Jersey	July,	1904
Rhode Island	July,	1904

ARMORED CRUISERS.

Pennsylvania	January,	1904
West Virginia	February,	1904
California	August,	1904
Colorado	January,	1904
Maryland	February,	1904
South Dakota	August,	1904

Besides the vessels above named there are now being constructed at the various navy yards nine unarmored cruisers, four monitors, twenty-five torpedo boat destroyers and seven submarines.

Secretary Long in his report recommends the building of three addditional battleships and two additional armored cruisers. On account of the importance which the navy to-day plays in the world's affairs he argues that no expenditure is wasted which is judiciously used in increasing our naval strength.

PRINCE HENRY FOUGHT A DUEL

Made an Offensive Remark to Queen Wilhelmina in Public

MAJOR VAN TETS SPOKE

A Quarrel Which Developed Into a Duel Then Took Place—Van Tets Was Wounded.

Amsterdam, Dec. 4.—In spite of official denials, investigations show there is substantial foundation for the story of a duel having been fought between Prince Henry of the Netherlands, husband of Queen Wilhelmina, and Major Van Tets, the Queen's aide-de-camp. It appears that at a dinner at Het Loo her Majesty was hurt by some intention on the part of the Prince, and spoke to him sharply. Prince Henry retorted offensively, whereupon Major Van Tets made a remark regarding the impropriety of the Prince Consort's conduct. A quarrel followed between the aide-de-camp and the Prince, and a duel with swords was fought after dinner. Van Tets was wounded. He has since been removed to Utrecht to be operated upon.

BRITONS SEIZE FRENCH BOOKS.

More Than 40,000 Novels Are Stopped by Custom Inspectors.

Paris, Dec. 5.—The wholesale seizures, made during the past six weeks by the British customs officials at New Haven and Dover, of French novels exported across the channel, have induced the three leading publishing houses of Paris to seek a remedy by urging intervention through the ministry of foreign affairs.

Investigation shows that since October more than 40,000 French books have been detained at British custom offices. Among the works were those of Georges Ohnet, Guy de Maupassant, Richard O'Mouroy and Calmann Levy.

Since the appearance in Paris last September of vulgar, indecent caricatures of King Edward and the enormous demand for these and other filthy publications, the British customs authorities have received instructions to execute with the utmost stringency the regulations applicable to the seizure of French books. The result is that nearly all consignments of French books are examined and in doubtful cases held for periods of a week or ten days for the decision of the inspectors.

The publishers say that the demand in the United States for French books is rapidly increasing; not so much for pure works of fiction, but rather for historical books, memoirs, anecodets, literary and biographical essays and criticisms.

Prince Tuan's Son Deposed

Pekin, Dec. 5.—An edict received here yesterday announced that Prince Tuan's son had been deposed as heir apparetn, but that ducal honors had been conferred upon him. This relieves the throne of the charge of extenuating the crimes of Prince Tuan, who was the head of all the Boxers. It was announced in the edict that the heir apparent was removed because of his father's crimes, but it is notorious that the boy is a degenerate. It was recognized here that this fact, in addition to political reasons, made his succession to the throne impossible. This action of the court satisfies the Ministers, and will please China's friends.

A BOER'S LETTER TO A RELATIVE

A Sample of How the Boer Regards the British Soldiers.

BOER PROCLIVITY FOR LYING

So Desperated That He Will Even Lie to His His Friends—There Is No Language Harsh Enough to Use Against the English.

Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—August Hermann, a young Philadelphian, who, since February, 1900, has been fighting with the Boers in South Africa, writes to his father, Leopold K. Hermann, sixty-third and Catharine sts., under date Sanderton, South Africa, October 14, telling some interesting experiences with the fighting burghers. A brother of young Hermann showed the letter yesterday to members of the Executive Committee of the Boer Relief Organization and asked that it be read at to-night's meeting. The letter, which is in German, is, in part, as follows:

"I have written several times to you but, of course, we can never tell whether our letters get through after we mail them. I am sending this one by a Dutchman to be mailed through the Dutch Consul. Last night we had a sharp fight, and captured an English post of 130 men near here. I am now writing from an English sympathiser's house. We have taken all the horses and ammunition here, and are now better equipped.

LITTLE FOOD IN THE CAMPS.

The place we took was a railway blockhouse. We could have wrecked it, but we don't want to hinder the food trains from going through, as the women and children in the reconcentrado camps are living on one meal a day, and we don't want to cut off even the small supplies they get. The British soldiers never make a stand against us, except when they are four or five to one. Of course, we don't hear much but as we came up here we heard that the British had abandoned every post in the Orange Free State except Bloemfontein. All they hold west of here is the railroad tracks.

The women and children are dying by thousands in the camps. We relieve them in whatever way we can, but the English are evidently bent on killing as many of the Boers as possible. I will write again in a few days, fearing this letter may not reach you. I can't give any address now, as we are constantly moving from place to place. Before I sat down to write this letter I had not been out of the saddle for four days and nights. Tell all our friends that we will win out in the end.

The local Boer Committee, and the two Boer envoys, Vilpeon and Leibenberg, profess to know nothing of the alleged recruiting agent, Freiberg who is said to be working in the city for the Boers. It is stated that Freiberg arrived from Germany on the Belgenland last week, and that he has commenced recruiting here. The accredited Boer representatives say no effort is being made in the United States to enlist men.

YEOMANRY NOT THE FINAL NAME

Only Put in for Organization Purposes

COL. EVANS TO CHOOSE TITLE

There are Two Other Names now Before Col. Evans, Second Battalion Canadian Mounted Rifles

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—The name Canadian Yeomanry, selected for the mounted infantry going to South Africa, is only a tentative one. It was put in for the purpose of organization purposes. There are two other names now before Col. Evans. One is the Second Battalion of Canadian Mounted Rifles, and the other is Canadian Royal Horse. Col Evans was in command of the First Battalion Canadian Mounted Rifles, and some think it would be appropriate to call this regiment the Second Battalion. It is understood that Col. Evans at first favored the name of Canadian Royal Horse, but since the other has been laid before him he may change his mind.

REUNITED AT DEATH BED

Long Lost Daughter Restored to Her Dying Mother

McKeesport, Pa., Dec. 4.—The daughter of Mrs. Jane Williams, who was kidnapped in infancy, was not restored to her until she was on her death bed. Mrs. Williams died last night. The daughter is now a married woman, and never knew who her mother was until informed a few weeks ago by a relative, who, it is said, had been instrumental in having her taken away.

Mrs. Williams' husband died in Chicago in 1869, and when relatives wanted to adopt their youngest daughter, Mary, she refused. The little one disappeared when five years old, and it is said that a relative kidnapped her. About 20 years ago Mrs. Williams came to this city and made her home with her son. Last summer she was stricken ill, and several weeks ago it became apparent that the end was not far off. With approach of death her longing for her child increased, and three weeks ago a relative who is said to have taken the little one from her, sent word that the child was alive, had grown to womanhood and married.

This fact was made known to the dying mother, and arrangements were at once made for the daughter to join her. The daughter, now Mrs. Annie Madden, of Liverpool, England, where she had been taken when stolen, was sent for, and arrived a week ago. The dying mother recognized her child, in spite of the years that had passed since their parting, and died last night holding her hand.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

THE CASE OF POUSSETTE VS. DICKSON COMPANY NOW ON

The Case Began Yesterday and Will be Continued To Day—An Important Case That is Exciting Great Interest

One of the most important cases that came before the local courts is now occupying the attention of the High Court of Justice at the Court House here, being that of Poussette v. The Dickson Company.

Mr. Poussette, the former Solicitor for the Dickson Company, sues the company for the sum of $169,000 damages sustained by an alleged breach of contract for the sale of certain properties which the plaintiff alleges he had verbal authority to dispose of.

The case is connected with an action brought by Mr. Starr of Cornwall, against the same defendants Company for $77,000 in lieu of specific performance, which latter term applies to a contract made with the plaintiff by Poussette, solicitor of the company, for the sale of certain lands. As a portion of the land has been disposed of he sues for the sum stated in lieu of the specific performance which is now impossible.

R F McWilliams and Clerk, K.C., Toronto, for pltf. Poussette; Leech, K.C., Cornwall, for Starr; Roger & Bennet, and Aylesworth, K.C., Toronto, for individual defendants; Hall & Hayes, and Watson, K.C., for deft., the Dickson Company.

It was decided that the evidence taken in the first case should be used in connection with the second as far as applicable.

Mr. A P Poussette was the first witness. To Mr. Clark he stated that he had been solicitor for the Dickson Company from 1890 until the present year. The shares were divided in $100 shares as follows,—

Charles McGill	10	Shares
Jas. Roger Davidson	10	"
Dickson Davidson	10	"
J. H. Hall	176	"
Annie Josephine Speer	176	"
S. D. Hall	176	"
Elizabeth Davidson	529	"
Charlotte Dickson	530	"
Martha Dickson	540	"
Ellen Walsh	529	"
Mary Ann Hazlitt	529	"
William Davidson	11	"
William Walsh	11	"
Richard Hall	12	"

Mr T G Hazlitt was present of the company for the nine years previous to his death. He acted for the family in all their business affairs, with Mr. Richard Hall as trustee, but he was the acting trustee. In 1892 Mr. Hazlitt asked witness to interest himself in making a sale of the property. An endeavour was made to float a company in England. In 1893 the timber limits were sold but came back in 1897 into the hands of the company from the Howry Company. Mr. Hazlitt was unwilling to recommence lumbering, and again asked witness to try and make a sale. In September of 1897 witness received the necessary authority to make a sale of the limits and the Lakefield property. The sale, however, could not be effected. The written authority to make this sale could not be produced.

Mr. Watson, K.C. — We dispute the existence of such a document.

Witness, continuing, said that in the witness of 1897-98 he met Mr. Starr and asked him to consider a proposal to conduct the various properties by means of a company to be formed. He had then received an option on the property. This was on Oct. 10th, 1898. His instructions from Mr. Hazlitt were that he should endeavour to effect the sale and get $100,000 paid down, the rest to be secured by a mortgage on the property. The scheme was to combine the Dickson Co., the Peterborough Light and Power Co. and the Stret Railway Co. Witness' renumeration was to be all he could get in excess of the price set which was a sum which' would give each member of the family $100,000. After the option expired Mr. Hazlitt asked witness to continue his efforts. Witness explained to Mr. Hazlitt that his scheme with Mr. Star to combine the three companies had fallen through. Mr. Hazlitt died on Oct. 20th, 1899. Afterwards witness was most largely in consultation with Mrs. Hazlitt and also with the Misses Dickson. He met William Davidson almost daily and discussed the matter with him. They were most anxious that he would succeed in effecting a sale. Concurrently with his negotiations with Mr. Star for the sale of the whole property witness was carrying on negotiations with Mr. Alexander McLarn, of Buckingham, for a sale of the timber limits. This was May 9th., 1900. This was the date of the contract with Mr. McLaren. A written offer from Mr. Star to the defendants dated May 10th was produced. It was delivered to Mr. Richard Hall the following day. Mr. William Davidson and Mr. Dickson Hall were present at the time. On the evening of May 11th he was asked to explain the offer of Mr. Star to the company. This he did. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Hazlitt, Mrs. Walsh and, he thought, Miss Haura Davidson were there. The offer was discussed, concerning security, terms, etc. They expressed themselves as satisfied with the offer which would not each member of the family about $96,000 each. The Misses Dickson were in Atlantic City at the time and were telegraphed to setting forth the terms of the offer. All agreed that Mrs. Hazlitt should sign the telegram. An answer was received approving the offer. Mr. Hall stated to witness that a Board meeting would be held that night but witness was told his presence was not wanted. On the following Monday Mr. Wm. Davidson told witness that objections had been made to the offer. Witness went to see Mrs. Hazlitt about the matter, who suggested that he go to Toronto to see Mr. McGill about the objection to the security. He telegraphed Mr. McGill, but Mr. McGill answered that it was no use arguing about it. He wouldn't receive him. Mrs. Hazlitt then suggested that witness write to Miss Charlotte Dickson. The letter was written and both Mrs. Hazlitt and Mrs. Walsh approved of its contents. A telegram was received stating that the Misses Dickson would return for a conference. Another telegram was received from the Misses Dickson authorising Mrs. Hazlitt to vote for them if necessary at the Board meeting.

Mr. Poussette had not concluded his evidence when the court adjourned.

BOATS WRECKED OFF TOBERMORAY

Twenty-Seven Men of Their Crew Swam Ashore

IN A BLINDING SNOWSTORM

Took Refuge on a Desert Island, From Which They Were Rescued by the Tug Gliscus

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 3.—Alfred Brager and John Halloran, stewards of the schooners King and Brunette, have arrived in Detroit. They tell of their thrilling experience last Friday, when their boats, in tow of the steamer Wetmore, were driven ashore on the rocks of Rabbit Island, two miles below Tobermoray Light, at the mouth of Georgian Bay, and 27 members of the crews of the boats swam to shore, a distance of over half a mile in a blinding snowstorm. The Wetmore struck a rock and the buckets of her wheel were stripped off, disabling her, and throwing her and the two barges to the mercy of the waves. The men were ordered to save themselves, and as the yawls from all but the Brunette, had been washed overboard, this boat was used to take off a man with a broken leg. Their signal fire on the island after they escaped by swimming was seen by the tug Gliscus, 28 hours after, and relief arrived Saturday morning just as the men had begun to build a shelter house on the barren island from the lumber which had washed ashore. The Wetmore and Brunette will probably be total losses, as the boilers shifted in the steamer and holes were torn in her bottom.

HE ROCKED THE BOAT.

And is Now Being Tried For the Murder of A Young Lady.

Elkton, Md., Dec. 4.—Frank Rinehart, of Smithburg, a good-looking youth of twenty-one, was put on trial here to-day for manslaughter, based upon the novel accusation that he had caused the drowning of a young woman with whom he was boating on Lake Royer last summer, by rocking the boat until it upset. Rinehart is the son of John Rinehart, a prominent man. His alleged victim was Miss Mary Finfrock, an attractive young schoolteacher of York, Pa., whom he met at a hotel near Penmar, on the lake.

Rinehart took Miss Finfrock and two others, a man and a woman, out on the lake on a Sunday evening. They had gone only a few feet from shore when the boat was upset. The water was shallow, and the boat was soon righted. When near the middle of the lake the boat again upset. All hands were thrown into the water. Miss Finfrock was drowned, and the others were with difficulty saved.

Rinehart said that he reached for an oar and the boat upset. Eyewitnesses of the accident declared that the young man deliberately rocked the boat until it went over. The witnesses went before the Coroner's jury, and Rinehart was charged with manslaughter. He was also indicted by the Grand Jury.

The witnesses were on hand again to-day to testify against the young man. Rinehart took the stand and denied that he rocked the boat. He said the accident was not due to criminal carelessness, as charged, and that the death of the young woman had been a great sorrow to him.

The case went to the jury this evening.

The Boer War

London, Dec. 4.—Miss Hobhouse, who charged the Government with illtreatment of Boer refugees in the concentration camps, has recently sent a report of her last trip to the newspapers. It will be remembered that the lady was not allowed to land in South Africa on account of the indignation her articles excited amongst the military authorities.

Miss Hobhouse in a niece of Lord Hobhouse, a member of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. He has intimated that the action of the authorities will be made the question of legality.

SOUTH AFRICAN VOLUNTEERS.

Pretoria, Dec. 4.—It has been announced that Colonel Capper, until recently in command of the Railway Pioneer Corps, will take command of the volunteer force for the South African colonies. These volunteers, it is estimated, will number 10,000 men, and will include the irregular troops now in the field, such as the Imperial Light Horse, Scottish Horse, Thorneycroft's M. I., South African Light Horse. These men will be liable for active service at any time, and it is expected will render an expensive constabulary unnecessary.

KITCHENER PROTESTS.

Pretoria, Dec. 4.—During a conversation with Mr. Clare White, an army temperance worker who has accomplished a great deal among the men, Lord Kitchener remarked: "I am not the butcher that some think me; there is no officer more jealous of the soldier's welfare, religion and temperance than myself."

TOWN MAY PURCHASE THE WATERWORKS

Ratepayers Will Vote on the By-Law at the Next Municipal Elections

SPECIAL COM. REPORTS FAVORABLY ON MATTER

At a Special Meeting of the Town Council Last Night—The Company Ask $230,000 for Their Plant

The Town Council met last night, pursuant to adjournment from Monday, to receive the report of a special committee appointed to consider the advisability of the Town taking over the Water Works.

There were present Mayor T. H. G. Denne and Aldermen Edgcumbe, Shortly, Roger, Clinkscale, Batten, Corkery and Best.

The reading of the minutes of last meeting was dispensed with.

To Purchase the Waterworks

Ald Best, Chairman of the Water Works Committee submitted the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Special Committee of the Town Council who were appointed in the early part of the present year for the purpose of negotiating with the Peterborough Water Company for the purchase of the Company's works, such action on the part of the Town Council being based entirely upon public opinion of the desirability of the Town acquiring the waterworks through friendly negotiations with the Directors of the Company rather than wait for two years before the Town could demand the right to take over the waterworks under arbitration, now beg leave to report as follows:

Your Committee received from the Directors of the Water Company an assurance of their willingness to negotiate upon private terms for the purchase of their works this present year.

Your Committee not having any data to form a basis for negotiating with the company, decided, with the full consent of the Directors, to have a valuation made of the street plant, power house, dam and land belonging to the Company. We corresponded with six engineers reputed to be experts in making such a valuation as we required. One of the six, Mr. William Kennedy, C. E., Consulting Engineer, of Montreal, we engaged to make the valuation in the month of May. Mr. Kennedy's instructions from the committee on his arrival here early in June, were, that he should, after making a thorough inspection of the street plant, power house, dam, &c., make a net detailed valuation of the entire waterworks property as it then existed. We received on July 24th from Mr. Kennedy a detailed statement of the waterworks property, and his summary of his valuation was as follows:—

Sundries	$ 5,089.56
Pipe distribution, including hydrants, also service pipes	120,155.14
	125,244.70
Pump house	5,000.00
Turbines, pumping machines, pipes, valves, etc., in pump house including suction pipe.	20,000.00
Water power site including dam, land, etc.	50,000.00
	75,000.00
Total	$ 200,244.70
Say	$ 200,000.00

Having secured this valuation, we secured the permission of the Company to have an examination made of their books as to their revenue and expenditure for three years, and Mr. Albert E. Lech was employed to do this work. He made a thorough examination, going into the details of the revenue and expenditure to arrive at the result, and made a report. His statement covering the operations of the year 1900, the last year reported on, was as follows:—

EXPENDITURE

Upkeep of mains and hydrants	$ 72.01
Wages foreman and men on ditto	962.77
	1,034.78
Running pump house, sundry accounts	370.72
Wages, two engineers	1,021.10
Repairs on machinery	26.70
	1,418.52
Upkeep of dam	.50
Repairs on service pipes	16.00
Superintendence	962.40
Office expenses	1,062.50
10 percent rebate account	421.04
Interest account	5,204.20
Special rebate on account, Ashburnham	72.15
Bad debts written off	206.37
Directors fees	600.00
Balance net profits	3,606.30
Total	$ 20,778.20

THE REVENUE.

Net revenue water supply account	$ 20,778.20
By balance net profit	$ 3,606.30

Having received the reports of Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Lech, we again met the Directors, who took the ground that the Company should receive more than the estimate made by Mr. Kennedy, because Mr. Kennedy had not made any allowance for preliminary expenses, nor for the expense that is naturally and inevitable connected with the commencement of such an undertaking as the waterworks and getting it established on a sound, smoothly working and paying basis, and, further, because Mr. Kennedy's estimate did not take into account the Company's agreement with the Village of Ashburnham which gives a revenue of about $800 a year and is increasing.

After conferences with the Directors, they finally made this formal offer;

Peterborough, Nov. 19, 1901.

Henry Best, Esq.,
Chairman of the Committee,

Dear Sir:—Pursuant to request from Committee of Aldermen appointed by the Town Council to confer with the Directors of the Peterborough Water Company, I am requested to write you, as Chairman of such Committee, and advise, that after consideration of the proposal made on behalf of the Town, subject of course to ratification by the votes of the ratepayers, to purchase the plant of the Water Company, the Board of Directors have decided to recommend to the shareholders of the Water Company that the purchase price of said plant be fixed at $230,000 as of January A. D. 1902. We wish it distinctly understood that this offer is made without prejudice to our own rights should we be forced to arbitrate, and is not to be used in any way against the Company. The offer is made solely by reason of representations that have been made to the Directors of the Company by your Committee, that in your opinion and in the opinion of the members of the Council, the feelings of ratepayers are in favor of owning these works.

We know that the price fixed is much less than the plant is worth and much less than we could sell to outside parties could we or they be sure of an extended term during which the Town would not interfere with our schedule of rates.

Our offer is made, too, for the sake of peace and to avoid expensive arbitrations which cannot but result unsatisfactorily to either the Town or the Company, and would doubtless cause much bitterness of feeling.

We wish to avoid, too, imperilling the stock of the shareholders so many of them being widows of deceased residents, who have invested, not for speculation, but relying on the standing of the men who have been and are at the head of the Company expect to get their money back and a fair rate of interest for the use of it.

The offer is made on the understanding that if the people vote down the By-law to be introduced for the purchase of the works, that a new term will be granted by this year's Council of ten or at least five years from the date of the expiring of the present one, during which term the town is not to have the option of purchasing the works or interfering with the schedule agreed on. This, you, as business men, know, is a most necessary provision for us to make to enable us to finance our bonds and shares to best advantage.

In consideration for an extended term of ten years the Directors will recommend a discount of 20 percent, and for five years a discount of 15 percent to private consumers for prompt payment as now provided for off all schedule rates as fixed by our bylaw with the Town excepting rates made by contract, and the present hydrant rate not to be interfered with, it being already too low, covering as it does street watering, sewage flushing and horse troughs; the street watering area having been materially increased whilst no addition has been made to the number of hydrants for some years.

Yours very respectfully,
(Signed) G. W. Hatton,

We replied to this letter that we could not recommend any proposition conditional upon modifications of the terms of the franchise, but that we would be prepared, without prejudice to the rights or position of the Town, to recommend a purchase at $220,000. This led to a further conference with the Directors, at which the terms were again discussed at length, and at which the representatives of the Company assured us that they had placed the figure in their offer at the lowest sum they could accept, for it would require that amount to enable them to let their shareholders out without a loss of part of the money they had invested in the works. In reference to our objection, however, they withdrew the conditions as to an extension of the term in which the Town could take over the works by arbitration, and we agreed on a price to be paid, subject of course to the approval of the Council, and the ratepayers, and of the stockholders of the Company, and without prejudice to the rights of the Town should other proceedings become necessary, of $230,000 for the entire plant and property of the Company.

We therefore beg leave to recommend that, without prejudice to the position or the rights of the Town should arbitration become necessary, a provisional agreement be made with with the Company for the purchase of the works at the price of $230,000, and that the Mayor be authorized to execute such an agreement for this purpose as may be approved by this Committee, and also that, for confirmation of this agreement, a By-law be prepared to be submitted to the qualified ratepayers of the Town.

A SAFE INVESTMENT.

Before morning the adoption of the above report, Ald Best remarked that —Taking the purchase price at the figure we have arrived at, namely $230,000, and even allowing that we would have to pay four per cent, interest, and basing the sinking fund on the supposition that we would only receive three per. cent, on the sinking fund accumulations (thus putting both sides of the estimate to the extreme limit against the Town), and taking the net earnings of the Company for 1900, after paying working expenses, at $14,977.20, as shown by Wm. Lechs' statement, the result would be as follows, based on 30 years debentures:

Net Revenue	$14,977.20
Sinking Fund on 3 P.C. basis	4,884.44
Interest at 4 P.C.	9,200.00
	14,084.44
Leaving a margin of	892.76

WAR SHIPS ON THE LAKES.

It is proposed to establish a naval training ship at Cleveland, and Congress will be asked for an appropriation. Several months ago the committee on naval affairs of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce approached Secretary of State Hay in regard to the treaty of 1812 which still exists between Great Britain and the United states, prohibiting the locating of an armored cruiser, or any sort of armored vessel, on the great lakes. Owing to existing difficulties then Mr. Hay thought it unwise to take the matter up at that time, but suggested that it be done later, promising to lend what aid he could in the matter. This is part of the movement to quash the old treaty, and permit the building of war ships in lake dockyards. American writers who speak out plainly in advocacy of this movement, pretend to a fear that with the possession of deep canals from the sea to the lakes in British hands, several important lake cities might some time be defenceless against attack. This kind of appeal is supposed to startle Congress into the action required in the interest of lake shipbuilders.

THE AUTOMATIC TELEPHONE

The new automatic telephone seems destined to prove a great influence for good by removing an incentive to the use of "language." In the Fall River installation the person who wishes to make a telephone connection goes to his instrument, revolves a disk not unlike the lettered annulus of a combination lock, and thus makes his own connection by a process similar to that described by the scientist as "natural selection." He can call any number included within the possible permutations of ten numerals, from 1 to 0. Having set the combination he wants he presses a button, which rings the bell of the subscriber called. If this particular instrument is "busy" for sure he hears a buzzing which notifies him of the fact; if not, the call is presumably answered and the conversation proceeds. So far as the service is concerned it is absolutely automatic. If a mistake is made in the call, the only one responsible is the person who does the ringing up, and he is usually lenient in the judgment of his own errors and invariably apologetic to the person needlessly disturbed. The flow of amenities over the Fall River wires is positively beatific. Such an accident as "cutting in" with something wholly irrelevant and incongruous is unknown; equally so is the premature severance of a connection once established until its purpose is fulfilled.

Do Plants Reason?

DO plants think and reason? Mr. Francis Darwin, the distinguished son of a world-famous father, would almost make us believe they do by the lecture he delivered recently in connection with the British Association meeting at Glasgow. Through a long course of experiments and observations, conducted on his father's principle of gathering facts instead of pursuing theories, Mr. Darwin is able to show, by what seems conclusive proof, that plants control to a certain extent their own growth. They adapt themselves to the influence of gravity by means analogous to the instinctive actions of animals. Man does not walk by a reasoned theory of the adaptation of his limbs to the operation of gravity. He walks by instinct, and keeps himself from falling by instinctive motions of his limbs, tutored by organs of sensation. Plants, says Mr. Darwin, grow upwards by similar interaction of organs of sensation and motion. Moreover, each plant interprets correctly the conditions in which it can best grow and thrive. If you turn the tip of a stem downwards, the plant will bend it upwards. Have we here any indication of qualities which in man are called mental? asks Mr. Darwin. Have plants memory and desire? To that tremendous question Mr. Darwin is not yet prepared with a full answer. But he inclines to the belief that mind and life are ever implicated the one with the other. What life is we are no nearer knowing than before. Nor what death is. Nor what is the purpose of change of individuals from so-called life to so-called death, allied with constant reproduction of the type. But if plants have mind and desire, it is a strange thought that the garden rose-tree tortured by prunings, cuttings, and tyings may be sighing with envy of the free dog-rose in the hedgerows.

Look Ahead, Girls.

If young girls would look ahead it would sometimes save them from serious collision with the men they marry. It is here that ignorance is almost a crime. The young husband cannot understand it when the wife changes to a peevish, nervous, querulous woman. And the young wife does not understand it herself. She only knows that she is very miserable.

If ever there is a time when nature needs help it is when the young girl is adjusting herself to the new conditions of wifehood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It promotes regularity, dries debilitating drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All womanly confidences are guarded with strict professional privacy. Write without fear or fee to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I will drop you a few lines to-day to let you know that I am feeling well now," writes Miss Annie Stephens, of Belleville, Wood Co., West Va. "I feel like a new woman. I took several bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have no headache now, no backache, and no pain in my side any more. No bearing-down pain any more. I think there is no medicine like Dr. Pierce's medicine. I thank you very much for what you have done for me—your medicine has done me so much good."

U. S. Congress.

Washington, Dec. 4.

The present session of Congress promises to be a "hot" one in many respects. Senator Morgan, of Alabama, promises a resolution in regard to the Boer war that will ask for immediate action on the part of the Government. The attitude of the anti-British party is not yet clear, but it is generally understood that a strong and united effort will be made to secure the passage of a resolution condemning Great Britain in her relation to South Africa. The visit of John Redmond, M.P., to America at this juncture, as well as the activity of the Boer and Irish agitators, is regarded as a proof that Congress will be approached.

The main subjects of probable legislative action at the coming session are generally known. The trusts, internal revenue reduction, river and harbor improvement, construction of public buildings, pensions, revision of the currency and banking laws, irrigation and insular affairs and labor legislation will occupy a great deal of attention.

Three other subjects, somewhat allied in general tenor, will also be urged upon the notice of Congress—provision for an isthmian canal, subsidies for the rehabilitation of the American merchant marine and the construction by the government or authorization for private laying of a Pacific cable.

The canal question will certainly prove a long and probably bitter fight. The same opposition that has met the efforts made in the past to build an interoceanic canal will undoubtedly be active at work this session. The interjection of the Panama canal scheme into the situation will not, in the estimation of well-posted people, accomplish the purpose for which it is alleged to be designed. It is now thought that Panama will brush aside the Panama scheme at once and get down to the main question of whether a canal shall or shall not be built via the Nicaragua rout, and upon this the bill will be fought.

The demand for a Pacific cable probably cannot longer be ignored. Opinion was divided in the last Congress upon whether the Government should build and own the cable or whether a private corporation should be authorized to land it. This difference in opinion resulted in failure to act. Hawaii and the Philippines are demanding the cable, and the mercantile interests of the country will probably bring pressure to bear upon Congress sufficient to force action.

Senator Frye, of Maine, and Senator Hanna, of Ohio, have repeatedly declared during the recess that this Congress would pass a ship subsidy bill. The bill of last session has been modified, but it cannot be told until it is introduced and its provisions scanned whether the modified measure meets the objections raised against the old bill by an influential faction of the Republican party in the House. It is the general belief that some sort of a ship subsidy bill will be passed at this session.

In addition to these important matters, the purchase of the Danish West Indies is likely to receive some attention. It is understood that negotiations which have been conducted for months past have reached a point where they may be carried to a finish here in Washington. The difficulties that beset the agreement have been gradually eliminated one after the other, until there is good prospect of an early final agreement. If acquired, these islands will undoubtedly become a part of the territory of Porto Rico, the nearest large body of land.

The reciprocity question is certain to give the session much concern. While there is a very general sentiment in favor of reciprocity, there are a variety of opinions as to how far it should go, and what it should embrace. The trouble will be to reach a basis of agreement. Local and selfish interests are bound to intrude themselves, and make it difficult to reach a conclusion that will bring the desired results.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

London, Dec. 3.— The expedition upon which Mr. A. E. Butter, of Faskally, accompanied by Mr. Darrah, has started across Africa to Lake Rudolf and the region beyond should be of uncommon interest. He leaves with the intention of penetrating into the great forest of Semliki, through which Stanley marched in search of Emin Pasha. The primary object of Mr. Butter's expedition, which is of a sporting nature, is to find a living specimen of the okapi, that strange beast, half zebra, half giraffe, a skin of which—the only one of its kind known—Sir Harry Johnston recently brought back from Africa and is now in the Natural History Museum at Kensington. No white man has seen this animal in its live state, but it is morally certain that it still exists, as the skin that Sir Harry Johnston secured was quite new.

SHIPBUILDING IN DUBLIN.

London, Dec. 3. —The movement to reviving the shipbuilding industry of Dublin—contrary to the expectations of most people—seems about to be crowned with success. Final arrangements for the sale of the derelict shipping yard by the Liffey have now been completed and the first order for a steamer has been given by a Dublin firm. The keel will be laid down on January 1 next year.

OBJECT TO LECTURES.

Liverpool, Dec. 3.—At a meeting of the Liverpool School Board a letter was submitted from the Board of Education on the question of temperance teaching. In the communication the authorities state that they cannot approve of temperance lectures being given as a subject of secular instruction, and that such lectures cannot, therefore, be given during school hours in any public elementary school.

FOR THE IRISH TUNNEL.

London, Nov. 27.—A fund has been started in Belfast, which, it is expected, will do much to further the scheme for a tunnel connecting Scotland and Ireland. Preliminary borings must be made before anything definite can be decided upon, and with the view of meeting this expense, a number of Belfast merchants and others interested in the project have subscribed £100 each. The high sheriff of Belfast has given a donation of £200.

IRISH ENCORE FIENDS VIOLENT.

London, Dec. 2.—The people of Belfast take their pleasures riotously. Last night at the Empire Theatre, Pat Rafferty, the Irish comedian, after having sung seven songs, declined to respond to any further encores. The next artist was refused a hearing, and as Rafferty still persisted in his refusal, the audience commenced to wreck the theatre. The curtain was rung down, and the police were sent for to clear the place, which they did, but not before considerable damage had been done.

DUCHESS ON THE STAGE.

Vienna, Nov. 27.— — A full-fledged Duchess has just made her debut here at one of the leading music halls in a song and dance entertainment. She is the Duchess Mortari, and is the patrician born wife of one of the most respected nobles of Naples, from whom she has now been legally separated by the Italian courts, but not divorced. She is about twenty-five years of age, and an exceedingly beautiful woman, whose action in regard to the variety stage is due partly to the necessity of satisfying her extravagence and partly to her love of admiration and applause.

TO SUPERSEDE RAISED LETTERS.

Paris, Dec. 2. — Dr. Labordi has communicated to the French Academy information about a new writing instrument for the blind. It is a revolution in the existing processes of writing, calculation and musical notation been used with great success. It enables the blind to read correctly what is written, and will probably supersede the Braille system altogether.

CHAMPAGNE AND CANCER.

London, Nov. 27.—J. Irwin Palmer, M.R.C.S., writing in the Medical Times, says: "There is a remarkable coincidence between the spread of cancer and the largely increased daily consumption of effervescent wines and waters among the wealthy classes. These beverages, and indeed, all effervescing drinks, owe their sparkle to the carbonic acid gas which they contain. My contention is that the upper classes by their habit of constantly imbibing effervescent beverages, which are solutions of carbonic acid of greater or less strength, so prepare their mucous tissues as to make them a favoring host to the cancerous fungus, if fungus it be."

OPENING OF NEW RAILROAD.

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 4.

The Northwestern railroad has arranged to open its Moville extension to public traffic to-morrow. The line is nearly twenty-one miles long and connects the Sac City Division of the Northwestern with Sioux City, giving the shortest line to Chicago.

—Evangelist Walden is conducting very successful evangelistic meetings in St Andrew's church. The attendance is increasing nightly.

OF

THE NORTH AMERICAN OIL AND REFINING COMPANY

OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

Incorporated under the laws of Wyoming.

Location of Property, Acton, California.
Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent.
General Office, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Branch Offices, Los Angeles, California, and 150 Nassau St., New York City.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

E. A. Sunderlin, President, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Joseph H. Parker, Vice President and Gen. Mgr., Los Angeles, California.

Geo. A. Cockburn, Secretary and Treasurer, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Frank S. Livingston, Los Angeles, California.

F. L. Sherwin, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of 300,000 shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offered for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about 30 miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one section from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is of 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerites Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.00 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells. It can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land. West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property is the Iola Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., C. O. O. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 100 bbl. white oil gusher) Harmonia White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page 253).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in 1876, and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 8 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from 200 to 725 feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders $12,000,000, and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing.

These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.75 to $4.00 per barrel on the field, nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price and stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary propositions that are now being handled in Southern California. The North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect a refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerites Field, as well as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land in the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land has been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in conjunction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as oil experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the entire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & Refining Co.'s lands are in a line with and on the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid revenues. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural petroleum of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining property.

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with maps and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details of these are too lengthy to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any time at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on application. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land and is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as their relation to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. A careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the probability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the business of refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct storage tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, charging therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for the lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in the future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and operated. The profits accruing from both enterprises will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, and a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which will eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. 2000 acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State."
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast Of North America and South America, Asia and Australia for a market.
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Piple line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th. Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no assessment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this district as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a great deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal investigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve that the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale 300,000 shares of its treasury stock at the low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of erecting a 500 barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been started, and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high quality will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Colorado Springs, Colo.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clark's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia ave., Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Four boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, sustaining no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Mann, Martin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of headache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James R. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. M. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, headache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the disease have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $50 for any case that these pills do not cure.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $50 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

Anchor Ice.

Yesterday morning anchor ice prevented the Auburn Power Company from working, and the result was that The Times was a couple of hours late. When this great family journal fails to appear on time, there is a whirlwind of disappointment, and scores of anxious enquiries by phone as to the cause of delay. For instance, yesterday the following note came to hand by special messenger: "Pleased to note that the g. f. j. did not appear this a.m. I always notice when the paper is not here our guests eat little or no breakfast. Keep up the good work.

THE SNOWDEN HOUSE.

DOURO.

—There is a strong disposition to elect the old Council by acclamation. They have been most worthy representatives, and no fault can be found with their actions. Mr. Dennis Moloney has filled the office of Reeve with credit to himself and satisfaction to the ratepayers. Indeed, Mr. Moloney has proved himself to be the right man in the right place. The members of the present council are: Reeve, Mr. Dennis Moloney; Councillors, Messrs. M. D. Sullivan, James Condon, John R. Allen and Chas. Curtis.

—It is said that Mr. Thomas E. Jory an old ex-councillor, will be asked to enter the municipal arena again. There is no representative in the council from the north, and this is one reason why Mr. Jory may run. He has a splendid record while in the council, and will doubtless be elected.

—Mr. Timothy Sullivan, a respected resident of the township passed away on Wednesday morning. (See obituary notice in another column.)

—The people of Douro are taking considerable interest in the proposal to start a sugar beet factory in Peterborough.

Mr. Elmhirst, as our readers well know, served in the Boer war, having been a member of the second contingent. He wears a medal bearing five bars, which are marked with the names of the followingg eneral engagements; Belfast, Diamond Hill, and Johannesburg and also the words 'Orange Free State' and "Cape Colony." Mr. Elmhirst was one of the four dragoons that served on the Duke of Cornwall's staff while in Canada.

THE LATE MR. T. SULLIVAN

Death of an Esteemed Resident of the Township of Douro

There passed away on Wednesday morning, Mr. Timothy Sullivan, of Douro. The deceased had been in his usual good health up to a few days previous to his death. He contracted a severe cold from which pneumonia supervened, which carried him off, as above.

Mr. Sullivan was 58 years of age, and leaves a wife and seven children to mourn his decease. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him and his death will be deeply deplored.

The deceased was a brother-in-law of Mr. William O'Brien, Township Clerk, and also Mr. Patrick Ryan, the collector.

The funeral will take place to-morrow, Friday, at 9.30 a.m., to Douro Cemetery.

YOUNG MEN'S GUILD

Of St. Andrew's Church Elected Their Officers Last Night

The regular monthly meeting, and annual meeting for the election of officers of the Young Men's Guild, of St. Andrew's church, was held Tuesday night, there being a good attendance of members. The chair was occupied by Mr. T. G. Anderson.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Hon. Pres.—Rev. J. G. Potter.
President—T. G. Anderson.
Vice-Pres.—Wm. Campbell.

The regular business of the League was then taken up.

FOOD FACTS

How to Properly Feed the Body

Physicians nowadays realize how necessary it is that the food contain the right elements that the body requires to rebuild itself, and replace the loss that occurs each day from activity and energy.

If one lifts an arm, that means the expenditure of a small amount of energy, and the burning up, so to speak, of certain deposits from the food. If the food does not contain the things required, nature hoists a flag of distress; aches, ails, sickness of some sort sets in, meaning that there is something lacking in the food.

The reason physicians so generally advise the use of Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food is that they know from what it is made and what it contains. The medical journals in various parts of the world have given the analysis. The famous "London Lancet" went so far as to make a very careful analysis by its own chemist. Its remarks are worth repeating.

"The preparatory process undoubtedly converts the food constituents into a much more digestible condition than in the raw cereals. This is evident from the remarkable solubility of the preparation. No less than one half of it being soluble in water. The soluble portion contains chiefly dextrin and no starch. According to our analysis the following is the proportion:

Moisture	6.02	per cent.
Mineral matter	2.01	"	"
Fat	1.60	"	"
Proteids	15.00	"	"
Soluble Carbohydrates	49.40	"	"
Unaltered carbohydrates	25.97	"	"

The features worthy of note in this analysis are the excellent proportion of proteids and mineral matter, and soluable carbohydrates.

The mineral matter is rich phosphoric acid. Our analysis shows that it is a nutritive of high order, since it contains the constituents of a complete food in the right proportions, and in an easily assimilable state."

Notice the carbohydrate total is about 75 per cent. These produce energy and warmth. The phosphoric acid in the mineral matter comes, as do all of the other ingredients, from the field grain, not one particle being introduced as a drug.

Physicians know that the soft matter in the brain and nerve centers throughout the body are made from the elements of albumen acted upon by phosphate of potash. Albumen is a very common article in almost every food, but phosphate of potash does not exist in all foods, nor is it found in easily digestible form always. However, in Grape-Nuts these elements exist, and are presented to the body in an easily digestible form, and explain the reason why users feel new spring of life, the brain and nerve power increase, after they have been using Grape-Nuts for a time. There is a reason for it. The doctors know it, therefore they prescribe Grape-Nuts.

PROBABLY FATAL ACCIDENT

JAMES GOODWIN FRIGHTFULLY INJURED LAST EVENING

Struck by an Engine at the Diamond Crossing, and Has an Arm and a Leg Amputated

Yesterday evening about six o'clock, while James Goodwin, a laborer, who lives at No 3 Lundy's Lane, in the south ern portion of the town, was returning from work, and while crossing the track at the "Diamond," was struck by an engine and fearfully injured. The engine severed his left leg from the body above the knee, and split his left arm open from the shoulder to the wrist.

Drs. Gray and Young were telephoned for and were quickly on hand. The injured man was carried to the signal house, where the wounds were temporarily dressed, after which he was taken in the ambulance to Nicholls Hospital, where amputation took place At the time of this writing the injured man is still alive. It is, however, not likely that he will recover.

CITIZENS AND SIDEWALKS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I understand that the snow by-law says it shall be the duty of the citizen to keep his sidewalk clear of snow or ice, or in case the ice cannot be removed without injury to the sidewalk it shall be his duty to strew ashes, sand, or other like substances thereon. This makes the town primarily responsible for any injuries to people who fall in the slippery places alluded to. But the citizen whose duty is thus pointed out, may be entirely free from such claims. But when the ashes or sands are strewn as directed, the citizen escapes, and any action lodged against the corporation may be defended on the plea of "contributory negligence." It may have been noticed that sawdust is frequently used on an icy icy sidewalk in lieu of sand or ashes. It may become a question when the inevitable legal action is eventually brought, whether sawdust can be properly defined as an "other like substance" with them. It is only in a mild temperature that the sawdust gets in its work on ice, the edges and corners of the various particles having to "melt in" in order to provide a foothold. Not so with the other substances mentioned which are "guilty" enough in the coldest temperature, and when sawdust would be as treacherous as banana peeling Such points of inquiry are interesting, in view of the recent expense of the town in the law-suit line.

Purchase of Waterworks

If, however, the money should be borrowed at 3 3-4 per cent. interest the margin would be increased to $1,517 95, and that after making adequate provision for the works to pay for themselves These figures are based on the revenue of 1900, and the revenue has increased this year, and will be still further increased next year, especially through contracts with the new large manufacturing industries.

Continuing, Ald Best explained that, according to the company's authority, the revenue from the water works system for 1902 would be $1000 more than that of 1900—a total income of $16,000, or about 7 per cent. on the proposed purchase price. This in itself is a good showing, and as we are evidently on the eve of increased prosperity, and large manufacturing concerns are locating in our midst, the revenue from water must of necessity increase The purchase of the water works would be to the people's advantage in every way; the tariff could be revised so as to give consumers cheaper rates, and an increased revenue might be assured by following Toronto's example and placing a local improvement frontage tax on all vacant lots. Their, under the new conditions of fire insurance underwriting towns owning and controlling their own water works invariably secure better rates than those dependant upon private water companies. The speaker further suggested that, by the proposed purchase, from six to eight additional hydrants might be placed in the central district at a cost of $65 each, thus furnishing increased fire protection and a lower insurance rating. In conclusion, he alluded to the fact that while 500 horse power is developed from the waterworks dam at present, Mr. Kennedy, the special engineer engaged by the Town, reports that the dam is capable of developing 500 horse power more.

Ald Best moved, seconded by Ald. Shortly,—That the report be adopted.—Carried.

The report will now be forwarded to to the Town Solicitor, with instructions to prepare a by-law to submit to the ratepayers on January 6th next, the date of the municipal electors.

Council then adjourned.

Are You Deaf?

All deafness is not curable, but doctors state that ninety per cent of impaired hearing is due to inflammation of the Eustachian tubes, and can be treated with certainty of success by Catarrhozone, which gives instant relief to Catarrh in any part of the system. Catarrhozone is extremely pleasant and simple to use, and sufferers from any form of deafness are advised to use it. Thousands of cases are on record where Catarrhozone has perfectly restored lost hearing, and what it has done for others it can do for you. Procure Catarrhozone from your druggist. HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

MR. A. P. POUSSETTE LOSES HIS CASE

Mr. Poussette on the Stand—The Action Dismissed by the Judge at 10 30 Last Night

The case of Pousette vs. The Dickson Company engaged the attention of the Court since Wednesday afternoon, and was concluded last night. The following is a continuation of Mr. Poussette's evidence:

Mr. William Davidson and Mr. R. S. Davidson considered the offer in presence of witness, and Mr. R. S. Davidson advised former to accept the offer of purchase without delay. Miss Charlotte Dickson had told him that $150,000 cash down would be satisfactory. Mr. William Davidson had issued instructions to the foreman of the company to allow the timber limits to be inspected. Witness had made a cash basis statement, and submitted the balance sheets of 1899, and some figures from the balance sheet of April, 1900, to Mr. Starr as taken from the company's books. The balance sheets of 1896 were also submitted. According to the valuations fixed by the statements the sale would provide $100,000 for each member of the family, after all liabilities had been paid. Mr. Starr proposed to take over the limits, the plant, and the last season's cut of logs. The matter then remained in abeyance until June 21st. In the meantime Mr. William Davidson had told him that the ladies said not to let the sale stick for a few thousand dollars. The Misses Dickson had also returned from Atlantic City. Miss Dickson was non-committal. Witness then asked for a family discussion, which took place at Miss Dickson's house. There seemed to be no objection now to the security. The only objection had been that the mortgage on the real estate was too large. There was no objection to selling the limits to Mr. McLaren. A new board had been elected in May whereby Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Walsh replaced the Misses Dickson for the purpose of allowing a sale to be carried out in their absence. The meeting on June 21st included all the shareholders, a by-law being passed to allow the Misses Dickson to also act on the board. Mr. Starr's proposition was then refused, and a resolution passed authorizing a sale to be made to Mr. McLaren, to whom witness and Mr. Starr had proposed to sell the property themselves. Witness protested against a sale being made to Mr. McLaren, stating that the option should be given to either himself or Mr. Starr. The company however would not deal with any one but Mr. McLaren. The offer to Mr. McLaren was not accepted by him. Witness produced memorandum of sale which had been made to Mr Starr It was dated May 9th, 1900, and was signed by witness as agent of the company, and by Mr. Starr. Data were then produced upon which witness figured his loss by being deprived of the profits, which by such a sale, would accrue to him.

Justice Meredith held that the question of liability should take precedence over the matter of the amount of damages.

The figures went in as a matter of record, the investigation being postponed until a latter stage of the trial

Resuming, Mr. Poussette said that the date showed his loss to be $100,000.

THE CROSS EXAMINATION

To Mr. Watson, K.C., Mr. Poussette stated that he had been practicing in Peterborough for 25 or 30 years. He had acted as Mr. Haslitt's solicitor until the latter's death. He was appointed solicitor of the estate in 1885, and was solicitor of the company until this year, with the exception of two years. Some two years after the formation of the company, he was appointed secretary of the company. His salary as solicitor and secretary was $1000 per year. On May 12th, 1899, his duties were lightened, and remuneration lessened. Up to the time of his death Mr. Haslitt was the general manager of the company, and witness advised with him in regard to all business affairs. Witness spent several hours a day with Mr. Haslitt for the three years previous to the latter's death. Witness practically managed the estate during this time. The ladies who were shareholders, took no part in the management of the company until Mr. Haslitt's death. From this time on witness was not consulted as much as before. He received the confidence of the ladies and gave them full information concerning the proposed sale of the property. Relations were not quite so cordial after the failure of the sale to Mr. Starr. What he proposed to sell to Mr. Starr consisted of company property with the exception of the shares in the Peterborough Light and Power Co. He was more intimate with Mr. William Davidson than with the others. He saw him every day and made the fullest disclosures to him of the company's business. There was no difference made between him and the other members. Mr. Starr was equally interested in the sale with him. The written agreement was given to Mr. Pringle, of Cornwall, to keep, as trustee. There was an agreement between him and Mr. Starr as far back as fall of 1899. Mr. Starr was seeking to sell the property at that time as equal agent with witness. All gains were to be shared equally. Witness considered Mr. Starr was equally interested in the present suit with him. Witness was agent for the company and Starr was agent for witness. Witness always represented the company in negotiations for sale.

Continuing, witness stated that he had told Mr. Davidson of Mr. Starr's connection with him in the matter. He had drawn up the offer made by Mr. Starr. He was jointly interested with Mr. Starr in the exploitation and was also acting at the same time as adviser of the company. At this time he was not sure that he was vested with authority to act for the company. He had told Mr. Starr this. Mr. Starr knew witness could not bind the company. He never intended to purchase the property himself. He got the option for the purpose of making a sale. The option expired in three months. There was no written authority given after that time. He did not claim to have authority after this but he did not know but that he had authority. On May 9th, 1900, he was in Ottawa and signed the agreement with Mr. McLaren. He could not say in whose behalf he had signed this. Mr. Starr had also signed the agreement. He was not making a claim for the sale to Mr. McLaren. Mr. Starr was doing the selling to Mr. McLaren. Witness had agreed to sell to Mr. Starr. Both agreements were made in Ottawa. On his return to Peterborough he had not notified the company of this transaction. He never mentioned the sale to Mr. Starr to the company. He did not profess to be acting for the company. He had made a bona fide sale to Mr. Starr. It was not binding in law as there was no written agreement. There was nothing to conceal. He refused Mr. Starr to put the agreement in writing. Mr. Starr had said that he doubted his honesty when he refused to put it into writing. He recollected no correspondence in the matter. Later, in February last, he had signed the agreement of sale with Mr. Starr.

This offer which was rejected in June by the company was afterwards ratified by witness, who then gave Mr. Starr a written agreement of sale ante-dating it by several months. He had made no disclosure of his letters to Mr. Starr regarding the sale. He would not at first ante-date a document as requested. He had given an agreement later dated at the time the agreement had been made verbally. He had not disclosed this to the company and considered it straightforward. He was not the agent of the company when he signed and gave the agreement of the sale to Starr, but he was agent when the agreement was really made. The agreement of sale had been ante-dated at the request of Mr. Starr. He thought it was perfectly right to ante-date a document in this manner. He had told Miss Dickson of the sale. He had not told the company.

His Lordship at this juncture, questioned as to whether a sale would hold good under such circumstances as those in which an agent sold to himself without informing his principal. He thought the rest of the evidence might be left over until this point was settled.

Mr. Watson professed himself willing to let the case stand as it was at present, simply putting in the correspondence between Messrs. Poussette and Starr which he averred would prove grave breach of trust on Mr Poussette's part in connection with the company.

Mr. Clarke's request, however, that he be allowed to put in furthere vidence was acceded to by Justice Meredith.

Continuing, to Mr. Watson Mr. Poussette stated that he ante-dated the agreement in order that Mr. Starr might use it in his trial. He was secretary and solicitor of the company and owned them obligations as such. His course of action did not conflict with this. He thought he should give Mr. Starr the document when he demanded it. As he was acting with Mr. Starr he would be also benefited. In helping Mr. Starr he was helping himself. He had disclosed nothing about the ante-dated document in his affidavit of disclosure, as he had been advised that this had nothing to do with his own action. His counsel knew nothing of any letters between himself and Mr. Starr concerning the deal. He had said nothing about them, and did not expect them to be produced. He had to-day rebuked Mr. Caldwell, who had been given copies of the letters, as one interested in the deal, for handing them over to the defendants. He could not account for Mr. Starr stating in a previous examination that the agreement of sale had been dated at the time of its execution. He told the company at the time Starr issued his writ, that he could give no advice to them, as he was interested in the case. He was asked for a "statement of facts". He gave one which was full enough. He said nothing of the ante-dating of the agreement in his statement of claim I was secretary of the company and was paid a salary as solicitor.

Q.—At the time Mr. McLaren was given a second option on the limits did you tell the company of your ante-dated agreement of sale with Mr. Starr?

A.—No.

Q.—You wanted an option in your name or Mr. Starr's?

A.—Yes;

Q.—You wanted it so that you would make your profits?

A.—Yes;

Q.—You didn't disclose to the company that you had made a sale to Mr. Starr?

A.—No;

Witness continuing stated that Mr. Caldwell, who had been instrumental in interesting Mr. McLaren in the purchase of the limits was to receive $7,500 from the expected profits of the witness' and Mr. J. B. McWilliams, who had valuated the limits was to receive $ 15,000 for his trouble. He had not told the company that he was going to give Mr. McWilliams this sum. It was to come out of his own profits.

Mr McWilliams proposed finding the money for the whole exploit at one time. As he had helped materially, witness always intended to give him a good round sum. Mr. McWilliams had made a report on the limits to him. He had not given this report to his principals. He had not told Mr. Haslitt of it. At this time he was still acting for the company as an agent of sale. He did not consider he was under any obligation to show this valuation to them. It was true as stated in his letters to Mr. Starr that a number of citizens supposed to have influence with the ladies of the company had been secured to assist in getting them to agree to the sale to Mr. Starr. These ladies were members of the company which was paying him his salary for his services.

Extracts were read from a number of letters between witness and Starr in connection with the manner in which this influence was secured.

Witness remembered that his partner, Mr. Starr, had written to Mr. McLaren asking him to bring an action against the company for not carrying out the original agreement in regard to the sale. He had himself expressed the wish that Mr. McLaren would issue a writ.

Q.—So that you were hoping and advising other people to bring an action against your own clients?

A.—I expected a breach with them almost daily as the relations were becoming much strained.

THURSDAY MORNING.

Considerable of correspondence was filed as between plaintiff and Mr. Starr, from which passages were submitted by Mr. Watson in his effort to show that there was in reality no bona fide sale as regarded Mr. Starr. Mr. Clark objected to letters being received as not affecting the case, but Justice Meredith held that they made importantevidence on the point Mr. Watson was trying to make.

Mention was made in the letters of the fact that Mr. Chas. McGill general manager of the Ontario Bank, who was one of the shareholders, and Mr. Richard Hall, were opposed to the sale, and had advised against it on account of the security they objected to.

Witness stated that he had been dismissed from the company, but up to that time had given no hint to the company of the alleged sale to Starr or of any claim, which he, himself, intended to make. Mr. Starr had written many times to him to secure a new option. This was not to make good the present claim for damages.

Mr. Watson — I propose putting in some twenty-five letters which will show that Mr. Starr wanted the option for that very purpose.

Mr. Poussette — I have no recollection of it, but if the letters say that is the case it must be so.

Correspondence between Mr. Starr and Mr. Poussette in which each impugned the honesty of the other was excluded.

Witness had tried to persuade Mr. McGill to accept the security offered by Mr. Starr. Mr. McGill would not even accept of a cash offer. Mr. Starr wanted to give a mortgage of $125,000 on a portion of the property valued by the company at $363,000. Mr. McGill would not countenance this. Witness had nothing to do with the sale to the Cereal Company. He simply drew the conveyances, etc. This was the sale which he was waiting to see consummated before beginning his action against the company. He had estimated the value of the land sold to the Cereal CCo. at $160,000 in making the offer to Mr. Starr. It was sold for $100,000.

The argument of the Council was begun in the afternoon and concluded after tea after which His Lordship summed up the evidence, and dismissed the action.

SHOOT SIX FRENCHMEN FOR TAKING VEHICLES

H. W. Wilson Tells of Germany's Conduct Toward the Enemy in War of 1870

THEY ARE ILLOGICAL IN CRITICIZING BRITISH

German Veterans Who Are Denouncing Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Kitchener Must Have Short Memories

London, Eng., Dec. 6.W H. W. Wilson, a noted war specialist, has written a letter to the London Daily Mail with reference to recent criticism of British soldiers by Germans. He says the protests in which non-official Germany is indulging with so much unnecessary heat against the supposed barbarism of the British methods of making war in South Africa would be ridiculous were there no danger of such talk adding fuel to the prevalent flames of exasperation against this country in Germany. To show how illogical it is for Germans to adopt their present attitude, in view of their own severities in 1870, and to prove how short is the memory of the German veterans who are now denouncing Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Kitchener, I shall give some authentic examples of the action of the German troops during the war with France. Such examples might be multiplied to almost any extent.

WHY FRENCHMEN WERE SHOT.

In the later period of the war the Germans claimed the right, though they did not always enforce it, to shoot all Frenchmen found bearing arms, provided these Frenchmen were not in a uniform which could be easily discarded. They refused to recognise sashes and badges as sufficient uniform. And this though they had in 1813 issued instructions to their own Landsturm, during the struggle with Napoleon, to this effect: "The object of the Landsturm is to arrest the march of the enemy . . . A special uniform for them is not allowed, because this would betray the wearer and render him more liable to pursuit and capture by the enemy."

"The honest German soldier," says Colonel von Widdern, "was all the more embittered by this behaviour (guerilla tactics) of the Franc-Tireurs and National Guards, because they were wont at need hastily to assume the appearance of inoffensive peasants by throwing away and hiding their arms and getting rid of the badges of military services. That under such circumstances the Germans gave short shrift to such fellows caught red-handed will be thought only reasonable, even though it is quite possible that the innocent suffered at times. The German authorities had nothing for it but to punish the parishes where outrages occurred against German soldiers, or where the railways and telegraphs had been destroyed, by levying money contributions or by burning down one or two homesteads. Such punishments and the shooting of French civilians taken with arms in their hands at last led the inhabitants themselves to attempt to stop these enterprises."

FINING AND FARM-BURNING.

Now for some instances of this shooting and burning. Near Lannois, the same authority states that a German convoy was attacked by a body of Franc-Tireurs in blouses, seventeen vehicles were captured by the French, who went on to derail a military train. For this the farm which was the scene of the fighting was burnt down, a fine of £40 was levied upon the hamlet, and six prisoners were shot.

On St. Quentin, the perfect of which dared to oppose a small body of German troops, a fine of £80,000 was levied. Near Chestres the Germans were opposed by a small force of French irregulars outside the village. There was nothing whatever to show that the people of the village had anything to do with the affair. Nevertheless, our German author tells us that the "Germans entered wrathfully and made the burgomaster and fourteen other inhabitants prisoners,, and burnt down several homesteads." At Marcilly the French irregulars punished the Germans in a straight forward fight. The Germans responded by "shooting seven of the Franc-Tireurs, who always retreated. An equal number of the inhabitants also were taken arms in hand and put to death." A few days later the villages of Conflans and Marcilly were consigned to the flames. As the guerillas persistently cut the railways, according to the same German author, French citizens were 'accomodated' on the locomotives of the military trains and treated as hostages. In the constant reprisals and punishments the Colonel admits, with the honesty of a soldier, that "death was often inflicted upon innocent persons."

ANTI-BRITISH LEAGUE.

One Has Been Formed in Russia, but It Has Few Members.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 5.—The Novoe Vremya announces the formation of a Russian league of persons desiring to show their hatred of Great Britain. They are pledged to discriminate against British goods. Pastor Gillott of the Dutch church is the moving spirit.

Hitherto, however, only fifty-seven persons have joined, and in view of the Russian authorities anxiety to push Russian and Siberian produce in the English markets, as show especially at the Glasgow exhibition, the league is not likely to attain serious dimensions. It is simply one more sign of British unpopularity on the Continent.

"BOXERS" ARE AGAIN ACTIVE.

Chinese Government Troops Suffer Defeat in Chee Lee Province.

Shanghai, Dec. 6.—The Governmennt troops have been badly defeated in north-east Chee-Lee by boxers, whose depredations are causing a great deal of trouble.

Pekin, Dec. 6.—The edict of the dowager empress deposing the heir apparent, Pu Chun, says that the son of such a man as Prince Tuan has no right to aspire to be heir apparent and that, moreover, Pu Chun himself is overwhelmed with shame at his father's conduct.

DENMARK'S ISLANDS THIS WEEK

In Spite of Protests America Will Have the West Indian Group

Copenhagen, Dec. 6.—An agreement has been reached between Denmark and the United States for the sale of the Danish West Indies. The treaty probably will be signed this week at Washington. The price fixed is between 4 and 5 million dollars. There are three of these Danish islands—Santa Cruz with seventy-four square miles, St. Thomas with twenty-three, and St. John with twenty-one—the entire area not being larger than Connecticut. They now cost Denmark annually $150,000 in excess of their revenues. The principal products are Santa Cruz rum, tobacco, sugar, molasses and coffee. What the aggregate value of these staples produced annually may be is not known, as no official data is sent out. Nor is it known what the exact character and value of the imports are.

Mr. Seward succeeded, in 1867, in persuading Denmark to cede the islands of St. John and St. Thomas to the United States for 7 1-2 million dollars. In the following year the cession was approved by the people of the islands, but the senate of the United States refused to assent to the treaty. On the anniversary of the birthday of the Danish king two years ago there was an outburst of loyalty to Denmark and demonstrations against the sale of the islands. Among other features there were day and night processions, the people being costumed in the national colors and cheering the king. Telegrams were sent by the inhabitants to the colonial council wishing Christian IV a long reign and expressing hope that the Danish flag would ever wave over the islands, and that they would remain under his scepter. The feeling against the sale of the Danish West Indies was strong.

Germany has been bidding quietly for the islands for many years. The harbor of Charlotte Amalie, on the island of St Thomas could be made the Gibraltar of the West Indies.

THE SULTAN'S DEBTS.

The Turkish Ruler Has Awakened a Hornets Nest.

London, Dec. 6.—Turkey is finding out the wisdom of that old rule of spendthrifts and bankrupts—that to pay one debt only encourages the other creditors. The Sultan strained a point to pay the claims of the United States, only to bring the French fleet down upon him with a demand for instant settlement with France. That debt painfully squared, Russia was next with pressing reminders about her own little bills, and now comes the faithful old friend, John Bull, to say that his account cannot be any longer put off. The British Ambassador at Constantinople is pressing the English claims, and will observe to the Porte, if necessary, that England has a fleet as well as France. Thus does the Turk sadly discover that to be honest with one creditor has a most unhappy influence upon the others. His new found friend, the Emperor William, stood him in good stead for a time. The Sultan walked arm in arm with the Kaiser, just as Captain Costigan used to go down the street with a rich young fellow, tipping the wink to his creditor tradesmen. "Mind the company I'm in; I'm sure to pay ye." But that would not last forever, and the eagles are now gathering about the Turkish carcass in most ominous fashion.

ANOTHER WAR THREATENED.

Chile and Argentina Are Buying Arms and Ammunition in Germany.

Hamburg, Dec. 6.—Three cargoes of arms and ammunition will be sent this week to South America. Two of them are destined for Chile and the other for the Argentine, and all three are being shipped by the same agents on instructions recently received by wire from Buenos Ayres and Valparaiso. Further shipments are expected to be ordered shortly, as war between the two republics is generally considered to be only a question of time.

Valparaiso, Dec. 6.—Senor Yanez, secretary of foreign affairs, is still studying the proposal of the Argentine government in reference to the boundary question. It is believed that he will reply in about a week. The Chilean Minister in Buenos Ayres, Senor Concha, is coming to Chile to give certain information regarding the opening of the roads in the disputed territory and will return to his post after a brief visit.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH NOTES

Tonight at 7.30 divine service will be held in St. Luke's church, preparatory to the Mission, at which Rev. E. A. Langfeldt will preach on "Separation from Known Evil." The public is cordially invited to attend this and other services of the Mission. Rev. Arthur Murphy, M.A., the Missioner, will begin the Mission services on Saturday next, and continue them for two weeks daily at 4.15 and 7.30 p.m.

Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. W. L. Armitage and Rev. E. A. Langfeldt were at Omemee yesterday attending the induction of the Rev. J. H. Teney to the Rectory of Omemee and Emily. The service was held in Christ church, Omemee. The Venerable Archdeacon of Peterborough, T. W. Allen, M.A., inducted the new Rector, and Mr. Teney's predecessor Rev. E. A. Langfeldt preached the induction sermon from Jeremiah xxiii: 28 "He that hath my word, let him speak my word faithfully."

The children's Mission Band of St. Luke's church is progressing nicely under the efficient leadership of Mrs. Sawyer and Mrs. T. H. Adams. The membership is over 40 boys and girls, who meet every Saturday at 2 p.m. They intend clothing a child of one of the faithfully.

THE LATE S. S. PECK

A Man Who Was Once Very Prominent in County Affairs

The Times published a day or two ago a brief notice of the death of Mr. S. S. Peck. We now give a more extended notice, taken from the Petaluma (Cal.) Daily Courier, Nov. 18th, feeling that it will interest many of our older citizens:

Samuel Stanley Peck, one of the best known and highly esteemed residents of this vicinity, passed into eternal rest at four o'clock this morning at the family residence here. The end came so peacefully, so quietly, that those who watched knew not when the great translation came. The once brilliant man was, without a sigh, wafted into eternity—his life's work over, and the politican and scholar was called to the parliament on high, toward which his failing footsteps have long since turned.

Samuel Stanley Peck was born in Ameliasburgh township, Prince Edward County, Province of Ontario, Canada, November 28th, 1828, and on Wednesday next would have been 73 years of age. He was educated at the common schools and lived at Minden in the County of Haliburton, Ont., for twenty years, and carried on farming and mercantile business. In 1879 he first purchased land in Lakota, and carried on farming spending part of the time there and part at his home in Canada. In the spring of 1885 he settled at Castlewood Hamlin county.

Mr. Peck was Stipendary Magistrate of the County of Haliburton, and Registrar of Deeds of the same county for five years, and served four years in the Provincial parliament of Ontario.

After moving to South Dacota, Mr. Peck engaged in farming and ran a cheese factory. He was chairman of the town board, and as a delegate to the State convention aided in framing the constitution of South Dacota. In 1889 the family moved to California and settled in Petaluma, where Mr. Peck engaged in the poultry business. He was one of the founders of the Petaluma Poultry Keepers' Protective Association and its President for years, until ill health caused his resignation. For the same reason he ceased to affiliate with the Masons and Grangers. He became one of the first organizers of the People's party, of the principles of which he has all his life been an earnest exponent. He received the nomination as State Senator four years ago for this district, but was defeated in the whirlwind which swept the party ticket. Mr. Peck was always a reformer. Instinctively he turned from the wrong to the right, and was always for the people.

ST. LUKE'S GUILD

The Men Elect the Officers for the Year 1902

The monthly meeting of the Men's Guild of St. Luke's church was held in the vestry Wednesday night, with a good attendance of members. The following officers were elected for 1902:

Hon. President—Rev. E. A. Langfeldt.
President—J. J. Turner, jr.
Vice-President—F. H. Adams.
Sec.-Treas.—G. G. Pratley.
Managing Committee — Messrs. G. Warde, A. O. Sawyer, G. Gaskin, Wm. Manlow, A. Dawson, H. Nesbitt, S. Byers and W. H. Long.

The meeting adjourned to meet January 14th, for installation of officers.

Christmas Canadian Magazine.

The Christmas number of the Canadian Magazine has a distinctively native cover, in which colored maple leaves are the leading feature, while every detail of the issue is in keeping with the national character of the publication. The drawings and photographs are by Canadian artists, and the articles and stories, with one exception, are by Canadian writers. The Yukon is represented by one writer, British Columbia by one, the Maritime Provinces by two, Quebec by two, Ontario by seven, and Canadians living in the United States by two writers. The two colored plates, one an in-door and the other an out-door picture, are typical of Canadian life. The story of the Yukon River tragedy of Christmas Day, 1899, when three men mysteriously disappeared, has never been better told than by Major Woodside in this issue. Edwyn Sandy's humorous story is a magnificent piece of work, and is as good as anything which has appeared since the days of Sam Slick. John Innes' story and drawing of the Range country wolves are most interesting. Albert R. Carman's description of the British House of Commons as it appears to Canadian eyes is an excellent pen-picture, showing both taste and knowledge. G. Mercer Adam, Duncan Campbell Scott, Mrs. Cummings, John A. Ewan, John A. Cooper, Norman Patterson, Robert Buckley and Harold Sands are among the other names. A new department entitled "Oddities and Curiosities" is worth investigating. A short article by Xerxes on "The Acquisitive Man" is something out of the ordinary, and must have been written by some journalist with a considerable experience at Ottawa and an intimate knowledge of the late Nicholas Flood Davin, M.P. Undoubtedly this is the most imposing and most interesting magazine number ever issued in this country.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

—Mr. A. Campbell, late of Perrytown, is engaged to make butter in the factory here for the winter season. Farmers are rushing their milk into the factory, so as to have No. 1 butter which will command the highest price in the market.

—Dr. Keith spent Thanksgiving Day at the paternal home in Lindsay.

—Lindsay can boast of having one of our worthy citizens who moved from here lately. We miss him in our town very much, and the farming community will regret that he is not in the foundry as of yore, but Mr. J. Handley is rushing business himself and his staff as usual.

—The annual meeting of the Mount Pleasant Branch of the Bible Society, was held here on the 21st ult, it being the 46th annual meeting held here. Rev. J. G. Potter, the agent, delivered an excellent address. Revs. Mounteer and Kannawin were also present and addressed the meeting. The choir under their leader, Mrs. E. Brown, rendered some excellent music, and an anthem suitable for the occasion was also given. We hope that the collectors appointed will meet with a kind reception from those on whom they may call.

—Mr. Wm. Greig, the blacksmith, who has commenced business in the shop formerly occupied by Mr. Wm. Smith, is doing a good business.

—Thanksgiving Day was observed much better in our town this year than in past years.

—Farmers are reaping a rich harvest under the present Government, which has been the means of widening the channel between this Dominion and Great Britain so that our produce finds a good market and high prices in the English markets. The rush of farmers with their turkeys to dispose of them at Millbrook to-day was a proof of this fact. The loyalty of this Dominion is manifest in the offer of a third contingent to help Great Britain in her need in South Africa.

A Lake Captain's Experience.

Capt. McDonald, one of Kingston's most prominent mariners, writes:—"For years I have battled with the agonies ob Bronchitic Asthma, oftentimes so bad that I could not sleep for nights at a time. I spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and quacks without getting relief, but one dollar's worth of Catarrhozone perfectly cured me." The above testimonial was given two years ago, and as the captain lately stated he was still quite free from Bronchitis, it proves Catarrhozone a veritable specific. Catarrhozone two months' treatment, guaranteed to cure Bronchitis, price $1.00, small size, 25 cts. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston.

SIR CHRISTOPHER AND HIS PLANS

Rich British Ship Owner Discusses His Trip on Eve of Departure.

HE WAS VERY DEEPLY IMPRESSED

With the Facilities Which Cape Breton Affords—Has Not Much to Say Yet in Regard to His Canadian Project.

New York, Dec. 6.—Sir Christopher Furness, M.P., shipowner, shipbuilder, railroad owner and engineer, who owns 125 steamers and expects to have as many more before 1903, started for England yesterday on the North German Lloyd steamer Kronprinz Wilhelm after a tour of Canada and the United States, that began last September.

His trip was to study conditions in America, and to make arrangements looking toward the erection of an enormous steel plant in Canada, and he visited the coal fields of Cape Breton to learn what the resources of the island are in the matter of supplying fuel for this Canadian plant and the steamers which he intends to engage in the trade.

More than fifty steamship men of this city were at the Cunard pier, from which the Kronprinz started to see the great English shipping man off. The majority of these were his guests Monday night at a banquet which he gave at the Waldorf-Astoria and the information was vouchsafed that following the dinner he had a conference with several of them and that they had an option to join his new American steel trust when he got ready to organize the same. Sir Christopher was accompanied on the Kronprinz by his secretary, W. H. Beckingham. The English magnate had the finest suite of rooms on the Kronprinz.

TRIP THROUGH AMERICA.

Regarding his trip throughout the country, Sir Christopher said:

"After visiting Cape Breton and seeing what I could of the coal fields and mining facilities there, I made a most interesting examination of the resources of Canada chiefly about Montreal and Quebec. Then I went across your country as far as San Francisco because I wanted to see its facilities for handling the trade of the Orient and far East, which sooner or later is to be enormous. Then I went to ranches in California also with a business object, the nature of which I cannot divulge. I then went to New Orleans, thence to Newport News, and am now going back home.

"My observations? Well, they are many to be sure. I do not care to take the public into my confidence so far as the question of the steel plant in Canada is concerned. On that subject I shall remain as dumb as your proverbial oyster for some little time to come.

THE RAILWAY SYSTEMS.

"Of your country I have much to say. Our railroad companies in England will have to alter their methods if England is to hold her own in the industrial world. When I consider what the North-Eastern Railway Company does and compare its methods with those I have seen here, I realize our difficulties and deficiencies. Just fancy seeing thirty wagons, carrying fifty tons each, drawn by one engine, and then compare that with what is done by any of our Durham or Northumberland lines. It is simply astonishing. And the wonder of it all is that the cost of hauling those 1,500 tons is not a whit greater than would be the cost of drawing 300 tons on the other side. How can our country compete with your railways with a giant difference of that kind.

"Few on the other side recognize the gigantic importance of the United States. When I say few I am speaking of a class in Great Britain that is supposed to be pretty fairly informed on questions affecting North America's commerce, railroads, steamships, harbours and internal greatness. You have the country and you have the land. Canada is sure to profit by the greatness of the United States. There is no reason in the world why the Dominion should not be as great in every way as the United States. The question of open water on the St. Lawrence all the year around will be a small one with the modern icebreaking appliances."

One of Sir Christopher's party told a reporter that the knight expected to have 200 ships by 1903, and that the steel plant which he contemplates starting in Canada would cost fully $10,000,000. Armour for American warships might be made there eventually it was added.

In addition to the above project, it is said Sir Christopher has made arrangements with the Clergue interests at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., for the erection of an immense shipbuilding plant, to be located at Sault Ste Marie, close to the junction of the "Soo" canal and Lake Superior.

THEY CANNOT SPELL.

There is a belief that the power to spell correctly is a gift of God, and cannot be acquired by any effort. Yet it has been made a test not merely of education, but even of respectability. Erroneous pronunciation we excuse, perhaps because most people are conscious of their deficiency in this respect. The person who does not pronounce even words in common use according to any lexicographer is conscious that he is in good company, since among the offenders are school teachers, college professors, preachers, judges and occasionally even editors. In Peterborough it is exceptional to hear the "h" sounded in such words as "white," "why," "while," etc. This fault, however, has been acquired from Englishmen. More grievous is the fact that so large a proportion of fairly educated persons say "neospaper," "Tooday," "avenoo," and the like. No matter how guilty one may be in the matter of pronunciation, he is disposed to scorn a person who cannot spell the most common words.

Under the rule of the coming generation bad spelling threatens to be universal, afflicting the educated not less than the untrained. The cause for this is the abandonment of the former system of teaching spelling, which made prodigies of so many pupils. Nor are things better over the border. In the Northwestern University (at Chicago) fully one hundred pupils, many of whom would have graduated but for their inability to spell, have been set to studying a little green spelling book. Professor Clarke says that a large proportion of former graduates were poor spellers, and that it has been decided to withhold parchments hereafter until the pupils shall have mastered the art of spelling words in common use. It is not the Northwestern University students alone who show this defect, but also those who have been admitted to that institution from other schools. Professor Clarke has made a list of the words which pupils who hoped to receive their diplomas last year wrestled with in vain. Among them are these, as they were spelled: Exercise, tyreny, consistant, shaddow, buries, wheather, emmence (immense), dilemna, procead, apperatus, volumn, dispare, dimentions, temperamment, beesige, mischeivous, villian, tennent, yeald, vestage, loosing (for losing), origonal, grissley (for grisly), paralezed, phenominia, Brittian, immence, rediculias, unnessary, erroinous, chalous (callous), symton (symptom), govinor, disasterous, marvalous, etc.

It is a curious fact that the pupils who were guilty of these atrocities declare that the school authorities are "unnecessarily severe." Professor Clarke affirms that the whole fault lies with the grammar school, where spelling is taught by the word method. "The old fashioned method of spelling by syllables, which was used by our ancestors," he says, "is the only one to use in learning to spell." The word method (under which each syllable is not pronounced) is a German importation, and was considered a reform. In many places the oral system also has been abandoned, and only a short time is given to spelling. The effect of this was foreseen long ago, and it was predicted that the future graduate would not be able to spell. While a word is being written once it can be spelled orally four times. Repetition and repetition and repetition is the secret of learning to speak English words. Analogy is a poor guide, and to the few rules there are so many exceptions as to make spelling virtually a feat of memory. There is no doubt that more time should be given both to spelling and reading, and that the stimulus of competition, as in the spelling matches of a former day, should not be neglected.

—Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Ashburnham, presided at the missionary meeting in the Methodist church here on Sunday night. The church was well filled, and Mr. Thompson was much appreciated.

—The Foresters will hold their annual at home on Friday night, Dec. 20th.

—Miss Pauline Johnston, the talented Canadian poetess, of Indian birth, with Mr. Walter McRaye, will be present at an entertainment in the town hall on Wednesday, Dec. 11th. This will be a boon to a great many people who have desired to hear these talented people.

—The river is now completely covered with ice, much to the delight of the small boy.

—Mr. John McFarlane is having some improvements made to his dwelling.

Exposure

To cold and stormy weather opens the way to an attack of bronchitis. The man on the wagon, be he farmer, milkman or truckman, needs to pay special heed to the first symptoms of weakness or disease of the organs of respiration.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure bronchitis, deep-seated coughs, bleeding of the lungs, and other conditions which if neglected or unskillfully treated terminate fatally in consumption.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and other narcotics.

"For seven years I had been troubled with what the doctors called bronchitis," writes Mr. Arthur Maule (general merchant), of Nilestown, Middlesex Co., Ontario. "A year ago, after I had been taken sick with a severe attack, I began taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I rapidly recovered from the attack and felt no more of it that fall. This season I began taking the 'Discovery' in August, and have so far been perfectly well. I can go out in all kinds of weather and not feel the bronchial trouble at all. Let me say to all who are suffering from such complaints to give Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery a fair trial, and I am convinced that good results will be obtained."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper-bound, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only; or 50 stamps for the book in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

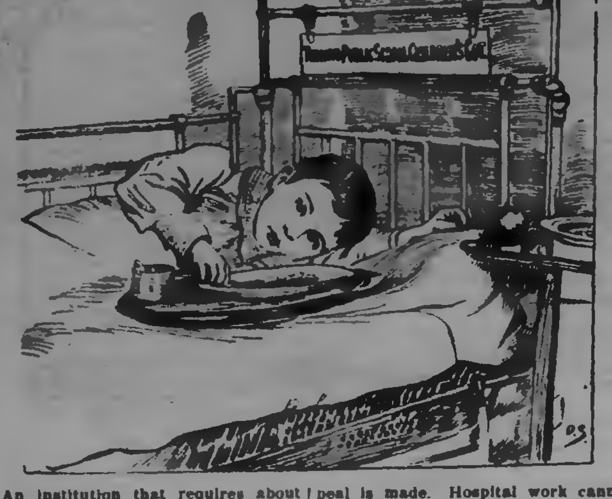
THE CHARITY OF ALL CHARITIES.

THE CARE OF THE SICK CHILDREN.

What The Hospital for Sick Children on College Street, Toronto, Has Done and Is Doing for the Little Sufferers of the Province of Ontario.



An institution that requires about $34.000 a year for maintenance, an institution that depends for support on the goodness of the generous people of the Province of Ontario, must needs have considerable faith in the love, affection and generosity of the people.

While the institution is located in Toronto its work is essentially provincial. It admits not only children from the city of Toronto but from every city, town, village and hamlet, yes, from every spot in the Province of Ontario.

So when you give—be your giving large or small—it goes for the benefit of every child of the province that is admitted and treated.

This statement is made because occasional reference is made to the Hospital as a Toronto institution for Toronto patients, whereas every sick child in Ontario has the same rights and privileges as those who live within the shadow of the great red pile on College street.

It costs about $24,000 per year, or a dollar per patient, per day, to maintain the Hospital. The Government of the province gives about $7,000 a year, or nearly eighteen cents per head, in other words, per patient per day. This amount is all expended in maintenance. The corporation of the City of Toronto does even more. It gives $7,500 per year or eighteen cents per head per day, and this too goes towards the maintenance, not only of Toronto patients, but for every patient in the Hospital, no matter from what part of the province the little one may come from. Yes, and this contribution of the corporation is increased by from $4.000 to $6,000 donated by citizens of Toronto for the maintenance of all patients, to say nothing of the $4.000 contributed yearly by Toronto people, the founders of maintained and named cots in the building.

During its lifetime the Hospital has handled 8,000 indoor patients and of these 4.000 were cured, and 2.700 were improved. Of these—and please note this—1,757 came from 1,205 places in Ontario and outside the city of Toronto.

Ten years ago the Hospital carried a heavy burden of debt. The building and its furnishings cost $150 000 and of this $20 000 was paid by the corporation of Toronto and $60.000 by its citizens. Year by year the debt has been reduced and it is now down to $12,000.

To clear the indebtedness this appeal is made. Hospital work cannot be carried on without money. Interest on mortgages has to be paid. An army of workers has to live. Nurses, domestics, officials are all human. They earn their wages whether they live in or out of the Hospital.

A hundred and twenty children per day—yes, in some months a hundred and forty—once it was a hundred and fifty—all these to look after and care for. Thirty nurses continually at work. A half-dozen maids with brooms and dusters; cooks and table maids to prepare the food and serve it, clerks in the office who work like beavers, typewriters who tap the keys of their machines for hours a day, answering sheaves of letters, preparing accounts, watching every doing in the immense building on College street, that never closes night or day—all the year round—a hive of two hundred people, small and large, a little town doing what it can for God's suffering little ones.

True, it is, that some have to pay—yes, all who can afford it are expected to pay—but those who cannot pay and can produce the certificate of a clergyman or known ratepayer of the province to the effect that they are too poor to pay, can have maintenance and treatment free of charge.

If all could pay there would be no need to appeal for money, but eighty per cent. of the work is free work for the children of those who cannot afford to pay.

Fancy a great family of nearly one hundred and fifty sick children. You who have had perhaps one or two sick little ones at your own home therefore know something of the work but when you visit Toronto drop in and see what they are doing to win back little ones from the grave.

It would only weary the reader to go on with more story. This year a giant effort is being made to clear away the debt. Every dollar of this debt handicaps the Trustees. Every dollar sent in helps to lighten the load that is being carried.

If every reader would send but a dollar what a grand fund would be raised in a few weeks of time. Let every one who can spare a dollar, send it to Douglas Davidson, the Secretary-Treasurer of the Hospital, or to J. Ross Robertson, the Chairman of the Trust. And please send it in at once, for even the best of us are prone to forget our best intentions.

He Said "No."

THE great Young Men's Christian Association Convention recently held in Boston brought delegates from all parts of the world to testify to the value of the Christian religion as the highest rule of conduct for a practical life. It was natural, as the delegates met each other, for them to exchange vital experiences. The following was told by one who had traveled eight thousand miles to attend the meetings.

"My father was a rancher on a small scale in Australia. He had only a thousand sheep or so and a couple of square miles of run for pasture. He was an English emigrant of sturdy yeoman stock, and while the free life of a shepherd had taught him tolerance and kindness, he remained true in principle to the strict lessons of his early years.

"The nearest neighbor or station was ten miles away, but the ranchmen used to think nothing of riding twenty or forty miles to a centrally located farm on Saturdays to spend the night in carousal, and ride back on Sunday.

"The isolation was so depressing and the heat so exhausting that when the men came together once a week in this way, drinking and gambling seemed inevitable. In the kindled passion and excitement of these coarse pleasures they thought they might forget for a few hours the suffering and privation of their lot.

"At last it was my father's turn to entertain. He must invite the herders of the kraals and ranches within a radius of nearly fifty miles.

"'Boys,' he said to his two sons, my brother and myself, 'it's the parting of the ways. We either live as we have lived, simply, in the fear of God, minding our business, paying our debts if we can, saving our money if possible, and being cut by every man round here, or we fall into the ways of our neighbors, and drink and gamble ourselves into perdition. I am not going to break your mother's heart, and I say "No," even if they burn us down.'

"It was the critical moment of our lives. I could have fallen at my father's feet and worshipped him when he made that decision. He looked like a god—determined and invincible.

"So it came about that my brother and I divided the circuit between us, and I rode to the north and he to the south. To every ranchman this message went: 'Father invites you for Saturday and Sunday as usual. There will be no cards or liquor—only a quiet talk about old England and the welfare of the colony.'

"We waited that Saturday afternoon with trembling, not expecting a single guest. But suddenly one rode up, and then another, and another, until the whole section was represented. There never had been so large a gathering. They came in curiosity and with respect.

"With mother opposite him, father said grace at table, and we boys saw tears flow down rugged cheeks. That night the men talked long about bushmen and rabbits and fences and drought, and how to stand by each other.

"The next morning, as he did every Sunday morning, father conducted prayers, this time before fifty of the roughest men I had ever seen assembled; and there was singing of hymns, broken here and there by sobs and tears. When they parted, my father, although a recent comer, was the acknowledged leader of the community.

"That section became the most prosperous section in all the country round. And I thought if Christian courage could accomplish that, it was good enough for me to live and die by. My father's 'No' was the one thing needed to save the community, and it saved it."

A Roosevelt Story.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, the new President of the United States, was not always the mighty hunter he is now. He has had his day of being afraid of big game. But that was many years ago, when he was a wee little boy in short trousers and used to play tag in Madison Square in New York.

Opposite the square on the east side stood a Presbyterian church, and the sexton, while airing the building one Saturday, noticed a small boy peering curiously in at the half-open door, but making no move to enter.

"Come in, my little man, if you wish to," said the sexton.

"No, thank you," said the boy. "I know what you've got in there."

"I haven't anything that little boys mayn't see. Come in."

"I'd rather not." And the juvenile Theodore cast a sweeping and somewhat apprehensive glance around the pews and galleries and bounded off to play again.

Still the lad kept returning once in a while and peeping in. When he went home that day he told his mother of the sexton's invitation and his unwillingness to accept it.

"But why didn't you go in, my dear?" she asked. "It is the house of God, but there is no harm in entering it quietly and looking about."

With some shyness the little fellow confessed that he was afraid to go in because the zeal might jump out at him from under a pew or somewhere.

"The zeal? What is the zeal?" the mother enquired.

"Why," explained Theodore, "I suppose it is some big animal like a dragon or an alligator. I went there to church last Sunday with Uncle R——, and I heard the minister read from the Bible about the zeal, and it frightened me."

Down came the Concordance from the library shelf, and one after another of the texts containing the word "zeal" was read to the child, whose eyes suddenly grew big and his voice excited, as he exclaimed:

"That's it—the last you read!"

It was Psalm lxix., 9: "For the zeal of thine house hath eaten me up."

The bride of William A. Clark, jr., the son of Senator W. A. Clark, the Copper King, has a dress in her trousseau made of hair-like copper wire that was created in Paris especially for her. The effect is said to be unique.

Dropsy and Heart Disease.—"For ten years I suffered greatly from Heart Disease. Fluttering of the Heart and Smothering Spells made my life a torment. Dropsy set in. My physician told me to prepare for the worst. I tried Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. One dose gave great relief, one bottle cured me completely."—Mrs. James Adams, Syracuse, N.Y.—107

.Perfect Manhood

Is rightly yours; but if you are not the man you should be, if you are losing your energy, your Vital force, memory, annoyed by Varicocele, shrunken parts, and feeling if you don't care what happens, you are suffering from Lost Vitality; it creeps upon men unawares; do not deceive yourself or remain in ignorance while you are being dragged down by this disease; no matter what the cause may be, whether early abuse, excess, or overwork and business cares, the results are the same; premature loss of strength and memory, emissions, impotency, Varicocele and shrunken parts. OUR LATEST METHOD TREATMENT WILL CURE YOU. We guarantee it as a positive cure for these conditions; it is the outcome of years of experience; it equalizes the circulation, stops all drains, thereby vitalizes the parts, restoring them to their normal condition and make the man of you as nature has intended. Do not be misled by so-called Specialists and Institutes. Read the following facts:

1. We do not accept an incurable case for treatment.
2. Each time you call you see Dr. Goldberg personally. He has 12 Diplomas, etc., which should be sufficient guarantee to his ability. All other chronic, private and Blood Poison Specialists either have some doctor in charge of their office or have an assistant to doctor you.
3. We are doing business on our own reputation, not of our predecessor.
4. Our records show more actual cures than all the other Specialists combined.
5. You need pay nothing until you are convinced that you are thoroughly cured.

OF

THE NORTH AMERICAN OIL AND REFINING COMPANY

OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

Incorporated under the laws of Wyoming.

Location of Property, Acton, California.
Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent.
General Office, Colorado Springs. Colorado.
Branch Offices, Los Angeles, California, and 150 Nassau St., New York City.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

E. A. Sunderlin, President, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Joseph H. Parker, Vice President and Gen. Mgr., Los Angeles, California.
Geo. A. Cockburn, Secretary and Treasurer, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Frank S. Livingston, Los Angeles, California.
F. L. Sherwin, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of 300,000 shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offers for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about 40 miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one section from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is of 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerita Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.50 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells. It can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land. West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property is the Iola Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., C. O. O. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 400 bbl. white oil gusher) Hermosa White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page 283).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in 1875, and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 8 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from 300 to 700 feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders $12,000,000, and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing.

These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.75 to $4.50 per barrel on the field, nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price and stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary propositions that are now being handled in Southern California. The North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect a refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerita Field, as well as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land in the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land has been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in conjunction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as oil experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the entire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & Refining Co.'s lands are in a line with and on the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid revenues. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural petroleum of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining property.

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with maps and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details of these are too lengthy to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any time at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on application. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land and is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as their relation to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. A careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the probability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the business of refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct storage tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, charging therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for the lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in the future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and operated. The profits accruing from both enterprises will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, and a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which will eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. 2000 acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State."
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast Of North America and South America, Asia and Australia for a market.
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Pipe line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th. Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no assessment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this district as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a great deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal investigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve that the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale 300,000 shares of its treasury stock at the low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of erecting a 500 barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been started, and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high quality will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Colorado Springs, Colo.

THE RECTOR INDUCTED

Rev. J. H. Teney Formally Inducted as Rector of Omemee

Last night Rev. J. H. Teney, formerly of Craighurst, was inducted as Rector of Omemee, by the Ven. Archdeacon Allen, of Millbrook. There was a large attendance, and the impressive ceremony was very interesting. Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, of Peterborough, the former Rector, whose departure was so greatly deplored, was present, as was also Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rector of St. John's

A Correction.

Through a typographical error in the report of Wednesday's council meeting, published yesterday, the types made us say the revenue from the water works for "1902" will be $1,000 more than that of 1900. It should have read, the revenue from the water works for "1901" will be $1,000 more than that of 1900. As for the year 1902, there will undoubtedly be a still further increase, and especially so through contracts with the large manufacturing concerns now under construction. The estimated net revenue from this system, based on its earnings for 1900 would be $14,977.29, which, after allowing $4,534.44 for sinking fund on a basis of 3 per cent, and $9,200 for interest at 4 per cent. on the purchase price of $230,000, would leave a margin of $242.85. DEATH OF ROBERT FIFE

A Former Peterborough Druggist Passes Away Chicago.

Mr. Robert J. Fife, who is well known to most of our readers, having been engaged in the drug business here, died in Chicago on Wednesday. The deceased was 23 years of age, and had lived nearly all his life here. After leaving school Mr. Fife entered the drug store of Ormond & Walsh, and after graduating from the Ontario College of Pharmacy, he entered into partnership with Mr. Dickson Davidson, and later on bought his partner's interest in the business. He retired from business about two years ago and went to the States. He was for some time President of the Peterborough Hockey club, and had many warm friends. He leaves a widow to mourn his demise.

The funeral will take place at two o'clock on Saturday from Mr. D. Belleghem's undertaking establishment, Hunter street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

HIGH ALTITUDES.

Food Cannot be Boiled as Quickly as to Low.

The curious experiences people have with coffee drinking are worth pondering over if anyone is ailing and does not know the exact reason thereof.

Coffee is a secretive worker, and through the nervous system affects different parts of the body in different people.

A young married woman, Mrs. T. L. Blackmon, Oswego, Montana, had a conclusive experience in the effects of coffee on her eyes. She says, "I have used coffee since a child, but a short time ago my eyes began to grow weak, and the least exertion such as reading or sewing would cause shooting pains and wavy lines of light so that I could see but little else for minutes at a time.

This alarmed me and I earnestly sought the cause of the trouble. Someone told me that coffee sometimes affected the eyes. I at once decided to quit it and see if I would be benefitted, but I must have something to take the place of coffee, for I wanted to modify, as much as possible, the sacrifice of giving it up.

So I decided to try Postum for myself. When it came I made it strictly according to directions and was wonderfully surprised and pleased with it. Husband says that my Postum is very different, indeed, from that he once drank at a friend's table.

I frankly own that I like Postum better than I ever liked coffee. It has a rich body to it that coffee lacks. I boil it longer than twenty minutes and it improves it. Perhaps it requires longer boiling in the high altitudes. I think it does.

For three months now I have been using Postum and have been wonderfully benefitted. My eyes no longer pain me and are as strong as they ever were. My complexion, instead of being sallow as formerly, is clear and rosy. I know to a certainty that my improvement has been caused by leaving off coffee and using Postum, for that is absolutely the only change I have made, and I have taken no medicine.

A Mr. Randall, a friend of ours, has obtained relief from his stomach trouble and headaches by leaving off coffee and taking Postum. We think we know something of the facts about coffee and about Postum.

THE WATERWORKS PURCHASE

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—I see that the Council propose to submit a by-law for the purchase of the water works for the sum of $230,000. Now, Mr. Editor, I would ask the Council and ratepayers to go slow. There are many reasons why the ratepayers should hesitate before placing an enormous debt of nearly a quarter of a million dollars on their property, in addition to the town's present heavy mortgage indebtedness.

The thing is figured out on paper to look very nice, but the report lacks many facts that the people should know.

The life of the underground pipes is said to be from 15 to 20 years, and if this is so many of the mains are now in bad shape, and will need to be replaced. We have occasional proof of this. For instance, not many months ago, there was a break on the street, in front of the Opera House, when the pressure was normal; other breaks are occurring with increasing frequency showing that the pipes are wearing out.

The people naturally look to The Times to defend the taxpayer when his interests are assailed or threatened. In this case there can be no doubt about the iniquity of the proposed purchase. I hope, therefore, that there will be a vigorous policy adopted by you against the by-law, and in defence of the best interests of the ratepayers. If you do your duty in this regard the by-law will not pass.

Thanking you for your space, I am, yours, etc.,

G. S. B.

CAN DANCE A TWO-STEP

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Nineteenth Century.

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir,—In my youth I was fond of dancing, and took in every dance for miles around. That is years ago. I fell a ready victim to rheumatism 12 years ago, and have been a sufferer ever since. Nothing seemed to give me relief, until I secured a box of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. My recovery since I began taking these pills has been miraculous, and for the first time in 12 years, I was able to participate in a social dance, and am now almost entirely well. I hope others may profit by my experience. E. J. Hall, G.T.R., Lindsay

Sir,—Please use my name in any way you like to show the wonderful results that Dr. Clarkes' Little Red Pills have wrought in my case. I was a sufferer for 22 years from dyspepsia, and could get no relief. Six boxes of the pills made me a well man. I might also mention that a friend, who was a lifelong sufferer from rheumatism, is also bearing testimony to these marvellous pills, having been entirely cured. A. N. Brown, Odessa, N. Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

Garfield's Last Tears.

A pathetic incident is related apropos of the day of fasting and prayer which was appointed by all the governors of the United States at the time President Garfield was removed from Washington, D.C., to Long Branch, in the hope that the change might help him to recover from the bullet wounds inflicted by Guiteau. "Crete," said the President to his brave little wife, about eleven on that Thursday morning, as the ringing strokes from the belfry of the Episcopal Church, almost across from the cottage, reached his ears, "what are they ringing that bell for?" "That?" said Mrs. Garfield, who had been waiting for the surprise—"that's the church where we were when you first came down. They're all going to pray for you to get well;" and, falling on her knees, she said, "and I'm going to pray, too, James, that it may be soon; for I know already that the other prayer has been heard." From where he lay Garfield could see the carriages draw up, and group after group go in. He could even hear the subdued refrain of "Jesus, lover of my soul," as it was borne by on its heavenward way. Thrilled with emotion, a tear trickled down the President's face. Then he closed his eyes and turned his face as a sweet-woman's voice arose singing from one of Sir Michael Costa's oratorios. "Turn Thou unto me, and have mercy upon me," sang the voice, "for I am desolate; I am desolate and afflicted; the troubles of my heart are enlarged. Oh, bring Thou me out of my distresses, out of my distresses, my God!" The people in the church sat almost spellbound under the voice, for the singer was affected deeply, and made it seem to all, what it must have been to her, a prayer in music.

Mr. D. McLachlan, Chatham, Ont.:

Dear Friend: It is impossible for me to find words with which to express my appreciation of your institution, as I consider the time and money spent in learning the art of Bookkeeping and Shorthand has more than amply repaid me both intellectually and financially. I owe my present position and the success that I am now enjoying to the thorough training I received in your college. I find in my experience that the most essential element in business is to understand bookkeeping, and I can candidly say that I have had no difficulty whatever in handling a set of books.

To young men or women who desire to fit themselves for responsible positions, I would recommend them by all means to take a course through your institution. With best wishes for your success, I remain

Yours sincerely,

BRITAIN AND AMERICA STAND FOR FREEDOM

These Great Nations Are a Thorn in the Side of Europe.

THEY STAND FOR LIBERTY AND FOR FREEDOM

The South African War a Great Disappointment to the Nations of Europe, Who Thought They Saw the Breaking up of the British Empire.

London, Dec. 7.

A prominent member of the United States Cabinet has told Sir Thomas Wemyss Reid that the British people do not realize the depth of feeling against them which the war in South Africa has created. Perhaps not, but it is not for lack of an exhibition of it. From all sides a cry has gone up because Great Britain was not willing to surrender South Africa to the Boers. The plain and unmistakable evidence that the plan of the two former republics was to drive the British out of Africa is disregarded. The proof positive of the enormous preparations made for that purpose have been ignored. The very close shave we had at the beginning is now forgotten. All that is left is a chorus against us for having succeeded in defeating one of the most adroitly framed plans of which modern times has any record.

Sir Thomas is told that the European governments are unofficially stirring up the United States to take some action. This we can very well believe. The European governments have been most grievously disappointed. They thought they saw the British Empire tent themselves with watching its sol- tend themselves with watching its solidification. They hoped to see it lose territory and have seen it gain much. To them the British Empire is the great stumbling block. If they could destroy it, they could then proceed to dispose of the United States and an end would speedily be put to popular government. The European powers hate the British Empire, and next to the Empire they hate most the United States. These two countries stand as the example of what freedom can do for a people. It would be an excellent thing for these European intriguers if they could involve the Empire and the United States in difficulties, but they will find that they are reckoning without their hosts. The work in South Africa must go on until settled government and freedom are established upon a permanent foundation.

TRIES TO ESCAPE GALLOWS

Murderer Makes Desperate Attempt an Hour Before Execution

Mount Holly, N. J., Dec. 6.—Charles Brown, rendered desperate by fear of the gallows, on which he paid the extreme penalty to-day for complicity in the murder of Washington Hunter, attacked his spiritual adviser and attempted to escape an hour before the execution.

After the death warrant was read to Brown he was left alone in his cell with Rev. Mr. Deisinger. While the minister was reading the scriptures Brown assaulted him and floored him with an iron bar which he had concealed in his cell. The prisoner made his way to the jail yard and attempted to scale the wall.

Sheriff Fenton and Chief Clerk Joseph Fleetwood, procuring revolvers, cornered the murderer, who, waving the iron bar in the air, defied the officials. The sheriff threatened to shoot him, and Brown, seeing the impossibility of escape, finally surrendered and was led back to his cell.

Has Letter from Kruger

Chicago, Dec. 7.—B. T. Van Alen, secretary of the Holland society of Chicago, has received the following letter from the secretary of President Kruger:

Casa Cara, Hilversum, Nov. 20, 1901.—Dear Sir: I am directed by his honor the president of the South African Republic to acknowledge receipt of your letters of the 1st instant, and to thank you and the board of trustees of the Holland society of Chicago cordially for the resolution passed by them.

His honor desires me, however, to add that nothing has been decided as to an eventual visit to America and that therefore nothing can be arranged in connection with the matter.

BOER GENERALS WILL NOT SURRENDER

Prevented from Surrender by the Necessity of Standing by Rebels in Cape Colony

London, Dec. 7.—The correspondent of the Times at Pietermaritzburg says the Boer generals would probably have thrown up the sponge long ago but for the loyalty of the Cape rebels to the Boer cause. The bulk of the enemy in Cape CColony consists of rebels. For the Boers to surrender without protection for the rebels would be regarded as the height of contemptible meanness by all Afrikanders and Boer sympathizers, and would produce such a revulsion of feeling on the part of colonial rebels against the republicans as would be the best safeguard against any future rising of Dutch colonists. The truth is, says the correspondent, neither side can accept peace on any terms which the other can grant, and therefore there is nothing left but to rely on the effects of attrition.

KILLED BY HORSES

Shocking Death of David Drain, Formerly of Norwood

A despatch from Portage la Prairie gives the following particulars of the shocking death of David Drain, brother of Messrs. Hugh and Thos. J. Drain, of Norwood.—

"David Drain, a well-known farmer, residing near Elm river, six miles south of town, met with a horrible death at noon to-day. Assisted by his son, he was hitching up his team at Evan's stables on Main-st. One of the animals was an unbroken broncho, and very restive. It started suddenly, and Mr. Drain, who was near the horses' heads, was knocked down, the horse's shoulder coming in contact with him. He was at once rendered helpless, being tramped beneath the horses' feet, and the wagon crushing his head. Mr. T. W. Prout was close at hand, and at once went to his assistance, but the unfortunate man expired immediately. He was taken into Evans' office and medical assistance called, but it was of no avail. An inquest was considered unnecessary, and the body was removed to McKillop's undertaking establishment. David Drain has resided here for many years, and is known for miles around. He leaves a wife and children to mourn his loss. There are two grown up sons and three younger daughters. Much sympathy is felt for the family, and especially for the son who witnessed his death. The boy had previously urged his father not to hitch up the animal. The horses ran a short distance, one of them breaking its leg."

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Manila, Dec. 6.—Gen Chaffee has issued orders for the closing of all ports in the Laguna and Batangas provinces. The quartermasters there will cease paying rents to the Filipinos for buildings used for military purposes, as it is known that a large proportion of the money so paid finds its way to the insurgents in the shape of contributions, and General Chaffee intends that no more Government funds shall find their way into the hands of the enemy. The reason for closing the ports is that too many supplies are found to be getting into the possession of the insurgents. Gen. Chaffee intends giving Gen. Ball, commanding the troops in the Batangas province, every assistance he may require to subdue the insurgents. Governor Taft is improving rapidly, and now expects to return to the United States on the Government transport Grant, which sails before Christmas.

A WAVE OF TRAMPS

London, Dec. 7.—A wave of tramps is slowly spreading over the country. For two winters past the numbers of these good-for-nothing nomads has been smaller than usual. Some authorities put this down to the war, saying that as a large army of men has been away in South Africa the labor market has been relieved and some of those who otherwise would have been "winterseason tramps" were able to obtain work easily, and for the time being, worked. Indications, however, have already reached the Local Government Board, as the central poor law authority, that this winter in many districts there will be a larger number of these undesirables than usual.

THE RISE IN BOOK VALUES.

London, Dec. 7.—Mr. James Tregaski, the well-known bookseller, states that of the last four copies sold of the first folio of Shakespeare three have gone to America and one to New Zealand. Mr. Tregaski has just published his five hundredth catalogue, and he says in the introduction. "A few months ago I purchased for £25 a Pliny printed in 1476, and on examination it turned out to be a copy I had sold a few years previously for £5 15s. At the William Morris sale I bought back a Hippocrates for £40 10s which I had sold to that great poet and book-lover some years before for eight guineas. Recently, also, Incunabula, early printed books have been bought at auctions for fifteen or sixteen shillings and sold for as many guineas.

Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 6.—The marriage of John M. Currier of Valparaiso and Mrs. Laura M. Morse of Chicago marks the close of an unusual romance. The groom is an old and prominent resident of this city, and was divorced from his bride of today more than forty years ago. He is 79 years old, she is 72. Both have grown children from marriages subsequent to their separation from each other.

New York, Dec. 6.—The Rev. Dr. Rouse the superintendent of the American Mission at Salonica, replying to the World's cablegram, asking his opinions regarding the situation so far as Miss Stone is concerned, wired as follows:

"I hope Miss Stone is living, though her reported death causes anxiety. However, seemingly the report did not come from an eye-witness, and needs verification. Miss Stone was inured to hardship, of firm faith, and not one to die of grief."

Dr. Haskell also telegraphs from Samakov:

"There is an apparently well-founded rumor that both captives were alive and well November 24 in a secret sheltered place where they were likely to remain for weeks. Our messengers have not returned."

Chicago, Dec. 6.—President McKinley's assassin was cheered publicly in Chicago last night. Abraham Isaak, the leader of the "Reds" in this city, and editor of Free Society, declared openly he could not condemn the assassin's act. He said that as to personal merit he took a second place to Czolgosz. The confession of Isaak was accompanied by a scene of intense excitement. It was the climax of the debate on "Socialism v. Anarchy," and came when the audience of over 1,000 had been aroused thoroughly by wild oratical denunciations. "Hurrah for Czolgosz," shouted a man in the gallery, swinging his hat about his head, and hisses, jeers, yells of applause and catcalls came from all parts of the house. The crowd rose to its feet and a riot was only averted by the prompt action of the chairman.

RUSSIA'S WILY PLANS IN ARMENIA

The Great Muscovite Power After More Territory

TO BECOME RUSSIAN SUBJECTS

All Refugees to be Obliged to Take the Oath of Allegiance to the Czar of Russia

London, Dec. 7.—The motives and intentions of the Russian Government with regard to Armenia are considered here to be sufficiently exposed by Dr. Alexandre Ular, who publishes to-day the text of a confidential note sent a month ago by the Russian Minister of the Interior to the trans-Caucasian officials. The note says in part:

"I beg to call attention to the irregular situation of the Armenian refugees in trans-Caucasia. Your reports state that efforts to get Armenian refugees out of trans-Caucasia and back to Turkish territory have failed, and that their number instead of diminishing, is constantly increasing. It amounts now to over 40,000. Most of these people are wholly without means, are a heavy burden on the Government and cause trouble for the population. This state of things will not as it seems, soon come to an end.

"According to the reports, the Turkish consuls refuse to issue return passports or Armenian refugees, I therefore beg to inform you that by the highest decision you will prepare all necessary measures with a view to enforcing upon all Armenian refugees residing in your territory in March, 1902, naturalization as Russian subjects. You will make lists of persons residing in your district who are likely to be affected by this measure and add notes determining their situation as future military conscripts, if it be necessary, besides to have ground registers prepared in order to fix localities where naturalized Armenians may usefully be settled as Crown farmers."

Dr. Ular points out that Russia has never taken the slightest interest in the Armenians in Asia Minor. She is glad, in pursuance of her policy of territorial aggrandizement and increase of population, to make subjects one way or another. This is why the administrative reform suggested by the western Powers could not be forced on Turkey in spite of the awful situation in Armenia.

This state of things came out in a curious way at the time of the recent French naval demonstration. The French Government wanted to ask, together with a prompt settlement of the Lorando affair, for some reforms concerning Armenia. At the last moment, however, Russia intervened and France could not but give way to Russian pressure. Her claims were suddenly restricted to money matters and her Government had some trouble in convincing Frenchmen of the necessity of not interfering in the Armenian question.

ENGLAND PREPARES FOR WAR IN ASIA

Britain Fortifying India Against Russian Invasion.

GREAT FUTURE CONFLICT

BRITAIN LOOKING FORWARD TO DEFENCE OF INDIA.

Her Whole Strength Will be Used in Defence of Her Great Indian Empire—Immense Fortifications being Constructed,

London, Dec. 7.—The continued, steady and systematic advance of the Russian Empire in Central Asia has caused Great Britain serious anxiety in regard to her possession of India. Consequently she endeavored, by pushing on her borders to the northwest, to protect her original possessions in the richest part of the peninsula. With this object in view she placed her borders on the Indus, then advanced them to the eastern slopes of the Suleiman Mountains, and finally to their western slope; and for the same reason she annexed Beluchistan and subjugated the restless hordes of the Hindu-Kush.

The present northwest border of India on the western slopes of the Suleiman Mountains, in the event of a Russian advance, is particularly favorable to England, both for attack and defence. The strategic plan, to meet a possible Russian advance, would be the prompt occupation of Kabul and Kandahar. Moreover, the latter occupation of Beluchistan, thereby enclosing the southern border of Afghanistan, as well as the occupation of Chitral and other points, would materially improve England's strategic situation. From these districts the British garrisons would flank the Kabul-Kandahar line and the passes of the Suleiman Mountains. The occupation of Chitral opens the road to Shailalabad, at the same time avoiding the difficult Khaibar Pass, by going around it.

By the recent exertions of Russia in Afghanistan, evidences of which are constantly forthcoming and creating a spirit of unrest and insecurity, have induced England to do more than prepare for an active defence of these difficult border regions. It has become evident that a strong passive defence of these difficult border regions. It has become evident that a strong passive defence must also be prepared by the construction of fortifications. Whereas formerly such measures had in view only the pacification of unruly tribes or peoples readily incited to rebellion, the plan of defence for the past twelve years has also had in view a possible hostile advance on the part of Russia. The works were completed at great cost in the present year.

From Kashmir to the delta of the Indus, at the eastern opening of the passes mountain forts were constructed, on the Indus bridge-heads were built, and toward the Pamir pass barricades were erected. Now, whereas formerly the military authorities of India were satisfied to make these works proof against the effects of the weapons of the natives—mostly small arms, rarely cannon, and then only such of small calibre and comparatively ineffective—these latest fortifications are of the most modern European types, and capable of resisting the heaviest field or siege guns. Rawal-Pindi, Peshawar, and Quetta are large intrenched camps with advanced forts; the other fortifications are mostly modelled after the French mountain forts.

Besides these, there are in the mountain regions a number of forts, blockhouses and watch towers of older pattern, designed to be used in keeping the natives under control; these, although principally of local importance, may yet serve as points of support for certain of the mountain forts. Moreover, it must be remembered that many of the larger towns are prepared for defence.

Hand in hand with the erection of the fortifications has gone the construction of strategic railway lines. This is especially the case in the border regions, which are covered with a net-work of narrow-gauge roads, and in the mountain districts, where good lines of communication have been built for facilitating military operations.

In a word, everything has been done to prepare India against an attack from the Russians.

KIND ACT TO A BONAPARTE.

Friends Give Decent Burial to Poor Descendant of Napoleon I.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 7.—Albert Louis Leopold Napoleon Bonaparte, a descendent of the illustrious "little corporal's family, has been saved from a pauper's grave in this city by friends. For twelve years Bonaparte was an inmate of the insane ward of the Philadelphia hospital. On Saturday he died of tetanus and people who did not know him in his sane days made arrangements to give him a decent burial. The interment was made in the Odd Fellows' cemetery this afternoon.

Bonaparte was 45 years old and was an expert machinist. His mind gave way about twelve years ago. He came to this city in 1888.

A Collision

Frankfort, Dec. 6.—A large part of the handsome railway station precincts here was wrecked this morning by the Orient express, the airbrakes of which failed to work. The train dashed into the station at full speed, jumped the platform and came to a standstill in the middle of the waiting room, against the debris of a stone wall. A few of the passengers were badly bruised, but none was fatally injured. The people about the station and in the waiting room had remarkable escapes.

Must Advertise.

A fundamental fact which persons who have articles to sell or services to render cannot ignore is that this is a time of sharp competition, in which there is a tremendous effort of enterprising men to increase their share of business. Inevitably the business man who shall not keep his establishment before the people will be forgotten. As long as there shall be men who advertise constantly and loudly nobody will charge their mind with remembering those who do not advertise.

WILL MOBILIZE AT HALIFAX CITY

Horses and Men Will be Sent to Point of Embarkation

THD VESSEL ROSYLN CASTLE

Will Take the Force to South Africa—Arrangements as to Equipment of the Soldiers.

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—It is stated here that the concentration of the Canadian Mounted Rifles will take place at Halifax, and not at Ottawa, as designated by the militia order of last Friday. Experience has shown that it is necessary to give the horses an opportunity to rest, after their railroad journey, before being taken on to the transport, and once a train-load of horses are ready, it is more convenient to despatch them direct to Halifax than to make two stages of the journey by a stop at Ottawa. Of course it is absolutely necessary that the men and horses be together while awaiting embarkation, therefore the men will be sent direct to Halifax on enlistment.

THE TRANSPORT.

According to a private message received here yesterday, the transport Roslyn Castle has been intercepted at Cape Verde and ordered to return to Halifax without delay. The Roslyn is one of Sir Donald Currie's line and the members of the second contingent, who travelled from Cape Town to Halifax aboard her, say that she is one of the best equipped troopers in the service.

Colonel Evans, CC.B., has secured temporary quarters for himself and clerical staff opposite the Census Bureau, and all are working together. The colonel has decided that the badges for the shoulder straps will consist simply of the word Canada. Nothing will be omitted in the equipment of the men and horses.

The authorities of Halifax have wired their consent to the proposition that the mobilization take place there. The men will be quartered at the Exhibition grounds, and the spacious Armouries.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS (!)

London, Dec. 6.—In spite of all statements to the contrary. The Daily News is alleged to have good authority for the statement that the Government is again engaged in negotiations with the Boers to end the war.

MISS HOBHOUSE ENTERS SUIT.

London, Dec. 6.—The action of the British authorities in detaining Miss Hobhouse, when she desired to visit South Africa, will be made the basis of a constitutional question as to how far a British subject can be deprived of his liberty by martial law. Miss Hobhouse's uncle, Lord Hobhouse, has instructed his solicitors to bring an action against Lord Kitchener, Lord Milner and others to test the legality of the action.

POUSSETTE V DICKSON CO

THE DECISION RENDERED RENDERED BY JUSTICE MEREDITH

Agreement was Under Corporate Seal but Mr. Poussette Acted Within his Rights

The point of the decision rendered by Justice Meredith in the case of Poussette against the Dickson Company appears to be that the agreement set forth by Mr. Pousette was not made under corporate seal and hence was not binding on the Company; that so far as the individuals composing the company were concerned, their purpose and idea was not that they were principals, but that they could be the means by their votes of carrying out the contract with the company.

His Lordship said he could not recollect that Mr. Pousette said at any time that Mr. Hazlitt told him he (Mr. Hazlitt) was acting as an individual, and he believed it was incumbent upon him (the plaintiff) to show this. Everything pointed to the same conclusion. All that took place in the endeavor to bring about an acceptance was directed towards the company. It seemed out of the question that any one but the company was the principal with Mr. Pousette. The highest that could be put on the conversations with the ladies was that four ladies had the controlling interest, and the purpose and idea was not that they were principals, but that they had control and could be the means by their votes of carrying out the contract with the company. There was no authority by corporate act of the company under seal to do anything on their behalf. There could be no such contract disposing of the whole assets of the company except under the corporate seal of the company.

Touching the ethics of the case, his Lordship characterized as without foundation any allegation that Mr. Pousette had acted dibtinctly or neglected his duty. Mr. Pousette was dealing at arm's length with the parties. When he entered into the contract to get all over a certain figure there was a complete separation between Mr. Pousette and the company, and he then stood entitled to do what he thought was right to protect his own interests and prevent information becoming known that might have led to the withdrawal of the mandate to sell. He was unable to see anything in this connection that indicated improper conduct on Mr. Pousette's part.

DANGER LURKS IN BORDER STATE

The Smallpox Outbreak in Michigan Threatens Ontario

MANY CASES FROM HULL

Another Patient Comes Out of McAdams Camp—Vaccination is Having a Beneficial Effect

Toronto, Dec. 6.—Provincial smallpox prospects are not brightening to any appreciable extent. Six new cases have been reported to the Ontario Board of Health from Ottawa, during the last four days, and the secretary, Dr. P. H. Bryce, states that the Capital's suburbs are not getting rid of the disease as rapidly as they would desire. There are 118 patients at Mechanicsville, two at Janesville and eight at Gloucester. Most of these are traceable to Hull, which has had twenty-four cases since the present outbreak developed. The case of the pest at Madawaska is now known to have originated at McAdam's camp, in J. R. Booth's lumber limits. It is the second to emanate from the same source. Ottawa has been persuaded to take charge of the patient for a reasonable financial consideration.

Dr. Bryce calls attention to the fact that vaccination is achieving distinct successes. New patients are in many instances the only persons who have not been vaccinated in certain families.

A situation which is not giving the provincial authorities any joy is the alarming state of the smallpox epidemic in Michigan. The lumbermen of that State, and those of New Ontario are daily coming into contact with each other, and no matter how stringent precautions obtain may communicate the disease. At present there are seventy-three pest centres in Michigan, or three more than in the preceding week. Since Dominion Day the disease has broken out in 403 localities. Many people endeavor to conceal its identity by calling it Cuban itch or chickenpox.

TOBACCO, LIQUOR AND DRUGS

Dr. McTaggart's tobacco remedy removes all desire for the weed in a few weeks. A vegetable medicine, and only requires touching the tongue with it occasionally. Price $2.

Simply marvellous are the results from taking his remedy for the liquor, morphine, and other drug habits. Is a safe and inexpensive home treatment; no hypodermic injections; no publicity; no loss of time from business, and a certainty of cure.

Address or consult Dr. McTaggart, 75 Yonge street, Toronto.

Just a Cold in the Head

But if followed by another cold, or some extra exposure, is liable to result in Nasal Catarrh. Unless a radical cure is obtained, the throat, bronchial tubes and finally the lungs become affected. Nothing cures colds so quickly and pleasantly as Catarrhozone. The Inspector of Mines for Nova Scotia, Mr. Neville, says, "Catarrhozone is the best remedy I have ever used It cured me of Catarrh of the head, and throat, and I am pleased to recommend such a satisfactory remedy." Catarrhozone, is a safeguard against colds, coughs and catarrh. It can be used while at work, in the church, theatre or street cars. Simply inhale Catarrhozone and it cures. Price $1.00, small size, 25 cents. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

BIG BATTLESHIP FOR ARGENTINA

European Minister Instructed to Make the Purchase

TO FOLLOW CHILI'S ACTION

The Ship Will be Ready for Service Next May—Will Have Tonnage of 11,000—Pending Trouble

Buenos Ayres, Dec. 7.—An official announcement has been made that Chili has purchased from the Lairds in England two torpedo boat destroyers, for which they paid £70,000, not including artillery. The purchase of these vessels is considered here as a violation of the agreement of both republics not to increase their navy.

Argentina, as the result of Chili's action, has decided to purchase a battleship of 11,000 tons, and has instructed one of the ministers in Europe to enter into negotiations for the purchase of the vessel. It is believed that the ship will be ready for service next May.

It is announced that the Chilian Minister to Argentina, Senor Concha Subercaseaux, has postponed his intended trip to the Chilian capital to consult his government in reference to the pending trouble. The Argentine Government has received no reply from Chili. It is believed that the Chilian administration will propose an evacuation of the disputed territory by the forces of both republics until the decision of the boundary question is announced by the British Government, to which it had been referred for arbitration. It is understood that the Chilian Government wishes to let matters drift along and try to avoid an actual conflict with Argentine and yet refrain from making a frank explanation. Argentina has decided to insist upon obtaining a response from Chili that will clear away the unsatisfactory features of the case.

POOR POLITICS.

The Mail and Empire attacks the revised census figures for Ontario and says they indicate that Mr. Tarte has concluded not to cut down the population of that province as much as he intended. The Hamilton Spectator declares that the fact that Mr. John Dryden, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, has invested capital in a cattle ranch in Dakota will make "capital campaign literature." The Halifax Herald referred approvingly to this twaddle, and the Liberals swept Nova Scotia at the municipal elections, winning sixteen counties out of eighteen on a strict party fight and dividing the two others equally with the Conservatives. We put these things together for the purpose of pointing out how the policy of twaddle is driving people away from the Conservative Party. When will newspapers learn that the public has a little sense? There is not a living man who would vote for the Conservative party because Mr. Dryden, who is well to do, sees fit to place some of his money in a Dakota venture. There is not a man outside of the lunatic asylums, who believes that Mr. Tarte gave the census enumerators directions to add up the figures for Ontario wrongly, and then got afraid of what he had done and told them to put on a few thousand more. There is not a man in the Dominion who believes what the St. John Sun said, namely, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is opposed to sending a contingent to South Africa. Tory party organs publish such twaddle and think they are making votes by it. Sometimes people ask when the Conservative Party will return to power. We think we can tell them one thing on this point, and this is that it will not be until the leading organs recognize that the people have just a little common sense, and begin to appeal to them upon live issues affecting the country's welfare.

Mary Stuart's Rehabilitation.

MARY STUART'S champions have been well to the front lately, and quite a library might now be formed of histories of her reign, volumes written to defend her character, and novels founded on her life. In the eighteenth century John Wesley, a man of just judgment, investigated her case in one of his rare intervals of leisure and declared his belief that most of the charges brought against her were false, and only supported by forged documents. As the years have rolled on many men have become of the same opinion as the great preacher, and have refused to take the Elizabethan view of Mary Stuart's conduct.

In a work recently issued by Mr Samuel Cowan there is a fresh interest for admirers of the Queen of Scots, by reason of the portraits of Mary (no less than sixteen) given with the two volumes. Some of these have never been published before, and in more than one she appears as a really beautiful woman who might well charm all beholders. In fact, these portraits quite justify the price asked for "Mary Queen of Scots, and who wrote the Casket Letter?"

Many portraits supposed to represent Mary Stuart differ so remarkably that doubt is often expressed as to her having been so beautiful as her contemporaries alleged she was; yet out of twenty-four a good dozen will give the idea that this famous Queen was indeed a handsome woman, and as for the remaining twelve likenesses, as contradictory as they are unflattering, allowance must be made for incompetent artists and for the possibility that these dissimilar portraits represent other women.

Catherine de Medicis had three daughters, Claude, Duchess of Lorraine; Elizabeth, Queen of Spain, and Margaret, Queen of Navarre; and three daughters-in-law, Mary Stuart, wife of Francis II.; Elizabeth of Austria, wife of Charles IX., and Louise of Lorraine, wife of Henry III. The queen-mother had a passion for portraits, especially for those of her own relatives, and occupied artists constantly. Besides her own collection—in the contemplation of which she passed many an hour—she kept a stock for presents to royal kindred and great people. Catherine was a generous giver, from motives of policy, even when dealing with persons she distrusted or disliked.

It is quite possible that the portraits of these Valois queens and princesses have become rather mixed in course of time, and some without names have been passed off as likenesses of Mary Stuart, when really representing the odd-looking Claude, Duchess of Lorraine, who had a curiously long nose or her better-featured sisters, Elizabeth and Margaret. They would all appear richly dressed, some wearing crowns as queens, and this would help considerably in the mistake. Mary Stuart used to be sumptuously attired when Dauphiness and Queen of France and when, as Queen of Scotland, she was Darnley's wife. Her later portraits, of course, represent her in widow's dress.

ON THE FOUR-SQUARE PLAN

The four-square plan means that all customers, regardless of rank or station, receive the same careful attention and treatment at our store. We are as particular with the child who is sent to purchase some small article as we are with the experienced adult. We never substitute inferior drugs when filling your doctor's prescription. We never recommend the "something just as good."

SURE AND UNFAILING.

Under all circumstances of sickness and disease Paine's Celery Compound is safe, sure and unfailing. It cleanses and purifies the blood, braces the nerves, corrects digestion and builds up those who are weak and rundown. If you are nervous or sleepless, try one bottle; the results will surprise you. Our stock of Paine's Celery Compound is always fresh and pure.

St. Vitus's
Dance, or chorea, is one of the most pitiable afflictions humanity is called on to endure. That this disease can be cured, however, is proven by the fact that it has been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The tranquilizing effect upon the nerves exercised by this remarkable medicine is witnessed to by thousands who have found healing and strength in its use. It not only cures womanly diseases, but it promotes the health of the whole body. It is a nerve-feeding, strength-giving, sleep-inducing medicine. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.
"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics. It cannot disagree with the weakest or most delicate constitution.
"When our daughter Lizzie had St. Vitus's dance, I happened to get one of your small books and read it," writes Henry L. Miller, Esq., of 1026 North 7th St., Burlington, Iowa. "Among other things I found that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cured patients suffering from that trouble, so I went out and got a bottle. She was very bad at that time and could hardly talk. When I read about your medicine in that small book, I said to myself, with the help of God and that medicine we can cure our daughter. We did so. Four bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' cured her, and I did not have to take her to the doctor any more. She is well, thank God and the 'Favorite Prescription' for it."

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

AN UP-TO-DATE CATALOGUE

Canada has exceptional facilities, especially this section of it, for turning the winter months into a season of good healthy enjoyment and sport, at the same time making brawn and muscle for both old and young. With snow and ice and the fresh bracing atmosphere winter sports flourish in our midst as perhaps nowhere else in the world. One of the most complete imaginable arrangements of winter sports and amusements, both indoors and out, has been compiled by the large sporting goods house of Ketchum & Co., Ottawa. Their catalogue of fall and winter sporting goods is most complete and up-to-date. Realising the fact that the biggest part of the goods they carry cannot be had in small places, they have tastefully arranged, for the convenience of out of town buyers, a complete line of goods embracing: Hockey goods of every description, skates, skeids snowshoes, fencing equipments, home exercisers, small rifles, boxing gloves, striking bags, gymnasium equipments, sleds, footballs, golf, home billiards and pool, table tennis, etc., etc., all of which are fully illustrated and described and the prices of each article plainly printed. The prices are exactly the same as city prices, so that everything can be ordered from the catalogue with the same degree of confidence as if bought at their store personally. These catalogues are intended for free distribution, and will be sent to anyone sending their name and address to the Ottawa house.

CHAINED FOR TEN YEARS
EVERY [illegible] BRINGS RELIEF.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Drs. Taft Bros.' Medicine Co.:

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

Avon Springs, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

OF

THE NORTH AMERICAN OIL AND REFINING COMPANY

OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

Incorporated under the laws of Wyoming.

Location of Property, Acton, California.
Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent.
General Office, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Branch Offices, Los Angeles, California, and 150 Nassau St., New York City.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

E. A. Sunderlin, President, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Joseph H. Parker, Vice President and Gen. Mgr., Los Angeles, California.
Geo. A. Cockburn, Secretary and Treasurer, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Frank S. Livingston, Los Angeles, California.
F. L. Sherwin, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The Incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of 200,000 shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offers for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about 30 miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one portion from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is of 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerites Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.00 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells. It can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land. West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property is the Iola Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., U. O. O. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 400 bbl. white oil gusher) Hermania White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page 253).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in 1875, and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 8 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from 200 to 725 feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders $12,000,000, and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing.

These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.75 to $4.00 per barrel on the field, nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price and stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary propositions that are now being handled in Southern California. The North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect a refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerites Field, as well as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land in the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land has been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in conjunction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as oil experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the entire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & Refining Co.'s lands are in a line with and on the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid revenues. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural petroleum of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining property.

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with maps and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details of these are too lengthy to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any time at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on application. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land and is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as their relation to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. A careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the probability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the business of refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct storage tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, charging therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for the lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in the future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and operated. The profits accruing from both enterprises will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, and a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which will eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. 2000 acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State."
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast Of North America and South America, Asia and Australia for a market.
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Pipe line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th. Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no assessment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this district as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a great deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal investigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve that the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale 200,000 shares of its treasury stock at the low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of erecting a 500 barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been started, and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high quality will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Colorado Springs, Colo.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia, Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Four boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from [illegible] having no less than three strokes. I could not get anything to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. P. Moss, Merlin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James R. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. J. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

The singing by the different individuals of the company was rendered in a most acceptable manner, and is a great credit to the company being both instructive and elevating. The scenery was beautiful and surpassed all others ever staged in Peterborough. A return visit from the company would be greeted with a

You are Tired.

Your color is not good. Restless one moment, fretful and blue the next. The world's out of joint. You're out of joint with the world. Not temper, not feeling, but weakness. Neglect is unwise. You grow steadily worse. Get good rich blood, then feel new vigor, strength, buoyancy. You'll see a dozen things to do; you will do them too, if you use Ferrozone. It sharpens the appetite, and you enjoy your food; you get color, and old time strength comes back. That's because Ferrozone aids digestion, makes red blood. Ferrozone is strength for the nerves and vigor for the brain. Be sure of the name, Ferrozone. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

A Painful Accident

A distressing accident befell Mrs. Graham, Water street, yesterday. While walking in the icy ground in the yard of the rear of her residence she slipped and fell so as to break her leg. Her cries for help were unheard and she had lain about an hour when she was discovered by Mr. J. H. Burnham, who boards with her. She was promptly carried to the house and Dr. Boucher was summoned and set the broken limb. Mrs. Graham is a sister of Mr. James Stevenson, ex-M.P. Her many friends will greatly regret to learn of the accident and hope for her speedy recovery.

DEATH OF JAMES GOODWIN

Victim of Recent Railway Accident Passed Away Last Night

Mr. James Goodwin, who fell while crossing the track a few days ago and had his leg crushed by a passing train, died at the hospital at 7 o'clock last night. The limb was amputated and there were hopes of his recovery, but he was unable to bear the strain. The deceased was 54 years of age and was a native of England. He was an industrious and respected man and leaves a family who have the sympathy of all in their sad bereavement. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 2:30, from the family residence, Lundy's lane, North Monaghan. The burial will be under the auspices of the Sons of England.

MEMORY FOOD.

A Case Where Memory Was Strengthened by Grape Nuts.

Food that will actually help the memory, as well as agree perfectly with a delicate stomach, is worth knowing of.

A good wife out in Atla, Ia., who did not know which way to turn to get food that would agree with her husband who was left in a weakened condition after a serious illness and could scarcely retain any food in his stomach, was one day induced to try him on Grape-Nuts, the famous ready-cooked breakfast food, and from the first he began to improve rapidly. In three months he had gained 30 pounds.

She says that his stomach has recovered so completely that he can now eat any kind of food.

She mentions the boy of an intimate acquaintance, who was so delicate and thin that his appearance was pitiable and he had no appetite for any ordinary food. He was put on Grape-Nuts, and liked the crispness and sweetish taste of the new food and took to it. His improvement began at once, and he is now a healthy plump boy.

"I know that Grape-Nuts will do more for weak stomachs than any medicine. The claim that it will build up and strengthen the brain has been proven to my certain knowledge. Sister, who writes for the press, and is compelled to memorize a great deal, has been using Grape-Nuts, and says she is surprised at the result. There is a marked improvement in her memory and the brain works more perfectly and with better results.

Please do not publish my name." Name can be given by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Michigan.

HARDLY A FAIR ESTIMATE

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I notice in the estimate of the cost of maintaining the waterworks, there is no extra allowance for municipal management. We all know that if the corporation undertakes to run the water works (and I hope that time will never come) the cost of management will be increased four fold. A company runs the works on business lines, but not so with a municipality. It will be run as a political machine, and will cost, I am sure, many times more than at present.

I hope, Mr. Editor, the ratepayers will proceed slowly. Let them figure the thing out for themselves. If there is now only a profit of nine hundred odd dollars, after paying interest on debentures, what will the loss be when the Town Engineer and the crowd get their hands in? My advice to the ratepayers is to look before you leap.

WAS SAYING HIS PRAYERS

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir, As you have asked for contributions to The Times, I beg to enclose the following, the truth of which I can vouch for:

A little seven year old Lindsay boy was visiting his cousin of the same age in Peterborough a few days ago. The boys quarrelled the second day of the visit. Bedtime came on and the quarrel was still open. The mother of the little host, after his guest had gone to bed, told her son he ought to go and make up with his friend. The little chap went to the room where his playmate was to sleep, and, rapping on the door, expressed his desire to wipe out the score. There was no response at first, and, rapping again he repeated his wish. Then the solicitous mother, who had tiptoed up behind her boy to note results, was shocked to hear this response from within:

"Oh, go to h—l; I'm saying my prayers."

CURE FOR SMALLPOX.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see by The Times that Dr. Bryce states that we should prepare for smallpox this winter.

In this connection I herewith append a recipe which has been used to my knowledge in hundreds of cases. It will prevent or cure the smallpox, though the pittings are filling. When Jennings discovered cow-pox in England the world of science hurled an avalanche of fame upon his head but when the most scientific school of medicine in the world—that of Paris—published this recipe as a panacea for small-pox it passed unheeded. It is unfailing as fate, and conquers in every instance. It is harmless when taken by a well person. It will cure scarlet fever. Here is the recipe as I have used it to cure small-pox; when learned physicians said the patient must die it cured. Sulphate of zinc, one grain; foxg love (digitalis) one grain; half a teaspoonful of water. When thoroughly mixed, add four ounces of water, a teaspoonful in a dose. Either disease will disappear in 12 hours. For a child, smaller doses according to age. If countries would compel their physicians to use this there would be no need of pesthouses. If you value advice and experience use this for that terrible disease.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—I see by yesterday's papers that the Hon. Mr. Tarte intimated on a public occasion that he was in favor of the Government carrying out the work on the Georgian Bay Canal and added that he would not be surprised if an amount were in the estimates at the next session for this purpose. As the want of funds is the excuse of the Government for not completing the Trent Valley Canal in a business-like manner in the near future, it would be interesting to know where the Government expects to get funds for such a costly undertaking as the Georgian Bay Canal when it cannot afford the necessary funds for such an inexpensive undertaking as the completion of the Trent Valley Canal, already well under way. It would also be interesting to know whether our Hon. Mr. Stratton, who is the President of the Trent Valley Canal Association, is in tow with the other honourable gentleman, and whether he believes, with a certain newspaper, that our Canal is a mere "frog pond." I am not averse to the Georgian Bay Canal, expensive as it certainly will be, but let this inexpensive Trent Valley Canal be first completed before commencing the other, especially as lack of funds is the great drawback. Our canal is a pressing necessity at the present time—the other will only be needed in the future to meet the expected increase of traffic. Just as sure as the Government undertakes the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal and places an amount in the estimates for that purpose before the completion of the Trent Valley Canal, just so sure will the latter never be completed, or at most be indefinitely postponed. In order to avoid clashing there should be an effort to join forces, we on our part agreeing to assist the other Canal, in consideration of its advocates helping on a completion of ours before theirs is undertaken, for it is certain that both Canals will be needed in the future owing to the rapid development of our great North-west wheat fields. By such union we would be the better enabled to fight the opposition of Toronto and the two great Railways who are doing their best to kill both projects.

DEFENCE OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—My attention has been directed to your editorial early last month regarding Mrs. Eddy's published reply to this question from the press: "Why did Christians of every sect in the United States fail in their prayers to save the life of our late lamented President McKinley?"

I am sure you misunderstand the position of Christian Scientists regarding the efficacy of prayer, or you would not denominate them charlatans. If we take, for instance, this declaration of St. James; "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much;" and also take Jesus' explanation why the disciples failed to cure a certain case, viz.: "This kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting." It is a plain inference that there are degrees of ability or preparedness to heal, and that prayer for the sick may avail little or much in proportion to its "effectual fervency" and the "righteousness" of such intercession. "Righteousness" may be defined to mean a right understanding of God and of man's relation to God. This understanding is gained and made practical gradually. One of the requisites preceding and marking its attainment is righteousness,—right living. The first tenet of Christian Science is: "As adherents of Truth, we take the inspired word of the Bible for our guide to eternal Life. Does the endeavour to make the inspired Word practical in the healing of the sick constitute charlatanry? If so, it is the glory of Christian Scientists to be called charlatans.

As to the statement that no sane person could believe the President's wounds were not "real," it seems a reasonable proposition to say that no physical injury could be more real than the anarchistic malice which would carry its subject to the extreme of an insane determination to destroy the highest representative of good government, law, order, and peaceful citizenship. Were it not for such a delusion as that which inspired Czolgosz, no shot would have been fired at the President. When the father-hood of God, and the brotherhood of man is better understood evil motives will lose all reality.

Is it not unreasonable to assume that Christian Science is a fraud because in common with other Christian people Christian Scientists prayed for the restoration of the President? Would anyone charge Christianity with fraudulence because its founder while healing multitudes, did not heal all the sicknesses of mortals? His great heart of love beating for humanity assuredly led him to do the greatest good possible in the alleviation of the disease and woe, as well as in the reformation and transformation of the whole world. Christian Science teaches that all must follow the Master's footsteps, and obey his teachings.

Dear Friend: It is impossible for me to find words in which to express my appreciation of your institution, as I consider the time and money spent in learning the art of Bookkeeping and Shorthand has more than amply repaid me both intellectually and financially. I owe my present position and the success that I am now enjoying to the thorough training I received in your college. I find in my experience that the most essential element to business is to understand bookkeeping, and I can candidly say that I have had no difficulty whatever in handling a set of books.

To young men or women who desire to fit themselves for responsible positions, I would recommend them by all means to take a course through your institution. With best wishes for your success, I remain

PRINCE OF WALES RISES IN BRITISH ESTIMATION

Much Comment Excited by His Vigorous Speech At Guild Hall Breakfast

PRINCE SAYS OLD COUNTRY MUST WAKE UP

Speech Free from That Platitudinous Element Usually Noticeable in Royal Utterances

London, Dec. 7.—The evolution of the Prince of Wales from a sailor into an orator caused more comment and satisfaction than any event of the week. His Guild Hall speech was perfectly free from that platitudinous element usually noticeable in royal utterances in England. His declaration that the old country must wake up if it wanted to hold its own almost took his hearers' breath away, but it has produced in all sections of the press praise quite untainted by servility. It is probable that the Prince was not entirely responsible for the construction of the speech, as he used copious notes. Yet his delivery, his earnestness and willingness to commit himself to such sentiments, have raised him higher in the estimation of the people than any previous action. Indeed, several of the papers declared that the elocution of Lord Salisbury, Lord Roseberry and Mr. Chamberlain fell quite flat after the Prince of Wales' effort. "Unquestionably the best speech delivered at the breakfast," is the Spectator's comment.

NO BOER AUTHORITY TO TREAT FOR PEACE

Should England Desire to End the War It Could Not Be Done.

NO BOER AUTHORITY EXISTS

The War Will Therefore Proceed Until Every Boer Is Dead or Captured—Slow Progress Being Made.

London, Dec. 9.—There is good progress now being made in gathering in the Boers. The captures of two commandoes on Thursday, of 250, with further additions of 400 during the week, is having a disheartening effect on the enemy.

The Post says, in speaking of the cry for giving the Boers terms: Who is to open the pourparlers? This is the all important point. If it be the Boers, they have no means of "opening." There is no Boer organization recognized by the British Government, nor any Boer or Boers with whom it can treat. There are some commanders of Boer forces with whom Lord Kitchener and other British Generals can enter into military arrangements. Even this would be awkward and difficult, because Lord Kitchener has "proclaimed," on his own motion or on that of his superiors, that the war is "a non-union war," as Mr. Dooley happily puts it, and has denied to the Boers the right of belligerents. But there are, in the view of the Colonial Office, no Boer Government and no Boer authorities. The late Republics are British colonies with British Governments.

Great Britain has told the Boers distinctly what she means to do with them. She means to wipe them out of existence as nationalities. "Not a shred of independence," in Lord Salisbury's words, is to be left them. If she is to "open the pourparlers," which rather appears to be what the private intelligence means, she must begin by recognizing somebody on the Boer side as having authority to negotiate a peace, and as having, for that purpose, some character of nationality, some "shred of independence."

Valuable Advice to Rheumatics

Eat meat sparingly, and take very little sugar. Avoid damp feet, drink water abundantly, and always rely on Polson's Nerviline as an absolute reliever of rheumatic pains. Being five times stronger than other remedies its power over pain is simply beyond belief. Buy a large 25 cent bottle today, test it, and see if this is not so. Polson's Nerviline always cures rheumatism.

THE BOER WAR A HUMANE ONE

The Statement That Britain is Acting Cruelly Disproved

WHY CONFLICT HAS CONTINUED

No Parallel in the History of the World Where any Army Has Been so Forbearing as the British Army

Toronto, Dec. 5.—The Star says: The Pro-Boer in his his arguments follows two lines of reasoning that lead in different directions. He says the British outlook is a black one, and that the British are pursuing a policy of cruelty and oppression towards the Boers.

To begin with the Boer population was about the same as that of the city of Toronto. Against the men whom such a population could put in the field marched a big army—as large at one time, as 250,000 men. And yet the war has lasted two years—has lasted two years, and is not over yet. The pro-Boer will say that the British cannot subdue the enemy.

If there had been practiced by the British the cruelty alleged by the pro-Boers, the insignificant people, who for two years have withstood the vast forces of the Empire would long ago have been trampled under foot. There is no parallel in history for the forbearance with which the British have conducted this war. The explanation is to be found, we think, in the disapproval of the war expressed by a part of the British public and by the new and intimate scrutiny of all that takes place on the scene of war which the whole world possesses by means of the modern newspaper. People at home, without the passion which stirs the combatants, may disapprove a line of action before it is carried far. A movement is no sooner made than it is known in London, where word arrives also showing what the feeling in regard to it, is in New York, Paris, and Berlin. The general in the field is no longer given an army and sent after an enemy, while the nation goes about its business until he comes back at the conclusion of his task. The eye of the world is on the general in his every act.

SCHLEY COURT MINGLES PRAISE WITH BLAME

Admiral Dewey and His Associates Putting the Finishing Touches on Washington, Dec. 7.—Admiral Dewey and his associates on the Schley Court of Inquiry are putting the finishing touches upon their findings.

These findings are being closely guarded and will not be made public until after their submission to Secretary Long. The court completed the rearrangement of the testimony of various officers under each specification of the precept ten days ago, and has since been devoting itself to the preparation of its conclusions.

In well-informed naval circles it is believed the Court will find RRear Admiral Schley derelict in these particulars:—

AGAINST THE REAR ADMIRAL.

That he failed to promptly determine whether or not the Spanish squadron was in the harbor of Cienfuegos.

That he ordered the flying squadron to proceed to Key West, after arrival to the southward of Santiago without trying to ascertain whether the Spanish squadron was in that harbor.

That he disobeyed the department's instructions to proceed to Santiago to ascertain if the Spanish ships were there, and not to permit them to leave without a decisive action.

That he regarded the coal supply of the ships under his command as insufficient to enable him to remain at Santiago, when there was sufficient fuel for this purpose.

That he failed to fairly deal with Lieutenant Commander A. C. Hodgson in the famous "Damn the Texas" colloquy.

Officials who believe Rear Admiral Schley will be found derelict upon these points are equally convinced that the court will find:—

FOR THE REAR ADMIRAL.

That Rear Admiral Schley should not be censured for the alleged slow voyage made by the flying squadron from Cienfuegos to a point to the southward of Santiago.

That there is no foundation for charges of cowardice directed against the commanding officer of the flying squadron, who, on the other hand, showed himself to be a brave and gallant officer.

That the bombardment of the Colon at the ranges employed by Rear Admiral Schley was justifiable, in view of the prohibition against the exposure of armorclads to the fire of shore batteries.

That the blockade maintained by the flying squadron at Cienfuegos and Santiago was entirely effective.

That the loop executed by the Brooklyn was a manoeuvre the necessity for which had to be determined by the officer at the moment it was ordered.

That throughout the battle the Brooklyn played a conspicuous part, and that in the battle Rear Admiral Schley did his full duty.

England To Aid Canada's Army.

London, Dec. 7.—In consultation with two Canadian officers, who are now in London, the Imperial authorities are devising a scheme for an extension of the auxiliary forces to the Dominion. It is proposed to greatly increase the militia, to make large grants out of the Imperial funds for ammunition for practice purposes, and for other expenses of training, and even to make generous contribution to a militia pension fund to be raised by the Canadian Government. In fact, Great Britain proposes to heavily subsidize the Dominion's defensive forces.

The appointment of the Prince of honorary Colonel of the King's Colonials, was gazetted last night. The formation of this corps has been authorized as a recognition by the King of the valuable services rendered to the Empire in the present war by the colonials of Great Britain, and with the two-fold object of creating a new tie between the colonials at home and abroad, and at the same time of bringing them into closer touch with the regular forces of the Crown.

A UNIQUE INDUSTRY

A Grasshopper Ranch Will Be Established at Belleville.

Belleville Dec. 7.—Next summer there will be one of the most unique industries established in this city that there is in the world. It will be the only one of its kind in existence, and if it does not prove a success the promoters of it will be a surprised lot. It is a grasshopper ranch. The site chosen has been Coleman's flats, an excellent hopping ground for the hoppers. There is a creek running through the ranch and the hoppers need never go thirsty. Pollywogs, crabs and minnows will also be hatched on the ranch.

The promoters intend that fishermen here next season will not be compelled to stay home because they can't purchase bait.

Last year there were plenty of bass in the bay but the small catch was attributed to the scarcity of bait.

Captain Crawford cornered the market on grasshoppers last year. He had all the boys in West Belleville catching them for him for one cent a dozen. He sold them for five cents and made a heap of money. He interested George Dalmage and a number of others into starting a grasshopper ranch and next year the young man from Lindsay and his friends who he has let in on the ground floor will be able to lay a nice umbrella aside for a rainy day.

There is very little capital needed for the enterprise. The rent of the grounds will be the largest item and a few miles of wire fencing.

The site is near the railroad which gives excellent facilities for shipping. The promoters say that they will raise very large hoppers as they won't have such a large hopping ground to cover as the wild ones. They breed very fast and no time is lost in hatching as the old hoppers carry the eggs under their wings until they are hatched.

A healthy pair of old hoppers can rear thirty dozens of good healthy jumpers in a season. The crabs, pollywogs and minnows also breed fast and the ranch no doubt will prove a great success. It will be known as the Fisherman's Bait and Hatchery Co., Ltd., Ontario.

MARRIES ADOPTED DAUGHTER

He is 85, She Only 25, and Wedding Was a Secret One

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 4.—John Harding is a bridegroom at eighty-five, with his adopted daughter, Miss Lillie Thompson, only 25 years as his bride. He learned half the town wanted to see him wed the girl he reared to womanhood, and it was on that account he decided to delay the marriage.

Finally, he announced yesterday as the date, but that was only a ruse, as he then declared he was quietly married a week ago.

THE DIRTY HABITS OF THE BOERS

An Englishman Tells a Plain Tale About How They Live.

HEAVY DEATH RATE EXPLAINED

The Boers Are Said to be the Dirtiest People on Earth—Some Facts Hitherto Unknown.

London, Dec. 8.—Mr. Paul de Villiers says in the Times that the general conditions of cleanliness and the intelligence of the Boer mothers in the treatment of their children are in normal times—in the Orange Free State at least—superior to those of the poorer classes in England.

Shortly after the retrocession of the Transvaal I was travelling through the Orange Free State, and alighted one evening at the house of a Boer—a man of wealth—owner of 15,000 acres of land, many thousands of cattle and sheep, and a stud flock of 500, worth, he said, £25 apiece. Awaiting his arrival from off the veldt at sundown, before venturing to cross his threshold, I was able to inspect the surroundings of the solid block-built house. At a back door, whence issued some suspicious-looking drainage into puddles, was wallowing a child, playing with, among other things, a dead goat, fowls and some very poor looking animals of other sorts, all dirty in the extreme, and scattered about among debris and kitchen refuse.

In the evening, on the arrival of the master, I was invited, though with considerable chilliness, to enter his dwelling and take refreshments, of which, of course, common gratitude for hospitality ought not to permit me to complain, and which I must believe was their best—it consisted of very rancid and very fat bacon and accompaniments. I was grateful for what I could get, and perfectly content, being accustomed to knock about the rough side of the world in many countries.

My son, who was with me, and I were accomodated for the night in a snug-looking room with one bed, the linen of which, I must admit, was beautifully white, and although the bed was made of hay and straw, it was amply comfortable enough for travellers, until the horrors of the night were experienced, and caused us both to spring out before sunrise, my son blistered from head to foot, and I only saved by having slept in flannels, the outside of which, however, was literally smothered in vermin. We were only too glad to get out of the window, or, rather, through the shutters, for there was no window, and shake our clothes in the air of the morning dawn. Though I have no right, having accepted the Boer's hospitality, to complain of the food, I only refer to it to show that it proved to me that their knowledge of the preparation of food was of the most primitive, not to say nasty, kind, even for their own comfort and nurture of their children.

I grieve to say that on starting in my Cape cart in the morning, which carried Her Majesty's mail, the guard of which was solely the native Cape driver, with myself and son as passengers, we were suddenly stopped by an axletree breaking asunder, causing us to have to throw ourselves on the indulgence of the Boer for the loan of one of his carts for a consideration of £5 to carry us to the next stage, about—if I recollect rightly—sixteen or twenty miles. It ought to be said, however, that the Boer declined to accept remuneration for our bed and board! (The Boer in question has, I believe, in the present war become a General.) All the conditions of life both in homestead and individuals, were in my opinion decidedly inferior to that of a poor country cottager in England, and retrogressive. HENRY KIMBER.

MAY POUR INTO MEXICO

A Scheme to Introduce Coolies Into the Republic

San Francisco, Dec. 7.—The Call says that, according to the Mexican Parliamentary Chronicle, the Minister of Public Works and Colonization of Mexico has recommended for passage by the Congress of the country a measure which has an important bearing on the Chinese immigration question. It is a bill granting a concession to M. F. Tarpey, John E. Bennett, or any company they may form, giving them the entire fishing privileges of the Mexican coast on the Pacific ocean, contingent on their building and operating a steamship line between Mexico and China and another line for coast trade.

The company is to be free from taxation of any kind, and is to beallowed to land passengers anywhere on the Mexican coast, which is more than 1,000 miles in extent.

In January of this year, Mr. Tarpey, who is a well known politician, was president of the Pacific Charter Company, that claimed to have secured concessions from the Mexican Government to establish steamship lines between Mexico and China for the purpose of colonizing the Mexican Republic with 1,000,000 coolie laborers, many of whom, it was feared, might cross itno the United States.

John E. Bennett is the attorney for the Chinese consulate in this city, and it is pointed out that the concessions which the Mexican Congress is asked to him and his associates are similar to those the Pacific Charter Company, of which the same men were the organizers, claimed to have received nearly a year ago.

SKATING FATALITY ON OTTAWA RIVER

Harrowing Details of Accident to the Vice-Regal Party

GLOOM CAST OVER THE CAPITAL

Miss Bessie Blair, Daughter of Minister of Railways and Canals, Goes Through Ice—A. H. Harper also Drowned

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—A shocking drowning accident occurred on the Ottawa River this afternoon, and to-night there are searchers out for the bodies of two members of a vice-regal skating party—Miss Bessie Blair, daughter of the Minister of Railways and Canals, and Albert H. Harper, Assistant Deputy Minister of Labor.

A lovely winter afternoon tempted a considerable number out to make up a skating party, organized at Government House. The ice appeared to be in splendid condition, smooth and solid; indeed, between New Edinburgh and Gatineau Point, horses and sleighs have been crossing for a couple of days. No danger was apprehended, therefore, by the skaters, who sped away down the river in little groups.

One of them consisted of the Misses May and Bessie Blair and Miss Snowball, daughter of Senator Snowball, who was their guest. They were accompanied by Mr. Treadgold, an English mining engineer, of Dawson City, and Mr. Harper and Mr. Creelman, of the Imperial Bank. Miss Bessie Blair and Mr. Creelman were skating in advance of the others, when, suddenly as the party neared Kettle Island, both were seen by Mr. Harper, and Miss Snowball, who were a short distance behind, to disappear into the water.

Mr. Harper, with the determination of saving Miss Blair, rushed forward. Miss Snowball skated back, screaming frantically to those following to hurry to the rescue. When, with Miss May Blair and Mr. Treadgold, she arrived at the fatal spot only one was seen on the surface—Mr. Creelman—and he was drawn out of the water in an unconscious condition. No sign of Miss Bessie Blair or the gallant Mr. Harper, who gave his life to save her, was to be seen. The bodies had evidently been carried down by the swift current beneath the ice.

The accident happened about dusk, in the main channel of the Ottawa River, where the current is swift and the water about 25 feet deep. The party had gone several miles down the river from the city. They were returning. Miss Bessie Blair and Mr. Creelman skating hand-in-hand ahead, Mr. Harper and Miss Snowball about 40 yards behind, and Mr. Treadgold and Miss Blair some distance farther away. The ice was thin near the head of Kettle Island, where the party were; Miss Bessie Blair and Mr. Creelman suddenly pitched head first into an air-hole. Both could swim and did make a few strokes toward the ice.

Mr. Creelman shouted to Mr. Harper to keep away from the water, but the latter threw off his coats and gloves and made for them. He dived into the water to help Miss Blair, and that is the last Mr. Creelman saw of him.

Mr. Creelman tried to lift Miss Blair out upon the ice, and, in doing so, sank himself. When he came up his head struck the ice, and he broke his way through to clear air. Miss Blair had disappeared and Mr. Creelman was alone in the icy water. He clung to the ice and shouted for help.

Meanwhile, Miss Snowball was skating to Gatineau Point to summon aid. She had time to argue the men in the hotel, and they took whiskey and blankets and skated for the scene of the accident. Miss Snowball was skating the direction of thin ice, when Mr. A. N. C. Treadgold shouted to her to look out for danger.

He saw a dark object and made for it, while Mr. Creelman's cries for help could be heard more and more plainly.

The dark object was brave Harper's hat, and then Creelman warned Treadgold to look out and the latter said he had a rope and told Creelman to hold on. The latter said he was all right. Meanwhile Creelman was getting his rope ready, and Matthias Blais, who lives on shore, came out and pulled Creelman out of the water.

Creelman lost consciousness in Blais' house, but recovered enough to be taken to his boarding house where doctors attended him. He is suffering from exposure, but will recover. Creelman had probably been in the water about fifteen minutes when he was rescued by Blais. Miss Snowball was too agitated to-night to tell a very connected story of the accident.

Harper showed pure grit, and his death is lamented by all who knew him. He was a native of Barrie, and about 27 years old. He was Master of Arts of Toronto University, and had been in newspaper work in Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa where he represented The Montreall Herald as Ottawa correspondent until his appointment as Associate Editor of the Labor Gazette. For the past month he has been acting Deputy Minister of Labor in the absence of Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King, the Deputy Minister.

Harper's parents are dead, but one sister lives in Barrie, another in North Bay, and he has a brother, a doctor, in New York, and another brother, a professor in Edinburgh University, Scotland.

Creelman, who was rescued, is a clerk in the Imperial Bank, and came here from Toronto. His brother is C. P. R. solicitor. Creelman says Miss Blair told him not to mind her, that she could swim, and she did strike out for the edge of the ice. He held her above water for some time, but at last the exposure began to tell, and the poor girl started to groan, and, in the final effort to save her, Creelman sank. When he rose again, Miss Blair had gone to her death.

From all accounts of the regrettable affair, the survivor did all that man could do to save his companion's life. Mr. Creelman is one of the best known exponents and promoters of legitimate amateur sport in Canada. Two years ago he was president of the Ontario Hockey Association. He is now vice-president of the local Bankers' Hockey Association. To his athletic training, Mr. Creelman undoubtedly owes his life. His fingers and chin are lacerated, where they came in contact with the thin edge of the ice, during his immersion in the chilly waters.

To-night a party of friends went to the scene of the tragedy and took grappling irons and lanterns, but could not do anything. They were advised to wait until daylight, in the hope that the bodies may be found near the scene of the accident, but if they have gone under the ice any distance, they will probably not be found until next spring.

Another party from Government House was also on the river, and Captain Bell, A.D.C., Mr. Gladwin MacDougall and the Misses Ritchie skated into shallow water, but got out safely.

The Blair household is one of mourning. Her Excellency the Countess of Minto drove there as soon as the news of the fatality reached her, to offer her sympathy to the stricken sisters. The Minister of Railways and Mrs. Blair are at Clifton Springs, New York. The sad news of their daughter's death was wired to them late this evening, and they will return home to-morrow.

All week there has been skating on the river, the ice being in prime condition. But in the vicinity of Kettle Island, about a mile below Rideau Hall, where the current is very strong, there are several air-holes and open places. Some of these are marked with boards, but it was evidently into an unmarked open spot that Miss Blair and Mr. Harper sank.

BODIES WERE FOUND.

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—The body of Miss Bessie Blair was found this morning. Shortly afterwards Henry A. Harper's body was discovered near the place where the two were drowned.

CHICAGONIANS SEE A COMET

Weather Bureau Officials Say It Was Plainly Visible

Chicago, Dec. 3.—A comet was visible here in the southern sky this evening. Its position, as viewed from the Auditorium tower, in which the United States Weather Bureau is situated, was about ten degrees southeast from the zenith.

It was difficult to judge of its length, for the reason that it was pointed directly upward, and was apparently going from the earth, but Professor Cox, in charge of the bureau, said that, in his judgment, it was about two degrees long.

"I am not an astronomer," said Professor Cox, "but I feel very positive that it was a comet. It was plainly visible at 5.30 o'clock, and we could see it at 7 o'clock, when it became invisible on account of the increasing haze. All the men in the office here saw it. It could not have been a meteor for it remained practically in the same position during the entire time it was visible, and no meteor would have done that. Its apparent immovability, shows, too, that it was at a great distance from the earth. There was a head, which was plainly visible to the naked eye and still more apparent when viewed through a glass. There was also a well defined tail."

The comet was seen by many people on the streets as well as by the officials at the weather Bureau.

KITCHENER WILL HANG ON UNTIL THE END.

He Declares That If Necessary the British Will Fight Until They Are Centenarians

London, Dec. 7.—A letter just received from an officer in South Africa says that a subaltern drew a caricature of Lord Kitchener as Rip Van Winkle leading a centenarian soldier up a kopje. A staff officer showed it to Kitchener, and the chief gave one of his grim smiles and said:

"It is an ugly prophecy, but, if necessary we will hang on here until we are that age. Our duty is to win and we will."

The subaltern was paralyzed with terror until assured that Kitchener had not asked for the artist's name.

Catarrh Is a Germ Disease

Science, armed with a microscope, has established it a fact, and this conclusion renders obsolete the practice of treating Asthma, Catarrh and Bronchitis by stomach drugging, sprays, snuffs, &c. Such treatments are an utter failure because they cannot penetrate the delicate air cells of the lungs or permeate the air passages of the nose and bronchial tubes where the germs of Catarrh have their stronghold. Catarrhozone is the only certain remedy. It is inhaled by the mouth and after spreading through all the respiratory organs is exhaled through the nostrils. Catarrhozone kills the germs, heals the inflamed tissues, clears the head and throat in two minutes and cures in a few hours. Nothing is so effective, pleasant and simple as Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment, $1.00. Small size, 25c. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

GIBRALTAR'S DEFENCES

The Great Dry Dock Likely to be Abandoned Soon

London, Dec. 7.—The action of the British Government in sending an engineer to report on the practicability of building a dry dock on thhe east side of Gibraltar conspicuously illustrates the advantages of hindsight.

England, six years ago, began to build a great dry dock, two new piers and a torpedo station on the west side of Gibraltar. The work is yet in progress, the amount of money thus far expended being about $6,000,000. No criticism was evoked till a few months ago, when the Spaniards, who are improving their coast defences, began to plant batteries on the other side of Algeciras Bay, about four miles across the water from the half completed British dry dock. These proceedings stimulated cerebration which became intense when it leaked out that Major Garcia Roure, the engineer in charge of the Spanish improvements, had declared that seventy pieces of large calibre might be planted at equal intervals along one-third of the Spanish shore fronting the west side of Gibraltar and that they would be able to knock the British dry dock torpedo station and piers into smithereens.

Some experts have been advising the Government to lose the money now invested without a whimper and begin all over again on the east side of Gibraltar. That side however, has a particularly precipitous and difficult aspect, and the British Government won't go ahead till it is sure it is right.

THE ISTHMUS CANAL AND ESTIMATED COST

The Great Engineering Work Soon to be Accomplished.

THE TWO GREAT HARBORS

One to be Constructed at Each End of the Waterway.

The United States Congress to Take Action at Once—Cost of the Canal to be Nearly Two Hundred Millions of Dollars.

Washington, Dec. 9.—It is quite generally expected that Congress will this winter authorize the construction of the Nicaragua Canal, and that the great waterway will cost about $180,000,000. This estimate provides for two great harbors—one at Greytown, on the Atlantic or Carribean end of the canal, and the other at Brito, at the Pacific end—for a canal of eight locks and for an enormous dam at Conchuda, on the San Juan River, several miles above the mouth of the San Carlos River.

The Greytown harbor and entrance to the canal will cost $2,198,860, and the Brito harbor and entrance will cost $1,549,470. The Greytown harbor half a century ago had a depth of fifty feet of water. It is now only a little better than a lagoon, with half the depth, and lighters bearing cargoes from ships anchored in the offing have to cross a bar that carries less than six feet of water.

As the canal should have a depth of thirty-five feet, it is necessary that the harbor and entrance should have the same. It is proposed to have harbors at each end of the canal, protected by jetties 3,500 feet long. These jetties will be constructed of loose stone and will be six feet above the water. The entrance will be 500 feet wide and of 35 feet depth.

MUCH DREDGING NECESSARY.

Much more dredging will be necessary at Greytown than at Brito. The sand movement at Brito will be less than at Greytown, and the cost of maintenance will be far less. Within the harbors there will be a turning basin of 1,800 feet.

It will be impossible for the Government to use the Greytown lagoon for the landing of machinery or material for the prosecution of the work on the canal. It will be necessary to do much railroad building.

A railroad must be built for about 100 miles in order to do the work at all. This will cost, it is estimated, $7,575,000. This is understood to be exclusive of equipment. A branch of this road will also have to be run from the main line to the proposed great Conchuda dam.

This dam will be one of the features of the canal. The canal, as is well known, passes through Lake Nicaragua. This lake, while forming a natural portion of the canal, at the same time presents a difficult problem. It is 100 miles long and 45 miles wide, and it discharges into the Caribbean Sea through the San Juan River near Greytown.

GREAT VOLUME OF WATER.

East of the lake, the San Carlos River empties into the San Juan. Both are very large streams. The San Carlos alone discharges 100,000 cubic feet of water per second, and this may at times reach 200,000 per second. Through 23 1-5 miles of the lake there must be dredging to give the required depth of 35 feet, and to make a channel 300 feet wide. This will cost $7,877,611.

There is a variation in the level of Lake Nicaragua of at least thirteen feet. At times it is as high as 110 and at times as low as 97 feet. It will be necessary to check this fluctuation by means of a dam on the San Juan River.

The search for the site of this dam was one of the most difficult tasks to the engineers. The difference between a good and a bad site has since been found to represent at least $11,000,000.

THE PRELIMINARY REPORT.

In its preliminary report the Commission decided to build a dam just above the point where the San Carlos debouches into the San Juan. This dam changed all the early estimates of the Commission it was necessary to put this dam west of the mouth of the San Carlos in order that it should not be made to hold the combined floods of these two great rivers.

This dam, including the sluices and machinery, is to cost, not to exceed $4,017,000. There is also to be an auxiliary waste way, including sluices and approach channels to the dam, which will cost $2,041,322.

The lifts of the various locks will vary from about nineteen feet to 40 feet.

From lock No. 1 to lock No. 2 there is a stretch of canal nearly eleven miles long. The cost of this section will be very nearly $1,000,000 a mile. It will include the lock known as No. 2. Then comes another stretch of nearly seventeen miles, to the third lock and the cost increases to nearly $1,250,000 a mile.

There then begins quite a rise in the land, and the next two sections are rather short. The first of these, to lock No. 4, is only two and three-quarter miles farther on. A little less than five and one-half miles farther the canal enters the San Juan river, above the San Juan dam at Conchuda.

Heretofore the canal has followed a course to the north of the river. Now for a distance of about fifty miles the river is made to do duty as the canal. This portion of the route is known as the San Juan River section. The river must be dredged and made navigable, and the cost will be less than $500,000 a mile.

ACROSS LAKE NICARAGUA.

Leaving the river the course will next be across Lake Nicaragua. For fifty and one-half miles the traffic of the future will go through the lake. The low cost is one of the things that makes it possible for the United States to construct the canal by this route. It is estimated at a little more than $112,500 per mile.

Nine miles beyond the lake the plans of the Commission bring the Canal to lock No. 5. There a very extensive work has to be done. The excavation becomes very heavy as the divide beyond the lake is climbed and it has been found necessary to construct enormous receiving basins to intercept the Rio Grande, Las Lajas, and Chocolata Rivers. The expenditure at this point will be more than $24,500,000. The course will follow the valley of the Rio Grande to the end.

To lock No. 6 is only about a mile. The excavation and the lock will cost about $7,500,000. To lock No. 7 the distance is less than two miles and the work will swell the cost $7,000,000 more.

The next step is to lock No. 8 and the last two miles and one-half, which will cost nearly $6,000,000. This lock will bring shipping within a mile and a quarter of Brito and into salt water, practically to the end of the canal.

In the preliminary report the Commission placed the length of the canal the length is given at 183.66. Of this length 72.78 miles will be of canal and the remainder will be lake and at 186.66 miles. In this final report river.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Hon. Mr. Mulock's expectation that the reduction in letter postage from 3 cents to 2 cents would not result in a permanent loss of revenue has been justified. The receipts of the Department for the year ended June 30th, 1901, were $238,384 greater than the receipts for the year ended June 30th, 1896, showing that there has been a great increase of correspondence under the reduced rate. A return to the old one-cent rate for drop letters in cities would be a popular move, and it would certainly cause a great increase in that class of letters, for invoices, accounts and invitations, which are now delivered by messenger, would go through the post-office if the rate were 1 cent instead of 2 cents.

Mexican Girls.

MUCH has been written of the beauty of the senoritas of Mexico. Many a tourist goes there with exalted ideas of the charms of the high-caste young women with raven hair, soft olive complexions and bewitching eyes. Evidently the charms of that matchlessly balmy climate and the wonderful picturesqueness of scenes everywhere have blurred the critical vision of many of the writers, and as a result they dwell upon the beauty of the senoritas. However, according to one Mexican correspondent, the beauties are by no means plentiful. "A large part of the Mexican young women have prominent, heavy noses. This characteristic is more noticeable among the people in the rural pueblos in the valleys. From fourteen to twenty, most senoritas are in their prime so far as facial beauty is concerned. From twenty to thirty the dark pigment in their complexion develops rapidly, and nine out of ten of them ruin the softness of their complexions by inordinate use of the cosmetics and face washes which comprise a surprisingly large proportion of the national imports from Europe and the United States. There is no denying that the eyes of the average Mexican girl, except in the lowest classes, have a peculiar mildness. The long, heavy eyelashes over the dark eyes give an expression of seriousness and pathos that one never forgets. The hair of the senorita is seldom fine and flossy. All the women in the peon class dock their coarse hair squarely across the forehead, while the young women of the upper class deck their foreheads with an infinite lot of frizzes and intricate masses of finely spun curls. A curious fact is that some of the old families in Mexico have followed a fashion in hair arrangement, characteristic of the particular family, for several generations. For instance, there is the rich and powerful Yorba family of Chihuahua. Every woman in the family for more than one hundred years has frizzed, curled and plastered her hair after the style Grandma Yorba (a famous belle in her day and an acquaintance of old Queen Mercedes) adopted in the last days of Spanish dominion over Mexico. The exquisite black-lace mantilla shading the eyes, the high comb, and the coral and pearl jewelry become a senorita more than they would any other woman in the world. Perhaps it is the oddness of these graceful charms that has won the general praise of so many visitors to Old Mexico. The senorita at the opera, with her coquettish fan, her beresed hat, and her gorgeously colored silken gowns, looks very attractive, but at close range only a few of the women have the freshness, the vigor and the clear-cut, refined expressions of American young women of like station."

A Fox's Revenge.

A gentleman out shooting one day came to a river, where he saw six geese beyond shot. He determined to wait for them to approach the shore. While sitting there he saw a fox come down to the shore and stand some time and observe the geese. At length he turned and went into the woods and came out with a very large bunch of moss in his mouth. He then entered the water very silently, sank himself, and then, keeping the moss above the water, himself concealed, he floated among the geese. Suddenly one of them was drawn under the water, and the fox soon appeared on the shore with the goose on his back. He ascended the bank, and found a hole made by the tearing up of a tree. This hole he cleared, placed in it the goose, and covered it with great care, strewing leaves over it. The fox then left; and while he was away the hunter unburied the goose, closed the hole and resolved to wait the issue. In about an hour the fox returned with another fox in company. They went directly to the place where the goose had been buried, and threw out the earth. The goose could not be found. They stood regarding each other for some time, when suddenly the second fox attacked the other most furiously, as if offended by the trick of his friend. During the battle the hunter shot them both.

Canada Business College.

Messrs. D. McLachlan & Co., of the Canada Business College, Chatham, Ont., have always advertised in a very effectual way, but their latest departure is certainly a power, and must carry great weight with the young man or young woman who contemplates taking a course of shorthand or business training.

They are giving testimonials from a number of former pupils whose salaries average $[illegible], and one of these will appear each week. They further show where the earnings of their pupils who were placed during the past year alone, reach nearly $[illegible]. They are results that must have a telling effect in deciding the prospective pupil.

"The pitcher that goes often to the well is broken at last." There's a world of wisdom in that familiar proverb, and a sound application of it to disease, especially to such familiar forms of disease as coughs and colds. Singularly enough the very thing that ought to cause alarm is given as excuse for a feeling of safety. "It's nothing; only a cough. I've had it before." The fact that a cough recurs periodically should be warning enough to take it in time, for the most serious and disastrous of all maladies begins with a cough.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only stops the cough but cures the cause. It cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, weak lungs, hemorrhages, diseases which if neglected or unskilfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine "just as good" for weak lungs.

"I was very sick indeed," writes Mrs. Mollie Jacobs, of Felton, Kent Co., Delaware, "and our family doctor said I had consumption. I thought I must die soon for I felt so bad. Had a bad cough, spit blood, was very short of breath, in fact could hardly get my breath at all some times. I had pains in my chest and right lung, also had dyspepsia. Before I took your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' I was so weak I could not sweep a room, and now I can do a small washing. I worked in the canning factory this fall, and I feel like a new person. I believe that the Lord and your medicine have saved my life. I was sick over two years. I took thirteen bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

AN UP-TO-DATE CATALOGUE

Canada has exceptional facilities, especially this section of it, for turning the winter months into a season of good healthy enjoyment and sport, at the same time making brawn and muscle for both old and young. With snow and ice and the fresh bracing atmosphere winter sports flourish in our midst as perhaps nowhere else in the world. One of the most complete imaginable arrangements of winter sports and amusements, both indoors and out, has been compiled by the large sporting goods house of Ketchum & Co., Ottawa. Their catalogue of fall and winter sporting goods is most complete and up-to-date. Realising the fact that the biggest part of the goods they carry cannot be had in small places, they have tastefully arranged, for the convenience of out of town buyers, a complete line of goods embracing: Hockey goods of every description, skates, skis, snow-shoes, fishing equipments, home exercisers, small rifles, boxing gloves, striking bags, gymnasium equipments, sleds, footballs, golf, home billiards and pool, table tennis, etc., etc., all of which are fully illustrated and described and the prices of each article plainly printed. The prices are exactly the same as city prices, so that everything can be ordered from the catalogue with the same degree of confidence as if bought at their store personally. These catalogues are intended for free distribution, and will be sent to anyone sending their name adn address to the Ottawa house.

Lumbago Backs Straightened.

Don't lie around the house losing time and money because your back is stiff from lumbago. Do as thousands before you have done. Buy a large bottle of that unusually good liniment, Polson's Nerviline, and rub it frequently over the sore part. It gets at the pain, drives it out, limbers you up in no time. Nerviline is quick to relieve; never fails; never harms. Try it to-day. 25c.

MEMORY FOOD.

A Case Where Memory Was Strengthened by Grape Nuts.

Food that will actually help the memory, as well as agree perfectly with a delicate stomach, is worth knowing of.

A good wife out in Atla, Ia., who did not know which way to turn to get food that would agree with her husband who was left in a weakened condition after a serious illness and could scarcely retain any food in his stomach, was one day induced to try him on Grape-Nuts, the famous ready-cooked breakfast food, and from the first he began to improve rapidly. In three months he had gained 30 pounds.

She says that his stomach has recovered so completely that he can now eat any kind of food.

She mentions the boy of an intimate acquaintance, who was so delicate and thin that his appearance was pitiable and he had no appetite for any ordinary food. He was put on Grape-Nuts, and liked the crispness and sweetish taste of the new food and took to it. His improvement began at once, and he is now a healthy plump boy.

"I know that Grape-Nuts will do more for weak stomachs than any medicine. The claim that it will build up and strengthen the brain has been proven to my certain knowledge. Sister, who writes for the press, and is compelled to memorize a great deal, has been using Grape-Nuts, and says she is surprised at the result. There is a marked improvement in her memory and the brain works more perfectly and with better results.

Please do not publish my name." Name can be given by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Michigan.

Malt Breakfast Food

Growing children, especially those attending school, should be kept strong, vigorous and healthy. Malt Breakfast Food used regularly at the morning meal will nourish the children and keep the stomach and bowels in perfect condition. No other grain food can compare with Malt Breakfast Food for imparting energy and vim to school children. It builds up flesh, bone and muscle. The children love delicious Malt Breakfast Food; tens of thousands are using it. Your Grocer.

Some of Roosevelt's Views.

In expressing his political views and experiences Colonel Roosevelt's pen is a trenchant one. Here are some extracts from his political essays and lectures which demonstrate the truth of that statement, are fair samples of his style and also show the trend of the man's mind pretty clearly:

"I wish to preach, not the doctrine of ignoble ease, but the doctrine of the strenuous life; the life of toil and effort, of labor and strife; to preach that highest form of success which comes, not to the man who desires mere easy peace, but to the man who does not shrink from hardship, or from bitter toil, and who, out of these, wins the splendid, ultimate triumph."—Speech at the Hamilton Club, Chicago, April, 1899.

"The successful man, whether in business or politics, who has risen by a conscienceless swindling of his neighbors, by deceit and chicanery, by unscrupulous boldness and unscrupulous cunning, stands toward society as a dangerous wild beast. The mean and cringing admiration which such a career commands among those who think crookedly or not at all makes this kind of success perhaps the most dangerous of all the influences that threaten our national life. Our standard of public and private conduct will never be raised to the proper level until we make the scoundrel who succeeds feel the weight of a hostile public opinion even more strongly than the scoundrel who fails."—"Latitude and Longitude Among Reformers."

"Money is a good thing. It is a foolish affectation to deny it. But it is not the only good thing, and after a certain amount has been amassed it ceases to be the chief even of material good things. It is far better, for instance, to do well a bit of work which is well worth doing."—Speech to Young Men, December 31st, 1900.

"Practical politics must not be construed to mean dirty politics. In the long run the politics of fraud and treachery and foulness are unpractical politics, and the most practical of all politicians is the politician who is clean and decent and upright. But a man who goes into the actual battles of the political world must prepare himself much as he would for the struggle in any other branch of our life. He must be prepared to meet men of far lower ideals than his own, and to face things, not as he would wish them, but as they are. He must not lose his own high ideal, and yet he must face the fact that the majority of the men with whom he must work have lower ideals. He must stand firmly for what he believes, and yet he must realize that political action, to be effective, must be the joint action of many men, and that he must sacrifice somewhat of his own opinions to those of his associates if he ever hopes to see his desires take practical shape.

"The prime thing that every man who takes an interest in politics should remember is that he must act and not merely criticize the actions of others. It is not the man who sits by his fireside reading his evening paper and saying how bad our politics and our politicians are who will ever do anything to save us; it is the man who goes out into the rough hurly-burly of the caucus, the primary and political meeting, and there faces his fellows on equal terms."

"Of all the forces that tend for evil in a great city like New York probably none are so potent as the sensational papers. Until one has had experience with them it is difficult to realise the reckless indifference to truth or decency displayed by papers such as the two that have the largest circulation in New York city. Scandal forms the breath of the nostrils of such papers and they are quite as ready to create as to describe it. To sustain law and order is humdrum, and does not really lend itself to flaunting woodcuts; but if the editor will stoop, and make his subordinates stoop, to raking the gutters of human depravity, to upholding the wrongdoer and furiously assailing what is upright and honest, he can make money, just as other types of pander make it. The man who is to do honorable work in any form of civic politics must make up his mind (and if he is a man of properly robust character he will make it up without difficulty) to treat the assaults of papers like these with absolute indifference and to go his way unheeding. Indeed, he will have to make up his mind to be criticized, sometimes justly and more often unjustly, even by decent people, and he must not be so thin-skinned as to mind such criticism overmuch."

Public Peculation in Latin Countries.

A well-known Italian diplomatist, who has only recently left London to exchange his post for a more important one, told me a couple of years ago that, with very few exceptions, Italian ministers—as distinct from diplomatists—all "feather their nests," or at least endeavor to do so. Consequently, when a Disraeli, a Guizot, or a Jules Simon dies poor, his poverty is not only accounted a wonder, but a virtue, by almost every French, Italian and Spanish journalist. To the very small number of statesmen of the so-called Latin nations thus distinguished must be added the name of Francesco Crispi. The fact of his demise in peculiarly straitened circumstances has been so prominently brought forward in France, Italy and Spain as to tempt English scribes still further to emphasize this rare, not to say extraordinary, evidence of the honesty of a great—or reputedly great—statesman of quasi-Latin origin.

The Small Boy's Poser.

Charles derived little good from his visit to Sunday school yesterday. After dinner mamma missed a small pot of jam, and as she noticed some telltale evidences about Charles's mouth and hands, she asked him if he had seen or eaten the jam. Charles insisted that he had not even seen the jam. Papa thereupon was called in, and Charles was punished severely. Drawing Charles close to her, and wiping the tears from his eyes, mamma said: "When I was your age, my boy, I never told a falsehood." "How old were you before you began?" asked Charles, between sobs.—Albany "Journal."

The Star Concert Series.

The personnel of the Macdonald male quartette on Dec. 16, will be as follows: J. Coates Lockhart, lyric tenor; Newton Large, second tenor; Edward Gardener, barytone; H. Ruthven Macdonald, basso, assisted by Mrs. H. R. Macdonald, Pianiste, and "Little Lina," the child entertainer. An interesting program is promised. Series of five entertainments, $1.00. General admission 25 cents. Reserved seats 10 cents extra. Plan open for subscribers on Thursday, Dec. 12, at Greenwood & Walsh's.

Location of Property, Acton, California.
Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent.
General Office, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Branch Offices, Los Angeles, California, and 150 Nassau St., New York City.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

E. A. Sunderlin, President, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Joseph H. Parker, Vice President and Gen. Mgr., Los Angeles, California.

Geo. A. Cockburn, Secretary and Treasurer, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Frank S. Livingston, Los Angeles, California.

F. L. Sherwin, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of 300,000 shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offers for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about 30 miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one section from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is 30 to 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerites Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.00 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells. It can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land. West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property is the Iola Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., C. O. O. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 400 bbl. white oil gusher) Hermosa White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page 283).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in 1876, and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 8 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from 300 to 935 feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders $12,000,000, and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing.

These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.25 to $4.50 per barrel on the field, nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price and stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary propositions that are now being handled in Southern California. The North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect a refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerites Field, as well as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land in the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land has been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in conjunction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as oil experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the entire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & Refining Co.'s lands are in a line with and on the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid revenues. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural petroleum of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining property.

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with maps and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details of these are too lengthy to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any time at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on application. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land and is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as their relation to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. A careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the probability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the business of refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct storage tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, charging therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for the lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in the future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and operated. The profits accruing from both enterprises will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, and a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which will eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. 2000 acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State."
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast Of North America and South America, Asia and Australia for a market.
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Pipe line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th. Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no assessment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this district as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a great deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal investigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve that the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale 300,000 shares of its treasury stock at the low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of erecting a 100 barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been started, and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high quality will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Colorado Springs, Colo.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clark's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia, ..., N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Fiver boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from neuralgia, sustaining not less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Mann, Merlin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of headache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James R. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. A. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Don't Allow Operation for Cancer

There is a simpler, safer and more effective Method of Treatment.

Dr. J. C. Oliver, of Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A., in a paper he read before the Ohio State Medical Society, May 1896, said: "I have operated in a considerable number of cases of Cancer recently, and with one exception all have died within fourteen months after the operation."

This statement of a prominent Surgeon, should make any one suffering from cancer, hesitate before submitting to operation and consider carefully the evidence offered on behalf of the new Constitutional remedy, which cures Cancers, Tumors and all malignant growths, without the necessity of operation. It is a simple vegetable medicine that searches out and destroys the cancer growths, completely eradicates the disease, and at the same time, builds up and invigorates the system.

Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., will be pleased to send full particulars of this treatment, in a plain, sealed wrapper.

A Popular Mistake

On Saturday a lad, who was disposing of tickets for the gymnastic exhibition in aid of furnishing a bath room in the Young Women's Christian Association premises, which is to take place in the Y.M.C.A. hall to-morrow evening, was asked by the lady of a certain house when he called with his tickets, what the proceeds of the exhibition were for. After scratching his head, he replied: "It is to give the young women a bath."

Christmas Novelties

Pure silk woven pictures in colors is one of the very newest articles on the market and will make a most suitable Xmas gift. The pictures portray life scenes in hunting, canoeing, Niagara Falls, baseball, battles, Spanish Bull Fight, the Gladiator, King Edward VII, Queen Alexandria, Duke and Duchess of York, Madona and Child, Ecce Homo.

We also have handsome book marks in same line representing Merry Christmas with verses, Ave Maria Ora Pro Novis, Ecce Homo, etc., etc. As there is only a limited number and as these goods cannot be bought elsewhere in town an early call is solicited.

Rheumatism is a Constitutional Disease

The pain and localized conditions are mere results of constitutional conditions. Poisoned blood sends its evil influence to various parts of the body, and to cure permanently you must treat it constitutionally. Nothing so completely dispels these poisons from the system as Ferrozone. It makes new blood. It imparts vitality and vigor, enabling the system to throw off the poisons that engender rheumatism. Ferrozone also fortifies the system against the weakening effects of rheumatism, and cures, not simply relieves as most medicines do. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Basketball

Two interesting games of basketball were played at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday night. The first game was played between teams Nos. 1 and 5, and resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 8 to 4. The teams:—No. 1.—Finnie, Dodge, Dunford, McGrath and Brown. No. 2.—Lord, Collier, Ayers, Hall and Robertson.

The second game was played between teams No. 3 and 4, and was won by the former by a score of 8-6. The Teams:—No. 3.—Merril, Robertson, Doris, Goldy and Waram. No. 4.—Laing, Trollope, Pearson, Watson and Stubbs.

Next Saturday night teams 2 and 5 and Nos. 1 and 3 play.

THE THIRD CONTINGENT

About Thirty Applications for Places on the Force

Lt.-Col. Lessard, of Toronto, will arrive here to-day to select recruits for the Canadian Contingent for service in South Africa. Surgeon Major Young, of the 3rd Dragoons, is appointed medical officer.

The officers of the local garrison have kindly placed the Drill Hall and officers' rooms at the disposal of Col. Lessard. There are about thirty applications in for places in the contingent, from which number twelve will be chosen. The men will leave here not later than Thursday for Halifax, the place of mobilization.

SHOOTS AGAIN

Although Coffee Took His Eyesight for Awhile.

A Colorado camp cook had to quit his job because he could not make coffee without drinking it himself and it was killing him. He says he used to take a cup of coffee before he got his breakfast for the men, for he felt the need of keeping up his strength and his stomach troubled him so much.

"Finally," he says, "I got so bad I was taken to the hospital. The doctor told me it was a clear case of coffee poison and if I did not quit I would never get well. I had to quit in the hospital and gradually got a little better, then I took to drinking Postum Food Coffee and took it out with me to a job in the woods.

I have been using Postum steadily for about eighteen months and have entirely recovered from dyspepsia, and all my old aches and ails. My eyes are so well now that I can see the gun sights as good as any body, but two years ago I never could hunt because of my eyes. I know it is the quitting of coffee and using Postum that has benefited me. Nobody could have dyspepsia any worse than I had. All my neighbors thought I was going to die, but I am all right now. I have to send thirty-five miles to the city of Trinidad for my Postum but it is worth while." Wm. Green, Burning, Colorado.

THE COUNTY COURT

DECEMBER SESSIONS TO OPEN AT THE COURT HOUSE

Docket Consists of Three Civil Cases—A Synopsis of the Statements of Claims

The December sessions of the County Council will open to-morrow before His Honor Judge Weller. The docket consists of three civil cases, namely, Walsh vs. Trotter, Dobin, vs. Dobin, and Reid vs. Corry and Laverdure. A synopsis of the statements of claim is given herewith:

WALSH VS. TROTTER.

The plaintiff, John Walsh, and defendant, Thomas Trotter, are both farmers residing in Asphodel township. The plaintiff says that in April, 1899, he delivered to the defendant five cows, to be safely kept and taken care of by him, in consideration that he was to receive half the profit received from the sale of the milk, which was to be delivered to Westwood cheese factory. By the agreement the defendant was to deliver the cows up to the plaintiff at the close of the cheese factory season of 1899, but not until the fall of 1900, about the close of the cheese factory season for that year, did the defendant deliver up two of the cows and deprive the plaintiff of the remaining three. The defendant, so the plaintiff further states, has not rendered a reasonable account of one-half the value of the milk, and did not deliver the whole of the milk to the cheese factory. The plaintiff claims $300 on such account and damages.

The defendant denies the allegations of the plaintiff, and states that he did not convert the cows to his own use, that he paid the plaintiff the full share of the value of the milk while the cows were in his possession and delivered the whole of the milk to the cheese factory, that the plaintiff was not deprived of the cows, and if three calves which were raised from them by the defendant are the the three cows referred to in the plaintiff's statement of claim, the defendant claims $60 in payment thereof, holding that they rightfully belong to him. He also claims that the plaintiff is indebted to him in the sum of $35.58 for money received by him for the use of the defendant and for labor performed by defendant for the plaintiff at the latter's request, for goods and materials provided and money paid by the defendant for the plaintiff at his request. By way of counter-claim, the defendant claims $100 damages, owing to the plaintiff having failed to carry out an agreement whereby he was to repair certain buildings upon the west half of lot 7 in the 5th concession of Asphodel, leased to defendant, but failed to do so, the defendant thereby being subject to great inconvenience and loss. The defendant's total claim is $160.58.

W. A. F. Campbell, Norwood, plaintiff's solicitor; G. T. Sherry, Norwood, defendant's solicitor.

DOBBIN VS. DOBBIN.

The plaintiff, Robert Dobbin, and defendant, Andrew Dobbin, are farmers of North Monaghan, and son of the late John Dobbin, of that township. The action grows out of a misunderstanding in regard to the ownership of a spring and lane in the western half of lot 6 in the 11th concession of North Monaghan. The plaintiff states that he is the owner of the said property as tenant in fee simple, subject to the life estate of Margaret Dobbin, widow of the late John Dobbin, and says that in April, 1901, the defendant, in denial of the plaintiff's rights and title, damaged his pasture, subjecting him to great inconvenience and pecuniary loss, and deprived him of the right to pasture his cattle in the said lane or water them at the spring. Plaintiff claims damages for the wrongs complained of, an order of the Court that he has a right to hold, use and occupy the said lane as a tenant of the said Margaret Dobbin, that the plaintiff is entitled to water cattle at the said spring, an injunction restraining the defendant from holding, using, or occupying the said lane. A mandamus commanding the defendant to remove the fence erected by him at the western extremity of said lane, to restore the fence at the north, east and south sides previously removed by him, to restore the possession of the said lane to the plaintiff, and to permit the cattle of the plaintiff to pasture thereon and have access to the said spring.

The defendant denies the allegations of the plaintiff, and states that the latter has never up to the present year made any claim of possession of the said lane or spring, but that the defendant has been in peaceful possession of the said property since 1881, as owner, and pleads the Real Property Limitations Act.

O'Connell & Kerr, plaintiff's solicitors; Edmison & Dixon, defendant's solicitors.

REID VS. CORRY & LAVERDURE.

Alex. Reid, the plaintiff, is an expressman residing in the town of Peterborough, and the plaintiffs are contractors constructing a portion of the Trent Valley canal for the Dominion Government. In July last the Owen Sound Cement Co. were supplying cement to the contractors at the rate of one thousand and four sacks a day, and on or about the 6th of July last the Company entered into an agreement with the plaintiff, whereby the latter was to collect the empty sacks and return the same to the Company at the rate of 37 1-2 cents per hundred, or $3.75 per day. On the 9th of July the plaintiff proceeded to carry out his contract, but was informed by the defendant Corry that he would not be permitted to handle any of the sacks or to come upon the property, and by means of force and violence prevented the plaintiff from carrying out his contract. Subsequently, the plaintiff again attempted to carry out his contract, but was informed by one O'Neill that orders were not to allow the plaintiff to handle any of the sacks, and he assaulted and beat the plaintiff, causing him bodily harm. The plaintiff claims damages at the rate of $3.75 per day for money he would have earned by the performance of his contract, and for damages for the assault for $200 and costs of action.

The defendants deny the plaintiff's allegations, and state that if the plaintiff entered upon the property he did so contrary to the wishes of the defendants, and after having been prohibited by them to do so, he tortiously, illegally and forcibly resisted all legal and proper attempts to remove him, and that if one O'Neill assaulted him he did so on no authority of the defendants; the said O'Neill was, further, on the 12th of July last, fined $5.00 for assaulting one Alex. Reid.

The defendants say, without weakening the general denial of their defence, that if they are their workingmen, servants or agents prevented the plaintiff from handling the sacks or coming upon the said property of the Government for the purpose of removing the same, as alleged in the statement of claim, they did so in pursuance of their rights, and in discharge of their duties as contractors under the said contract with the said Government, and for the purpose of protecting from injury or damage the works mentioned, and under their rights as being the parties entitled to the sole, absolute, and peaceable use, possession, dominion and control of and over the said Government works and sacks.

THE CRIMINAL CASE.

There is but one criminal case, that in which Henry Doonan is charged with perjury, committed at the September sessions of the High Court of Justice.

The Boys were Fooled

A crowd of boys were amusing themselves the other evening with a pocketbook, which they had placed on the sidewalk, and which, every little while some unsuspecious person would pounce upon, to loud shouts of "Rubber!" Though the trick is old, it fooled many, and the dupe, as soon as the chorus of jeers greeted him, would drop the pocketbook back into its place on the sidewalk again, and lose himself as quickly as possible in the crowd. But finally an elderly and dilapidated man came along. He seized the purse, which was quite a good one, and the shouts and laughter did not cause him to abandon it. He dropped it in his pocket and walked on. This spoiled the boys' game; they could now have no more fun, and therefore, two or three of them overtook the old man and besought him to give back the pocketbook. "Why, no," said he, "of course I won't. I've been needing a pocketbook for a month. I had thought of buying one to-morrow. This one is worth a dollar at least, and you bet I'm going to keep it. It comes," he concluded, "just like a Christmas box."

AN OTONABEE WEDDING

Nuptials of Mr. Wm. H Elmhirst and Miss Jennie Lancaster.

An event of great local interest took place at St. Michael's church, Westwood, on Thursday afternoon, when Mr. Wm. H. Elmhirst, of Otonabee, was united in marriage to Miss Jennie, eldest daughter of Mr. John Lancaster, Deputy Reeve of the township, and one of the most prominent farmers of East Peterborough. The church was handsomely decorated with arches of evergreens, flags, bunting and flowers. The bride entered on the arm of her father while Mendelssohn's wedding march was being played by Mrs. R. E. Birdsall. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. J. McKee McLennan, in the presence of a large number of invited guests.

After the ceremony the party returned to the residence of the bride's parents, when a sumptuous wedding dejeuner was served, at the conclusion of which felicitous speeches of congratulation were made by Rev. Mr. McLennan, Dr. Harrison and others.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white cashmere, trimmed with white applique lace and silk, and wore a veil, with lilies of the valley. She was assisted by her cousin, Miss Lily Faux, who was prettily attired in blue cashmere trimmed with white applique lace and wore lilies of the valley in her hair. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Fred Elmhirst, late of "B" Squadron Royal Canadian Dragoons, Winnipeg. The large number of beautiful and costly presents testified to the popularity of the bride, who is held in high esteem by everybody. The groom's present to the bride was a handsome gold watch. She also received a beautiful mantel clock and a silver fruit spoon from the members of the church, where she officiated as organist for 16 years.

Amongst the guests were T. Blezard, M.P.P., Dr. and Mrs. Harrison, Keene; Mr. and Mrs. F. Birdsall, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Birdsall, and many from Peterborough, Havelock, Hastings and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmhirst begin their married life with the best wishes of the entire community in which the Times cordially joins.

Mr. D. McLachlan, Chatham, Ont.:

Dear Friend: It is impossible for me to find words in which to express my appreciation of your institution, as I consider the time and money spent in learning the art of Bookkeeping and Shorthand has more than amply repaid me both intellectually and financially. I owe my present position and the success that I am now enjoying to the thorough training I received in your college. I find in my experience that the most essential element in business is to understand bookkeeping, and I can candidly say that I have had no difficulty whatever in handling a set of books.

To young men or women who desire to fit themselves for responsible positions, I would recommend them by all means to take a course through your institution. With best wishes for your success, I remain

Yours sincerely,
James A. Campbell.

SOUSA TELLS OF PLAYING FOR THE KING

British Monarch Called Twice for "Star Spangled Banner" and Royalty Stood.

Interesting Visit of the Famous Band to the Royal Home.

How King Edward Surprised the Queen on Her Birthday.

London, Dec. 10.—Sousa brought to London from Sandringham, where his band played last night before the royal family, the Royal Victoria Medal, a gift from King Edward in appreciation of his services to music. The Prince of Wales affixed the decoration to Sousa's breast.

Sousa said to-day:

"It was among the most gratifying experiences of my life. The royal command was received several days before the visit but was kept a strict secret, the King desiring to give the Queen a birthday surprise.

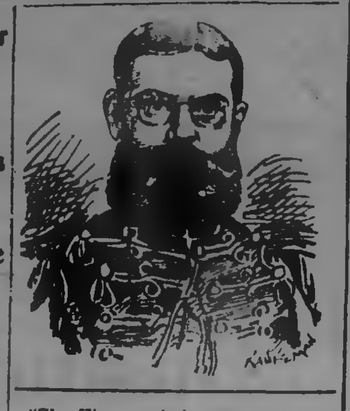
"Considerable duplicity was necessary to complete the arrangements without divulging our destination. We took Mr. Alfred de Rothschild into our confidence and gave out that we were going to play at his country seat on Sunday. It was only when we took the train that the band was informed where we were going.

"The King's motor car took myself and wife from the station. We marched into the ball room at 10.30. Some twenty persons were present, including the King and Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke of Cambridge, Consuelo, Duchess of Manchester, and Lady De Grey.

STAR SPANGLED BANNER.

"We first played 'God Save the King' Then His Majesty sent word that he wanted 'the Spangled Star Banner,' during the play of which they all, including King Edward, stood up.

"The programme consisted of 'Plantation Songs and Dances,' 'The Washington Post March,' 'The Stars and Stripes,' a trombone solo by Arthur Pryor, and the Reese-Davies collection of American hymn-tunes, including 'Nearer, My God, to Thee,' which seemed to deeply affect the distinguished listeners.



"The King specially requested us to play 'Hands Across the Sea,' and then sent word that he wanted 'El Capitan' He next requested 'King Cotton' and 'The Coon Band.'

"At the close the King again sent word to play 'The Star Spangled Banner,' and again all present stood-up.

"The King stepped forward, shook hands with me, chatted with me in the most cordial manner and asked me to congratulate the band on its excellent technique.

"The Queen came up, thanked me and turning to the King, told him how much she had enjoyed her birthday surprise, especially the hymn-tunes, of which she requested copies.

"The Prince of Wales joined in, referred pleasantly to his trip, and expressed regret that he did not have time to visit the United States.

"Then the King handed me this medal, which the Prince of Wales pinned on my breast.

"The Queen accorded me permission to dedicate a march to her.

"It was nearly 1 o'clock when we drove off to the station.

"I never played to a more appreciative audience, nor have I been more kindly treated.

"The King looked to be in excellent health. He certainly was in the best of spirits. He had nothing but kind words for America, and certainly knows more than most people about American music.

"The little Princes had to go to bed before the performance, but they said before leaving the room, "Never mind, we are going to have Sousa in our bedrooms on the talking-machine.'"

EXTENSION OF LINE OF BLOCKHOUSES VALUABLE

Boers Prevented from Obtaining Reinforcements ---15,000 Boers Captured

annesburg, Dec. 6.—The English papers to hand by the last mail kept such a pessimistic tone that a summary of the present situation may reassure the public regarding the progress of the war here.

As far as the dispositions of the commandoes go there has been little alteration during the past few months, with the exception of those operating in Cape Colony, who are never stationary.

The most important event recently is the extension of the lines of blockhouses in various directions. The energy displayed in these directions, the enormous amount of work involved, and the value of these works seem to be unappreciated, yet the blockhouse system will end the war in the only way it can possibly end—namely, by the gradual beating down of the enemy.

The blockhouses, which previously served purely for railway protection are now rapidly encircling vast tracts of country and limiting the sphere of the operations of the commandoes thus encircled. The advantage of this is inestimable, for the blockhouses act as a sort of outer cordon through which there is little possibility of the enemy breaking.

Thus they prevent communication between the commandoes and the arrival of reinforcements from outside. The best example of this is found in the line of blockhouses which runs from Norvals Point to Naauwpoort, De Aar, and Orange River, and along the river from Norvals Point. Thus it is evident that the commandoes now in Cape Colony can hardly return or be reinforced from the north.

The size and remarkably different conditions of the country in which operations are being conducted were manifested yesterday week, when one column engaged the enemy near the shore of the Atlantic, and another was fighting 1,000 miles east of the ge of Kaffirland, while 1,[illegible]00 miles north Colonel Colenbrander was pursuing the enemy in the thick bush country.

The extraordinary conditions under which the troops fight were exemplified by Colonel Plumer's recent operations in the Slangapiesberg and the Pongola bush where both British and Boers were hidden from one another by the thick mists peculiar to that part of the country, in consequence of which the men often approached within a dozen yards of the enemy, many of whom were killed at Point blank range.

Colonel Somerset's column was encamped high above the clouds. The Boer snipers from the valley below were invisible, but their shots piercing the clouds fell harmless owing to the great elevation.

In the midst of this country of large canons a town was discovered in which were women and children, and also shops wherein bootmakers, tailors, and wagonmakers were regularly employed.

On every hand the columns are doing good, steady, plodding work. I would again protest against the injustice of exaggerating minor Boer successes and against the seeming inability of the critics to set off against these our weekly total of captured, none of whom were taken without fighting. The weekly summary but inadequately conveys an idea of the progress made.

From January to the end of last October the following were the Boer losses:—Captured and surrendered, 15,600; killed, 1,837; guns captured, 29; rifles captured, 10,000.

That certain columns should be more useful than others is only natural and it is perfectly true that some columns are considerably hampered by excess of impedimenta. Upon this subject, however, Lord Kitchener has issued strict orders as to the limitation of transport.

It is only fair to point out that it is hardly to be expected that men who have been two years in the field should willingly endure the same privations and restrictions which were unavoidable at the beginning of the war.

EDGAR WALLACE.

A Catastrophe.

the result of a catastrophe at the corner of Water and Simcoe yesterday morning, somewhere in Peterborough a woman's heart is bowed down with a weight of woe this morning. She was carrying a hat box, and her face was wreathed in smiles as she skipped merrily across Water St. But before she reached the east side a team turned the corner, and in trying to cross ahead of this her foot slipped, and she dropped her precious hat box. The driver couldn't pull up in time to avert the tragedy, and a heavy wheel passed directly over the box. There was a crunching sound, the pasteboard was split in two, and there in the mud lay the wreck of feathers and ribbons and laces. The woman stood as though petrified, her face the color of chalk. The driver took one look and whipped up his team. Several men gathered up the fragments and handed them to the woman. She took them mechanically, without seeming to notice. "Oh, dear! oh, dear!" was all she said. But there was anguish unspeakable in her voice.

COURT TO BE IN PEKIN JAN. 11

Reason Given for Delay is Illness of Dowager Empress

Pekin, Dec. 7.—An edict has been received fixing Jan. 11 as the date for the arrival of the court at Pekin. The reason given for the delay is the illness of the Dowager Empress.

Prince Ching arrived at Paoting-fu to-day. He will meet there Prince Chun brother of the Emperor, who recently returned from Germany. The latter is on route to Kaifeng-fu.

Capt. Brewster to-day handed over the Temple of Agriculture to the Chinese. Major Robertson was ill and could not be present at the ceremony, Capt. Brewster acting in his stead. Hu Yu Fen, Military Governor of Pekin, in thanking the Americans, said that the temple was in a better state of preservation than any of the property that had been held by the allies. Its condition, he added, was in marked contrast to that of the Temple of Heaven, which the Chinese declare the English looted of bronze urns and other valuables. Since the Temple of Heaven was returned to the Chinese even the bronze hardware and nails in the building have been stolen.

The Temple of Agriculture was the last important building held by the allies in Pekin.

The Ministers have declined to answer the request made by Sir Robert Hart, Imperial Commissioner of Maritime Customs, for an interpretation of certain parts of the protocol in regard to the customs.

The question was brought up by the smuggling into Chefoo of a case of firearms. In former times these would have been confiscated by the Chinese officials, but such action now would defeat the action of the protocol.

There are also several disputes in regard to certain cargoes, the importers claiming that they are exempt from the 5 per cent effective duty because they were shipped within the limit of ten days after the signing of the protocol, and were delayed en route. There is a large margin for fraud in these matters. Sir Robert Hart will instruct his subordinates in the Customs Department to be liberal in their decisions of technical questions.

M. Knobel, the Minister from the Netherlands, who went through the siege of Pekin, left here for home yesterday by way of the United States.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

London, Dec. 8.—King Otto, who has has been King of Bavaria in name only since 1886, is said to be regaining his reason after a mental lapse of over twenty-five years. If his recovery be permanent, of course his title to the Crown cannot be withstood. But this opens a door to grave possibilities. Prince Leopold must terminate his Regency, and stand aside for the King to enjoy his own. But will the Bavarian Court consent to this. The King's uncle is one of the grand old men of Europe. Recently his eightieth birthday was celebrated with immense enthusiasm. He commenced his Regency as the best hated man in the land, but so admirable has he discharged the duties of his high office that popular prejudice and suspicion have given place to merited confidence, love and reverence.

London, Dec. 7.—A telegram to The Times from Dublin says that Colonel Arthur Lynch who fought for the Boers, and who was recently returned to Parliament from Galway City, has written to the electors of that constituency, thanking them for his election. He promises to discharge his Parliamentary duties with his eyes directed toward the welfare of Galway and Ireland. The letter, however, does not contain any reference to Colonel Lynch's proposed action in the near future.

New York, Dec. 7.—The terrors and costs of modern warfare have been described with great fidelity by the Polish author Bloch, at whose instance, it is said, the Czar of Russia was moved to call the Peace Conference at the Hague. If M. Bloch had to write his book now, he would find some additional material of great value in the current report of the American Secretary of the Interior, who tells us that our pension list contains 4000 names in excess of any previous year, and that the number of claims pending at the beginning of the present fiscal year was 468,569. About one-half of these were claims for increase of pensions from persons already on the rolls. The amount disbursed for pensions during the year (the thirty-sixth after the end of the Civil War) was $138,531,484. Even more remarkable than this aggregate showing is the piling up of pension claims as a result of disabilities incurred in the war with Spain. About 20 per cent of all the men enlisted have filed claims for a war that began only 3 years ago. Only 6 per cent of soldiers of the Civil War had entered claims in 1872, 11 years after the beginning of that war. Many claims for disability in the latter war were filed a few days after the claimants had been examined by army surgeons for discharge, and had been found absolutely free from ailment of any kind. The history of one volunteer regiment which served six months is cited in Secretary's report, where 477 claims for disability have been filed, out of a total enlistment of 53 officers and 937 men—over 50 per cent of claimants in three years, as compared with 5 per cent in eleven years after the beginning of the Civil War. These terrors of war do not come within the scope of M. Bloch's volume because the nations of Europe do not tolerate fraud in their pension rolls.

FOR SOUTH AFRICA

A Large Number of Applications to Join New Force

Lt.-Col. Leonard, C.B., recruiting officer for this district arrived in town yesterday and is busily engaged in selecting twelve men from the forty or fifty applicants for the Third Contingent. At two p.m., Col. Leonard, accompanied by Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers, Surgeon-Major Young and Captain David Johnston proceeded to the drill hall, where they found upwards of two hundred men waiting their arrival.

A few minutes later the men who had served in South Africa, with the other forces were called for, and they all volunteered to serve again.

Recruiting was carried on in a brisk manner all afternoon, when thirteen men were inspected and examined by the Surgeon Major. Amongst those examined yesterday were Lieut. Gerald Hayward, Lieut. Percy R. Price, Lieut. Shaw, George Daniels, Dick Boyle, Fred Trussler, Sergt. Murphy, Trumpeter Hubbs, George Heaton, Reg. Turner, F. McDonald, Craig and Garfield.

Recruiting will be carried on to-day, beginning at 9 o'clock, until the required number of men are selected. To-day the men will be examined in horsemanship and will be sworn in.

The men will leave here for Montreal and Halifax on Wednesday or Thursday night by midnight express per C. P.R.

Mr. George (Tiny) Might, who has just returned from Cuba, where he served for three years in the American army, is also an applicant.

Dr. Poole, V.S., is looking up suitable mounts for service in South Africa. The style of horse wanted is a cobby—compactly built animal, with clean, strong limbs and active—five to eight years and height from 14.3 to 15.2 hands.

Sergt. A. Hall, who served with the Second Contingent, is acting orderly room clerk.

CHASED BY WOLVES TO SHANTY DOOR

There the Baulked but Ravenous Animals Scratched at Windows

A STORY FROM MANIWAKI

Lumbermen Escaped Only by Riding Their Horses Desperately to Camp

Ottawa, Dec. 9.—According to reports brought to the city by lumbermen wolves are both numerous and daring above Maniwaki. Mr. J. Coughlin, who arrived in Ottawa last week, states that two of his drivers had a narrow escape recently. They were drawing logs through the woods and a pack of wolves attacked them. They escaped by unhitching their horses and riding them to the camp, the wolves pursuing them all the way. Men and animals were in an exhausted condition when the camp was reached. The result caused one of the men, who had a weak heart, to faint. He was carried into the shanty, and while his companions were endeavoring the resuscitate him the wolves came to the windows scratching and howling. They were driven away with firearms. The wolves are now so feared by the men that the latter never go into the woods unless armed. Mr. Coughlin maintains that the story of young Connors being devoured by wolves near Otter Lake is true.

A BIT OF HISTORY.

Seventeen years ago last week the writer applied for the Government bounty for two wolves' scalps taken by a veteran hunter, who declared that they represented the last pair in the whole Gatineau district. And last week the grandson of that old hunter was treed by a pack of five wolves in that very locality.

Though he shot at them several times, killing one and wounding one or two of the others, he spent nearly the whole night on his roost. His tree was small, the brutes exceedingly vicious, and after his cartridges were expended he spent some hours of such misery that, well-seasoned woodsman though he is, his hair is actually turning gray from the effects of it.

One beast sprang at last for the lowest limb of the tree, and after several futile attempts, got foothold long enough to make a further spring for the man. The man, watching his chance, brought his heavy boot, with such force against the eager jaws as to send the acrobatic wolf howling to the ground.

And, oddly enough, what bullets would not do that kick did. The besieging four set up a prodigious howl and then swiftly and stealthily decamped.

Bark Lake, eighty miles north of the scene of that incident, is where Ed Connors, of Buckingham, on the River Lievre, a lad of eighteen who was putting in his first season's shanty work, for the great Gilmour firm, was devoured by a similar pack only last week, as has already been told in despatches.

COW MOOSE IN A STABLE.

It is not long since two well-dressed strangers rushed into a lonely shanty on the Yellow Beaver Lake, which is not far from Bark Lake, after nightfall, to the great surprise of the inmates. They had been paddling along near the lake shore, and had missed the inlet which led to where their tent was pitched.

They had been followed along the shore by a pack of six or seven wolves and being afraid to land, had sailed half way around the lake. The cunning animals had only drawn back from the chase when the lights and sparks of the shanty came into view.

The men in the shanty agreed that they had heard wolves several times lately and that it was well for the two hunters that they had reached safe shelter.

"Then I wonder at your leaving your horses out at night," remarked one of the strangers.

"Horses! Why, there are no horses here, and won't be till the frost settles in."

"Certainly," said one of the hunters, "there were two horses right at your door, and they walked into the stable as we came along."

Catching up a lantern, some of the men went out to the newly built open stable, and found two large cow moose blinking at the light, and apparently quite prepared to spend the night in safe quarters. Evidently the poor things had sought refuge near their human enemies, in preference to flying before the pitiless wolves.

They were dripping wet, and had probably been driven across the lake by the pack whose howls were even then to be heard. Instinct warned them not to get far away from the water so long as their four-footed foes were in the vicinity.

SLEEVE-LINK A BULLET.

Some years ago the writer was driven to take shelter in a tree by three wolves not very far from a little storage cabin on the shore of Big Lake. It was late in November, the ground was hard as iron, so that no scent would lie, and doubtless the wolves were hungry. He was alone at sunset, his only weapon a light muzzle-loading gun.

As he was returning from a long trip he had as ammunition only about two charges of powder and a small quantity of small, No. 8 shot. His tree was a good one for climbing purposes, and his perch not very uncomfortable.

Soon after securing his position two of the enemies trotted off, giving tongue as though on the track of a deer. The other, a very large, gaunt, evil-disposed brute, sat down and with tongue lolling out, waited for supper to come down.

Finding it intolerable after a time, to be guyed in that manner and fearing lest he should fall asleep, and, losing his balance, fulfil the desire of the greedy animal, the writer took out one of his greatly treasured and finely engraved gold sleeve links, and carefully loaded it on top of a good allowance of shot.

The wolf was only thirty or forty feet away when the charge struck him and the whining of the brute as he cantered away on three legs was like the cries of a whipped cur.

PRINCE CABLES HIS SYMPATHY

To the Bereaved at Ottawa—Details of the Tragic Skating Accident.

Ottawa, Dec. 9.—The Prince and Princess of Wales, Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, and Lord Strathcona cabled sympathy to Hon. Mr. Blair and his family in the tragic death of the fourth daughter of the Minister of Railways. Miss Blair, Hon. W. S. Fielding, and J. Lambert Payne, private secretary to the Minister of Railways, met Mr. and Mrs. Blair on their return from Clifton Springs. The funeral of the late Miss Bessie Blair took place this afternoon to Beechwood Cemetery, Rev. Dr. Herridge conducted the service.

An hour later the body of Mr. H. A. Harper, who gave his life in a vain attempt to save Miss Blair's in the tragic skating accident, was conveyed from Rev. Dr. Herridge's house to the Union station, was conveyed by Canadian Pacific Railway to Cookstown for interment. At Toronto Dr. Harper of Carbondale, Pa., and Mr. William Harper, architect, of New York, brothers of the deceased will await the arrival of the train from Ottawa.

THE DEAD HERO.

Speaking in St. Andrew's Church last night Rev. Dr. Herridge made a feeling reference to the tragedy which had terminated two bring young lives. He spoke in glowing terms of the late Mr. Harper's gallantry, and said there need be no fear for the future of Canada so long as it sons were of the type of deceased.

Mr. Alex. Creelman has a distinct recollection of all that happened when he and Miss Blair skated through the ice together. He succeeded in getting hold of her arm and keeping her up for a time. Then he grasped at the edge of the ice with his free hand.

"It was pretty dark, and as we could not see how much open space there was in front of us, we turned around to get back to the spot where we had gone through, thinking this was the only way to gain the ice again. We had only swam a few feet when I began to sink. I told Miss Blair to keep cool and hand on to the edge of the ice. She replied in a fearless way, 'Oh, don't mind me, I can swim; look,' and she struck out against the current.

HIS FATAL PLUNGE.

"At this time I saw Harper and Miss Snowball skating towards us. Harper was throwing off his overcoat and gauntlets. I shouted to him, 'For God's sake, Harper, don't you come in, too." He fearlessly replied, 'What else is there for me to do?' and plunged toward Miss Blair, who was swimming against the current about ten feet from me. I had been under water and up again before this happened; that is how I became separated from Miss Blair. I had taken in a great deal of water, and was well-nigh strangled, but I managed to keep my head and shout for help.

"Shortly after Harper plunged into the water I went down again, and when [illegible]ned the surface I was under the ice, and the current had carried me away from Miss Blair and Harper. When I felt the ice over my head I struck out with my fist in a forlorn hope of breaking through. My head went through, and I forced my body up through the ice and was released by Threadgold."

ENGLAND IS BANKER NATION

British Press Thinks the United States Have Outrun Discretion

London, Dec. 10.—The Times in its financial article this morning discusses the question of credit relations between the United States and Europe. The Times regards the time as still distant when the United States will become a great banker nation and compliments Mr. Gage as the best secretary of the treasury for many years past. The article says it remains to be seen whether all the big American schemes which European capitalists are directly or indirectly financing at the present moment will prove profitable as soon as sanguine people expect.

"We think that during the last year American energy and optimism have to some extent outrun discretion," says The Times, "and some of the best qualified judges in the United States seem to agree with us."

The current issue of the Board of Trade Journal summarises the report of C. E. Cardew on the Burmah railroads, in which the writer seriously criticised the defective workmanship and materials of the American locomotives supplied to the road, but admits that their prompt delivery saved the Burmah railway from a great loss of revenue.

The Chronicle, commenting editorially on this report, says it shows that British manufacturers are by no means so hopelessly behind as they are sometimes represented to be.

CLAIMS OF EMIL NEY OF HAWALL.

Says He Is a Grandson of Marshal Ney and Entitled to a Share of His Millions.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Delegate Wilcox of Hawaii will write to former Vice-President Morton of New York to learn what he knows of the claims of Emil Ney of Hawaii to a share in the fortune left by Marshal Ney of France. The fortune was restored in the 30s, after having been confiscated after Ney was shot. Mr. Morton was Minister to France when Emil began his efforts to recover part of the fortune, which is said to amount to $13,000,000 and is said to know a great deal about the case. Much of the evidence accumulated by Emil was lost in the fire which destroyed the Baldwin Hotel. He claims to be one of three children of a son of Marshal Ney.

TO FREE IRELAND FROM BRITISH RULE

Big Conference of Irish-Americans Held in New York City.

A VAST ORGANIZATION TO BE FORMED AT ONCE

John E. Redmon, M. P., and Patrick A. McHugh, M. P., Present, and Instruct the Gathering.

New York, Dec. 10.

More than a hundred supporters of the Irish cause met yesterday at the Hoffman House. The gathering included delegates from every part of the country, and with John E. Redmond, Patrick A. McHugh and Thomas O'Donnell, Irish members of Parliament, they discussed means to put into practical form the Irish sympathy of this country. The result of the meeting was the appointment of a committee to organise branches of the United Irish League throughout the United States.

In the frankest terms, however, Mr. Redmond told the conference that while he and his colleagues desired the moral and financial support of the Irish Americans it was not within the province of the latter to dictate what policy the Irish people should follow in their efforts to free themselves from British rule. In effect he stated that the proposed American branches of the league should give pecuniary aid to the new movement but should not seek to advise the policy which Ireland is to pursue. Since he arrived in this country, Mr. Redmond's policy and that of his colleagues in Parliament has been condemned by many Americans of Irish extraction who have contended that the new movement is merely one of Parliamentary obstruction and consequently not likely to effect any lasting improvement To such critics he made answer yesterday at the conference.

"Our object in calling this meeting," he said, "is to extend to this country the organization which we have begun at home. We think that this movement will be as strong and as united as the Land League which was started twenty years ago. Ireland at home is united. She has deliberately settled upon a policy and has created a national organization to further that policy. With Ireland as united as she is she is entitled to decide for herself what is best for her interests. No Irishman in America, living three thousand miles from the home land, has a right to dictate to Ireland, and if he thinks he has such a right, he cannot justifiably become a member of the new national league. The branches in this country of that league should be merely an auxiliary of the organization at home. If the movement at home gets upon wrong lines then those in America who support would be justified in falling away from it.

"With the exception of Boston and Chicago our movement has as yet received neither moral nor material support from America. We now ask you to give us that support which we received from you twenty years ago. The time is ripe here for the formation of a great organization which shall aid our movement at home. That movement, I would like to say, is not antagonistic to any individual or to anybody. We have no quarrel with the man or body of men who may wish to strike a blow at the English Government. If there is any such desire to strike we only hope that the blow will be struck quickly and hard. But we do say that other policies and other efforts should not prevent us advancing our cause on behalf of the Irish people."

Mr. McHugh also delivered an address full of hope for Ireland. Other speakers were of opinion that the downfall of the hated British nation was now in sight, which would mean liberty for Ireland. The two Irish members of Parliament sail for Ireland to-morrow.

MYSTERIOUS BOER RESERVE FORCES

There Is Reason to Believe That Men Are Being Imported.

AN ARMY OF 100,000 MEN

This Was the Probable Boer Force at the Commencement of Hostilities.

London, Dec. 10.—The Post says:—Nothing is more strange in this whole mystery of South African business than the numerical puzzle of the Boer army. That seems to be a veritable widow's cruse. The British estimated the Boer forces at 30,000 men at the beginning of the war, and this was understood to represent the whole population of the two republics fit for military duty. The British say now that they have 53,000 men imprisoned in various places. This doubtless includes some old men and boys who would not have been included in the first estimate of the number fit for military duty. Even then the conflict of figures is amazing. The British insist now that not more than 10,000 men are in arms; but it is difficult to believe that so few could continue to evade over 200,000 British troops, and inflict blows on widely separated columns. Taking the killed and disabled into account, the number of fighting Boers from the beginning must be nearer 100,000 than 30,000.

These have not all come into action at once and the original estimate may not have been far wrong. The remarkable thing is that there have been constant accessions to the Boer forces, nearly making good all losses and keeping in the field up to the present time a force nearly as formidable as that which invaded Natal. The Boers have a reserve force seems inexhaustible. Their reinforcements cannot all be drawn from Cape Colony, although without doubt a steady stream has been going to the front from there. There must be something in the persistent stories of continual blockade-running of men and supplies from Europe. Service in South Africa would have a peculiar fascination for European soldiers of fortune with a grudge against Great Britain. The coast line is long and unguarded and probably the Cape Colony Boers have organised underground railroads from a dozen points. How long is it going to take Great Britain to wear out the Boer army if this constant supply of fresh men and arms is going to be kept up indefinitely?

Must Advertise.

A fundamental fact which persons who have articles to sell or services to render cannot ignore is that this is a time of sharp competition, in which there is a tremendous effort of enterprising men to increase their share of business. Inevitably the business man who shall not keep his establishment before the people will be forgotten. As long as there shall be men who advertise constantly and loudly nobody will charge their mind with remembering those who do not advertise

TOBACCO, LIQUOR AND DRUGS

Dr. McTaggart's tobacco remedy removes all desire for the weed in a few weeks. A vegetable medicine, and only requires touching the tongue with it occasionally. Price $2.

Simply marvellous are the results from taking his remedy for the liquor, morphine, and other drug habits. Is a safe and inexpensive home treatment; no hypodermic injections; no publicity; no loss of time from business, and a certainty of cure.

A NEW COINAGE AFTER NEW YEAR

Inscription Will Indicate King Edward's New Title

A NEW ISSUE OF STAMPS

Penny Stamp Will be Red, the Color Preferred by Postal Union

London, Eng., Dec. 9.—Inquiries made at the Mint and the Post Office with reference to the new coinage and the new issue of stamps meet with the answer that no official information can be given yet. The new coinage will not be ready this year. The intention is to issue it as early as possible in the New Year. It is just possible that the new stamps may be issued at the same time. There is an expectation that the portrait of his Majesty, both on the stamps and the coins, will be in the nature of a profile, though not a full profile. The inscriptions on the coin will, of course, indicate King Edward's power of sovereignty as recently amended. Some years ago there was a suggestion as to whether the florin or half-crown might not be dropped out of circulation, and curiosity now exists whether any change of this sort will be made in connection with the issue of the new coinage. Some people appear to fancy that we are in a day, as it were, to bid good-bye to Queen Victoria money, and have it replaced all round by that bearing the portrait of Edward VII. It is hardly necessary to say that the change will be quite a gradual one. A complete set of King Edward coins has been prepared, but the order of their issue will depend on the call of the banks. No Queen Victoria pennies were issued for a year or so after her Majesty's ascended the throne, as a great supply of copper was in existence.

KING EDWARD STAMPS.

As to the King Edward stamps—of which the penny and halfpenny ones are understood to be already printed — the statement is that as few changes as possible have been made; the point being that people have grown familiar with certain colors as representing certain values. Still there undoubtedly will be some changes in the colors of our stamps and the confident view among philatelists is that the new penny one will be red. That is the color favored by the Postal Union, to which Great Britain belongs, for all stamps equivalent in value to a penny; nor would it be a novelty in this country, for most of us remember the reddish Queen's head that preceded the present lilac one. Most of the countries belonging to the Postal Union give effect to this principle, and the view is that Great Britain will now do so. Our halfpenny stamp is green, in accordance with the Postal Union scheme for that value, while our twopence-half-penny penny stamp comes near the same requirement by being almost blue. The world's postal traffic is most carried under stamps of a halfpenny, a penny, and twopence-halfpenny, or their equivalents in other coinages. The idea of the Postal Union has been to simplify the handling of this postal traffic by having kindred colors for kindred values. That there will be any changes to speak about in the more expensive stamps, apart from the new design itself, is not thought to be very likely.

Sure Cure for Sea Sickness, Nausea

Maladies of this type yield instantly to Polson's Nerviline, and if you suffer periodically from these complaints, just keep Nerviline at hand. A few drops in sweetened water gives instant relief, and in the course of half an hour the cure is complete. A large 25c. bottle of Nerviline in the house will save doctor bills, and a vast amount of suffering every year.

SMALLPOX FACTS AND THEORIES

Small-pox is a world-topic of the hour. Philadelphia reports twice as many new cases last week as in the week previous and its extension to "nearly every part of the city." The greater city's total record to date is 708 cases and 111 deaths — over one death in every seven cases.

Simultaneously cable despatches tell of the remarkable spread of the disease in London. There, as in Philadelphia, it is not alone the poorer but all districts, including the richest, that are attacked.

London health officers are making an interesting effort to collect facts as the epidemic proceeds showing exactly how effective vaccination is as a preventive—a question on which there seems to be more medical doubt in Jenner's own country than in ours. The statistics so far collected are said to show that among those stricken who had been previously vaccinated the deathrate was 20 in every 100, while it was 60 in every 100 among those who had not been vaccinated, and 57 in every 100 among those classified as "doubtful"—i e., where the fact of vaccination or non-vaccination was uncertain.

The surprising feature of these figures is their apparent proof that vaccinated persons are being attacked by the disease in London in large numbers, and that one in every five of such persons has died. If these figures are correct, what becomes of the nearly absolute immunity supposed to be conferred by inoculation?

It is to be hoped that Canadian health officials are also gathering facts on this most interesting and important point. Facts are more satisfying than theories.

A TEN CENT PIECE OF SUMMER

An Indiana benefactor of his kind has, it is announced, invented a process of storing summer heat for winter use.

The thing is simplicity itself. Along in July, when nobody wants the stuff you withdraw from circulation as much heat as you like and force it into blocks of secret composition which soaks it up as a sponge does water. In winter these blocks are peddled like ice. You put a lump where it will do most good and just let the heat ooze out—that's all.

That's all, but what a momentous much! No more chilly and profane 4 A. M. fire building; no more frozen plumbing when the furnace goes out; no more ash barrels for December winds to play with; no more soft coal smoke for health inspectors not to see. With a pipe, a book and a lump canned sunshine one need not dream of Aready; he'll be right in it.

This rosy picture fancy paints; in fact, there will be drawbacks. Trusts will be formed. Grasping Mayors and Airship Landing Commissioners will grant monopolies to Amalgamated Sunshine Companies and win the denunciations of a blue nosed and shivering populace. A strike in the sunshine cannery, after all stoves had been melted into automobiles, might work untold woe.

But we'll take the canned summer for better or worse—if the Indiana genius can really deliver the goods!

Partridges' Eggs.

New Orleans "Times-Democrat."

"But few persons are aware of the fact," said a well-known physician yesterday, "but it is true, nevertheless, that the egg of the partridge is one of the most nutritious things in the world. They are not used for eating purposes except in very rare cases, and then it generally happens in remote rural districts. I have known negro families in the State of Louisiana during the laying season to live on the eggs of partridges. And they would flourish handsomely and grow fat on account of the rich properties of the eggs. These eggs, of course, never find their way into the market, because they are never taken from their nest except by such persons as I have mentioned, and they rob the nests, I suppose, because their principal food supply comes from this source. Quail meat comes pretty high in the market at all times, and the average man will find it more profitable to spare the eggs and wait for the birds when the hunting season rolls around. These men would pass a hundred nests in one day without disturbing an egg. The sport of hunting the birds is an additional incentive. The average negro does not care so much about this aspect of the case. He figures that the white man, having the best gun and the best dog, will beat him to the bird. So he goes after the eggs. One partridge will lay anywhere from a dozen to twenty eggs, and a nest is a good find. I know of many families in rural sections who feast on these eggs in the laying season. I have tried the egg myself as an experiment. I found it peculiarly rich. It has a good flavor, is very palatable, and, in fact, is altogether a very fine thing to eat. Really I believe that the egg has more nutrition in it than the fully developed bird, but, of course, as one of the main food of the game in the field. I would like to discourage the robbery of the nests."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and perseverance in its use will work wonders for the most hopeless woman. If Mrs. Newton, whose letter is given below, had not persisted in its use, she might never have known the happiness of perfect health. Perhaps the reason for her persistence was because she used "Favorite Prescription" as a "last resort." Physicians had failed. If "Favorite Prescription" could not help there was nothing to hope for. It did help. It always helps and almost always cures. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It imparts strength and elasticity to the organs of maternity and makes the baby's advent practically painless.

"When I consulted you in April, 1899, I was in poor health," writes Mrs. E. H. Newton, of Vanburen, Aroostook Co., Maine "Had been sick all winter, and, to add to my trouble, was on the road to maternity, which the doctor said would end my days. I was almost discouraged; did not expect any help, but thought the end was only a matter of time, and—oh! my two poor, little, motherless children.

"It was in this condition that I began the use of your valuable medicine. On receipt of your letter of April 6th my husband purchased six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" and I used it as you directed. When you wrote me words of encouragement on April 27th I had received no benefit from the medicine, but determined as a last resort to give it a fair trial. I am now taking the thirteenth and last bottle. I have a lovely baby girl three weeks old, that weighed 11¾ pounds at birth. My baby and I are enjoying perfect health, thanks to your wonderful medicine, to which I believe I owe my life."

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

AN UP-TO-DATE CATALOGUE

Canada has exceptional facilities, especially this section of it, for turning the winter months into a season of good healthy enjoyment and sport, at the same time making brawn and muscle for both old and young. With snow and ice and the fresh bracing atmosphere winter sports flourish in our midst as perhaps nowhere else in the world. One of the most complete imaginable arrangements of winter sports and amusements, both indoors and out, has been compiled by the large sporting goods house of Ketchum & Co., Ottawa. Their catalogue of fall and winter sporting goods is most complete and up-to-date. Realising the fact that the biggest part of the goods they carry cannot be had in small places, they have tastefully arranged, for the convenience of out of town buyers, a complete line of goods embracing: Hockey goods of every description, skates, skis, snowshoes, fencing equipments, home exercisers, small rifles, boxing gloves, striking bags, gymnasium equipments, sleds, footballs, golf, home billiards and pool, table tennis, etc., etc., all of which are fully illustrated and described and the prices of each article plainly printed. The prices are exactly the same as city prices, so that everything can be ordered from the catalogue with the same degree of confidence as if bought at their store personally. These catalogues are intended for free distribution, and will be sent to anyone sending their name and address to the Ottawa house.

Nerviline is quick to relieve; never fails; never harms. Try it to-day. 25c.

MEMORY FOOD.

A Case Where Memory Was Strengthened by Grape Nuts.

Food that will actually help the memory, as well as agree perfectly with a delicate stomach, is worth knowing of.

A good wife out in Atla, Ia., who did not know which way to turn to get food that would agree with her husband who was left in a weakened condition after a serious illness and could scarcely retain any food in his stomach, was one day induced to try him on Grape-Nuts, the famous ready-cooked breakfast food, and from the first he began to improve rapidly. In three months he had gained 30 pounds.

She says that his stomach has recovered so completely that he can now eat any kind of food.

She mentions the boy of an intimate acquaintance, who was so delicate and thin that his appearance was pitiable and he had no appetite for any ordinary food. He was put on Grape-Nuts, and liked the crispness and sweetish taste of the new food and took to it. The improvement began at once, and he is now a healthy plump boy.

"I know that Grape-Nuts will do more for weak stomachs than any medicine. The claim that it will build up and strengthen the brain has been proven to my certain knowledge. Sister, who writes for the press, and is compelled to memorize a great deal, has been using Grape-Nuts, and says she is surprised at the result. There is a marked improvement in her memory and the brain works more perfectly and with better results.

A Story of Charles Frederic Goss.

Recently a Chicago newspaper man paused before a bookstore window which was heaped high with copies of The Redemption of David Corson, and he said to his companion:

"There is one instance, at least, in which lightning struck in the right place. If the size of an author's heart determined the measure of his success every book written by Charles Frederic Goss would sell a million copies.

"'When I struck Chicago I had neither job nor prospect of one. There was not a man in the whole big city who knew me, and it didn't take many days of knocking about from one newspaper office to another to convince me that not a human being here cared to know me. But that was where I made my mistake. One night I happened to step inside Mr. Moody's Chicago Avenue Church. Mr. Charles Frederic Goss was in charge of the work, and at the close of the services I met him. He passed over the conventional revivalistic questions regarding my spiritual condition, but quickly found out where I was stopping, and that I was looking for work and had met with disappointment in my applications. From that hour I felt that I certainly had one friend in Chicago—and he a very cheerful one.

"Week after week passed, and finally a month and a half, before I secured my first position. In the latter part of that probationary period I was in constant terror of the day of reckoning that was to come with my landlady, to whom I had not paid a dollar. Strangely enough, however, she never mentioned the matter or suggested that I find some other place. My credit appeared to be as firm as that of the bank cashier at my right, who paid his board every Saturday night, before the whole company, handing out crisp bills as he took his seat at the table.

"Finally, when I was able to pay her I spoke of the unaccountable forbearance she had shown me as a stranger.

"'Oh, I knew you were all right,' she replied. 'Mr. Goss came here to the house and talked with me about you. Any boarder who has him for a friend can let his bills run with me as long as he needs.'

"All this time the author of David Corson had been keeping my courage up by assuring me there was a place for every honest man who had a desire to work; but he had never so much as hinted that he had personally established my credit at the boarding-house where I was in arrears.

"He always gave away a large share of his salary, and was never so happy as when helping some person in desperate circumstances. In his college course he had a great battle to retain his grasp on the faith which had been taught him in boyhood. This struggle can be traced very distinctly in the pages of his novel."

A Heated Discussion.

"At this point," said the narrator, "she broke down and wept scalding tears." "My goodness!" exclaimed the listener, "she must have been boiling over with rage."—Chicago "News."

Man's Self-Conceit.

If the wonders of the exhibition, which Glasgow has made so successful, have begot any general sense of pride in the achievements of mankind, and particularly of those pushing and ingenious folk who dwell in the City by the Clyde, a perusal of Professor Rucker's speech at the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in the Scottish metropolis, will prove a wholesome corrective, says the "Outlook." He wound up his remarks with the confession that, "with all our searchings, we have not torn the veil of mystery from the world around us." There is nothing so true, and nothing so salutary to remember. Mankind tends evermore to self-conceit; that tendency is encouraged by the daily newspaper. Perhaps some physicist in his researches blunders on some simple property of matter, or condition of the forces about us, and the Roentgen rays are the result. Immediately arises in the press a shriek of exultation. One would think at such times that Nature was about to open out her heart and reveal all her mysteries. But the only fact in the matter appears to be that the human intellect is not fit to comprehend the nature of things. The nature of things is all about us; it only remains mysterious to us because of our incapacity to grasp it. As Professor Rucker reminds us, the span of human life is a very short time in which to study the manifestations of Nature. If we lived longer the problems would appear different. Nor can we transmit our individual knowledge. Each person has to begin at the beginning; he is the slave of his faculties, which, very evidently, were not intended to grasp all at once the character of the universe. The most profound thinkers and investigators know best how ignorant man is. Professor Rucker follows a long line of presidents in reminding us that we know practically nothing.

The Arts of Childhood.

"We hear a good deal these days about the lost arts," said the man who, though old in years, is still young at heart. "I wonder if the world realizes that some of the most precious arts of childhood are in danger of becoming extinct? How many boys to-day can make a kite, properly hung and with a tail sufficient to balance, the ends nicely bent and worked down with a bit of broken glass? I interviewed my young nephew the other day, and was thunderstruck to discover that he knew nothing about it. Could he make a water-wheel, a windmill, an elder pop-gun, a jack-lantern, a buzz-wheel, an air-gun from a goose-quill, with a sliced potato for ammunition; a willow whistle, a squirt-gun? No; he knew nothing about them. 'But surely,' said I, almost pathetically, 'you can make a cornstalk fiddle?' 'Do you mean a violin, unk?' said he, yawning. Then I gave it up. I don't believe the youths of to-day know enough to stick a feather in a corncob and throw it into the air. I am going to write a book some day upon the arts of childhood to save them from utter annihilation."—Detroit "Free Press."

OF

THE NORTH AMERICAN OIL AND REFINING COMPANY

OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

Incorporated under the laws of Wyoming.

Location of Property, Acton, California.
Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent.
General Office, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Branch Offices, Los Angeles, California, and 150 Nassau St., New York City.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

E. A. Sunderlin, President, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Joseph H. Parker, Vice President and Gen. Mgr., Los Angeles California.
Geo. A. Cockburn, Secretary and Treasurer, Colorado Springs Colorado.
Frank S. Livingston, Los Angeles, California.
F. L. Sherwin, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of 200,000 shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offers for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about 30 miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one section from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is of 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerites Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.50 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells. It can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land. West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property is the Iola Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., C. O. O. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 400 bbl. white oil gusher) Harmonia White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page 283).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in 1876, and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 5 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from 300 to 935 feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders $12,000,000, and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing.

These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.25 to $4.50 per barrel on the nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary that are now being handled in Southern California. North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerites Field, as as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in junction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the tire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & RefiningCo.'s lands are in a line with and the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid es. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details these are too lengthy to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on cation. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the ability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and The profits accruing from both enterprises will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. 2000 acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State,
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast Of North America and South America, Asia and for a market.
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Piple line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th. Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no ment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this trict as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal tigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale 200,000 shares of its treasury stock at low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of ecting a 500 barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high ity will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Springs, Colo.

A Gold Mine.

An ad in the Times is a gold mine to the advertiser. Why? Because, being the most popular, widely circulated and generally read newspaper in this and surrounding districts, by using its columns you can talk to most people at once about what you have to sell and what they daily require. By this means you increase your trade and double your dollars.

Don't Allow Operation for Cancer

There is a simpler, safer and more effective Method of Treatment.

Dr. J. C. Oliver, of Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A., in a paper he read before the Ohio State Medical Society, May 1895, said: "I have operated in a considerable number of cases of Cancer recently, and with one exception all have died within fourteen months after the operation."

This statement of a prominent Surgeon, should make any one suffering from cancer, hesitate before submitting to operation and consider carefully the evidence offered on behalf of the new Constitutional remedy, which cures Cancers, Tumors and all malignant growths, without the necessity of operation. It is a simple vegetable medicine that searches out and destroys the cancer growths, completely eradicates the disease, and at the same time, builds up and invigorates the system.

Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., will be pleased to send full particulars of this treatment, in a plain sealed wrapper.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by The Times.

NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to contribute items of news to its columns. Anything that is phoned or sent in writing to the office, of a nature suitable for publication, will be received and published.—Ed Times.]

—The Ashburnham Civic Association will meet this evening in the Town Hall Ashburnham.

—The regular meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery will be held at Port Hope to-day.

—Otonabee Lodge, No. 18, I.O.O.F., celebrated its nineteenth anniversary with an "at home" last night.

—The walking was decidedly bad yesterday morning, in consequence of the pavements being covered with ice.

—Prof. O'Brien has removed from Reid street, to No. 263 Hunter street terrace, near railway crossing.

—The County Court and General Sessions of the Peace, open to-day before His Honor Judge Weller.

—At the police court yesterday morning a case of indecent exposure came up for hearing and was enlarged until this morning.

—The price of cheese has advanced since the factories closed, the demand being good at 11 cents. What is now in stock is being held with the expectation of the price being higher.

—Have your Xmas photos taken at Whiten's as soon as possible, if you want them finished before the holidays. Studio corner George and Hunter streets, west side.

—The Bank of Commerce will be opened from nine until 10 o'clock on the evening of the Saturday before Christmas and also on Christmas Eve, for the convenience of customers desiring to make deposits.

—Murray Street Church will give a social next Friday evening, Dec. 13, to the members of the church and congregation. No charge. Supper will be served at seven o'clock. Come promptly. You will be sure to enjoy yourselves.

—Lindsay town council is preparing to submit to the ratepayers in January the question of the purchase by the town of waterworks. The engineer has made an estimate of the value of the plant. A member of the committee having the matter in charge states it is probable the town and company will be able to agree upon a price and thus save the costs of an arbitration.

—The following appeared in the report of the Orillia Town Council meeting: The offer of the Canadian General Electric Company to supply the town with two constant current transformers and 50 series alternating current enclosed arc-lights was accepted and the mayor will sign the contract for the same, price [illegible] f.o.b., Peterborough, the company to provide an expert to superintend the installation of the plant.

—They do not appear to be very liberal with their oysters at the church socials down Cobourg way. The Post says: "The Rev. J. W. Pedley, of Toronto, formerly of Cobourg, has joined the crusade against gambling in that city. He is reported as being very emphatic in his denunciation of those who play the game, by declaring there is no heaven for the gambler. We may be pardoned for asking the reverend gentleman how a distinction is to be made between the church oyster social and a raffle for a turkey? The participants of both play a game of chance—one for the oyster, the other for the turkey."

Purse Lost

Lost on Friday evening last somewhere on the street, a small purse, containing a sum of money, all in bills. The finder will be liberally rewarded by leaving it at James Lynch's drug store.

A Small Blaze

Last night shortly after eight o'clock the Fire Brigade was called out to extinguish a fire which had started at the "Bee-Hive" on George street. It was not found necessary, however, to turn the water on, as a couple of pails of water soon put it out. The damage done is slight.

Prof. O'Brien's Success

The success which is attending the visit of Prof. O'Brien to Peterborough, is phenomenal. His wonderful palm-reading has dissipated all scepticism regarding his knowledge of the science of palmistry. Those who have visited him speak in terms of praise of his work. Prof. O'Brien comes to Peterborough well recommended, and his stay has been continued on account of the large business accorded to him. As will be seen by the advertisement in another column, he has removed his residence to the terrace on Hunter street, just west of the railway crossing.

Room for Christmas

By Our Junior Reporter.

We eat Thanksgiving Turkey
'Till all han's had their fill,
But bless the Goodness Gracious,
There's room for Christmas still!

We roast him to contentment,
And carve him fit to kill;
But—glory halleluia,
There's room for Christmas still!

And all the country's happy
And waiting with a will,
To join that ringing chorus—
There's room for Christmas still!

A Fine Elevator

The Globe says that the contract has just been let to the Macdonald Engineering Co. by the American Cereal Co., Peterborough, for the construction here of one of the finest grain elevators in the Dominion. It will cost $100,000, will have capacity of half a million bushels, and will be ready by July 1st, 1902. It will be semi-fire-proof, faced with brick and steel, and the electrical machinery will be capable of handling 100 carloads of grain per day.

Bobcaygeon Lock Record

Lockmaster Walter, of Bobcaygeon, has totalled up the business for the season, which was a short one, owing to repairs having delayed the opening, while navigation closed about two weeks earlier than usual. The record is as follows: Steamers, 338; scows, 227; cribs, 225; total, 900 lockages. The report of Mr. Wm. McIntosh, lockmaster at Rosedale, shows: Steamers, 553; small boats, 67; scows, 79; rafts, 237; total, 882, as against 636 in 1900. The steamers carried 2,500 passengers.

Wedding Bell.

Lakefield News.—A very interesting event took place on Wednesday evening of last week at the residence of Mr. Robert Gilroy. This was no less than the marriage of his daughter Miss Minnie to Mr. G. Gilbert Gordon of Lakefield. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. J. Bridgeman. As the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Stubbs were heard, the bride, gowned in white organdie, trimmed with satin ribbon, worn over white Roman satin, and carrying a shower bouquet of white chrysanthemums, carnations and smilax, entered the room, leaning on the arm of her father. The bride was assisted by Miss Mary Gordon a sister of the groom. She was dressed in white organdie with valenciennes lace worn over pink and carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums and smilax. The groom was assisted by Mr. J. J. Blewett. After the wedding supper the evening was spent in a social manner. The bride was the recipient of a number of useful and valuable presents. We wish the young couple many years of health, happiness and prosperity.

MISCHIEF MAKER.

A Surprise in Brooklyn.

An adult's food that can save a baby proves itself to be nourishing and easily digested and good for big and little folks. A Brooklyn man says: "When baby was about eleven months old he began to grow thin and pale. This was, at first, attributed to the heat and the fact that his teeth were coming, but, in reality, the poor little thing was starving, his mother's milk not being sufficient nourishment.

One day after he had cried bitterly for an hour, I suggested that my wife try him on Grape-Nuts. She soaked two teaspoonfuls in a saucer with a little sugar and warm milk. This baby ate so ravenously that she fixed a second which he likewise finished. It was not many days before he forgot all about being nursed, and has since lived almost exclusively on Grape-Nuts. To-day the boy is strong and robust, and as cute a mischief-maker as a thirteen months old baby is expected to be.

We have put before him other foods, but he will have none of them, evidently preferring to stick to that which did him so much good in his time of need—his old friend Grape-Nuts.

Use this letter any way you wish, for my wife and I can never praise Grape-Nuts enough after the brightness it has brought to our household. These statements can be verified by anyone who wishes to make a visit to our home." F. F. McElroy, 250 So. 3rd St. Brooklyn, N. Y.

GrapeNuts is not made for a baby food, but experience with thousands of babies shows it to be among the best, if not entirely the best in use. Being a scientific preparation of Nature's grains, it is equally effective as a body and brain builder for grown ups.

A Golfing Story.

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—As you have asked for contributions on all manner of subjects, I send you the following:

A well known Scotch "meenister" took up golf, and, despite great practice, could not succeed in passing the tyro stage. His simple exclamations of "Tut, tut!" "Oh, dear, now!" "Well well!" and the like, were plain evidences of a perturbed spirit.

One day, when the perspiration flowed freely from his lofty brow and his honest countenance shone with a lustre and radiance which, alas! was not due to calmness of soul, but rather the heat of the sun and his laborious efforts to move the obstinate gutta-percha from its station on the tee, he was tempted to indulge in strong language.

"Dear, dear, but I'll have to gie it up, I'll have to gie it up!" he said at last, with a despairing look at the ball.

"Give up the game, Mr. D——!" exclaimed his friend, who had been a witness of his attempts.

"Na, na, the meenistry," answered the other, with a sigh.

The Proposal Condemned.

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir, While I am in favor of the Town acquiring a water-works system of its own, I am decidedly against the present proposal on many grounds, three of which I will merely mention:

First, the water is bad, and as I believe, the cause of so much typhoid fever, which has given our otherwise healthy town an unenviable notoriety. Besides what we have seen with the naked eye, one needs but to submit one drop of it to a microscopic test to be convinced that it is both meat and drink.

Second, it was a matter of public notoriety that when the pipes were laid, they were of inferior quality, and it was freely predicted by those who professed to know that they would only last for about the time they have now been used, and as a matter of fact we know that their bursting is a common occurrence. At no time is the danger so great as when high pressure is needed for the purpose of extinguishing fires. It is of the utmost importance that such danger should not exist, as otherwise the loss which will probably result to the town some day in consequence will be immeasurably greater than the cost of a proper system of water-works.

Third, the price proposed is too much, and far above the proper value. By the time the old pipes are replaced by good ones, as will become necessary at an early day, the system will have cost us much more than a new one inaugurated by the Council and constructed of the best material, without taking into consideration the unfitness of the present water for drinking purposes.

The Council should take the public into their confidence and let us know who negotiated with the Company, and how they arrived at the amount. As stated by his Lordship Chief Justice Meredith, in a case tried here recently, it is the bounden duty of the agent to disclose all matters to his principal, having any bearing on the transaction." Here the public is the principal and the Council, the agent or servant of the people who are paramount.

Alive, Yet Half Dead.

Feeling miserable. This is the condition of thousands of growing girls and women. Can't eat enough to be truly alive. Digest so little of what they do eat, as to scarcely know what life really means. Miserable? Of course. Eat more, digest more, then feel streaming through life's renewed current, the buoyancy, the strength the hopefulness of youth. Simply done if you'll just Ferrozone, the wonderful blood maker, nerve strength and brain vigor. Ormond & Walsh druggist know all about it. Call and ask them about it.

A New Turn in Life

"I have taken a new turn in life," says a well known Ottawa lady. "After using that marvellous health breakfast cereal, Malt Breakfast Food for nearly four months, I have gained ten pounds in weight and feel more active and stronger than ever before. It is the only breakfast food that has quite agreed with my weak digestion." This is encouraging information for men and women weak and rundown and subject to stomach troubles. Malt Breakfast Food is guaranteed to contain more nutriment for the body and nerves than any other food on the market. Try it for a week. Your Grocer sells it.

Peterborough Market.

Cobourg Post:—Last week we were informed by a gentleman from near Harwood, that during the past season $35,000 worth of stock and grain was shipped by boat from Harwood to Peterborough. This is a creditable showing for the narrow strip along the lake west and east of Harwood. It greatly helped to swell the market receipts of Peterborough, and affords considerable business for the boats plying on Rice Lake. Up to the time the Harwood railroad was running, all the produce raised along the south shore of Rice Lake was brought to Cobourg and disposed of here. Prices were better and are better to-day, so far as grain is concerned, but it requires so much time to team the stock and produce to Cobourg, that farmers would rather sell at Harwood. At least this applies to stock. On Saturday grain was bringing from one to two cents more in Cobourg than in Harwood and with such an advantage here there is no reason why there should not be a large quantity brought to this town during the next few months. If our citizens would bestir themselves there is no reason why the old road should not be put in operation again. The receipts would go considerably over the expenses and prove a paying investment if only a small freight was charged. Let our business men consider this scheme and try to put it in operation. Cobourg should be the market for all the produce of this section.

ST. LUKE'S MISSION

Large Congregations At the Three Services Yesterday

The services which are being conducted by Rev. Mr. Murphy, in St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, are being largely attended. Yesterday prayer meeting was held at 12 o'clock, children's service at 4.15 and evangelistic services at 7.45. The children's meeting was large attended, over 100 being present. The Missioner spoke on the subject of sin, and in eloquent and impressive words, pointed out the degrading characteristics of sin, and the way to overcome it through our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. In the evening the subject was "Sampson and Delilah."

To-day three services will be held—one in the vestry at 12.30, one at 4.15, and the evangelistic services at 7.45, when Rev. Mr. Murphy will preach on the subject of the "Grace of God." The evening service will be preceded by a service of song. The public are cordially invited to all the services.

Mr D. McLachlan, Chatham, Ont:

Dear Friend: It is impossible for me to find words in which to express my appreciation of your institution, as I consider the time and money spent in learning the art of Bookkeeping and Shorthand has more than amply repaid me both financially and beneficially. I owe my present position and the success that I am now enjoying to the thorough training I received in your college. I find in my experience that the most essential element in business is to understand bookkeeping, and I can candidly say that I have had no difficulty whatever in handling a set of books.

To young men or women who desire to fit themselves for responsible positions, I would recommend them by all means to take a course through your institution. With best wishes for your success, I remain

Professor O'Brien

CANADA'S GREATEST PHRENOLOGIST and the only recognised SCIENTIFIC PALMIST (by law) has removed to 263 Hunter st. Terrace, near railway crossing. See name in window. As Professor O'Brien is a very busy man, he will not be able to leave Peterboro for a few days yet. The more people he examines the more he has to examine, which fact alone speaks for his ability and the esteem and popularity he has gained during his short stay in Peterboro. It will be well for skeptics of either science to investigate before condemning either Phrenology or Scientific Palmistry. The latter should not be connected with the common fortune-telling. Professor O'Brien has proved in open court before Crown witnesses at the Toronto General Sessions, March 14th, 1901, that Palmistry as demonstrated by him is a pure science and has no connection with the so-called fortune-telling. Anyone wishing to be enlightened on the science should call on Professor O'Brien, who will be pleased to explain his scientific methods.

Yearns to See Oom P. Kruger Dancing on John Bull's Chest

PRAYED THAT GOD MIGHT STRENGTHEN BOERS

An Excited Irish Member of Parliament Shrieks that the Transvaalers are Giving Britain a Great Whaling

London, Dec. 10.—A telegram from Dublin to The Times says Mr. H. K. Redmond, M.P., speaking at a Gorey, County Wexford, meeting of the United Irish League, said there never was a time when there were better chances that at present to strike a blow for Ireland. Thanks be to God, they had lived to see the days when John Bull has been caught by the throat by men in South Africa, who were giving him the greatest whaling he ever got. Redmond said he prayed God might strengthen the Boers until they danced on John Bull's chest.

Prince Consort Shot Von Tets

The Hague, Dec. 10.—The duel between Prince Henry, husband of Queen Wilhelmina, and G. J. Van Tets, was the result of a scene at the dinner-table. The Prince was the challenger yet he insisted upon making the choice of weapons, and decided on pistols, as he is a better shot than swordsman. A shooting party was especially arranged to cover the meeting and afford a pretext for going away from the Palace. The Queen suspected his intention and implored the Prince to decline to fight, but he brusquely refused to do so. It was while awaiting the result of the duel that the Quen fell ill. Van Tets was wounded in the stomach. The ball was located, a surgical operation was found necessary, and it was successfully performed. Van Tets' condition was hopeful last night, but morphine had to be injected, which is considered a bad sign. His three brothers were summoned to the Palace and saw the Queen. Although they consider the wound was fairly inflicted, serious trouble will arise if Van Tets dies.

BRITAIN STRIKES BACK AT HOSTILE GERMANY

SAY GERMANY IS BANKRUPT

The Hostility of Germany Has Made Chamberlain the Most Popular Man in England

London, Dec. 11.—The bitter attacks on Chamberlain by the German press has made the Colonial secretary immensely popular in England. If the outburst means anything, it means that Britain and Russia stand closer together than at any time during the past 100 years. An agitation has been started in England to get back at the Germans with a blow below the belt. This takes the form of broadcast publication of articles upon "Trade Depression in Germany." Every attempt is made to show that Germany is commercially going into bankruptcy; that her banks are weak; her factories closing; her home made diminishing, and everything in a bad business way generally.

Here is an extract from one of these English articles: "In the course of the past eighteen months a great and somewhat sudden change has come over the position of German trade and industry. Less than two years ago the Fatherland was creating for itself fresh records in many spheres of business activity; was coining new compound nouns to express the achievements of a new commercial era; was flushed with the excitement of a boom such as Germany had never seen before. To-day she is visited by a malaise which likewise has no precedent in the annals of German commerce; by a reaction as acute and painful as the boom was intense and marvelous," etc.

To all of which the Germans reply with fresh attacks on British politics and trade, saying both are going to ruin as fast as they can. In former years such diatribes were heard only between England and France, but now the Frenchmen are rubbing their hands with glee and urging on the new combatants, both her deadly enemies, to destroy each other. It is often said that the Kaiser is the only friend England has in Germany, but so strong has been the Anglophobe agitation in his own country that he has not yet deemed it advisable to go against public sentiment.

FORAGE AT BLOOMFONTEIN.

A Huge Stack of Hay Stored for the British Army.

Bloemfontein, Dec. 11.—Here is something extraordinary in the haystack line. The hay was gathered at Bloemfontein for the use of the horses belonging to the British army in South Africa. The length of the stack was 100 feet, the breadth 55 feet and its height 40 feet. The total number of bales was 17,404, and the total net weight 1,740,400 pounds.

Deaf as a Door Nail

AFTER THE WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

New Ports to be Established to Facilitate Trage.

VAST SUMs OF MONEY REQUIRED

Harbors and Docks to be Built to provide Room for the Great Rush that is sure to Follow the Close of the War.

New York, Dec. 11.—All merchants who have business relations in South Africa will be glad to hear the news cabled, that the British intend to establish two new ports in that region. The greatest impediment in the way of trade with South Africa is its poor harbors. It is no exaggeration to say that there is scarcely a natural harbor deserving the name and fit to hold vessels of deep draught excepting Saldanha Bay on the west and Delagoa Bay on the east coast. Table Bay, the port of Cape Town, has been made fairly secure only after a vast expenditure of money and labor; but the possible accommodations there are altogether too small for the future trade. At Port Elizabeth large sums of money, which might just as well have been thrown into the sea, have been spent on harbor works. Though Port Elizabeth is commercially more important than any other port of South Africa, except for the export trade in gold and diamonds, which is controlled by Cape Town, the largest vessels are not able to enter the port; and with an exposure to the southeast, the stormy quarter, vessels are sometimes unable to enter for days. East London, a little further east, the second port of South Africa in exports of wool, is even worse off than Port Elizabeth. A great deal of money has been spent to clear the mouth of the Buffalo River, but the bar is continually reforming and the port will always be very poor.

It is difficult to enter the river, and the sea in front of it is simply a roadstead. Durban stands on a large landlocked bay, but the harbor is shallow and there is no prospect that it will ever be adapted for the larger shipping. Of course, Delagoa Bay is the finest natural harbor in Africa, though if it were not for British and Dutch capital very little would have been done to make Lorenzo Marques an important port. The Portuguese have taken only a small part in its development.

Prominent men of South Africa, including the Secretary of Agriculture of Cape Colony, have just bought the lands surrounding Saldanha Bay, on the Atlantic Ocean, about sixty miles north of Cape Town. This is a fine natural harbor, the bay being securely landlocked, and it may be entered in any state of the weather. The difficulty has been that it lies out of the track of vessels, has no railroad connection with the interior and lacks a good water supply. One of the first things that will be done will be to connect this new port by rail with the line running north from Cape Town, and it is expected to make the port the very best in British South Africa.

The other port that is now being taken in hand is that of St. John's, on the coast of Kaffraria, in the eastern part of Cape Colony. Behind it is one of the most fertile parts of South Africa. Its importance will be mainly local, but the improvements there will tend to enhance the development of Kaffraria.

SAYS HE SAVED THE NATIHN

Old Negro Preacher Declares He Balked Lee's Plans.

Freehold, N. J., Dec. 11.—The Rev. Dr. John W Leekines, a colored Methodist preacher of this place, has prepared a petition to Congress in which he declares that he saved Baltimore and Washington from capture in the Civil War and that by revealing to the authorities information accidentally acquired by him he prevented the Confederates from striking a deathblow to the Republic. Dr. Leekines asks for remuneration from the Government for property which he had to leave in Baltimore through making enemies by his disclosures. The petition is signed by many reputable business men of Freehold, and will be forwarded to Congress shortly.

In 1863, Dr. Leekines declares, he was a waiter in the Fountain Hotel in Baltimore. One evening, according to his affidavit, a man named Spates and a friend came in late to tea and Leekines waited on them. Spates took out two passes, which he handed to his friend to read. One was from a General in the Confederate Army and the other from Gen. Lee. Spates said he had seen Lee, who told him that he was going to endeavor to capture Washington. Spates, however, had shown Lee that Washington was too strongly fortified and Lee had changed his plans. He decided first to attack Baltimore, and, after seizing the city, to attack Washington. Spates, said that Lee had also determined to attack Harrisburg, Pa., if his plans succeeded, and that he might attack Harrisburg in any event so as to draw troops from Washington.

Next morning Dr. Leekines says he went to Col. Hoffman, Collector of the Custom House at Baltimore, and told him what he had heard. Col. Hoffman had officers put upon Spates's trail he was arrested and the two passes and other papers taken from him. Spates was then sent to Fort McHenry, and Dr. Leekines does not know what became of him. Martial law was proclaimed in Baltimore, its garrison was strengthened, and Lee, finding the city prepared, did not attack it, but went toward Harrisburg, and the Battle of Gettysburg followed. In consequence of divulging his information Dr. Leekines declared that his life was jeopardized in the city. He says that while martial law was in effect no colored man was permitted to leave the city. He made repeated attempts to get away, and finally succeeded in reaching Philadelphia. For $2,000 or $3,000 worth of property left behind him he asks compensation.

Dr. Leekines has prepared a second petition to Congress asking that a monument be erected in his honor by the nation in consideration of his service in balking Lee at such a critical stage of the war.

Acute and Chronic Rheumatism are equally influenced by the almost magical pain-subduing power of Polson's Nerviline, equal in medicinal value to five times the quantity of any other rheumatic remedy. Nerviline cures because it reaches the source of the disease and drives it out of the system. Nerviline is an unusually good rheumatic cure, and makes many unusual cures. Just rub it in the next time you have an attack. The immediate result will surprise you. 25c.

THE COUNTY COURT

Opened Yesterday at the Court House Before His Honor Judge Weller

The County Court of the County of Peterborough and the General Sessions of the Peace opened yesterday afternoon before his Honour Judge Weller. There is only one criminal case for disposal and there are four civil actions, one of which will be tried by the Jury.

When his Honour entered the court room at one o'clock, the following represenattives of the bar were in attendance: County Crown Attorney R. E. Wood, D. W. Dumble, R. M. Dennistoun, R. R. Hall, D. O'Connell, F. D. Kerr and George E. Sherry and W. A. F. Campbell, of Norwood.

THE GRAND JURY.

The Grand Jury was empannelled as follows:

B. W. Grubbe, banker, Peterborough, foreman; D. H. Burritt, gentleman, Peterborough; Duncan Cameron, cutter, Peterborough; Jas. W. Dawson, farmer, Monaghan; Hamilton Humphries, farmer, Dummer; Isaac Lean, farmer, Burleigh; Wm. Purdy, farmer, Belmont; Jas. Roberts, farmer, Smith; Jacob Snelgrove, farmer, Smith; R. N. Scott, farmer, Smith; Thos. Borland, farmer, Otonabee.

His Honour Judge Weller in addressing the Grand Jury said that in the choice they had seen fit to make in the selection of their foreman, he was quite satisfied that the duties would be carefully performed. The docket showed that there was not much crime apparently existing in the county, as there was only one criminal case for them to consider. There was no one confined in the gaol awaiting trial, but there was one young man who was out on bail; he was charged with perjury. Perjury, his Honour explained, was the making of a false statement, either in writing or verbally, knowing such to be false, in the hope that it may deceive some person or some court. The accused in this case is charged with making a certain statement in evidence before the Hon. Mr. Justice Falconbridge, at the recent non-jury sittings. They will have to ascertain whether he made such a statement, whether such a statement is true, but the petit jury will determine whether or not complainant knew this to be false.

His Honour also reviewed the duties which the jury might perform in the matter of visiting the public institutions.

UNITED STATES POSED AS FRIEND OF CHINA

Report as to Pekin Negotiations Shows That the Americans Opposed Stringency

Washington, Dec. 10.—The long expected report of Special Commissioner Rockhill, to the secretary of State, on the results of his work in connection with the Chinese negotiations in Pekin has been submitted to Congress. Mr. Rockhill thus summarizes the results in addressing Secretary Hay:—

"Throughout the negotiations our object was to use the influence of our Government in the interest of justice, ada moderations, and in a spirit of equal friendship to the powers negotiating jointly with us and the Chinese nation.

"As regards the punishment of the responsible authors and actual perpetrators of the anti-foreign outrages the Government of the United States, while insisting that all such should be held to the utmost accountability declined to determine in every case the nature of the punishment to be inflicted, and maintained that the Chinese Government itself would in all cases carry them out.

"As soon as the chief culprits had been punished, considering the terrible losses of life and property sustained by Chinese not only through the Boxers, and their adherents, but by the destruction of Tien Tsin, Peking and the military occupation of a large portion of the Province of Chili, the United States threw the weight of its influence on the side of moderation, and the prevention of further bloodshed. To this it was mainly due that the long lists of proscription which had been prepared by the representatives of the powers of Chinese in the provinces charged with participation in the massacres or riots, were repeatedly revised before presentation to the Chinese Government. The demands for capital punishment were finally reduced from ten to four, and many names erroneously or insufficient evidence placed on the lists, were removed are lighter forms of punishment asked for numbers of those left on them.

AGAINST OCCUPATION.

"While seeking with the other powers the best means to prevent the recurrence of such troubles and to guard in the future American residents in Pekin from such dangers as they had passed through, the United States did not lend its support to any plan which contemplated either the prolonged occupation by foreign troops or any portions or points in China, or the creation of an international fort in the city of Pekin, from which to carry on friendly relations with the Chinese Government. Our policy has always been in favor of a strong, independent and responsible Chinese Government, which can and will be held accountable for the maintainance of order and the protection of our citizens and their rights under the treaties. Throughout the negotiations we strictly adhered to this just principle with results which have proved beneficial to all.

AS TO INDEMNITY.

"As regards the third point of the negotiations the equitable indemnification of the various states for the losses and expenses incurred by them in China, and in sending expeditionary forces to relieve the legations and foreign residents at Pekin and restore order and upo the securing of indemnities to societies, companies and individuals for their private losses through the anti-foreign riots the Government of the United States advocated that the sum total of these indemnities should not exceed a reasonable amount well within the power of China to pay. After careful inquiry, you reached the conclusion that with her present resources and liabilities China could not pay as indemnities to the powers more than two hundred millions of dollars, and that the exaction of any larger amount would not only entail permanent financial embarrassment on the country but might possibly result in either international financial control, or even loss of territory.

"Though it became necessary after protracted discussion in the conference to accept the proposition of the other powers to demand of China the sum total of their losses and disbursements, reaching the enormous sum of $333,000,000, our insistence in pressing for a much lower sum and the weight of the arguments adduced in favor of such a policy, resulting in closing the indemnities at the above lump sum when they bid fair to go on swelling indefinitely. This and the acceptance of your suggestion that the indemnities be paid in bonds issued at par, and bearing a low rate of interest four per cent. was finally agreed upon, and running for forty years resulted in saving a vast sum to China, hastened the evacuation of the country by the expeditionary forces, and the restoration of order and of normal relations with the Chinese Government.

"In connection with the question of the indemnity I should particularly mention that it having proved necessary to the Powers in their search for revenues applicable to the service of the indemnity debt, that the existing nominal five per cent ad valorem customs tariff on foreign imports should be made an effective five per cent ad valorem the United States declined to consent to the above increase of the customs tariff on imports unless:

"1. All the treaty powers and China agreed to co-operate in the long desired improvement of the water approaches to Shanghai and Tien Tsin, and

"2. Specific duties should be substituted for the present ad valorem ones in the tariff on foreign imports. Both of these conditions were ultimately agreed upon.

NO DIVERGENCE.

"No divergence of views existed fortunately between the representatives of the powers on the question of improving the channels of direct communication between them and the Chinese Government. The long vexed question of the ceremonial to be observed in the public audiences granted by the Emperor of China to foreign representatives was finally settled by the plenipotentiaries on lines perfectly satisfactory to all parties to the negotiations. The Tsung-Li-Yamen, or Bureau of Foreign Affairs, which the experience of forty years had shown Chinese and foreigners alike was unwieldy and incapable of discharging the duties devolving upon it, was altered in the way suggested by the conference changed into a responsible ministry of foreign affairs, and organized on lines similar to those adopted in every other country of the world.

"Such, in brief, has been the role played by the United States in the conference of Peking. While we maintained complete independence we were able to act harmoniously in the concert of powers, the existence of which was so essential to a prompt and peaceful settlement of the situation, we retained the friendship of all the negotiating powers, exerted a salutory influence in the cause of moderation humanity, and justice, secured adequate reparation for wrongs done our citizens, guarantees for their future protection and labored successfully in the interests of the whole world in the cause of equal and impartial trade with all parts of the Chinese Empire."

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Vienna, Dec. 10.—It has just been reported that Russia is quietly constructing two more strategic railways to the Austrian frontier, by means of which the mobilization and concentration of troops, from the extreme North and extreme South of the Russian Empire, on the confines of Galicia, could be hastened by fully five days. Both lines, it is said, will be finished by February next.

In connection with the above information, it is worth knowing that, only a few days ago, there was an interesting debate in the Servian Senate, started by an interpretation about affairs in old Servia. During the discussion the Servian Prime Minister, Dr. Vuitch, stated that his Government had asked for the intervention of Russian diplomacy at the Porte, and that the energetic action of the Russian Ambassador, M. Zinovieff had put an end to the domiciliary searches and the imprisonment of Servians; the removal of the Mutessarif of Pristina being also due to Russian intervention. In reply to a question by M. Nikolaievitch as to what Russia had demanded or obtained from Servia for the assistance thus rendered, the Prime Minister said, "Nothing whatever"; and the debate closed with an unanimous vote of the Senate expressing thanks to the Czar.

Not so very long ago, little Servia would have appealed to Austrian diplomacy for such assistance; but now it goes to Russia as a matter of course, and Russia intervene accordingly, without asking a price or reward, though later on she will present the bill. It is the same in the case of Bulgaria. In short, Austria-Hungary has lost her former influence in the Balkans, though the Vienna Neue Freie Presse, which is so sensitive that it hears the cries of the children inth e Boer confentration camps, is deaf to the noise of plate-laying on the Russian stagetic railways near Galicia, and to what is said in the Servian Senate.

London, Dec. 11.—King Edward is now an enthusiastic motorist. His majesty, seated by his driver, in a sumptuously equipped motor is a familiar figure on the roads about Sandringham. This makes him the victim of kodak fiends, who are anxious to sell his picture in this position to the newspapers and magazines.

The horseless vehicles now owned by the king are numerous and represent nearly half a million dollars in value. Some of these are gifts from friends and enterprising manufacturers, others were acquired outright by the royal purse.

Strange to say the king's favorite motor is a French machine. In this he has travelled thousands of miles in England and on the continent. During his visit at the court of his father-in-law, the King of Denmark, this fall, he terrorized the natives by his flying trips through the peaceful country.

His majesty does not drive himself, but he thoroughly understands the mechanism of a motor car, and takes great pride in the prowess of Mr. Letzer, his driver. Some time ago when the king was driving with a couple of friends from Sandringham to Wolferton station, a distance of about three miles, the king told his driver to show his guests just what a motor could do. The distance was covered in five minutes, and as the car arrived at the station gates the king exclaimed to his friends: "Now watch Letzer just miss the gateposts and Letzer just miss the gateposts and pull up," an order which Mr. Letzer fulfilled to the letter.

Queen Alexandra is almost as fond as motoring as her husband, but she does not care about it in the crowded streets of London, and is not likely to be seen driving in her own motor in Hyde park. When she is at Sandringham, however, it is different. There she enjoys the amusement of motoring, and very often takes charge of the steering wheel herself, having become an expert driver in a very short time. She can go with ease to places like Hunstanton and Holkham, which were otherwise only approachable by train, and a visit to Lord and Lady Farquhar at Castle Rising is within an afternoon's drive. The motor which her majesty favors at present is a victoriette seated for two.

IMPERIAL MISSIONS.

London, Dec. 10.—The Bishop of London, speaking on mission work within the empire at Exeter Hall, urging that the future of the Empire depended on what was now done. The British Empire must either be a great blessing or blessing or it would be a great curse. Our trade often brought what was injurious, and if we were to be proud of our flag we must carry with it the banner of the Cross.

IS RUSSIA NOW RIPE FOR OPEN REBELLION?

Everything Points to a Serious Condition of Affairs in the Czar's Dominions

THE POLES ARE URGED TO STRIKE AT ONCE

Reasons Why Grave Fears are Entertained for the Future—The Feeling of Unrest Increasing Amongst the Working Classes

London, Dec. 11.—The Svet, of St. Petersburg, publishes an article on the recent Polish Agitation. It urges the Austrian Poles to rise in their might and resent the outrages committed by the Germans in Posen. The harshness of these German proceedings says the Svet, will cause the Poles to remember that they are a Slav people, and that the laws of nature call them to join the other branches of the race in the struggle against a common enemy.

"A common enemy" is the German. Along with this is cabled a short paragraph to the effect that the Minister of Instruction at St. Petersburg had resigned his office, as the outcome of the interposition of the Minister of the Interior in the student troubles, "the Czar having approved of the latter's policy of severity." This refers to the terrible riots of last spring and summer, which appear to have been of a very fierce political character. What the "severity" of punishment was has never been very fully explained by the Russian press, over which a rigid censorship exists, but enforced military service was one of its forms. The public journals are not allowed to speak out plainly concerning home affairs, but as an offset have the fullest liberty of utterance on foreign politics, and the bolder they speak out in that direction the better they are appreciated, if in so doing the attention of the masses is taken away from domestic ways, and methods. For this reason the reports in Russian journals of the disturbances last summer were not seriously regarded. But a strong light was thrown upon the underlying causes of the riots, by an article in the New York Independent by one of the Russians themselves, and a thoroughly reliable writer, J. W. Bienstock a member of the St. Petersburg bar, legal adviser to the Russian Embassy at Paris, and correspondent of journals in Moscow and St Petersburg. The statements of a trained observer and a member of the official class, especially when they are so plain and emphatic as those of M. Bienstock, clearly deserve attention such as those of no foreigner could claim.

M. Bienstock describes two sorts of disturbances, those among the students due to the application of the edict which punishes them for disorder by sending them to serve in the army, and those due to the discontent of the workingmen in the industrial establishments. He notes as very significant that, contrary to all previous experience, the workmen have sympathized with the students, in the recent troubles, and have shared with them the brutality of the police and the Cossacks. He points out that the edict as to the students and the army was strongly opposed by the Grand Dukes Vladimir and Alexis, the brothers of the Emperor, and the Grand Dukes Michael and Nicholas, his uncles; by several of the Ministers, and denounced as "cruel and unjust" by M. Witte, the Minister of Finance. It originated with the Procureur-General of the Holy Synod. The worst features of the policy are that it visits the same penalty on all students without regard to their offense, that it degrades the army by making service penal, and, most significant of all, that it tends to the spread of revolutionary ideas through the propaganda of the condemned students. In connection with this latter fact M. Bienstock refers to the part taken by the students in the revolutionary movements in Italy, Spain, Germany and Austria from 1848 on. The resistance of the students to the authorities has led to violence in Moscow, Kiev, Kharkov, Odessa, Kazan, Ivanoff, and in Vosnieznsk, the "Manchester of Russia." In all these places the workingmen have fraternized with the students.

Of the temper of the workingmen M. Bienstock cites evidence in the occurrence of some 3,000 strikes in two years, although strikes are absolutely illegal, and no organization of workingmen is permitted under Russian law. And he adds:

Educated to revolutionary ideas, which the Russian Nihilists have brought them during the past twenty years, "going among the people," as they say in Russia, disguising themselves in order to enter the shops as workmen, this discontented mass are nearly ready to come out in the street and ally themselves to any revolutionary movement. That is precisely what took place last year. For the first time intellect and labor, oppressed by the same yoke, found themselves side by side, united for one object.

Nor is the menace confined to the students and the workingmen. The army is affected. In spite of formal orders, in the recent troubles officers have refused to fire on the people.

If the present manifestations cannot be called revolution, because the people still lack chiefs capable of directing their movements, it is in any case, a great awakening of public opinion in Russia. It is the manifestation of a state of mind full of menace, the sowing of seed which will find a soil everywhere, ready, at the top and bottom of the social scale, especially at the bottom. The Russian people are illiterate, it is true, but good sense is well developed among them; they are well prepared by their history and social organization to adopt ideas of liberty.

The latter statement is explained by the peculiar organization of the Russian people in the vast rural regions, in which the village community, the Mir, represents the real authority of justice and government to the peasant mind, while "official Russia, represented by the functionaries of the Czar, his magistrates, his police, his administrators, personifies in the course of centuries of Russian history venality, rapacity and violence." "Beneath, the people are essentially republican and democratic, above is despotism, and the whole administrative organization is dominated by the principle of strict bureaucratic control."

In these conditions M. Bienstock finds justification for the conclusion: "The present troubles have incontestably shown that the civic sentiment has increased among the Russian people. It is not yet formed, the shape of the revolution is not yet determined, but the ground seems ready." He believes that there is yet time for "the autocracy to ward off this revolution by introducing the liberal and necessary reforms which Count Tolstoi has pointed out. But he also believes that, unless this is done, revolution is extremely probable. Such a view from a Russian of his official standing and connection is certainly very significant.

PETERBOROUGH, DECEMBER 11, 1901

THE GERMAN TARIFF WAR

Agricultural Germany, represented by those little squires whom the Emperor finds so troublesome, finding the market created by this new German industrialism so large and so valuable, proposes to hold that market for itself. Obviously, if German industry is to compete with British industry in neutral markets, German workmen should be able to sustain life as cheaply. The landlords care nothing for that. They know their farm products cannot compete with those of America, India and Russia in outside markets, or even in their own, but their own they are bound to have for themselves at all costs. The landlords claim that the great privileges accorded the manufacturing industry by former tariffs have drawn men away from the land and made farm labor dear. And it is openly declared by the advocates of the new duties on foodstuffs that the higher price the artisans will have to pay for bread and meat is designed to remedy this displacement of values. It is the old corn law argument over again.

"A GREAT BURDEN."

Out of the statistical, and technical aridness of the United States Secretary of the Treasury's report stand three facts of living interest:

The Government taxed the people last year $699,316,5330—which is $351,694,626 more than its receipts for the last fiscal year before the Spanish war, 1897.

It spent $621,598,546—which is $255,824,387 more than it spent in 1897.

If taxation were the same now as it was four years ago, and the expenditures had increased to their present figures, instead of reporting a surplus of $77,990,000, the Secretary of the Treasury would have to report a deficit of $273,876,641.

If expenditures were the same as before our colonial experiments and taxation were up to its present height, the report would have been of a surplus of no less than $333,522,371.

No wonder President Roosevelt speaks of the Philippines as "a great burden."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The cowager empress of China announces a suspension of diplomatic business for a week. She probably is taking stock to see what the looters left her to resume housekeeping with.

The dispatches say that the Queen's mother undertook to reconcile the royal pair in The Netherlands, but every mention of her connection with the trouble must arouse the suspicion that it was another case of mother-in-law.

Montreal Star,—The decision against the city in which a lady was awarded damages for injuries sustained by slipping on the sidewalk during a winter day should make people thoughtful. The courts held that although the weather had been very changeable on the day in question the fact that ice had previously been allowed to accumulate there was ground for awarding damages. This conveys a lesson. If the sidewalks be kept clear of ice and snow and then some stress of weather causes an unusually dangerous condition, there may be some chance of escaping payment of damages. Where the ice is allowed to remain, bad weather is not accepted as an excuse.

Strong Men.

The Roman soldiers, who built such wonderful roads and carried a weight of armor that would crush the average farm-hand, lived on coarse brown bread and sour wine. They were temperate in diet and regular in exercise, says the "Scientific American." The Spanish peasant works every day and dances half the night, yet eats only his black bread, onion and watermelon. The Smyrna porter eats only a little fruit and sour olives, yet he walks off with his load of one hundred pounds. The coolie, fed on rice, is more active and can endure more than the negro, fed on fat meat.

The Reason.

She—Why do poets wear their hair so long?

He—Barbers, as a usual thing, won't cut hair for nothing.

Forbidden.

(Triolet fort irregulier.)

She:
You have kissed me once more!
It's forbidden; how dare you?

He:
Since when, and what for?
So I kiss you once more.

She:
I command! I implore!
Once again and beware, you—

He:
Then thrice, if once more
Be forbidden—

She:
How dare you?

Risking Life

To make a living! And we stand and stare up at the man in the clouds, wondering that any man can be so foolhardy. But what of the business man, who has barely time to snatch a hasty meal, and gulps down a lunch of pie and milk in a few minutes? He too, is risking his life to make a living. Life is sustained by food properly digested and assimilated. The result of hasty eating and irregular meals is "weak" stomach, and a "weak" stomach means a weak man. When the stomach is "weak" the food eaten is not properly digested and cannot be perfectly assimilated, so that there is a daily loss of nutrition, which in time will result in physical collapse.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the assimilation of all the nutritive values of the food eaten, and so builds up the body into sound health and strength.

Mr. Ned Nelson, the celebrated Irish Comedian and Mimic, of 377 Royden Street, Camden, N. J., writes: "We fulfilled an engagement of twelve weeks and the constant traveling gave me a bad touch of that dreaded disease called dyspepsia. I had tried everything possible to cure it till last week, while playing at B. F. Keith's Bijou Theater, Philadelphia, in the Nelson Trio, a professional friend of mine advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I tried it, and, thank God, with good results."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure, Send for circulars, free.

Professor O'Brien

CANADA'S GREATEST PHRENOLOGIST and the only recognized SCIENTIFIC PALMIST (by law) has removed to 263 Hunter st. Terrace, near railway crossing. See name in window. As Professor O'Brien is a very busy man, he will not be able to leave Peterboro for a few days yet. The more people he examines the more he has to examine, which fact alone speaks for his ability and the esteem and popularity he has gained during his short stay in Peterboro. It will be well for skeptics of either science to investigate before condemning either Phrenology or Scientific Palmistry. The latter should not be confounded with the common fortune-telling. Professor O'Brien has proved in open court before Crown witnesses at the Toronto General Sessions, March 14th, 1901, that Palmistry as demonstrated by him is a pure science and has no connection with the so-called fortune-telling. Anyone wishing to be enlightened on the science should call on Professor O'Brien, who will be pleased to explain his scientific methods.

The Famous Maelstrom

(Norwegian letter in the Chicago "Record-Herald.")

We sailed through the famous maelstrom, which the ancients believed guards the entrance to the sublimest beauty of the fjords of the Lofoden Islands, and has furnished so much material for the imagination of the authors of Norwegian legendry and modern novelists. It is a reality—not one, but several maelstroms actually exist, and any of them will answer the descriptions given by Victor Hugo, Jules Verne, Edgar A. Poe and writers of lesser fame. The chief and most dangerous is an extraordinary whirlpool between the islands of Moskene and Roest, near the southern extremity of the Lofoden Archipelago. It is called Mosknaes-Strommen. Another, by the island of Vaero, called the Saelstrom, is almost as dangerous. There are many narrow channels between the mountains where great volumes of water, coming from opposite directions, meet as the tide flows in and out. They form temporary whirlpools twice a day, and during the spring tides, or when the natural currents are accelerated by heavy western gales, passage is impossible. No vessel could survive them. Even whales have been caught and whirled around until they were dead. Between times these channels look innocent enough. Even small boats can pass safely through them at the proper time each day, and the departure of the mail boats is regulated accordingly, but they have caused the loss of many lives. Boats have actually disappeared, being sucked into the vortex and carried to the bottom to whirl and whirl and whirl until the waters are tired and flow away, carrying the wrecks and the bodies of the dead with them on the undercurrent, to emerge miles and miles distant.

It is not strange that the ignorant and superstitious sailors of the Middle Ages attributed this mighty and mysterious action of the waters to supernatural power, and their imaginative minds, always creating monsters and miracles out of natural phenomena which they cannot understand, placed in them an octopus, whose awful arms were always extended to grasp unwary mariners who were so unfortunate as to come within his reach. Later writers and more intelligent represented the maelstrom as a vast caldron in which the waters revolve with terrific speed, their centrifugal force extending a long distance, and gradually drawing toward the center all who venture within their power. The mariners struggle and shriek in vain. The monster is inexorable, and when the crisis comes the vessel springs out of the water and then shoots suddenly down into the vortex, while the shrieks of terror and despair are drowned in the rushing of the hungry torrent and the howling of the winds.

The straits are very dangerous, and all vessels are warned to keep out of them. The notes upon the charts issued by the Norwegian hydrographic office say that "when the wind is steady at flood and ebb tide each day, the whirlpool is still for half an hour or more, when boats may then pass through, but half way between flood and ebb tide the passage becomes dangerous, although it can be used by steamers and large vessels, when there is no wind, for several hours a day. Toward the height of the tide, or when a gale is blowing, the water revolves with a speed of twenty-six miles an hour in mighty whirlpools, in which the largest steamers would be helpless."

Concerning King Solomon.

Several statesmen, a newspaper correspondent or two, and a deacon in one of Washington City's churches were discussing various subjects of more or less bearing on a game of poker which had been played earlier in the evening. It was merely a game for fun, out of deference to the deacon, or part of the evening would have been wasted in conversation, and the deacon surprised the assembly.

"Were any of you gentlemen aware," he said, "that King Solomon was a poker-player?"

"He couldn't have been the wisest man if he was," ventured a correspondent who is known for his bad luck.

"There is evidence that he was, just the same," insisted the deacon.

"Evidence or testimony?" queried a statesman, who is also a lawyer.

"What's the difference?" asked a correspondent.

"Testimony is a mere statement, and may be false or true; evidence is that by means of which a fact is established. See?"

"Um—er," hesitated the deacon, "I guess all of you will admit Solomon's testimony as evidence."

"Make it," said the lawyer.

"Well," exclaimed the deacon, "if you will consult the fourth verse of the tenth chapter of Proverbs, written by King Solomon, as announced in the first verse, you will find this statement: 'He becometh poor that dealeth with a slack hand; but the hand of the diligent maketh rich.' Now, what have you got to offer in rebuttal?"

And every man there admitted that Solomon evidently knew what he was talking about.—William J. Lampton.

F. L. Sherwin, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of [illegible] shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offers for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about [illegible] miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one section from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is of 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerites Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.50 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells. It can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns [illegible] acres of white oil land. West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property is the Iola Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., C. O. O. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 400 bbl. white oil gusher) Hermosa White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page [illegible]).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in 1875, and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 8 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from [illegible] to [illegible] feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders [illegible], and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing.

These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.[illegible] to $4.50 per barrel on the field, nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price and stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary propositions that are now being handled in Southern California. The North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect a refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerites Field, as well as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns [illegible] acres of white oil land in the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land has been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in conjunction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as oil experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the entire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & Refining Co.'s lands are in a line with and on the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid revenues. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural petroleum of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining property.

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with maps and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details of these are too lengthy to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any time at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on application. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land and is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as their relation to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. A careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the probability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the business of refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct storage tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, charging therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for the lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in the future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and operated. The profits accruing from both enterprises will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, and a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which will eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. [illegible] acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State."
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast Of North America and South America, Asia and Australia for a market.
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Piple line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th. Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no assessment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this district as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a great deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal investigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve that the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale [illegible] shares of its treasury stock at the low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of erecting a [illegible] barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been started and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high quality will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Colorado Springs, Colo.

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia, Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me [illegible] good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Three boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from [illegible], [illegible] ing not less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. P. Mann, Merlin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James R. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. [illegible] Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Don't Allow Operation for Cancer

There is a simpler, safer and more effective Method of Treatment.

Dr. J. C. Oliver, of Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A., in a paper he read before the Ohio State Medical Society, May 1896, said: "I have operated in a considerable number of cases of Cancer recently, and with one exception all have died within fourteen months after the operation."

This statement of a prominent Surgeon, should make any one suffering from cancer, hesitate before submitting to operation and consider carefully the evidence offered on behalf of the new Constitutional remedy, which cures Cancers, Tumors and all malignant growths, without the necessity of operation. It is a simple vegetable medicine that searches out and destroys the cancer growths, completely eradicates the disease, and at the same time, builds up and invigorates the system.

Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., will be pleased to send full particulars of this treatment, in a plain, sealed wrapper.

East Emily Cheese Factory

A well attended meeting of the patrons of East Emily cheese factory was held on Nov. 27th, for the purpose of winding up the business of the past season. Mr. George Ward was appointed chairman.

The following is the secretary's report of the season's make:

Total lbs. of milk delivered, 1,283,606.
Total lbs. cheese manufactured, 117,683.
Average lbs. milk to lb. of cheese, 10.93.
Average price per lb. cheese 9.11c.
Average net value to patrons per cwt. milk, 78c.
Total value of season's make, $10,711.85.

After being approved by the unanimous vote of the patrons it was moved by Mr. J. T. Switzer, seconded by Mr. W. Sullivan, that the secretary's report be received.—Carried.

Mr. J. R. Boate, on behalf of the patrons, moved a vote of thanks in favor of Mr. W. Deyell, president, and Messrs. J. T. Switzer, T. M. Caldwell, M. O'Donnell, and W. Lowes, directors for their voluntary services in endeavoring to promote the interests of the factory.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Messrs. W. C. Switzer and J. F. Collins for their satisfactory management of the financial affairs of the factory for the past season.

Vaccine Was No Good.

Provincial Health Officer Bryce had a blue report on the smallpox situation to give out this morning. "I am afraid we are in for it," was the way he expressed his apprehensions. In many cases it did not "take," and a lot of it was poor stuff.

Y. M. C. A. EXERCISES

Basket Ball Match and Class Work in Aid of Y. W. C. A.

At the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium last night an exhibition in aid of the gymnasium fund of the Young Women's Christian Association was given by the various classes, under the direction of Mr. Horace E. Ayers, Physical Director.

The balcony was closely packed, and each exercise was eagerly watched by the audience. Those who took part have every reason to be proud of their success.

The programme was opened by a musical selection by the Y.M.C.A. orchestra. This was followed by a military drill and the forming of the letters P.Y.M.C.A. by the senior school boys, showing their excellent training to advantage. The men's class now commenced, and after forming pyramids they showed some difficult work on the horizontal bars, etc. The attention of the audience was next occupied by the first-half of the basket-ball match match between the Intermediates and the Brownies. At the conclusion of this half the game stood 1-0 in favor of the Intermediates. In a wheelbarrow race between the Harriers and Intermediates, the latter finally won, although the first race was a tie. The next part of the programme was advanced apparatus work by the leaders of classes. It was taken part in by Messrs. Trollope, Lord, Finney, Hall, Tait, Anderson, Payne and Sawyers. Their performances were greeted with loud applause by everyone present and their work surpassed the highest expectations of their most enthusiastic admirers. The second half of the basket-ball match was now commenced. The boys were held strictly to the rules of the game, and when time was called the Intermediates were ahead with a score of 4-2. The programme was concluded by the rendering of God Save the King.

Misses Macdonald and Bradd acted as accompanists for the evening.

KATIE WON AGAIN

A Utah Woman's Management

"The first misunderstanding that Katie and I ever had was on account of coffee. She would not give it to me because she was sure it was the cause of my nervousness and sick spells, so I regularly dropped into my Aunt's house on the way from school (I am a school teacher you see) and stealthily put down a good strong cup of coffee each day.

One of my sleepless nights I lay wondering what ailed me and how long my money would last if I got sick suddenly. I went to school the next day as I had often done before, with nerves very tremulous and a distressing headache creeping over every inch of my brain.

When I reached the dinner table at night, shaved and in my right mind, but very tired and faint, I gave a little start of surprise and delight, followed instantly with a feeling of shame.

Had my sharp, though mild-eyed little wife discovered the extent of my recent perfidy? Did she know I had been taking coffee each day, contrary to agreement? Beside my plate, in my own beautiful silver Xmas present cup, smoked and fairly smiled the beverage, inviting, delicious liquid. I hastened to pour in a generous supply of cream with the usual ratio of sugar. Then I sipped the treasure with delight.

It tasted a good deal better than usual someway, but not exactly natural. When my cup was about half empty I began to wonder if it would be replenished, so I stole a glance at the little woman. She had a far away look in her eyes and a little victorious curl on her lips.

All at once I understood. 'Now Katie' I said amazedly, 'you don't mean to tell me this is Postum?' Her pretty little laugh rang out at once, and she asked through the folds of her napkin, 'Don't you think now there is such a thing as a good food coffee?'

I roared (with my late experience fresh in my mind) 'Don't ever say coffee to me again; I am a saved man to-night.' I then and there hugged my guardian angel and swore off on coffee, for keeps.'

My health and spirits have been gaining steadily, until now I sleep like a babe and eat like a——, well, like a man who knows his food is going to to agree with him.

It was a happy day for wife and I (and for numbers of our friends) when the real danger of coffee drinking was discovered and a beverage that would take its place was put on our table. I have been saved from a spell of nervous prostration, the outcome of which no one can ever foretell." Rose Home, Robinson, Utah.

THE CANADIAN YEOMANRY

PETERBOROUGH'S QUOTA NOW COMPLETE

List of Names of Those Accepted to Serve in South Africa

Recruiting was carried on yesterday for the purpose of selecting suitable men for the Canadian Yeomanry, as the force is now called. At noon the last man was examined and nothing remained to be done in the afternoon but to select twelve suitable men from the fifteen or more who had passed the required medical examination, which in this case was very severe, so strict indeed, was the examination that several men who appeared in fine shape were rejected on account of corns.

Of the twelve accepted, no less than four are men who hold commissions in the Volunteer Service of Canada, and who have resigned them to enable them to go to South Africa. The complete quota is composed as follows:

Major Wm. W. Brown, 3rd Dragoons; Captain W. P. K. Milligan, 40th Battalion; Lieut. Gerald Hayward, 3rd Dragoons, (S. African Medal and Clasps); Lieut. Percy R. Price, (S. African Medal and Clasps); Fred Trussler, late R.C.D., (S. African Medal and Clasps); George Daniels, late R.C.F.A., (S. African Medal and Clasps); Dick Boyle, late R.C.F.A., (S. African Medal and Clasps); Corporal Reg. Turner, 57th Regiment; Trumpeter Fred Hubbs, 3rd Dragoons; Trooper F. J. McDonnel, 3rd Dragoons; Trooper Frank Craig, 3rd Dragoons; Corp. John Dundas, 14th Durham Field Battery.

Definite word has been received stating that the Peterborough men will leave here on Thursday night by midnight express for Montreal. They will leave Montreal by special train on the I.C.R. at nine o'clock on Friday morning for Halifax. The local garrison will turn out and accompanied by the crack band of 57th Regiment will escort the boys to the station to give them a hearty send-off.

Col. Lessard expects to remain in town until to-morrow afternoon so that he can be here to enlist more men if necessary.

No. 4 Company, 57th Regt., are holding a supper at the Crown Hotel to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock which promises to be a very jolly affair. We hope to see the old time custom of company suppers revived, because it is one of the best ways of bringing the officers and men together and creates a more friendly feeling than now exists between the rank and file in our military service.

TREWERN FACTORY

A Statement of the Business of the Factory for the Past Season

Trewern cheese factory closed on November 11th, after a good season. On Thursday, December 5th, a meeting of the patrons was held, quite a number being present.

The secretary read a report of the business done at the factory this season, which compares very favorably with former years. Much of the success is due no doubt to the co-operation of the patrons and the untiring efforts of our efficient salesman, Mr. B. M. Elliott.

The price of cheese was not so high as last year, and this factory was affected the same as all others; however, Trewern is able to show very satisfactory results. All papers and accounts were examined by Mr. C. Blewett and Mr. Wm. Patnick, the auditors, who pronounced them correct.

The number of patrons was 47.
Total lbs. of milk, 1,282,412.
Total lbs. of cheese, 117,346.
Total lbs. of butter fat, 48,080.36.
Average lbs. of milk per lb. of cheese, 10.92.
Average price per lb. of butter fat paid to patrons, 12.79 cents.

The subject of feeding turnips was discussed and it was resolved unanimously that no turnips were to be fed while the milk was being sent to the factory.

After a vote of thanks had been passed to all who are in anyway connected with the factory, and also to Mr. Chittick for the commodious building which he had erected during the past year, the meeting was brought to a close.

STONY LAKE COTTAGERS

Donate $42.22 to the Children's Aid Society

A special meeting of the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association was held Monday evening. A sum of $42.22 in the hands of the treasurer, the receipts from church collections was, in accordance with the usual custom of the Association, ordered paid to the Children's Aid Society.

A letter from J. W. Flavelle was read, suggesting that the cottagers might plant young pines on their islands as well as on unoccupied islands. The suggestion met with approval.

Amongst those in attendance were H. Shortly, Pres.; R. F. McWilliams, Secretary-Treasurer; J. J. McBain, Geo. Cochrane, T. W. Robinson, E. B. Edwards, A. C. McCallum, W. G. Morrow, T. M. D. Craly and others.

POPE EXTOLS IRISHMEN THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

Roman Pontiff Grants Special Audience to Rector of Irish College.

Irish Element One of the Causes of America's Greatness.

Irish Situation Said to be Causing Uneasiness in Britain.

London, Dec. 12.—The mission of Messrs. Redmond, McHugh and O'Donnell to the United States in behalf of the Irish party has been almost entirely ignored by the English press, their reception by President Roosevelt being mentioned in two lines. The only extended reference to their visit took the form of an apparently officially inspired paragraph predicting that the mission will be an utter failure.

The Irish situation is causing intense uneasiness to the British government, as the United Irish league is just as potent as the Land league was in its greatest days. But there is no crime to afford a pretext for enforcing the coercion act, the people having taken the advice of their leaders to avoid anything of that kind.

Rome, Dec. 12.—The pope at a special audience granted to Dr. William Murphy, the rector of the Irish college, and a delegation of students extolled the fidelity of Catholic Ireland and of Irishmen all over the world to the holy see. He spoke of the Irish party mission now in the United States and expressed satisfaction at the friendly reception granted by President Roosevelt to its members. He remarked that the Irish element is one of the causes of America's vitality and greatness.

The pontiff closed the audience by bestowing the apostolic benediction on all Irishmen in the old country and in the new world.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Budapest, Dec. 11.—The differences between capital and labor are assuming aggravated proportions here. Hundreds of unemployed persons paraded this morning, shouting:—

"Down with the funkers."

They made such a threatening demonstration before the National Club buildings that the police were obliged to charge and disperse them. Numbers of arrests were made.

FALLING OFF IN GRAIN CROP.

London, Dec. 11.—Mr. Joshua Keevil, the large grain importer writes as to the falling off in this year's grain crop: Now that the final results of the world's harvest have been officially summarised by Governmental returns, some idea can be formed of the universal loss facing producers and consumers alike. How the acknowledged deficiency is to be met no one can foresee. In 1899 America exported in one week over 3,379,000 bushels of oats, and 4,183,000 bushels of maize. For weeks past she has not exported a bushel of oats, and only about 60,000 quarters of maize per week, showing a deficiency in a single week of 800,000 quarters. Russia, the next great exporter, is also showing greatly reduced exports. This week's "Beerbohm's List" gives official returns to date, showing the world's oat and maize crop in 1899 to have been 687,000,000 quarters; this year, only 529,000,000 quarters—a difference of 158,000,000 quarters. How far prices will be affected by three million quarters weekly shortage is the conundrum of to-day. These cereals have gone up to-day. These cereals have gone up 4s. to 6s. per quarter lately, and with one of the shortest cuts of hay on record, it is possible that prices may be higher in the spring than they have been for twenty years.

NEW MAGAZINE PISTOL.

London, Dec. 11.—Just now the naval and military authorities are testing a new magazine pistol, with a view to new magazine pistol, with a view to its possible adoption in the two services. This weapon has been christened the "Mars;" and it differs from similar types in that it throws a heavy projectile at a high velocity. It is claimed that the pistol is capable of firing eight "aimed" shots—the number the magazine holds—in 3 sec., and can be fired without aim with even greater rapidity. The effective range appears to be anything up to 1,000 yards. A party of gentlemen witnessed some experiments with the new weapon at Hendon yesterday, when it seemed to demonstrate the merits claimed for it with the utmost success. The pistol has been invented and made in England, and the powder used is cordite.

BRITAIN'S RESERVE OF CRUISERS.

London, Dec. 11.—Lord Brassey drew attention recently in an address to the London Chamber of Commerce on "Our Reserve of Cruisers," to the fact that other nations are building faster ocean-going steamships than Great Britain. It was a fact, he said which merited the attention of the Government and Parliament, that at the present time, the only very fast vessels being build would be under foreign flags. Since 1893, when we built the Lucania and Campania, the Oceanic was the only ocean-going steamship of over 20 knots speed added to the British list. Since 1897 Germany had built four such ships, France two and Russia one. Seven ships had been built under the foreign flag as against one under the British. The merchant ships on the existing reserve list had no protective arrangements, and could only be regarded as scouts. We ought to have a number of subsidised ships fitted to receive armor and to go at a speed of 21 knots.

London, Dec. 10.—Commandant De Wet, with two thousand men is reported to be close to Heilbron. Colonel Wilson is said to have been attacked and very nearly surrounded. Colonel Remington's timely arrival saving the day.

HORRIBLE CRUELTY TO A SANE GIRL

Pitiable Tale of Mary Lake, Who Was Shut Up in an Asylum.

PRISONER FOR FIFTEEN YEARS

Her Mental Soundness Established by Medical Experts—Harrowing Recital of Sufferings to Which She Was Subjected.

New York, Dec. 12.—After spending fifteen years of her young life in an insane asylum Mary Lake, now 26 years old, has just been released on the testimony of Drs. Millspaugh and Sprague of Richmond borough on Staten island, New York, who testify that she is now perfectly sane and that at no time in her life was there any evidence of her mental derangement.

Mary was unfortunate in having a criminal father. In 1883 he was convicted of a serious offense and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. Bad as he was, however, he had cared for his child and it was not until three years after his incarceration that the young girl fell upon evil days. In 1886 she was taken to the Richmond borough almshouse by two neighbors who had occasionally given her assistance, and from there, on petition of the superintendent, she was sent to the asylum for the feeble-minded. To the New York custodian asylum at Newark was but a short step, and here the girl landed.

About the middle of September last a letter was received by Commissioner Feeney complaining of Mary Lake as a violently insane person and the request was made that she be removed to the insane asylum. This was complied with, an investigation of her mental condition followed, with the result that she was pronounced of sound mind and understanding. This decision led to her release on the 26th of last month.

Freed from the restraint under which she had been for so long and assured that no harm would befall her on account of her utterances, Mary made a frank statement of all she had endured during her confinement. "I can hardly realise," she said, "that I am at last at liberty; that I may walk about under the trees wander where I will, drink in my fill of the pure, quiet air of the country and from the tops of the hills watch the sun set behind the masses of tinted autumn trees. To those who have known these sensations all their lives this may mean but little, but to me it is almost a new life. It is a strange and almost unfamiliar existence. I remember this place perfectly; the quaint old building over yonder which they tell me is a century and a quarter old, the lake and the woods. I have often thought of them since I left here sixteen years ago, for the time I spent here was the last I remember of a life of liberty and freedom. From the day I was taken from here until I was brought back to this quiet place my life has been spent between brick walls in the company of maniacs. I have only been able to catch glimpses of the sky from the barred windows which confined me, and in time I forgot even the appearance and color of the trees and grassy hills. I remembered these things only faintly and indistinctly.

LOST EVEN TO HOPE.

"I can't make you feel any of the horror of what I have suffered. To comprehend any part of my experiences of the past sixteen years you would have to be, as I was, a prisoner among the insane.

"The mere imprisonment was not all that I suffered. The utter hopelessness of my case, the feeling as year after year passed that I would never be able to escape, that I would die there among the crazy folks or, what was more horrible at it, that I would become like them. Every night I have made but one prayer—that I might escape from the asylum before I became really insane. There are girls in the asylums at Newark to-day who were perfectly sane when they were sent there, but who have become insane since, several of them violently so.

"The tortures I suffered there seem now like ugly dreams. That I lived through it all and retained my reason is almost incredible. Dr. Winspear was very kind and good, but they didn't know, they didn't understand. We were at the mercy of the female attendants, and they lied to Mrs. Winspear and her husband in a way to deceive anyone. The minute we were left alone with these attendants they would punish us most cruelly out of sheer brutality.

"At one time I was too ill to work. I could hardly lift my hand. I told the woman in charge of us that I would do nothing that day. I was stubborn, I admit. There were days when I was willing they should kill me if they would, but they did not kill. They simply tortured us until death would have been the dearest thing we could have had granted us.

"On this occasion two of them held me while a third twisted my arm behind my back until it was almost torn from the socket. I screamed and screamed with the awful agony of it, but they never ceased until I fainted. Then they put me away, in a dark room for nine days and during that time all I had to eat was a few crusts of bread. Water they gave—a gill or so at a time—when I had become almost frantic from thirst.

"I was sane all this time and they knew I was sane. Why they kept me there I do not know, except that I was useful and saved them the cost of another attendant. I was given all sorts of rough and unpleasant work to do about the place and was never spared by my taskmasters. At one time several of us plotted to speak to Governor Odell when he came through the asylum, but when his party arrived there were so many of them that we couldn't tell which was the Governor. We were watched, too, and given no opportunity.

"There are other girls there who should be saved from that awful place. Etta Johnston, Annie Scott and Isabel Hogan are all of them as sane as I am and should be at liberty. They are girls of unusual brightness and there is no reason why they should be kept in that place."

WILL RECEIVE GOOD CARE.

Mary will be well cared for in the future. Mrs. A. S. Curtis and Mrs. Julia K. West, at whose complaint she was originally placed in the Richmond almshouse, have agreed to take charge of her and see that her wants are supplied. They now admit that they were misled sixteen years ago when they petitioned for her commitment and are anxious to make all the amends in their power. These women, then members of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children took under their protection the three children of John Lake, who had been sent to the penitentiary two years before to serve a term of ten years. These children had been left to the care of such neighbors as would give them a crust or a place to sleep, and the two kind-hearted women arranged to have them placed in the almshouse.

As no child over two years of age can be kept there, Superintendent Thomas McCormick took Mary Lake to the state institution for the feeble minded at Syracuse. There she remained until she was 21 years of age, and on the 4th of January, 1896, she was taken to the New York custodial home at Newark, N. Y., ninety miles from Buffalo.

Thus what was intended as a kindness grew into a term of imprisonment among the insane. After having been committed to the institute for the feeble-minded she was kept in confinement without a chance to escape. Although she begged and pleaded for an opportunity to prove herself sane, she was rudely repulsed, and no effort was ever made to determine the question of her sanity.

She has returned to find all her relatives dead except a sister, who recently married a well-to-do merchant of Staten Island. Her father and mother are dead. One of her sisters has disappeared and her brother died in an insane asylum for the blind.

She is a capable, intelligent girl, and Mrs. Curtis and Mrs. West hope to procure light employment for her in some household. She declares she will die sooner than return to the scenes amid which the greater part of her life has been spent.

This case has reawakened public interest in the institutions for the insane in New York. The statement of the young woman that many other sane persons are confined at these institution tallies with that of others who have been immured within their walls, and there is talk of a searching investigation, at which some startling developments may be made.

BRUCE HAMILTON SURPRISES BOERS

Makes a Night March and Bags the Whole Bethel Commando

KILLED 7 AND WOUNDED 131

Big Bag Made at Trichard's Fontein Early on the Morning of Tuesday, December 10th

London, Dec. 11.—Lord Kitchener, in a dispatch from Standerton, Transvaal Colony, dated Tuesday, Dec. 10, announces that Gen. Bruce Hamilton, after a night march, surprised and captured practically the whole of the Piet Bethel command at Trichards Fontein, early this morning. Seven Boers were killed and 131 were made prisoners.

KRUGER AT UTRECHT.

Utrecht, Dec. 11.—Mr. Kruger has arrived here and has taken possession of his new residence.

The Boer statesman, who appeared to be in excellent health, received a great ovation from crowds of people.

The Cause of Nervous Headache

This most distressing and common malady doubtless has its origin in some unbalanced condition of the nervous system. Probably the simplest, safest and most efficient remedy is Polson's Nerviline. Twenty drops in sweetened water gives immediate relief, and this treatment should be supplemented by bathing the region of pain with Nerviline. To say it acts quickly fails to express the result. Sold everywhere in large 25c. bottles.

WEATHER NOTE

Probs.—Moderate winds, fair, with about the same temperature.

The storm has passed to the eastward of the Gulf. Fair weather with moderate temperature prevails in Ontario and Quebec, and there is no immediate prospect of disturbed conditions.

REFUGEE CAMPS IN SOUTH AFRICA

Official Report Concerning Them to the British Government.

DIVIDED INTO THREE CLASSES

Interesting Facts Which Disprove the Statements Regarding the Death Rate in Concentration Camps.

London, Dec. 12.—A blue book of some 400 pages has been issued containing reports on the concentration camps from March to September. In explanation of the heavy death rate, especially of children, the following causes are assigned: The hardships suffered by many of the refugees before being brought into the camps, scanty clothing, which the stores were sometimes insufficient to supply during the cold weather, and the unsanitary habits of the poorer class of Boers, which were aggravated by their distrust of the hospitals and their predilection for homemade remedies, some of them of the most disgusting kind.

The inmates of the different camps, says Major Goodwin in a report dated March 22, may be divided into three classes:

1. Those who have come into the camps for protection of themselves and herds and are self-supporting. 2. Those who have surrendered and come into camp for protection, but are unable to support themselves. In this class I would include widows and orphans and the relatives of our prisoners of war. 3. Those whose husbands are on commando who have been brought into camp for their own protection against natives, &c., or for military reasons.

I find the great majority of the men who, having taken the oath of allegiance, are now living in these camps to be both well behaved and helpful.

It is disquieting to find that in most of the camps the wives and families of burghers still fighting think of and treat contemptuously those whose immediate male relatives (having surrendered) have taken the oath of neutrality, and I must report that the congregation of all classes in the same camps has materially increased the difficulty of management and of our influencing those living in these camps to willingly become our loyal fellow subjects, for it is difficult to treat with the liberality they deserve Classes 1 and 2 without incurring the reproach of having treated Class 3 with undue generosity. Under existing conditions we have done, and are still doing, our best to gain the good will of all classes now living in these camps, though I must confess that we are somewhat hampered by the animosity displayed by the majority of Class 3, who form a very small but active minority of the whole. Classes 2 and 3 are rationed on the same basis, and no distinction whatever is either made or is in my opinion desirable in other respects than issue of rations in the treatment of these three classes now living in these camps. Free intercourse among themselves is allowed to all refugees. No camp is enclosed by a fence.

In the Transvaal camps at this date some 434 persons off a total population of over 21,000 were returned as "self-supporting." It will be observed that Major Goodwin says that no distinction is made between Class 2—the refugees proper—and Class 3, being the wives and children of men on commando. But up to Feb. 27 it had been the practice to make a distinction between them in the rations allotted, Class 3 receiving no meat and less coffee and sugar. The rule about not fencing in camps was not always observed. At Volksrust:

"For military reasons and for the protection of the camp from attack a double fence of barbed wire has been erected around it, with a gate at the northern side for the use of the inmates, the admission of supplies, and for the carting out of refuse."

The population of the camps is continually growing. In March, for example, the total population of the Transvaal camps was 21,106, and of the Orange Colony camps 20,574. In September these numbers had grown to 60,406 and 45,347.

In the Orange Colony camps in June there was a death rate of 387 in the thousand at the Bloemfontein camps; in July 442 per thousand at Springfontein, 459.6 at Kroonstad, 242.4 at Norval's Pont. The figures for August were as follows:

Camp	Population	Rate Per 1,000
Brandford	2,404	77.52
Vredefort Road	1,714	118.92
Norval's Pont	3,215	221.36
Bloemfontein	6,580	174.84
Winburg	2,684	82.2
Springfontein	2,893	216.84
Heilbron	3,514	79.48
Aliwal North	4,437	519.24
Kroonstad	3,886	476.12
Harrismith	1,134	74.04
Kimberley	3,701	528.48
Bethulie	1,124	440.52
Orange River	1,607	31.6

The extraordinary fact about these figures is the disparity between the death rates in the various camps. In June Capt. Trollope estimated the Mortality rate for the whole of the camps in the Orange Colony to be 169.1 per 1,000 per annum, and expected "a very great reduction" in a death rate that was "abnormally high;" in July the General death rate, instead of being reduced, had increased to 178.7 per 1,000; and in August the general rate was 312.53. Capt. Trollope attributes the August death rate to the following causes:

The severe epidemic of measles; the ever-continuing influx of refugees, who brought in in a most deplorable state, having undergone the severest privations, are quite unable to withstand diseases when attacked, more especially young children, who, from statistics, claim at least three-fourths of the fatalities; and the unhealthy surroundings of the Kroonstad camp, which the officer in command could not be persuaded to alter.

The longest discussion of the causes of the heavy mortality is that by the medical officer at the Bloemfontein camp. On June 1, he summed them up:

1. The indiscriminate massing together of people of all sorts from different parts of this colony in a large camp, whereby, no doubt, contagion is bound to assert itself.

2. Insufficient hospital accommodation for infectious cases.

3. Insufficient housing and covering, absence of warmth. The tents are thus not giving sufficient warmth to people who have been suddenly removed from houses. Some of the tents are useless as a covering. In many cases also the supply of blankets is insufficient.

4. Overcrowding in many tents.

5. Insufficient latrine accommodation.

6. Slops thrown about the tents.

7. Insufficient supply of water as well for the washing of clothes as for the person.

8. Bad nursing on the part of the people themselves, cold, want of room.

9. Insufficient food supply. I think half a pound of meat for an adult not sufficient. The Poor Afrikander is used to a great deal more. Fresh milk and vegetables (even though compressed or preserved in tins) should be supplied two or three times a week. Diarrhoea is very prevalent among adults as among children, and is in many cases due to the food, in other cases undoubtedly to the water. Water cannot be kept clean in tents into which wind and dust constantly are blown. The quality of the meat supplied to the camp might with safety be improved.

HARD WORDS FOR BRITISH GENERALS

The Chicago Chronicle Speaks of the Stupid British Methods.

WHY THE WAR IS PROLONGED

The British Generals Will Not Adopt Modern Methods in Dealing With a Guerrilla People.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—The Chronicle says: In every part of the world the triumphs of British arms have been gained at the greatest possible cost, chiefly in consequence of a hide-bound conservatism which is incapable of learning from experience or from the operations of the enemy.

From Braddock to Buller the commanders of British forces sent against races and peoples who are not disposed to give battle according to any book on tactics have sacrificed life and treasure needlessly by following with characteristic stubbornness lines of action which may be well enough in Europe, but which are wholly out of place elsewhere.

The Austrian general who was beaten by Napoleon Bonaparte in the early days of the latter's wonderful career and who, discovering that the Corsican had achieved success by disregarding certain well-accepted military rules, declared that he would rather be defeated than to win by such means, has had many imitators in the British army.

Ignorant, vain, self-sufficient, arrogant and always underestimating the foe, the average British officer wins, if he wins at all, only by brute force and at a cost largely in excess of the necessities of the case.

When the Americans had Indians to fight they conformed to the customs of Indians. To live like the Indian, to know the country as he knew it, to travel without impedimenta by night as well as by day, to be cautious and even crafty and, at any sacrifice of comfort, to take advantage of every favoring circumstance, were rules the observance of which enabled American soldiers to subdue and capture some of the wiliest foes that ever confronted an organised soldiery.

Since the resistance to American rule in the Philippines has degenerated into a guerrilla warfare it is noticeable that the operations of the army have taken on many of the features of frontier fighting in this country twenty and thirty years ago. General Funston captured Aguinaldo exactly as Sitting Bull, or Geronimo might have captured him. Captain Lawton's recent exploit in Bohol by which he and his men scaled a steep precipice and surprised and seized an important camp of rebels was of the same order.

The British army in South Africa presents the humiliating spectacle of practical impotency in the presence of a handful of boers because there is not in the establishment sufficient intelligence and adaptability to fight the enemy after his own fashion.

In the nature of things pursuit of the present policy will eventually result in the subjugation of the small bands which now resist the complete British occupation of the Transvaal, but if England had one commander capable of organising a few small columns like those which operate on the side of the Dutch, made up of fighting men who can get along for a while without tennis, gold or pianos, who can go hungry and naked if need be and who are not afraid to meet an enemy hand to hand if necessary, the boer "war" would be a thing of the past in short order.

Whether sympathising with boer or Briton, the average English-speaking American cannot fail to be ashamed of the stupidity and inefficiency of the English-speaking army now "operating" in south Africa.

A Narrow Escape

Carnarvon, Dec. 11.—Great indignation has been caused among local loyalists by the action of an unknown rebellious citizen. While the military commandant was undressing, a man fired at him from the street, a distance of five yards. The bullet just grazed his hair. The assailant bolted, and has not been caught. The attempt has caused great indignation among the loyalists.

Laborers Against Irish League

London, Dec. 11.—Land and labor organizations resulting from the extended franchise conferr by the Local Government Act, says the Cork correspondent of The Times, are affording to labourers an opportunity of battling against farmers. While the United Irish League continues to fight unionists generally, and landlords in particular it finds itself attacked in the rear by the labor organizations. Resolutions adopted by Ballyneal Branch of the Labor Association, "respectfully asks its presidents, Maude Gonne and Major McBride to petition the American people, for Almighty God's sake, to save Irish laborers and workingmen from extermination by greedy, selfish purseproud farmers and United Irish League."

LINE OF BLOCKHOUSES BOTHER GEN. DE WET

Boers in Concentration Camps Have More Supplies Than They Need.

STEYN SAID TO BE WITH HIM IN LINDLEY DISTRICT

Kritzinger is Still in the Orange River Colony. Refugees Sell Provisions to Soldiers

London, Dec. 11.—The Times' correspondent in Pretoria says that the concentrated force under De Wet remains in the Lindley district. His attention seems to be occupied by the line of blockhouses now building from Kroonstad to Lindley. Steyn probably accompanies De Wet. Kritzinger is still in the Orange River Colony. Wessels is now near Philippolis with 200 men.

A letter in the Times from a concentration camp, dated Port Elizabeth tells of a number of gifts received and about feasts of tea and cake, and asserting that the refugees are so well provisioned that they sell quantities of food to soldiers.

The Boer War

Cape Town, Dec. 11.—The trial of Commandant Sheeper commenced today at Graff Reinet. He has entirely recovered from his recent illness.

THE BUBONIC PLAGUE.

London, Dec. 11.—Cape Town despatches indicate that the city is now free from plague. The last patient has been discharged from the hospital. At Port Elizabeth one native is still ill. The naval and military depots are quite free from the disease.

NO PLACE FOR CIVILIANS.

Ottawa, Dec. 11.—An Ottawain has received a letter from Colonel Steele, who still occupies former President Kruger's house at Pretoria. The gallant Colonel states: "Jones, who was a private in Strathcona's Horse, is now a lieutenant in the Scottish Horse. He had a very hot fight on a recent trip in which four of his troop were wounded, one through the lungs. He and his men made a very gallant fight, the last of it at close quarters. All our fellows have done that sort of thing; they have a good name here."

Col. Steele states that Major Ogilvie is out with a portion of B Division South African Constabulary, co-operating with Kitchener's column. South Africa, he says, is no place as yet for civilians.

AN ORGAN GRINDING SPY.

London, Dec. 10.—An organ grinder, who visited Calvinia, before the recent attack of the Boers, is now known to have been an emissary of the Boer spy system. The turning of the handle almost always evoked the strains of "God Save the King," "Soldiers of the Queen," etc., and the musician made a note of those who seemed to appreciate the loyal tunes. When the Boers visited the village, these people were the objects of their particular disfavor.

TO BLOCK BRITAIN MEANS RUIN TO THE ENEMY

Enemies Might Temporarily Reduce the Supply Of Food But at Their Own Loss

Toronto Star: The following letter has been received by the Star from Prof. Adam Shortt of Queen's University, in reply to Lieut.-Col. Denison's answer to Mr. Shortt's address at the Canadian Club:

Editor of the Star: I have by no means the self-assurance to suppose that I may have the last word in a controversy with Col. Denison, over a matter which he has made so thoroughly his own as the impending ruin of Great Britain. Nevertheless, as he has undertaken to expose, more, perhaps, in sorrow than in anger, some of my false doctrines, I may possibly be permitted to attempt a single brief reply.

Col. Denison refers to the large excess of British imports over exports as proof of the assertion that trade with Britain is to the advantage of the foreigner to the extent of over £800,000,000 a year. Now, I have often wondered why it has never occurred to those who make this innocent view of statistics that Britain should long ago have been in the world's poor-house. Yet the fact is that she prospers and meets all her foreign obligations without the loss of her bullion and with no serious embarassment in her money markets. Obviously there are claims against the foreigner arising out of British trade and investment, which do not figure in the tables of exports and imports. The complete explanation of this situation, though interesting is lengthy, and I do not feel called upon to enter into it here.

One of the colonel's favorite coalitions against the mother country is that between Russia and the United States. This is to accomplish its purpose by putting an embargo on the EXPORT OF WHEAT.

Now, this embargo, to be effective, would have to prevent the people of these countries from selling any food whatever to any country in the world; otherwise the embargo would simply result in Britain obtaining her food supplies, and especially wheat, through other channels than the present. Besides, Britain need not live by bread alone. But such an embargo even if its maintenance were possible, would entail extreme suffering from millions of people in both the allied countries and involve an entire dislocation of trade and transportation. And yet, should even the impossible happen, while the price of food in Britain would certainly rise, yet the country's food supply would not be greatly lessened. Under the stimulus of a higher price for all kinds of food, most of the other countries would increase their contributions from 50 to 75 or even 100 per cent., and many regions not now contributing more than a trifle could send large supplies. Thus, while Britain was simply embarrassed, her

ENEMIES WOULD BE RUINED.

If the matter were worth discussing further, numerous instances could be cited within the past century showing the futility of attempt to shut off supplies during military and tariff wars.

Reference is made to the cotton famine in England as the result of the civil war in the United States. But the famine was not due to a war with Britain, or to any attempt to starve her out. And, after all, Britain did not suffer, for want of cotton, a tithe of the distress endured by those who were prevented from sending her cotton, not so much because they could not ship it as because they could not grow it. Then, looking to the future, is not Britain in a much safer position to-day, when, though she will take the bulk of her cotton from the United States, she also obtains supplies, which could, if necessary, be indefinitely increased within six months, from such countries as Egypt, Brazil, the East Indies, and several others.

The colonel is quite mistaken in his supposition that I considered it necessary that Britain should bribe foreign nations to permit her to live. Taking the very opposite line, I simply drew attention to the fact that, having many strings to her bow, Britain is by long odds of all the nations. On no one of them, or on no group of them, is she dependent for her supplies, since the interest of other in furnishing the supplies is much greater than her's in receiving them.

Finally, the quotation from Lord Dufferin, even taken apart from its context, and quite extreme as it is, would, even if true, only strengthen the position which I took, that it was fortunate for Britain to hold, in the course of her normal business, the all-important hostages of self-interest from the other nations of the world. These operate, as we see conclusively to-day, in securing her from attack, or even from embarrassment in carrying out a policy which is generally condemned by the sentiment of the civilized world, and even by a very important section, as Lord Salisbury admits, of the British people themselves.

So far as Britain worries are at present concerned, they are mainly connected with increased taxation and the sharp competition of others in the general trade of the world. But under which it is possible for her to meet these conditions, are to keep her own industrial processes up to date, and to secure for her people a plentiful and cheap supply of food and raw materials. Now, there is no reason why she should not obtain more of these from the colonies, except the very sufficient one that they do not choose to send her more. It seems reasonable to suppose that the development of our share in that trade should depend upon our own industry and and enterprise, rather than upon an added burden to the British taxpayer, who just as his period is not in special need of extra blood-letting.

MONROE AND CANADA.

W. Bourke Cochran argues that Canada's participation in the South African war is a violation of the Monroe Doctrine, because if Canada has taken part with Britain in the war against the Boers she may take part in a British war against any nation, therefore any nation at war with Britain would have a right to invade Canada and subdue and hold this country, if possible. "This," says Mr. Cochran, "may have the result of making American soil the prize of battle between two European nations, and that is exactly the condition which the Monroe Doctrine is designed to make impossible." Well, what are you going to do about it? If Canada prefers to depend upon Britain rather than upon the United States, to protect her from invasion by a European power, she has a right to her choice. We remember that Canada was made the fighting ground when the states made war upon Great Britain in 1812, and British soldiers came over to help keep Canada from falling into the possession of the United states. In similar circumstances, we would want that British help again, therefore it is a Canadian defensive measure to keep Britain strong and able to confront all her possible enemies. That is what Canadians are doing in South Africa. The Monroe Doctrine has no more influence in Canada than any other United States law, and the United States have no more right to make laws for Canada than Germany has.

WHAT BEFELL THE FAIRY PRINCESS.

A year ago there was in Holland a pretty, happy, healthy young girl who made every one think of the fairy princesses we read about in childhood. She seemed to have everything, and it was impossible not to envy her. It was time that this fairy princess married and settled down to live happily ever afterward. So they brought her three or four eligible young men—all there were who were deemed fit to be husband to such a grand little creature. "Fit" meant by "birth" and "rank," not by manners and education and brains and looks and disposition. From these few she selected, as she in her inexperience thought, the least dull, the least depraved, the least repulsive. Possibly she thought him fine — she had not been permitted to get in the least acquainted with any young men. But he was a vulgar, ignorant, drunken brute, a true real-life princeling, the natural product of conditions which could not except by a miracle produce a man.

And now—think of the fairy princess hiding in her rooms, weeping, ashamed broken-hearted, grieving for her dead baby, her dead dream of love, her blighted life. The fairy princess will never again hold her head high, never again be without an ache in her heart.

The high and world-blazoned story is not alone a warning to princes or even to the great and rich of earth. It is a lesson for all mothers and all girls of all degrees everywhere.

Generals DeWet, Steyn, Ross, Mentjes and Botha are reported to have held a meeting at Heilbron on Saturday. Let us hope that at the adjourned meeting General Kitchener may also be present.

It is now proposed to corral the Boers by partitioning the Transvaal with chains of block-houses, 600 or 700 yards apart, connected by barbed wire entanglements. This will lead to the pro-Boer chumps in Detroit and Chicago saying that John Bull wants the earth and a barbed wire fence round it.

Love's Omission.

I have whispered my love to the bright stars above,
To the mountains!
To the echoing hills, to the murmuring rills,
To the fountains!
In woodland and vale I've unfolded my tale
Of devotion;
Not a meadow or grove but's aware of my love—
My emotion!

I have spoken as well to each flower in the dell,
The bees ranging
My passion reveal as the honey they steal,
Sweets exchanging.
And the stream as it flows all my ecstasy knows,
Ah, sweet feeling!
To the air, to the sky, my love secrets am I
All revealing.

To the moon shining bright I have breathed my delight,
Ah, my passion!
All below, all above, I've informed of my love
In a fashion;
But though I have cried my desire far and wide,
I'm afraid I
Have yet to impart the true state of my heart—
To the lady!

—"Punch."

A Bad Guess.

A girl in a pale-pink kimona
Picked up a young fellow—a Jonah;
Said she, "Well, for lunch
I'll have reed bird and punch."
"Not much; you'll have beer and bologna."

Kitchener's catch-'em-alive-o campaign may be slow but he seems to catch 365 days a year.

"You Are So Slow."

If the women at work should make answer to the other woman, she might, perhaps, say: "You never had to scrub and clean when your back ached so that it seemed that every movement would break it in two." It's bad enough for a woman to suffer. But when she must suffer and slave at the same time she reaches the limit of her endurance.

Weak women who have been made strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, recommend it to others as a godsend. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I have been ailing some time now, being troubled with female weakness," writes Mrs. Wm. H. Johnson, of Avondale, Chester Co., Pa. "Every month I would have to lie on my back. I tried many different medicines and nothing gave me relief until I began Dr. Pierce's medicines, using two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' These medicines have cured me. When I began your treatment I was not able to do very much, but now I do the work for my family of nine, and feel better to-day than I have for a year."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache. They do not create the pill habit.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Professor O'Brien

CANADA'S GREATEST PHRENOLOGIST and the only recognized SCIENTIFIC PALMIST (by law) has removed to 263 Hunter st. Terrace, near railway crossing. See name in window. As Professor O'Brien is a very busy man, he will not be able to leave Peterboro for a few days yet. The more people he examines the more he has to examine, which fact alone speaks for his ability and the esteem and popularity he has gained during his short stay in Peterboro. It will be well for skeptics of either science to investigate before condemning either Phrenology or Scientific Palmistry. The latter should not be confounded with the common fortune-telling. Professor O'Brien has proved in open court before Crown witnesses at the Toronto General Sessions, March 14th, 1901, that Palmistry as demonstrated by him is a pure science and has no connection with the so-called fortune-telling. Anyone wishing to be enlightened on the science should call on Professor O'Brien, who will be pleased to explain his scientific methods.

A photo read free to patrons.

Over 150 persons have consulted him during his short stay in Peterboro.

Remember there is only ONE Professor O'Brien. Don't forget his new address. Office hours, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

EDWARD ON THE AUTO.

London, Dec. 11.—King Edward is now an enthusiastic motorist. His majesty, seated by his driver, in a sumptuously equipped motor is a familiar figure on the roads about Sandringham. This makes him the victim of kodak fiends, who are anxious to sell his picture in this position to the newspapers and magazines.

The horseless vehicles now owned by the king are numerous and represent nearly half a million dollars in value. Some of these are gifts from friends and enterprising manufacturers, others were acquired outright by the royal purse.

Strange to say the king's favorite motor is a French machine. In this he has travelled thousands of miles in England and on the continent. During his visit at the court of his father-in-law, the King of Denmark, this fall, he terrorized the natives by his flying trips through the peaceful country.

His majesty does not drive himself, but he thoroughly understands the mechanism of a motor car, and takes great pride in the prowess of Mr. Letzer, his driver. Some time ago when the king was driving with a couple of friends from Sandringham to Wolferton station, a distance of about three miles, the king told his driver to show his guests just what a motor could do. The distance was covered in five minutes, and as the car arrived at the station gates the king exclaimed to his friends: "Now watch Letzer just miss the gateposts and Letzer just miss the gateposts and pull up," an order which Mr. Letzer fulfilled to the letter.

Queen Alexandra is almost as fond as motoring as her husband, but she does not care about it in the crowded streets of London, and is not likely to be seen driving in her own motor in Hyde park. When she is at Sandringham, however, it is different. There she enjoys the amusement of motoring, and very often takes charge of the steering wheel herself, having become an expert driver in a very short time. She can go with ease to places like Hunstanton and Holdham, which were otherwise only approachable by train, and a visit to Lord and Lady Farquhar at Castle Rising is within an afternoon's drive. The motor which her majesty favors at present is a victoriette seated for two.

IMPERIAL MISSIONS.

London, Dec. 10.—The Bishop of London, speaking on mission work within the empire at Exeter Hall, urging that the future of the Empire depended on what was now done. The British Empire must either be a great blessing or blessing or it would be a great curse. Our trade often brought what was injurious, and if we were to be proud of our flag we must carry with it the banner of the Cross.

Vaccine Was No Good.

Provincial Health Officer Bryce had a blue report on the smallpox situation to give out this morning. "I am afraid we are in for it," was the way he expressed his apprehensions. "It seems to be coming at us from all directions." In connection with his advice for general vaccination, he states that it will not be safe to trust to the vaccine which was on the market last spring. In many cases it did not "take," and a lot of it was poor stuff.

East Emily Cheese Factory

A well attended meeting of the patrons of East Emily cheese factory was held on Nov. 27th, for the purpose of winding up the business of the past season. Mr. George Ward was appointed chairman.

The following is the secretary's report of the season's make:

Total lbs. of milk delivered, 1,283,666.
Total lbs. cheese manufactured, 117,611.
Average lbs. milk to lb. of cheese, 10.65.
Average price per lb. cheese 9.11c.
Average net value to patrons per cwt. milk, 76c.
Total value of season's make, $10,711.25.

After being approved by the unanimous vote of the patrons it was moved by Mr. J. T. Switzer, seconded by Mr. W. Sullivan, that the secretary's report be received.—Carried.

Mr. J. R. Boate, on behalf of the patrons, moved a vote of thanks in favor of Mr. W. Doyell, president, and Messrs. J. T. Switzer, T. M. Caldwell, M. O'Donnell, and W. Lowes, directors for their voluntary services in endeavoring to promote the interests of the factory.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Messrs. W. C. Switzer and J. F. Collins for their satisfactory management of the financial affairs of the factory for the past season.

PROSPECTUS

OF

THE NORTH AMERICAN OIL AND REFINING COMPANY

OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

Incorporated under the laws of Wyoming.

Location of Property, Acton, California.
Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent.
General Office, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Branch Offices, Los Angeles, California, and 150 Nassau St., New York City.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

E. A. Sunderlin, President, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Joseph H. Parker, Vice President and Gen. Mgr., Los Angeles, California.
Geo. A. Cockburn, Secretary and Treasurer, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Frank S. Livingston, Los Angeles, California.
F. L. Sherwin, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of 500,000 shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offers for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about 30 miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one section from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is of 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerites Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.50 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells. It can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land. West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property is the Iola Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., C. O. O. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 400 bbl. white oil gusher) Hermosa White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page 321).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in 1876, and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 8 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from 300 to 700 feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders $12,000,000, and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing. These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.75 to $4.50 per barrel on the field, nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price and stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary propositions that are now being handled in Southern California. The North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect a refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerites Field, as well as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land in the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land has been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in conjunction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as oil experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the entire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & Refining Co.'s lands are in a line with and on the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid revenues. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural petroleum of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining property.

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with maps and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details of these are too lenghty to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any time at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on application. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land and is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as their relation to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. A careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the probability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the business of refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct storage tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, charging therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for the lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in the future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and operated. The profits accruing from both enterprises will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, and a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which will eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. 2000 acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State."
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast Of North America and South America, Asia and Australia for a market.
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Piple line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th. Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no assessment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this district as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a great deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal investigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve that the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale 500,000 shares of its treasury stock at the low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of erecting a 500 barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been started, and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high quality will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Colorado Springs, Colo.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Bagley, Caledonia ave., Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Four boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, sustaining no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Moss, Merlin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James B. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. H. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Don't Allow Operation for Cancer

There is a simpler, safer and more effective Method of Treatment.

Dr. J. C. Oliver, of Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S.A., in a paper he read before the Ohio State Medical Society, May 1896, said: "I have operated in a considerable number of cases of Cancer recently, and with one exception all have died within fourteen months after the operation."

This statement of a prominent Surgeon, should make any one suffering from cancer, hesitate before submitting to operation and consider carefully the evidence offered on behalf of the new Constitutional remedy, which cures Cancers, Tumors and all malignant growths, without the necessity of operation. It is a simple vegetable medicine that searches out and destroys the cancer growths, completely eradicates the disease, and at the same time, builds up and invigorates the system.

Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., will be pleased to send full particulars of this treatment, in a plain, sealed wrapper.

THE PRESBYTERY OF PETERBORO

Warsaw and Westwood Not United Cordova Mines Mission

At a meeting of the Presbytery at Port Hope on Tuesday the following from Peterborough were present:

Revs. Wm. Bennett, clerk, J. G. Potter, St. Andrews. The committee appointed to arrange a union of the Warsaw and Westwood circuits, reported they failed to accomplish anything.

The Rev. J. G. Potter presented a very interesting report on Home Missions, including a report regarding the new church at Cordova, which will be completed in February. Steps were taken to interest the sympathies of the congregations of the Presbytery in the Cordova mission work. The next meeting of the Presbytery will be held in Cobourg on the second Tuesday in March at 7.30 p.m.

FIGURES WENT WRONG

Something About Food That Saves One from Brain Fag.

That food can make or break a man is shown in thousands of cases. If one's work requires the use of the brain, the food must furnish particles that will build up the brain and replace the daily loss.

Many times people fall ill not knowing that the real cause of the trouble is the lack of the right kind of food to keep the body nourished.

As an illustration: A young man in Chatham, Va., says, "I have been employed for quite a time in a large tobacco warehouse here. My work required a great deal of calculating, running up long and tiresome columns of figures. Last winter my health began to give out and I lost from two to ten days out of every month.

I gradually got worse instead of better. It was discovered that when I did work many mistakes crept into my calculations in spite of all I could do. It was, of course, brain fag and exhaustion. After dragging along for several months I finally gave up my position for every remedy on earth that I tried seemed to make me worse instead of better and I had to force down what food I ate, hating to see meal time come.

One day a friend said, "Crider, do you know there is a food called Grape-Nuts that I believe is made to fit just such cases as yours?" The name rather attracted me and I tried the food. The delicious, sweetish taste pleased me and I relished it. In about a week my old color began to come back and I gained in strength every day. Finally I weighed and found I was gaining fast in flesh, and with the strength came the desire for work, and when I went back I found that my mind was as accurate as ever and ready to tackle anything.

I now can do as much work as any man, and know exactly from what my benefit was derived, and that is from Grape-Nuts. I feel that it is but fair and just that my experience be known." S. P. Crider, Chatham, Va.

MILITARY NOTES

The Canadian Yeomanry Local Military Notes

Lt.-Col. Lessard spent yesterday in town making final arrangements for the despatch of the Peterborough Contingent. No recruiting was done as the the full quota was chosen on Tuesday. A number of men called at the armories to see if there would be any chance of enlisting but could not be taken.

Col. Lessard has made the following appointment: To be corporal provisionally, Wm. Walter Brown.

The men will leave on the midnight express to-night for Montreal. At nine o'clock to-morrow morning they leave Montreal by I. C. Railway for Halifax—the point of mobilization. The Toronto Hamilton and London men will pass through here on the midnight to-night. A tourist sleeping car will be for the exclusive use of the men.

Col. Lessard left for Toronto yesterday afternoon, having completed his work here.

Surgeon-Major Young, as medical examiner of the force, examined thirty-five applicants. The examinations have been very severe, which accounts for the large number of men rejected. The men are offered better inducements this time than in the former contingents, which shows what the Imperial authorities can do for the men.

The second contingent pay ranged from 75c. per day for a private to $1.87 for squadron Sergt.-Major. This time the pay is at the rate of $1.21 per day for a private and rises to $3.19 per day for squadron Sergt.-Major, which is quite an advance on the previous contingents. The term of enlistment is for 12 months or until the termination of the war.

The class of instruction for N.C. officers and men at the Armories is being successfully carried on under the instruction of Sergt.-Major Brittain. The class this year is very large, which goes to show the popularity of the martial spirit.

The officers of the local corps have signified their wish that the men belonging to the regiment will turn out to-night and be at the Armories to-night at nine o'clock.

The bandsmen have stated they will turn out in full force for the occasion. The members of the Canadian Yeomanry will parade at the Armories at nine o'clock and after addresses have been made by the officers and leading men of the town the parade will be formed and march to the station.

There should be a good turn-out to-night and give our men a grand send-off.

The True Tragedy of Life is ill-health, disappointed ambitions, usefulness destroyed. Pathetic! may, tragic. Poor blood, weak nerves, a tired brain. Is there hope? Yes! Because there is a cure.

Ferrozone Tablets make blood; not blue blood but the fluid that strengthens the whole body. Ferrozone does this quickly by improving digestion, stimulating assimulation and by imparting health and tone to the whole system. Ormond & Walsh druggists will tell you a great deal more about Ferrozone. Ask them to tell you of the wonderful curative properties of Ferrozone Tablets.

THE COUNTY COURT

The Grand Jury's Presentation—True Bill Against Henry Doonan for Perjury

The County Court, which opened at one o'clock on Tuesday before His Honor Judge Weller, has spent most of the time so far in hearing the case of Walsh vs. Trotter.

The Grand Jury yesterday morning brought in the following presentment: May it Please Your Honor,—

The Grand Jury of our Sovereign Lord the King, of the County of Peterborough, beg to report as follows:

We are pleased that this county is so free from crime, there being only one criminal case for us to enquire into.

As directed by Your Honor we visited and inspected the County Jail, and are pleased to report that we found it carefully looked after, everything being cleanly kept, and found the inmates carefully guarded and cared for. We are very sorry to see that the majority of the inmates are old men, whose only crime is poverty. Of those at present confined in the jail, one is insane, and awaiting removal to the asylum, one is for larceny, and the rest are vagrants. We think that it would be very desirable to have erected a House of Refuge, in which the old and infirm could be properly cared for, without having to be confined in the county jail, and we would strongly urge upon the Town and County Councils to join in the erection of such an institution.

We are glad to see that the County Council has greatly improved the lighting in the Court House by placing electric lights therein.

We join in wishing Your Honor and the officers of the Court, the compliments of the season.

R. W. GRUBBE,
Foreman.

The Grand Jury brought in a true bill against Henry Doonan who is charged with perjury.

Malt Breakfast Food

Used by Royalty, Millionaires and the Plain People.

A breakfast dish used by royalty and millionaires is surely adapted for the digestion of all classes of our people. Malt Breakfast Food is so delicately delicious that it captivates the taste of old and young, rich and poor. It is the only grain food that truly imparts energy and strength; it is the most refreshing and invigorating for the stomach. Malt Breakfast Food is the most economical of grain foods; one package makes a meal for thirty people. One trial usually convinces. Your Grocer has it.

Drugging Will Not Cure Catarrh

This loathsome disease is caused by germs that invade the air passages of the head, throat and lungs, and can be cured only by inhalation of medicated air. Stomach medicines, atomizers, snuffs are ineffectual, because they fail to reach the cause of the trouble. Catarrhozone is successful because it is inhaled to every part of the breathing organs, and has power to kill the germ, heals the inflamed tissues and prevents droppings in the throat. Catarrhozone treats more than one thousand square feet of the mucous surface with every breath taken through the inhaler, and affords instant relief. It perfectly cures Catarrh Asthma, and Bronchitis. Sold by Druggists. Two months treatment, Price $1.00. Small size 25 cts., or by mail from Polson & Co., Kingston Ont.

Muscular Rheumatism, produced by exposure, if neglected, develops into the chronic form with almost incredible rapidity South American Rheumatic Cure is a quick acting, safe, simple and harmless cure, acts directly on the system, not a liniment to temporarily deaden pain. An internal treatment that will absolutely cure most acute forms in from one to three days.—114

A GERMAN PRINCESS DIES IN ILLINOIS

A Royal Princess of the Blood Dies in Illinois

Daughter of Prince Baron Von Buchau of Germany

Her Father was on the Staff of General Blucher

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 13.—Mrs. Herman Schroeder, who died in this city Wednesday last, will be remembered as the only princess of the blood royal of Germany who has ever died in this state. Mrs. Schroeder was the daughter of Prince Baron Von Buchau, adjutant general on the staff of General Blucher of Waterloo fame. Her parents would not consent to her marriage with Dr. Schroeder, a teacher of natural philosophy and an architect, and when she married him she was banished from the court. Later her husband gave vent to revolutionary ideas and was ordered to be shot. Dr. Schroeder escaped with his wife to this country, where he settled in Bloomington. Dr. Schroeder laid out the towns of Gilman and El Paso, Ill., and built many business blocks in this city. Mrs. Schroeder was rich in her own right and her husband's estate is estimated to be worth $500,000. Two children survive her.

LOSING NO TIME

Steps to be Taken at Once by the Sugar Beet Committee—Councils Requested to act Quickly

The committee which was appointed at the recent meeting of those interested in the sugar beet question has prepared the circular which will be found appended, and is forwarding it to the Township Councils in the County, and also to Cavan and Emily.

If it can be arranged for the deputation to go to Michigan, the farmers can be seen at the factories, as the beets are being brought in at just about this season of the year.

The circular reads as follows:—

Peterborough, Dec 7th, 1901.

Gentlemen,—A largely attended meeting was held in Peterborough on December 3rd, 1901, to confer with Mr. Moody, of London, regarding the establishment of a beet sugar factory, and it appearing from the discussion that such a factory would be of great advantage to the farmers and to the business men, a committee was appointed to take the matter up.

Among the statements brought out at the meeting were that Mr. Moody's company proposed to erect a factory of 1000 tons a day capacity. It would cost $600,000 to erect and equip it, and the annual expenditure would amount to $700,000, principally for the beets and labour. They would pay $4 a ton for beets as required by the Government the first year, and figures were given of the results elsewhere, which show that the beets were a very profitable crop—the most profitable that could be grown. A number of farmers in this country last year grew plots of beets, under the direction of Prof. Shuttleworth, of the Agricultural College, and demonstrated that excellent beets could be grown here, for they contained the highest precentage of sugar of any place in the province.

The conditions here are very favourable for a sugar factory, and a successful factory, affording a near-by market for the beets, would introduce a new and profitable crop, which would be most beneficial for the farmers.

Mr. Moody's proposition was that this company would erect, equip and carry on the factory, provided they were given a bonus of $50,000. To secure the factory some inducement will have to be given, as other localities are offering bonuses. Wallaceburg has given $30,000 for a much smaller factory, while the Town of Berlin and Waterloo Township are offering $45,000.

The people of the Town, it is said are willing to pay a share of this bonus and it is believed that the Townships, or those who would be most benefitted, would pay the balance. But before this is decided upon, and in order that the farmers of our Municipality may learn just what value the establishment of such a factory would be to them, we, the committee appointed at the meeting, ask you to choose a deputation of a couple of representative men, and send them to Michigan, where there are a number of factories, to learn exactly what benefits are derived from such factories. The County of Victoria has already arranged for a deputation for this purpose.

To other municipalities the same request is made, and we would like to be informed of your action as soon as possible, so a day may be fixed, and rates obtained for the trip, for by all going together better rates will be secured. We are advised that the last week in this month is the best time to visit the factories and interview the farmers.

If you will also give the matter of a bonus your consideration, it will facilitate matters in securing the factory.

Yours very truly,
ADAM HALL,
Chairman of Com.
DAWSON KENNEDY
Secretary.

An Island for Anarchists

Washington, Dec. 13.—During the session of the Senate to-day Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts offered a resolution which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, requesting the President of the United States to enter into negotiations with other civilized Governments to the end that a convention may be made in accordance with the terms of which some island, or some other suitable territory may be set apart to which, under due precaution, and after fair and proper trial, persons found guilty of attempting or instigating or counseling the overthrow of all Governments or of criminal attempts on the lives of Chief Magistrates or high officials, may be transported and to which they may be confined.

HOW THE BOERS WORK FOR SYMPATHY

Fairy Story of the British Cruelty Told to a New York Audience

WOMEN AND CHILDREN SHIELDS

The New York Times Calls the "Reverend" Liar to Account—The Story is one of Many.

That a man should get up before a New York audience and gravely assert that British troops have used Boer women and children as shields when advancing to attack Boer soldiers is a fact highly interesting in itself, not, of course, as giving information as to what is happening in South Africa, but as revealing the peculiar mental make-up of the person who said it, and so throwing a side light on the character of the people with whom the British forces are in conflict. We have no reason to accuse the Rev. Mr. Van Broekhuizer of an intention to deceive. In all probability he believes what he says, and is incapable of realising how utterly impossible it will be to convince any sane, and unprejudiced American that his charge is true. He is waiting his time over here, and those who sent him made a mistake in their selection of a representative.

The cause of the republicans in the United States is being seriously injured by the untruthful statements of Boer sympathizers.

BRITAIN'S FRIENDSHIP

The Truth Out at Last and it Showed England's Greatness

New York, Dec. 13.—The Paris correspondent of the New York Tribune (Sunday) furnishes an interesting chapter to the history of the conferences of European Powers respecting the proposals of mediation between the United States and Spain at the outbreak of the war. It has been frequently asserted, and an appearance of historical verity has been given to the narrative, that the British Cabinet took a decisive attitude against the proposed combination or demonstration of the Powers on behalf of Spain. The precise diplomatic exchanges on the subject are shrouded in diplomatic secrecy. The position of the Powers throughout the Spanish-American war was diplomatically correct. They issued the conventional proclamations of neutrality and faithfully maintained this position; but that there were conferences respecting mediation by some of the Powers in the Spanish interest seems to be indisputable.

The Tribune's Paris correspondent quotes the statement of a personage, "who enjoys the best possible opportunity of knowing the truth," to the effect that the French Government, at the initiative of Austria, was invited to join in mediation between the United States and Spain; that France replied in the terms of the reply of Germany which had been similarly approached, that if all the other Powers joined in the movement France would not remain alone in refusing. At this juncture, the Tribune correspondent's informant says, the British Minister of Foreign Affairs suddenly communicated to the Spanish Ambassador at London the flat refusal of Britain to intermeddle in a controversy not affecting her interests.

"This communication was in the most emphatic, almost brutal, language, and it was this act of Britain, that rendered the alleged European demonstration against the United States impossible."

M. Hanotaux, French Minister of Foreign Affairs during the Spanish-American war, confirmed the foregoing statement, and subsequently in a letter to the correspondent said:

"The story about which you spoke to me has been contradicted twenty times. The United States Government knows perfectly well the whole truth of the matter. Moreover, it accepted willingly the friendly offices of France at the moment of negotiations for peace. It seems to me impossible that public opinion in the United States should not now be quite as well aware of the real facts in this matter as is the United States Department of State."

From this version of the important incidents recalled by this correspondent, it appears that it was due to Britain's unconditional, indignant, "almost brutal," refusal to join in a European combination, that might have seriously embarrassed the United States, that the proposed coalition failed. The position taken by Germany and France was that they would not remain out of the movement if all the other Powers agreed "to mediate." Britain's refusal was swift and unreserved, and the project vanished.

PETERBOROUGH'S ENTHUSIASTIC SEND OFF TO HER SOLDIER BOYS

Last night will long be remembered by the citizens of Peterborough, the occasion being the second time the loyal people of this time have been called upon to bid good-bye with wishes of God-speed and a safe return to its noble sons who have volunteered to fight for the grand old flag in the distant African veldt. The occasion is closely related to a similar one which occurred two years ago when a number of our young men left on an errand similar to the one on which our boys have so lately left us. Of the number who left two years ago no less than five have decided to return to the land off the veldt.

From early in the evening the streets were astir with people who were anxious to have one last word with the departing boys.

The men spent the earlier hours of the night in different ways, some at farewell suppers, others conversing with loved ones and friends who were all sorry to see them depart and who will watch with many anxious thoughts for the ones who are away. At the armouries a large crowd had gathered and as the different men came in they were besieged with people anxious to have a handshake and a word with them. At 11 o'clock Major Brown, who is acting corporal called the roll and had his men fall in for a photograph which was taken by our enterprising photographer, Mr. R. M. Roy. At 11.30 the fire hall team appeared on the scene and most of the men were taken in the hose cart and driven to the station. The parade was headed by the band of the 57th regiment and the bugle band. On all sides of the waggons surged a cheering crowd, who could not possibly keep quiet, but rent the air with their lusty cheers.

Arriving at the station the men found a dense crowd of people awaiting their arrival. During the wait at the station the men were kept busy in different ways. The bouncing element was apparently let loose and the boys were repeatedly bounced high in the air or carried around on the shoulders off their admiring friends.

The train arrived at last and the farewells were said and the men started on the first stage of their long journey over land and water.

Three large cars were occupied by men from London, Hamilton and Toronto who joined in the send-off. Many of the men have seen service in South Africa and many a hearty hand shake was given as a veteran of one campaign meets an old chum with whom he fought side by side.

The many friends of Reg. Turner endeavoured to give him a most hearty send off. He was placed in a sitting position on a stretcher at the armories and carried to the station by a never-tiring, enthusiastic party of his old friends. Dick Boyle was taken down in a much similar way by his admirers.

The two members of the 57th regiment were remembered by the officers in a very substantial manner. Col. Edwards presented Sergt. Fred Trussler and Corp. Reg. Turner each with $25.00 in gold. The gifts came as a surprise to the men, but is most heartily appreciated by them. We hope the Town Council will reward the men in the same substantial manner.

The many friends of our departed soldiers will follow with the keenest interest the fortunes of the corps to which they belong.

At the C.P.R. crossing Messrs. Turner & Sons had two large streamers across the street, one bearing the words "God Bless and Protect our Soldier Boys," the other "Success to the British Empire."

The Times heartily joins in wishing them all a safe journey by land and sea and a safe return to their homes and loved ones.

A SEND OFF BY ATHLETES

The young men of the lacrosse, baseball and hockey clubs gave a very hearty send-off at the City Hotel last night to four of the volunteers who have been prominent in athletic circles, viz: Messrs Richard Boyle, Frank Craig, Jack Dundas and Fred McDonald. The dining-room was profusely decorated in the national colors and fully fifty were seated and did justice to an excellent supper. Mr. R. M. Glover occupied the chair and Mr. Dan McCabe the vice-chair. The departing warriors were toasted and modestly responded. Toasts to the athletic societies were wittingly responded to by Messrs. J. Mulhall, J. Sheridan, J. McCabe, H. Dunsford, J. Picard, Ed. Dillon and others. Mr. Dillon remarked that Boyle's experience as a goal-keeper would enable him to stop bullets, while Craig as an expert catcher, would know how to dodge them. Mr. Glover in his closing speech referred to the seriousness of the step the young men were taking, commended their bravery and patriotism and voiced the earnest wish of all that they might come safely through the campaign. Songs were given by Messrs. Joe Geron and Richard Desaulel and the gathering broke up with cheers for the soldiers and the King. Mr. Boyle, the veteran who has volunteered for the second time, was borne to the armory on the shoulders of members of the party.

A FAREWELL TO REG. TURNER

The Twentieth Century Club gave a farewell banquet to Mr. R. H. Turner on Wednesday evening. The company was composed of Mr. Willis Garrow President, the guest, Mr. R. H. Turner, Mr. L. Fallis, Mr. C. Manhard, Messrs. H. Fallis, J. Comstock, A. L. Scott, R. L. McGill, W. Young, W. H. Armstrong, Alex. Weddell, John Connors, H. Milne, F. Clarke, R. H. Henderson, F. Brown, J. J. Turner, Jr., Reg. Adams, Bruce Hutchinson, W. M. Lang and H. Conway. The usual toasts were given and happily responded to and a most enjoyable evening was passed. The departing soldier is a brother of "Chil" Turner, who served with distinction in the Second Canadian Contingent, and who was ready to volunteer a second time but gave way to the wishes of his brother. Mr. J. J. Turner, sr., may well be proud of his sons.

700 YEARS PROVES THE FOLLY OF WAR

Startling Figures Puplished by Count Von Waldersee

THE AWFUL CASUALTIES OF WAR

Over Two Million Men Killed in the Wars Between France and Germany

Berlin, Dec. 13.—Field-Marshal Count Von Waldersee, of the German Army, recently summed up the result of seven hundred years of fighting between France and Germany. "The figures prove to my mind not only the folly of war in general," says Von Waldersee, "but likewise that French and Germans are alike."

Here is the grand total of victories and defeats, with the number of men killed and wounded on the battlefield, for both countries.

Frenchmen killed and wounded by Germans... 1,100,530
Germans killed and wounded by Frenchmen... 1,057,780
Number of French victories over Germans...... 286
Number of German victories over French 240

The Germans on the whole have had five more victories than the French and have killed 42,740 more of their antagonists than the antagonists have killed of them.

The five extra victories, Count Von Waldersee believes, may be accounted for by the fact that the French have nearly always fought single handed while the Germans have had from two to three allies.

Both nations have lost about the same number of men in battle, but French mortality has been greater owing to fevers and epidemics. It seems a strange fact that the two countries have hammered away at each other for over seven centuries without any actual results, so far as statistics of slaughter are concerned. The French have gained exactly as many fortresses as the Germans have won sieges. Both nations have been forced to honorable surrender an equal number of times.

At sea neither has got the advantage of the other, although France has had a navy for over two hundred years and Germany has built hers up in about a quarter of that period.

Contrary to the general idea that French wage more brilliant campaigns than Germans, it is found that they have been evenly balanced. Out of fourteen brilliant coups de main surprises on the field—seven have been executed by the French and seven by the Germans.

Russians have fought twenty-three times for the interests of Germany against France and the English have been allies of the Germans eleven times. Neither of these countries has supported France in battle against Germany.

The initial letters of France-German battle-fields cover every letter of the alphabet except X. Aschenburg begins the list and Zusmarchausen ends it, alphabetically. At Benevento, in the year 1266, Germans and French fought their first engagement.

Six Sailors are Drowned

Aberdeen, Wash., Dec. 13.—Wednesday night the British bark Pinmore, Master Jameson, owned by Clink Bros. of Greenock, Scotland, bound from Santa Rosalia, Mexico, to Portland, in ballast, went into the surf at the mouth of Raft river, north of Gray's Harbor. The crew of thirty abandoned the ship and took to the boats, one of which was capsized shortly after leaving the vessel and six men were drowned. The other boat reached shore safely being out for thirty-six hours. One man died from exposure.

The crew made their way by land to Oyehut, where the tug Ranger brought them to Hoquiam. One of the seamen, P. Pearson, is nearly dead from exposure and is in the hospital at Hoquiam. The ship report that the vessel disappeared, but it is believed that she has been towed off by a tug from Astoria.

ANNUAL BANQUET

Sons of England Banquet a Brilliant Affair

The nineteenth annual banquet of Lansdowne Lodge, No. 25, Sons of England was held at the Morgan House last night.

The tables were laid in the large dining room of the hotel, which was tastefully decorated with flags and bunting, which was hung around the room and streamers of flags hung in all directions from the large pillars in the room. The British flag and large maple leaves were very much in evidence. Among the many mottoes were "God Save the King," and "Welcome." The tables were set along the west and south sides of the room. On the east three large tables were placed separately. Covers were laid for seventy-five guests and the tables were filled to their fullest capacity.

The menu card was very prettily gotten up. The different courses were as follows:

—SOUP—
Oxtail.
—BOILED—
Sugar Cured Ham.
—ROASTS—
Sirloin of Beef and Brown Gravy. Lamb and Mint Gravy. Turkey and Cranberry Sauce.
—COLD—
Tounge.
—ENTRIES—
Cabbage. Salad. Celery.
—RELISHES—
Worcester Sauce. Anchovy Sauce. Cheese. Mixed Pickles.
—VEGETABLES—
Mashed Potatoes. Boiled Potatoes. Wax Beans. French Peas.
—PASTRY & CAKES—
English Plum Pudding and Brandy Sauce. Deep Apple Pie and Scalded Cream. Mince Pie. Black Currant Tarts.
—DESSERT—
Apples. Almonds. Filberts. Layer Raisins. Green Tea. Black Tea. Coffee.

At ten o'clock the chairman, Rev. Dr. Symonds, rose to his feet, and in an enthusiastic speech proposed the toast to "The King and Royal Family." The other toasts were "Army, Navy and Volunteers," "England," "Canada, Our Home," "The Supreme Grand Lodge," "Mayor and Corporation," "The Ladies," "Our Sister Societies," "The Press," "Our Genial Host."

After a most enjoyable evening had been spent by the brethren, the meeting dispersed after singing "God Save the King."

Those present all joined heartily in wishing one of their number, Mr. Reg. H. Turner, the very best wishes and hoping he would return from the field of strife safe and sound to once more enjoy the hospitality of the Sons of England.

The guests were all effusive in their thanks to the genial host, Mr. Robert Munroe, under whose direction the spread was laid. The decorating was done by Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, who are deserving of great credit for the very artistic manner in which the work was done. The effect produced was certainly pleasing to the eye.

ONE ON OUR JIM

A Campaign Story Told at the Expense of The Provincial Secretary.

One of the campaign stories that came to The Times yesterday, related to the Provincial Secretary and Hon. Mr. Whitney. According to the story these two politicians were stumping riding in western Ontario.

After a big meeting one of the local Tory politicians, who had Mr. Whitney in charge, invited him into a hotel barroom for some refreshment. There they found Mr. Stratton, who had landed ahead of them.

"What'll you have?" asked the Tory entertainer, of Mr. Stratton.

"A little cold Apollinaris," was the reply.

"And you?," said he to Mr. Whitney.

"I think I'll have a glass of buttermilk."

The barkeeper turned to the host. "What shall I give you, Colonel?" he asked.

The Tory gentleman heaved a long sigh. "Under the circumstances," he said, "I think you can give me a glass of pie."

REINFORCEMENTS OF 25,000 MEN

Would Soon Put End to the War in South Africa

BOERS IN GOOD CONDITION

Boers are Well Equipped and Active And Get Remounts from Kaffir Kraals—Canadian Troops Highly Spoken of London, Dec. 13.—The military correspondent of the Times, in a message sent from Pretoria, declares that the statements that the British troops in South Africa are "stale" are untrue. He says that on the contrary the men are in splendid condition, and though they would be glad to get home, they have not lost their zest for fighting. This refers to regulars and volunteers attached to various battalions. Some colonials recently recruited at South African seaports are less satisfactory, but the best colonials, those from Canada, New Zealand, and Australia, are invaluable, and the new Yeomanry are improving. The correspondent says it is undeniable that the strain on the generals and staff is excessive. Many of these officers have worked for twelve hours daily for two years. Kitchener alone seems absolutely impervious to wear and tear. The regimental officers are all right.

BOERS IN GOOD CONDITION.

Reinforcements to the number of 25,000 would be immensely valuable, and would render the last stage of the war rapid and complete. The Boers keeping in the field number from 8,000 to 10,000, and they are mostly in as good condition as the British. They are seasoned soldiers, and get plenty of supplies from Kaffir kraals and parts of the country that are only accessible to themselves. The Kaffir kraals also serve as remount depots, and for each Boer there are two Kaffirs, who, even when unarmed, are useful auxiliaries. For fighting purposes the enemy must be estimated as numbering 20,000 exceedingly mobile troops. The Boers still believe that European intervention is imminent, that Great Britain is tired of the war, and that they have only to hold out long enough in order to make the British so weary that they will surrender. The burghers are fighting to win, and are convinced that they will win. The Boers pay attention to the British press, but may not believe the politician's speeches as they consider politicians professional liars. They note every word indicating weakening of British determination, lamenting the cost of the war, and speaking of international complications to which its continuance may give rise. They have no particular enmity toward the British nation, and rather like the "Khakis;" but their one thought is the when a Liberal Government comes into power they will get justice.

KITCHENER THE RIGHT MAN.

The correspondent dwells on the difficulties of Kitchener's position. He has three thousand miles of communications to protect. Civil Governments are being re-established, English populations are being brought back, and the enemy's families are being looked after. All is being done with a much smaller number of effective troops than has been imagined. The removal of Kitchener would be fatal, says the correspondent, and would be construed by the Boers as a great triumph for themselves. Kitchener knows the Boers better than any other man in South Africa, and the army trusts and believes in him.

A despatch to the Times from Wellington, New Zealand, says that responsible New Zealanders returning from South Africa declare that more soldiers are needed to finish the war. The troops have the utmost confidence in Kitchener, but his efforts are hampered by ill-advised agitation in the United Kingdom. It is asserted that executive consideration is shown Boers in refugee camps, while colonists in Natal are suffering hardships.

DE WET'S FORCE OF BOERS BROKEN UP

Broadwood and Byng Get in Some Good Work

De Wet and Steyn Withdraw to the South

The War Office Expects War to End Soon

London, Dec. 12.

The correspondent of The Times at Pretoria says the Boer force which was concentrated under De Wet in the Orange River Colony, and was hovering around the line of blockhouses between Kronstad and Lindley, has been broken up by Broadwood and Byng. De Wet, Steyn, and about one hundred men had previously withdrawn south.

BOERS SURRENDERING.

Liverpool, Dec. 12.

The Post says the War Office interprets the large Boer captures to mean that the Boers are yielding in detail with a view to avoiding the humiliation of a general surrender. The War Office, says the paper, expects the war to end soon.

A despatch from Paris says that the Rappel prints a despatch which asserts that Kitchener is ill.

Strathcona Better

London, Dec. 13.—Lord Strathcona is making distinct satisfactory progress. He was able to leave his room for a little while to-day, and hopes to be about again in the course of a week or so.

Canadian Dangerously Ill

Ottawa, Dec. 12.—A cable received from Mr. Chamberlain to Lord Minto says: London, Dec. 10.—Regret to inform you Richard Took dangerously ill; enteric, December 8th; mother, Mrs. Took, St. Helen's, Ontario.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Greenport, N. Y., Dec. 13.—A hatch was carelessly left off the forward end of the Holland company's submarine torpedo-boat Fulton and she sank this morning, nearly carrying down with her John Wilson, one of the crew. She lies in from twelve to fifteen feet of water, her conning tower protruding a little above the surface. A wrecking tug and diver have been ordered and the company hopes to float the vessel to-morrow morning. The Fulton was being fitted up at the company's basin in New Suffolk for the trip to Washington, which was to be made this week. A workman was below attending to the machinery and the hatch forward through which he went down was left open. When the tide reached the hatch the water went in with a rush and the boat sank. The workman escaped through the conning tower.

Washington, Dec. 13.—Much unfavorable comment has been evoked against Colonel Russell B. Harrison because of his opposition to the granting of a pension of $5,000 a year to his stepmother, the widow of President Harrison. It is alleged that Mrs. Harrison was mulcted out of her share of the estate by her stepson and that therefore, far from being sufficiently provided for as he affirms, she needs the pension. The opposition on the part of Colonel Harrison is alleged to be for spite, in that he has expressed antagonism to her receiving either any share of the estate or any pension.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 13.—Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, when asked to-day concerning the efforts of Colonel Harrison, her stepson, to prevent her receiving a pension from congress shrugged her shoulders and declined to discuss the matter.

"Such antagonism, I should think," she said, "would speak for itself."

Ottawa, Dec. 12.—Col. Evans' office was fairly besieged early this morning by a number of stalwart chaps who had heard he was taking extra recruits for the Canadian Mounted Rifles. The Colonel, however, only wanted two additional men, and these were at once selected.

If the Quebec quota is not fully made up, as unofficially reported from the ancient capital, Colonel Evans can make up the deficiency in Ottawa at an hour's notice, and get all the men he may need. The Militia Department is very much handicapped and inconvenienced by the annoying delays and inattention of the War Office authorities. Although the prompt embarkation and departure of the regiment for South Africa has been settled from the first, so far as the Militia Department is concerned, for the 7th to 10th of January, not a word has yet been received by the Department yet as to the sailing for Canada of the two transports designated by the British Government for the service. The uncertainty on this and other points interferes with definite and final railway catering and many matters of detail. The Department, if all the transport arrangements had been left to it by the Imperial authorities, would have managed perfectly well with one transport, instead of the two that had been selected, and the soldiers and their horses would have been off on the 7th of January. No definite word as to officers has yet been received, either.

Slowly Dying From Catarrh

Thousands are in this terrible condition but don't realise their danger. If you have the slightest taint of Catarrh, would it not be wise to commence Catarrhozone treatment now and be perfectly cured in a short time? This pleasant remedy cures without the use of drugs, atomizers or snuffs. You inhale the medicated vapor which spreads to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the germs and heals the inflamed surfaces. Catarrhozone clears the throat and nose instantly, and never fails to cure the most obstinate catarrhal, lung and throat troubles. A trial will demonstrate the value of Catarrhozone, which sells for $1.00, small size 25c, at Druggists or Polson & Co. Kingston, Ont.

EUROPE'S POPULATION

Statistics Regarding the Population of European Countries

London, Dec. 13.—An analysis of census enumerations in Europe made for a scientific journal of Paris, and reproduced in the Literary Digest, discloses some interesting but inexplicable facts.

The only increase in France, since 1896 is in the large cities, principally Paris, and much of this is due to immigration. Elsewhere in the republic the population is decreasing.

Germany now has 56,345,014 inhabitants, an increase of 7.78 per cent. since 1895, due almost entirely to an excess of births over deaths. The contrast in this respect between Germany and France is starting in its suggestions.

Austria-Hungary has increased 4,000,000, or 9 per cent., in ten years. The population of Switzerland in 1900 was 3,312,551, an increase of 400,000. Italy has increased from 28,459,628 in 1881 to 32,449,754 in 1901. The Northern nations are increasing about 1 per cent. a year.

England, including Wales, has increased 12 per cent. in ten years. Ireland, from well known political causes, is declining, her population being now about one-half what it was in 1841. Scotland, on the contrary, has nearly doubled in the same period.

Everywhere "the will to live" is asserted in a growing population, save in France—the one exception in all the world. The exception makes a problem which may well absorb the attention of the scientific world.

MILITARY NOTES

The members of No. 4 Company, 57th Regiment to the number of about 30, gathered at the Crown Hotel last night at 8.15 to enjoy their annual dinner. The large dining room was tastefully decorated with flags and bunting for the occasion. Among the officers present were Capt. Hounsell, Lieut. Cameron, 2nd Lieut. Hamilton.

The tables were laden with an abundance of good things and at the appointed time the boys in scarlet made a magnificent charge on the groaning tables which would forever eclipse the charge of the gallant Canadians at Paardeberg. The tasteful viands were routed worse than the Boers have ever suffered in Africa.

The menu card was very tastefully gotten up. The cover had on it in gilt letters; Annual Dinner No 4 Co. 57th Regiment at the Company Canteen December 12, 1901, together with the crest of the regiment.

The menu list had several very tempting dishes and others which were in reality more tempting than the name would signify, and the toast list was an excellent one.

Lieut. Percy R. Price who left last night for South Africa was one of the guests.

The committee in charge were Col.-Sergt. Cotteril, Sergt. Burnham, Corp Revell, Pte. Morden and Pte. Hamilton and the way the arrangements were carried out reflects great credit on them.

The members of the Company will long remember the very pleasant evening spent and will eagerly look forward to next year when they will be sure to repeat the entertainment.

The Cause of Dyspeptic Pains

They arise from the formation of gas owing to improper digestion. A very prompt and efficient remedy is Polson's Nerviline. It relieves the distention instantly, and by its stimulating action on the stomach, aids digestion. Nerviline cures dyspeptic pains by removing the cause. Nerviline is also highly recommended for cramps, colic, summer complaint and inflamation. Sold in large 25c bottles everywhere.

Knew Serum is Poisonous

St Louis, Mo., Dec. 13.—The second session of the tetanus inquiry commission, organized to fix the responsibility for thirteen deaths following the use of city antitoxin, was commenced this afternoon in Mayor Wells' office.

Martin Schmidt, assistant city bacteriologist, declared that Dr. Armand Ravold, the city bacteriologist, had directed him on Oct. 3 to prepare for distribution serum drawn from the horse Jim, which had been shot the day before because it had tetanus.

"I knew," the witness declared, "that the serum was poisonous and unfit for human beings, but I felt that I could not question Dr. Ravold's order. So I went ahead and carried out the orders."

Thinner Than a Rail

Spending every day, as much energy as you make, and if the balance goes a little further, well, you get thinner. Not wise to go that way longer. Better use Ferrozone, you will digest more—a little gain the first week, but the gain keeps growing. Not quite, so thin! Keep right on, only don't use Ferrozone too long or you will get too fat. Then your blood will be rich, your heart strong, you won't puff so much, you won't get tired quickly. Fat, blood strength, you have them all with Ferrozone. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Wealthy [illegible] Killed

Zeifo, Fla., Dec. 13.—G. L. Powell and J S Overstreet, two wealthy naval stores manufacturers, shot and killed each other to-day. Overstreet went to Powell's still, the two men quarreled, and both emptied their revolvers without injury to each other. Powell then went into the house and came out with two rifles. Both fired together and each man fell.

WEATHER NOTES.

Probs: Mostly cloudy and mild, with light sleet or rain.

Conditions are becoming decidedly disturbed to the westward of the lake region, and Mississippi Valley. The weather continues moderately cold in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories. In Ontario the temperature is about 10 degrees higher than in Quebec.

BRITISH PREMIER'S ANSWER.

The speech by Premier Lord Salisbury at the Guildhall reception to the Prince and Princess of Wales will be regarded in Europe as an answer to the attacks made upon his Ministry and upon the British Empire abroad, and more particularly in Germany. To Count Von Bulow the British Premier's allusion to foreign enmity and colonial loyalty will be interesting as the first official utterance which can be construed into a reply to his impudent avowal in the Reichstag that the Emperor's telegram to Kruger was not an unpremeditated impulse but a deliberate effort to find out how far Germany could reckon on the support of Russia and France in forming an anti-British combination. Since that unfriendly declaration was made by the German Chancellor with a frankness that was not without a purpose, the British people everywhere have formed the conclusion that German hostility is a fact which must be accepted and dealt with as circumstances may arise. This attitude of Germany has been further emphasised not only by what has been said and published in Germany during the anti-British agitation, but by the unequivocal declarations of the German press and by the leaders of the Colonial party, that the object of German naval expansion is eventually to deprive Great Britain of her supremacy on the ocean. While Germany has thus shown her hand, other European powers were not slow to perceive the wisdom of letting her alone to work out, if she is able, the object of her ambition. The first question for them was, what had they to gain by the substitution of German for British power on the high seas? President Faure answered that question quite clearly on a former occasion when he showed that in any coalition France might enter against Britain, the brunt of the contest and heaviest sacrifices would fall upon France, while all the benefits would accrue to Germany. Lord Salisbury's speech is an intimation that the cloud of attempted combination against Great Britain has not altogether passed away, and his words will, it is to be hoped, be accepted in the British colonies with the same spirit of steadfastness which has characterized the people of British at home and in the colonies since the issue of the Boer ultimatum. Henceforth all nations should know that in all matters affecting British interests the motherland and the colonies stand together. This is the great and impressive lesson contained in Lord Salisbury's speech, and, if the colonies will only rise to it, it will go far towards dispelling the cloud of anti-British animosity lowering over Europe.

GIRLS FROM IRELAND.

"The Women's National Immigration Society," of Montreal, has been bringing young girls out from Ireland and has asked the Dominion Government for a grant to extend its operations! Why should the Government pay any money for such a purpose? There is no lack of young women in Montreal, or in any part of Ontario or Quebec, and if some of the ladies in the largest city of the Dominion find it hard to get and keep good servants in their houses, the reason is that young women find other employment more attractive than housework, under present conditions. Let them pay higher wages, reduce the amount and the hours of labor, provide good sleeping and living accommodation, and treat the hired girl as a fellow Christian instead of an inferior grade of humanity, and hundreds of the young women who now earn their bread in factories will seek employment in private families. The law of supply and demand should be allowed to operate as freely in one employment as another. Moulders, or printers, or carpenters would quickly resent an appeal to the Government to flood the market in which they sell their labor, and why should not domestic servants have all the advantages of their situation? Wages go up when two jobs are looking for one worker, and go down when two workers are looking for one job. According to the general belief, the lot of the hired girl in Canada is not a particularly happy one, with her attic bedroom, scant leisure and limited opportunity to meet or to entertain her friends. For her deprivations, as well as for her labor, she has a right to demand payment, and this scheme of importing girls from Ireland at public cost would spoil her chance to get extra pay. It is not a square deal.

Christmas Novelties

Pure silk woven pictures in colors is one of the very newest articles on the market and will make a most suitable Xmas gift. The pictures portray life scenes in hunting, canoeing, Niagara Falls, baseball, battles, Spanish Bull Fight, the Gladiator, King Edward VII, Queen Alexandra, Duke and Duchess of York, Madona and Child, Rose Home.

We also have handsome book marks in same line representing Merry Christmas with verses, Ave Maria Ora Pro Nobis, Rose Home, etc., etc. As there is only a limited number and as these goods cannot be bought elsewhere in town an early call is solicited.

The Truth

is told by most people. If it were not, the whole commercial and social fabric would fall to pieces. There are thousands upon thousands of people who testify to the cures effected by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. They are representative people in their communities. You would believe their word on any question of knowledge. They speak the simple truth when they testify that Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia, "weak" stomach and other diseases of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures when all other remedial means have failed. It cures perfectly and permanently.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" it is free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

Accept no substitute for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. There is nothing "just as good."

"I was a total wreck—could not eat or sleep," writes Mr. J. O. Beers, of Berryman, Crawford Co., Mo. "For two years I tried medicine from doctors, but received very little benefit. I lost flesh and strength, was not able to do a good day's work. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and when I had taken one bottle I could sleep, and my appetite was wonderfully improved. I have taken five bottles and am still improving."

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED
by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Professor O'Brien

CANADA'S GREATEST PHRENOLOGIST and the only recognized SCIENTIFIC PALMIST (by law) has removed to 263 Hunter st. Terrace, near railway crossing. See name in window. As Professor O'Brien is a very busy man, he will not be able to leave Peterboro for a few days yet. The more people he examines the more he has to examine, which fact alone speaks for his ability and the esteem and popularity he has gained during his short stay in Peterboro. It will be well for skeptics of either science to investigate before condemning either Phrenology or Scientific Palmistry. The latter should not be confounded with the common fortune-telling. Professor O'Brien has proved in open court before Crown witnesses at the Toronto General Sessions, March 14th, 1901, that Palmistry as demonstrated by him is a pure science and has no connection with the so-called fortune-telling. Anyone wishing to be enlightened on the science should call on Professor O'Brien, who will be pleased to explain his scientific methods.

WHY THE WAR IS PROLONGED

Chicago, Dec. 12.—The Chronicle says: In every part of the world the triumphs of British arms have been gained at the greatest possible cost, chiefly in consequence of a hide-bound conservatism which is incapable of learning from experience or from the operations of the enemy.

From Braddock to Buller the commanders of British forces sent against races and peoples who are not disposed to give battle according to any book on tactics have sacrificed life and treasure needlessly by following with characteristic stubbornness lines of action which may be well enough in Europe, but which are wholly out of place elsewhere.

The Austrian general who was beaten by Napoleon Bonaparte in the early days of the latter's wonderful career and who, discovering that the Corsican had achieved success by disregarding certain well-accepted military rules, declared that he would rather be defeated than to win by such means, has had many imitators in the British army.

Ignorant, vain, self-sufficient, arrogant and always underestimating the foe, the average British officer wins, if he win at all, only by brute force and at a cost largely in excess of the necessities of the case.

When the Americans had Indians to fight they conformed to the customs of Indians. To live like the Indian, to know the country as he knew it, to travel without impedimenta by night as well as by day, to be cautious and even crafty and, at any sacrifice of comfort, to take advantage of every favoring circumstance, were rules the observance of which enabled American soldiers to subdue and capture some of the wiliest foes that ever confronted an organized soldiery.

Since the resistance to American rule in the Philippines has degenerated into a guerrilla warfare it is noticeable that the operations of the army have taken on many of the features of frontier fighting in this country twenty and thirty years ago. General Funston captured Aguinaldo exactly as Sitting Bull, or Geronimo might have captured him. Captain Lawton's recent exploit in Bohol by which he and his men scaled a steep precipice and surprised and seized an important camp of rebels was of the same order.

The British army in South Africa presents the humiliating spectacle of practical impotency in the presence of a handful of boers because there is not in the establishment sufficient intelligence and adaptability to fight the enemy after his own fashion.

In the nature of things pursuit of the present policy will eventually result in the subjugation of the small bands which now resist the complete British occupation of the Transvaal, but if England had one commander capable of organizing a few small columns like those which operate on the side of the Dutch, made up of fighting men who can get along for a while without tennis, golf or pianos, who can go hungry and naked if need be and who are not afraid to meet an enemy hand to hand if necessary, the boer "war" would be a thing of the past in short order.

Whether sympathising with boer or Briton, the average English-speaking American cannot fail to be ashamed of the stupidity and inefficiency of the English-speaking army now "operating" in South Africa.

CAN DANCE A TWO-STEP

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Nineteenth Century.

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir,—In my youth I was fond of dancing, and took in every dance for miles around. That is years ago. I fell a ready victim to rheumatism 12 years ago, and have been a sufferer ever since. Nothing seemed to give me relief, until I secured a box of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. My recovery since I began taking these pills has been miraculous, and for the first time in 12 years, I was able to participate in a social dance, and am now almost entirely well. I hope others may profit by my experience. E. J. Hall, G.T.R., Lindsay

Sir,—Please use my name in any way you like to show the wonderful results that Dr. Clarkes' Little Red Pills have wrought in my case. I was a sufferer for 22 years from dyspepsia, and could get no relief. Six boxes of the pills made me a well man. I might also mention that a friend, who was a lifelong sufferer from rheumatism, is also bearing testimony to these marvellous pills, having been entirely cured. A. N. Brown, Odessa, N. Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 60 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

Kidneys and Bladder

Don't neglect these most important organs of the body, or you will regret it. Have you pain in the back, a dull feeling in the region of the kidneys? At times your water comes freely, a large quantity, light in color, with no peculiar sensations, while at other times you do not make it quite so freely. It is dark in color, you make a small quantity, and a sort of burning sensation. If such is the case give your condition immediate attention or more serious complications will set in. Our Latest Method Treatment guaranteed as a positive cure for such conditions, and remember WE CURE YOU OR NO PAY.

BLOOD POISON

If you have this awful disease you are in danger until completely Cured: the various symptoms you notice should be a warning to take immediate treatment. Don't put it off until too late, as it continually grows worse. If you have sore throat, patches in tongue or mouth, swollen glands, hair falling out, blotches on body, itching skin or other signs of this awful disease call on us. We give you a written guarantee to cure you by our LATEST METHOD TREATMENT without Mercury or Potassium, and you

PAY WHEN CURED

You need pay nothing until you are convinced that a thorough and complete cure has been established. It makes no difference who has failed to cure you, call and see us, as we will give you a thorough examination free of charge and may be the means of saving you years of suffering.

Each time you call you see Dr. Goldberg personally.

He has 18 diplomas, certificates, etc., which testify to his standing and abilities. The number of years we have been established in Detroit and the cures we effected have ranked us the foremost specialists of the country. We can give no stronger guarantee of our abilities to cure you than the fact that you need pay nothing until cured.

OF

THE NORTH AMERICAN OIL AND REFINING COMPANY

OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

Incorporated under the laws of Wyoming.

Location of Property, Acton, California.
Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent.
General Office, Colorado Springs. Colorado.
Branch Offices, Los Angeles, California, and 150 Nassau St., New York City.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

E. A. Sunderlin, President, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Joseph H. Parker, Vice President and Gen. Mgr., Los Angeles, California.
Geo. A. Cockburn, Secretary and Treasurer, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Frank S. Livingston, Los Angeles, California.
F. L. Sherwin, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of 250,000 shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offers for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about 30 miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one section from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerites Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.00 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells. It can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land. West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property is the Iola Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., C. O. O. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 400 bbl. white oil gusher) Hortensia White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page 253).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in 1876, and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 8 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from 200 to 700 feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders $12,000,000, and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing.

These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.75 to $4.00 per barrel on the field, nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price and stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary propositions that are now being handled in Southern California. The North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect a refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerites Field, as well as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns 2000 acres of white oil land in the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land has been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in conjunction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as oil experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the entire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & Refining Co.'s lands are in a line with and on the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid revenues. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural petroleum of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining property.

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with maps and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details of these are too lengthy to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any time at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on application. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land and is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as their relation to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. A careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the probability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the business of refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct storage tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, charging therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for the lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in the future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and operated. The profits accruing from both enterprises will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, and a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which will eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. 2000 acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State."
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast Of North America and South America, Asia and Australia for a market.
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Pipe line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th. Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no assessment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this district as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a great deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal investigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve that the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale 250,000 shares of its treasury stock at the low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of erecting a 500 barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been started, and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high quality will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Colorado Springs, Colo.

SOME POSITIVE PROOFS

What is Being Told of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills—No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Clark's Little Red Pills cured me of kidney trouble of many years' standing, and after I had tried every other known remedy. Joseph Begley, Caledonia ave., Rochester, N.Y.

I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly at times that I could not walk. Nothing I took did me much good, until I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. Four boxes cured me entirely.

I had the misfortune to have suffered some years ago from paralysis, having no less than three strokes. I could get nothing to do me any good until I was induced to try Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I took nine boxes, and although not by any means well, I think I am in a fair way to recovery. I can now walk with the aid of a stick and feel myself getting better every day. M. F. Mann, Merlin, N.Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of backache. I suffered for years, and took two boxes. That is a year ago. I have not had a symptom since. James R. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering. M. S. Macdonald, G.T.R. shops, Montreal.

Vaccine Was No Good.

Provincial Health Officer Bryce had a blue report on the smallpox situation to give out this morning. "I am afraid we are in for it," was the way he expressed his apprehensions. "It seems to be coming at us from all directions." In connection with his advice for general vaccination, he states that it will not be safe to trust to the vaccine which was on the market last spring. In many cases it did not "take," and a lot of it was poor stuff.

If Catarrh is Your Trouble.

You will find instant relief and absolute cure in Catarrhozone, which kills the germs that cause the disease, cures the cough, prevents droppings in the throat, relieves congestion, and quickly heals the inflamed membranes. Catarrhozone cures perfectly the most chronic cases of Catarrh, lung and throat troubles, and is delightful, simple and safe to use. Catarrhozone is a scientific treatment highly indorsed by doctors and druggists and sold everywhere for $1, small size, 25c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Don't Allow Operation for Cancer

There is a simpler, safer and more effective Method of Treatment.

Dr. J. C. Oliver, of Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S.A., in a paper he read before the Ohio State Medical Society, May 1896, said: "I have operated in a considerable number of cases of Cancer recently, and with one exception all have died within fourteen months after the operation."

This statement of a prominent Surgeon, should make any one suffering from cancer, hesitate before submitting to operation and consider carefully the evidence offered on behalf of the new Constitutional remedy, which cures Cancers, Tumors and all malignant growths, without the necessity of operation. It is a simple vegetable medicine that searches out and destroys the cancer growths, completely eradicates the disease, and at the same time, builds up and invigorates the system.

Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., will be pleased to send full particulars of this treatment, in a plain, sealed wrapper.

Cleverly Answered

At a gathering of young people the other night, riddles became the order of the day, when one of those present propounded the following: "Suppose the devil should have his tail cut off, where would he go to have it put on again?" This was a poser, and one after another gave it up. Finally, one young lady, who was noted for her quick repartee, replied, "To the Oriental Hotel; they re-tail spirits."

Billiard Conceit Reduced

A Peterborough lawyer with a penchant for billiards, had occasion, recently to visit a country village. While there, seeking to pass the time, he found a new and excellent billiard table. Upon his inquiring if there was anybody about who could play, the landlord referred him to one of the natives, who may be called John Jones, because that isn't his name. They played several games, but the result was against the Peterborough lawyer. Try as he might, the countryman won.

"Mr. Jones," he remarked, "I have quite a reputation at home. They consider me a good billiard player, but I'm not in your class. May I inquire how long you have played?"

"Oh, for a spell back," replied the native. "Say, stranger, I don't want to hurt your feelin's but you're the fust feller I ever beat!"

Their Bill of Fare for the Coming Christmas

Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co. have been a long time in business, and have been continually gathering pointers in regard to the most taking preparations for the Christmas trade. The results of their experiences will be found expressed in this year's magnificent stock of serviceable goods, suitable for sensible Christmas presents. You can show your good will and kindness to your friends and relatives better by making a gift that will be useful, and that will also serve to keep you in grateful remembrance far longer than by some more expensive, but comparatively useless article. At the City Clothing Store, you will find a magnificent holiday stock. This includes beautiful neckwear, embracing all the latest and most elegant novelties, handsome mufflers, etc. Silk handkerchiefs are splendidly represented, and also gloves for street wear, driving, etc. Warm underwear of English and Canadian manufacture, handsome Hosiery and silk suspenders, with initials, and in every variety of elegance, will also be found. When you are giving your orders to Santa Claus be sure and insist that the bill is to be filled at H. Le Brun & Co's. They can fill the bill to your satisfaction every time. Their stock is superb and of great variety, and the prices are very reasonable—

When you deal with Santa Claus,
Send him straight to H. LeBrun's,
If you ask him why—because
At his store, on George street found,
Beautiful Christmas goods abound,
The best in all the country round;
The staple, solid and the gay,
For lasting wear or neat display,
And, best of all, tout bon marche.

QUAINT PHILOSOPHY

In an Advertisement

When a man acts as he believes the Infinite within him would have him act, he draws power to himself from unseen sources; that power may be shown in many ways.

Things work smoother, plans carry out, people begin to say, "lucky," "he's a winner;" "everything he touches succeeds," etc., etc.

Ever try it? If you ever do, you will agree that it is the greatest proposition on earth.

There is a marvelous potency behind the man who acts in a simple, straightforward way, as near as he knows, in accordance with the promptings of that invisible Deity within.

This should teach him that great and honorable work is ahead; Man at once the tool and a part of the master workman.

The tool must not be dulled and ruined by bad food, tobacco, whiskey, coffee, etc. You question, including coffee among "bad habits." None of these habits are bad habits unless they weaken or lessen the clean cut power of the individual. If they do, quit them. If food and drink are not well selected change. Put your machine in clean, first-class shape. It is the purpose of this article to suggest a way to keep the body well so it can carry out the behest of the mind.

A sure and safe start in the right direction is to adopt Grape-Nuts Food for every morning's breakfast. It is delicious, pre-digested, highly nourishing, and will put one far along toward doing his best in life's work.

Follow this with abandonment of coffee, if it does not agree with you, and take in place of it, Postum Cereal Food Coffee, for its regenerating and vitalizing nourishment.

With a wise selection of food and drink, man can quickly place himself in shape where the marvelous Directing Power will use him for some good and worthy purpose.

Sense, just plain, common sense.

THE METHODIST CHURCH

THE ANNUAL CONGREGATIONAL MEETING WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Church in a Good Financial Position—A Very Enjoyable Evening Spent

The lecture room of the George Street Methodist Church was well filled on Wednesday evening, the occasion being the annual congregational meeting. It was a pleasant occasion, as the reports were very favorable, indicating that none of the church schemes had failed, that all expectations had been met, and that the church was financially prosperous and extending its usefulness.

After the devotional opening exercise, Rev. Mr. Wilson, the pastor, made a brief address of welcome, and expressed the pleasure his first year's work in Peterborough had given. He found the membership a loyal people, strengthening his hands in every way. He urged that the good work continue.

Mr. Thomas Morrow, treasurer of the Trustee Board, read a brief financial statement. The finances of the church, other than such as relate to the matter of pastor's salary and some other details are in the hands of this Board. The year's operations showed that all expenses had been handsomely met, and that in addition, the payments on account of the church Century Fund had been so liberal and sustained as to enable payments to be made, reducing the church debt by nearly $3,000 in the two years since the inception of this fund. This was a very creditable showing and a very fine thing for the congregation to do, and the future promised that equally as well would be done. The invitation was extended to all who were not now contributing to do so and help on the good work.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, Recording Steward of the Quarterly Board, read a short statement in connection with the finances of the department managed by this Board. He was pleased to be able to say that the funds contributed had met the current expenditure in a very satisfactory manner. It was a pleasant duty he had to perform, and it gratified him to be able to do so. He urged liberality and a systematic giving as the keynotes of the financial affairs of a successful church.

Touching on another matter, Mr. Dumble referred to the departure of Mr. F. W. Walden, choir master, who was leaving to go to Picton. He was sure he voiced general regret at Mr. Walden's departure, and in recognition of Mr. Walden's great ability and usefulness and his readiness to at all times contribute to the enjoyment of others, and to help the various objects of the church, the Trustee Board had passed the following resolution:

"The trustees of the George Street Methodist church, on parting with Mr. Walden as their organist, desire to express their gratification in being able to testify to the fact that their association during the four years has been one of continuous harmony. Mr. Walden has maintained most pleasant relations with his choir and has kept the choir full and effective. They thank him and his wife for the cheerful service of song so ungrudgingly rendered. They wish him and Mrs. Walden a successful and happy career in their new home."

Mr. Dumble added that Mr. Walden had been one of the best and most efficient teachers in the Sabbath school, and that his services in this connection would be missed.

Mr. Walden replied in feeling terms, thanking the officials and congregation for much kindness and all assistance in his department. He said he had tried to do his work faithfully and earnestly and it was a source of deep gratification for him to find that he had not entirely failed.

Saying that "The King never dies" Mr. Dumble then introduced the new choir master, Mr. G. W. Mulligan, who, with the assistance of Mrs. Mowat, as organist, would have the choir in charge. He bespoke for the new director the hearty support of the members of the choir and of the congregation generally.

Interspersed in the proceedings were the numbers of a capital programme of songs and music. The efficient orchestra of the Sunday school played several spirited selections. Mr. Mulligan gave a song. Miss Clara Bellegham a song, the Misses Gray a vocal duet, and Mr. Watson a song.

Labor Meeting

An open meeting of the Peterborough branch of the American Federation of Labor will be held to-night in the Sons of England Hall, Hunter street. Mr. Flett, one of the organizers, will speak. It is expected other speakers will also be present. The membership of the local union numbers nearly 200. The growth of the organization is marvellous, which speaks for the great popularity of the movement among the laboring classes. The local union was started only a few months ago and is now one of the strongest in Ontario.

THE COUNTY COURT

Henry Dooman, of Bracebridge Gets Three Months

At the General Sessions of the Peace yesterday, before His Honour Judge Weller, Henry Dooman of Bracebridge and formerly of Hastings, was found guilty of perjury, and sentenced to three months in the county jail. The case arose out of the seduction action of Scriver vs. Richardson, which was tried at the recent assizes before Honourable Mr. Justice Falconbridge. Dooman gave evidence of a nature calculated to besmirch the character of the girl, whose father was the plaintiff in the case. The criminal action that followed brought out many conflicting statements, but the jury were apparently of the opinion that Dooman had perjured himself.

County Crown Attorney Wood conducted the prosecution, and Mr. Gedeon of Bracebridge, defended the prisoner.

The case of Walsh vs. Trotter was concluded Wednesday. The plaintiff in this case was John Walsh, a farmer residing in the Township of Asphodel, and the defendant was Thomas Trotter, also a farmer, residing in the same Township. The action is brought by the plaintiff to recover the sum of $200 on an alleged account, and also damages. The plaintiff stated that on or about the twentieth day of April, 1899, the plaintiff delivered to the defendant five cows, to be safely kept and taken care of and fed by the defendant during the year 1899. The defendant was to deliver all the milk of said cows to a certain cheese factory, the plaintiff to get half the proceeds and return the cows at the end of the season. It is alleged that the defendant did not return the cows, nor did he give an account of the milk sold.

In his statement of defence the defendant, while admitting that he entered an agreement regarding the cows denies that he converted them to his own use, or deprived the plaintiff of the use and possession of the said cows or any of them; that he did not wrongly detain any of the said cows from the plaintiff, and that the plaintiff did not demand said cows from the defendant before such action, and also that the defendant had paid to the plaintiff his full share and value of milk produced.

The defendant was allowed $4.25 on a counter claim, with costs.

W. A. F. Campbell, Norwood, for the plaintiff; George Sharry, for the defendant.

London, Dec. 14.—Prince Ching has announced that the arrival of the imperial family will take place a week later than the date previously fixed. The pretext given for the delay is a temporary indisposition on the part of the Empress Dowager. There is good reason to believe, however, that the Empress prefers to remain at a distance from the capital until a definate agreement with Russia can be reached in the matter of the Manchurian convention.

Just before the death of Li Hung Chang, the CChinese plenipotentiaries were instructed to sign the convention, but the order was quickly countermanded in deference to the earnest remonstrances of two Governors of provinces, Liu Kun Yi and Fan Chung Li. Meanwhile M. Lessar, the Russian Minister at Pekin, insists upon the acceptance of the convention in its original form.

A correspondent of the London Times wired a translation of the authentic text communicated by the Grand Council of the Empire to the great Viceroys named above. The first article embodies a promise on Russia's part to return Manchuria to China, the country to remain on the map of China as before the Russian occupation and to be administered by Chinese officials. Evidently, the Viceroys objected to the second article, which defines the manner in which the promise is to be performed.

This article prescribes that, provided no further rebellions occur in China, and action on the part of other Powers does not supervene, the Russian forces in Manchuria will be gradually withdrawn as follows: Within 1901, from the four southern sections of the Mukden Province, as far as the Liau River; within 1902 the remaining Russian forces in the Mukden Province shall be withdrawn; within 1903 the possibility of withdrawing all Russian soldiers in the other two provinces of Kirin and Hetung-kiang will be investigated. That is to say, Russia refuses to make any definite agreement to withdraw her troops from two of the three provinces of Manchuria, while their withdrawal even from the other is contingent on the non-occurance of a further outbreak of the Boxers, an outbreak which the most trustworthy observers look for at any moment, and, certainly, before the close of 1902. In other words, there is no assurance that the Russian military occupation of Manchuria will come to an end at any given date.

There were other features of this convention well calculated to displease those who desire to witness an immediate reassertion of Chinese authority in Manchuria. By the third article of the convention the Russian military officials were to determine just how many Chinese soldiers should be employed to garrison Manchuria, and they were also empowered to designate the places where the Chinese troops should be stationed. Moreover, the Chinese Governors were authorized to use Chinese infantry or cavalry for police purposes alone, and they were forbidden to use artillery. As for the Shanhaikwan-Newchwang Railway, the Russian Government agreed to restore it to its original owners, but precautions were taken against their controlling it or extending it. Article IV. expressly provides that other Powers shall not send troops to protect the railway, and that, without Russia's permission, no prolongation of it or construction of new branch lines shall be permitted in the southern portion of Manchuria, neither may the Liau River bridge or either terminus of the railway be moved. It seems incredible that these last-named provisions should provoke no protest on the part of the British Foreign Office.

The convention here outlined would have been signed by Li Hung Chang but for the vigorous interposition of the Japanese Minister, who demanded that the text of the instrument should be officially submitted to him, basing his demand on the magnitude of the Japanese interests involved in any change in the status of affairs in Manchuria. On the refusal of the Chinese plenipotentiaries to exhibit the text, the Japanese Government communicated directly from Tokio with the Viceroys whom we have named, and induced them to use their influence with the Empress against the treaty. In the meantime, the Empress had herself instructed her plenipotentiaries to communicate the terms of the convention to the Ministers of the Powers, and to sign it only if they did not object. When the Chinese plenipotentiaries visited M. Lessar, for the purpose of explaining their new instructions, the interview is said to have been stormy, and the incident is alleged to have caused the death of Li Hung Chang. He was unconscious, and the seals were in the hands of his temporary successor, when the Empress's telegram countermanding the order to sign the treaty was received.

The negotiations between China and Russia with regard to Manchuria are in abeyance, and under the circumstances the Empress Regent naturally hesitates to come to Pekin, within easy reach of the Russian forces at Newchwang and other points in the Mukden Province. This indicates an ominous outlook for the peace of the world.

BOER LEADERS LOST CONTROL

No Longer Able to Prevent Murder and Other Atrocities

MURDERS OF THE NATIVES.

Lord Kitchener Gives 84 Specific Incidents Where They Were Shot After Informal Trial

London, Dec. 13.—In connection with a statement sent to the War Office in regard to the Brakenlaagte atrocities, Lord Kitchener says that apparently the Boers are no longer able to repress murder and outrage on the part of their subordinates. The statement sets forth that 18 officers and men of Col. Benson's command were kindly and even carefully treated by the Boers, while the remaining 15 men who were examined testified that they witnessed and suffered atrocities worse than those which followed the Vlakfontein disaster. These latter said the unarmed and wounded men lying around the guns were killed at close range, and that the survivors of the engagement suffered torture, being robbed and stripped of their clothing in spite of their wounds and broken limbs.

CALLED BOERS BANDITS.

London, Dec. 13.—Speaking at Glasgow, Mr. Brodrick, the Secretary of State for War, referred to Lord Kitchener's report on the shooting of the blacks by the Boers. Mr. Brodrick said this report made it perfectly clear that these murders were not committed in moments of passion, but were part of an organized system to cover the tracks of the enemy and to prevent possible information of their whereabouts. Dealing with present aspects of the war, Mr. Brodrick said Boers had accepted parole and broken it, and that there would be no repitition of such actions. Within recent weeks, Boer commanders had shown less regret for the laws of war than previously, added the speaker, and these bandits would before long reach a crisis when they could no longer be treated as belligerents.

NATIVES WERE SHOT.

London, Dec. 13.—Lord Kitchener's promised statement, specifying thirty-seven separate instances in which natives have been shot by the Boers, which involved the loss of eighty-four lives, was issued by the War Office last night. In some of the cases mentioned the blacks were shot after an informal court-martial or upon being accused of spying, but in numerous instances, Lord Kitchener indicates, the natives were shot in cold blood, in order to hide traces of movements of Boer commandos. The period covered by Lord Kitchener's statement is over one year.

SURPRISED SLEEPING BOERS.

Bloemfontein, Dec. 13.—By a series of smart night surprises General Barnett has lately been able to capture twenty-four Boers, who were sleeping at the time.

THE LEADING BUSINESS

Mr. Frost's Wonderful Success Since Opening out Here.

Peterborough has many bright and progressive men, and in this respect will take second place to no town or city in Canada. Mr. Frost, who only recently opened out here, is a valuable addition to our enterprising business class. Since coming to Peterborough he has had phenomenal success, and has now the leading jewellry business of the town.

Mr. Frost's success is due to two circumstances: He has an up-to-date store and he advertises in The Times. Our readers will pardon us when we tell them that The Times, we honestly believe, reaches at least one half the entire purchasing community not only in town and Ashburnham, but in the country villages. It is a fact that these people cannot be reached in any other way, except through this paper. Mr. Frost now realises this, and attributes his success largely to using the advertising columns of this great family journal.

A WAGES QUESTION

A Forceful and Impressive Address by Mr. Walden

At St. Andrew's church on Thursday evening Evangelist Walden took as his text, "The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal left through Jesus Christ our Lord." Mr. Walden pointed out that there were three aspects of sin that were to be considered, —First, it was a burden; second, it was a defilement; third, it was a mountain; it hides from God.

He has provided the remedy to meet the moral and spiritual affliction or disease of man. The Gospel presents a brighter side to all spiritual misery and wretchedness, for the gift of God is eternal life. This is a gift to all mankind—no delay in its delivery, no stipulation as to special qualities on the part of the recipient—the only condition is to surrender to God through Christ.

FEW BOERS SURRENDER, KEPT FIRM BY BOTHA

General Bruce Hamilton's Column Have Given Them a Pretty Bad Week

HIS INFLUENCE ON TRANSVAALERS IS STRONG

As Long as the Personal Influence of Botha is Exercised Large Surrenders of Boers are not Expected

London, Dec. 13.—The correspondent of the Times at Pretoria says that the number of Boers who are now surrendering is extremely small. The enemy has received a severe hustling this week from Bruce Hamilton's columns. Commandant-General Botha is probably between Ermelo and Amersfoort, South-West Transvaal. As long as the personal influence of Botha is exercised large surrenders of Boers are not expected.

Chili Orders Army to Guard Mountain Passes

London, Dec. 13.—The Times in its second edition to-day publishes a despatch from Valparaiso, under to-day's date, announcing that decrees have been published calling out a sufficient number of conscripts and territorial guards to place thirty thousand men at the disposal of Chili to protect the mountain passes.

London, Dec. 13.—The Times, in its second edition to-day, publishes a despatch from Valaparaiso, under to-day's date, which says:

"The first symptom at the present juncture of a possible awakening of warlike excitement among the Chilian public is the announcement that a mass meeting of working people is to be held at Santiago December 15th, to express approval of the action of the Government in dealing with the Argentine question. Even this apparently is merely an offset to another meeting promoted by the advocates of peace at any price.

"The buying of ships to take the place of vessels of questionable efficiency, the mobilization of the fleet for manoeuvres, and the strengthening of relations with Ecuador—are not regarded here as signs of aggressive intentions on Chili's part, but only as natural precautions evoked by the unexpectedly threatening demeanor of Argentina."

A PUBLIC MEETING

Will be Held to Discuss the Waterworks By-Law, Which Passed its First and Second Readings Last Night

The Town Council met in special session last night, for the purpose of reading the Water Works By-law and taking action thereon.

There were present Mayor T. H. G. Denne and Aldermen Edgcumbe, Shortly, Roger, Rush, Clinkscale, Batten, Best and Corkery.

The reading of the minutes was dispensed with, and a by-law providing for the taking over of the Water Works by the Town, and the issuing of debentures for the sum of $120,000 for purchase of the same, passed its first and second readings.

Before Council convened, Mayor Denne signed an agreement with the Water Works Company for the purchase of their plant and lands, providing, of course, the by-law is carried by vote on the 6th day of January next.

Ald. Rush moved, seconded by Ald. Corkery,—That the sum of $25 each be given to Turner, Trussler, Dundas and Boyle, who have volunteered for service in South Africa. The amounts to Turner and Trussler to be handed to Col. Edwards for them, as they are members of the 57th Battalion, and the amounts to Dundas and Boyle to be given to their respective mothers.—Carried.

On motion of Ald. Edgcumbe, it was decided to hold a public meeting in the Opera House some evening during the week following the date of nominations, for the purpose of discussing the Water Works By-law. The date of meeting will be announced later.

On motion of Ald. Best, seconded by Ald. Corkery, the Mayor and Clerk were authorized to attach the corporation seal to a petition to the Local House for legislation on the Cordage Co.'s By-law, the purchase of the Water Works, and an amendment to the Cereal Co.'s By-law granting an extension of time in which to complete their buildings, and applying all provisions of the latter by-law to the new company recently organized.

Council then adjourned till Monday evening when the statutory meeting will be held.

LABOR MEETING

An Exceedingly Full House Listen to Mr Flett Last Night

The local branch of the American Federation of Labor held an open meeting in the S.O.E. Hall, Hunter street, last night.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. Flett, one of the organizers of the Federation. He explained at considerable length the advantages of labor being united. He said the object of the union was to encourage a better feeling between employers and employees. The men with capital were organized and unless labor was organized the capitalists would never pay the laboring man enough to buy bread nor clothes. He said a great many when they joined the unions asked when a strike would be declared, but the speaker pointed out that it was not their object to declare strikes but rather to prevent them. In many cases strikes were caused by a split in the ranks of the working men in that they did not understand each other and had no organized means of settling their difficulties. In the case of unions a strike could very often be averted because reports on the trouble would have to be sent to the heads of the Federation and there discussed, and if possible an understanding between the conflicting parties would be arrived at. In countries where labor was not organized we find a far greater number of strikes than we do in places where labor was organized. He pointed out how different it was for men who were not satisfied with their work and pay were treated when approaching their employers. In one case he said a few men who were not unionists would approach their employer and state their grievance and demand a change to be made. The men would be told to "Get out of this and if you come to me again in this way I will discharge you." On the other hand unionists having a grievance would report to their branch and a committee would be appointed to wait on the employer and they would state that they were members of union so and so of the American Federation of Labor and in most cases the employer would respectfully talk the matter over with them and very often a satisfactory result would be decided on.

The hall was packed to its fullest capacity with a very attentive audience who evidently appreciated the address given. Mr. Flett is one of the leading speakers and is very earnest in his arguments.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker at the close of the meeting.

A meeting of the union was held after the open meeting had concluded.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

London, Dec. 13.—It is understood that the commander-in-chief is considering the best means of placing commissions within the reach of men who, in spite of their educational qualifications, do not possess the private incomes which have always been necessary to maintain positions in the army, and especially in cavalry regiments. Lord Roberts has already done away with a great deal of the gold lace and finery, which are a source of unnecessary expense to the commissioned ranks. Lord Roberts is said to be strongly in favor of increasing the pay of young officers, in order to widen the field from which suitable candidates can be obtained, and his recommendations are stated to be under consideration.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 13.—The departure of the members of the third contingent for Halifax was this morning made the occasion of a great demonstration of approval of the war. At nine o'clock 45 sturdy soldiers marched to the Grand Trunk station, headed by the Victoria Rifles Band, and were there met by tremendous crowds, which filled all available space around the track. The western men those from Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, Peterborough, and Ottawa, were already in the Intercolonial cars, and as soon as partings were over the Montreal men boarded the train. Mayor Prefontaine made them a farewell address, in which he declared amid tremendous cheers that they were going to fight in the most just war which Britain had ever undertaken, and that they would carry with them hearty wishes of all Montrealers for their safety and quick return. He dwelt upon the freedom which the British Government gave to all races in Canada, and expressed the opinion that every Canadian, no matter what his race or language, should pray for the success of the British arms and the establishment of settled government under the freest flag under Heaven. The Mayor was enthusiastically cheered and the boys went away convinced that at least one prominent French-Canadian was no pro-Boer.

Montreal, Dec. 14.—Joseph Ernest Leplaine was hanged in the Montreal jail yesterday at 8.00 o'clock, a. m., for the murder of Madame Lefebvre, of Ste. Cunegonde, in May of the present year. The execution was carried out without the slightest hitch, and life was extinct seven minutes after the fall, which broke the condemned man's neck. Prior to the execution the condemned man spent the greater part of his time in spiritual preparations, and was quite resigned to his fate when the time came. It was thought by some of his attendants that he would break down at the last, but the very reverse was the case. Leplaine never flinched and died in a manner that might be fittingly described as "game." Leplaine was executed for shooting to death Madame Lefebvre, with whom he lodged in Ste. Cunegonde. The murder was particularly brutal, as Leplaine shot his victim while her back was turned in the performance of her domestic duties. It was supposed that Leplaine was jealous of the imaginary attentions of other boarders in the house to his boarding mistress.

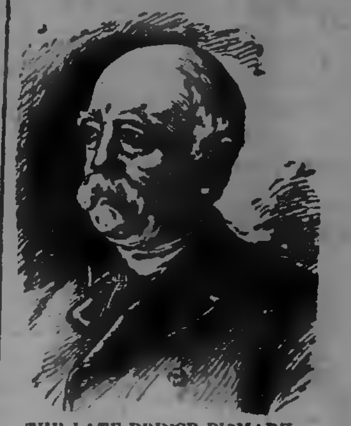
London, Dec. 12.—Secretary of War Brodrick announced at Glasgow yesterday that he was now aable to carry out his ideas in regard to the South African concentration camps. He proposed to break up the western camps, to reduce the numbers of all of them, and to send the overflow from the Orange River Colony into the Cape Colony, and from the Transvaal into Natal. He hoped to provide permanetn shelters by the coast, but it must not be expected considering the people's habits, that the mortality would be reduced to the normal rate of a British town. Mr. Brodrick did not defend the concentration camps as such, but as military necessities. They had proved the most difficult problem ever undertaken in the annals of war and had been carried through with credit to British humanity.

London, Dec. 12.—The War Office has received a long despatch from General Kitchener, detailing instances where the Boers ill-used the natives. Eight cases of murder were recited and twenty-nine cases of unmerciful flogging.

THE UNITED STATES WATCHING GERMANY

Grave Fears of a Rupture Between the Two Countries

The United States will Not Allow Germany to Acquire a South American Colony



THE LATE PRINCE BISMARK.

Washington, Dec. 14.—Affairs in Venezuela, it was acknowledge at the State Department to-day, are receiving more attention from the Administration than the apparent tranquility with regard to the attitude of Germany indicates. The declaration attributed to President Castro that he is willing to give Germany a concession for a large colony suggested to the officials of the State Department that at the proper time it may be necessary to direct the attention of Venezuela to the Monroe doctrine.

A concession from Venezuela to Germany or any other European power to found a colony in the Western Hemisphere would not be recognized by the United States. No official of the State Department will make that assertion for publication, but it is, nevertheless, true that no such settlement of the dispute between Venezuela and the German Empire would be accepted by the United States. Any effort on Germany's part to conclude such a bargain would be regarded as an unfriendly act, and any attempt to carry it out would be looked upon as an act of war.

The officials of the State Department do not like to discuss hypothetical cases, and it is not possible to say what would be done to prevent such an agreement.

MAY SEIZE A CUSTOM-HOUSE

The concession for a colony is the least serious aspect of the whole matter. It is more than half feared that Germany has a plan to seize the custom-house at La Guayra for the purpose of collecting the $2,000,000 interest due on the Government guaranteed bonds of the Valencia Railroad.

There are four German cruisers now in the Caribbean Sea. Presumably they are there merely for a winter cruise, but their presence is looked upon as constituting a naval demonstration. So long as it is merely a demonstration the United States will have nothing to say. The minute, however, any attempt is made to land German marines on Venezuelan territory there will be energetic action on the part of the United States.

The first action probably would be a query as to the meaning of the landing. If there should be a frank avowal that it is for the purpose of collecting a debt due subjects of the German Empire, the second step would, undoubtedly, be a peremptory protest against the landing.

State Department officials are averse to publicity being given the fact that they are devoting so much attention to the matter. They fear that any discussion will make their task of preserving peace all the more difficult. They hope matters will not come to such a pass that any of the measures mentioned will be necessary.

NOT ONE OF THE EXCEPTIONS.

There is an unalterable purpose to insist that the collection of debts due private individuals shall not be considered one of the cases in which an American republic may not "take shelter behind the Monroe doctrine. It is authoritatively stated that when the President, in his message, spoke of the exceptions to the Monroe doctrine that might be made he did not intend to include the collection by a government of debts due its citizens or subjects.

In two days the North Atlantic squadron is due to cast anchor on the south coast of Cuba. The itinerary for the winter cruise takes it to that coast. No provision for it to go to the coast of Venezuela was made when the itinerary was issued.

Secretary Long, however, says it will go to the southern limits of the Sea. But even if it does not, it will be within one day's sail of the port that probably will be seized if the German Emperor undertakes the plan supposed to be in his mind.

This Province has been doing fairly well in the matter of improved drinking habits. The number of convictions for drunkenness in 1887 was 6,200; in 1900 it had fallen to 3,378. Of course it may be that this does not exactly indicate the rate of progress, but it is at least an approximate test. Now shall we continue the good work, keeping public opinion and support with us, or undo much that has been accomplished by an attempt to reach the goal at a jump?

H. LE BRUN & CO

Their Bill of Fare for the Coming Christmas

Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co. have been a long time in business, and have been continually gathering pointers in regard to the most taking preparations for the Christmas trade. The results of their experiences will be found expressed in this year's magnificent stock of serviceable goods, suitable for sensible Christmas presents. You can show your good will and kindness to your friends and relatives better by making a gift that will be useful, and that will also serve to keep you in grateful remembrance far longer than by some more expensive, but comparatively useless article. At the City Clothing Store, you will find a magnificent holiday stock. This includes beautiful neckwear, embracing all the latest and most elegant novelties, handsome mufflers, etc. Silk handkerchiefs are splendidly represented, and also gloves for street wear, driving, etc. Warm underwear of English and Canadian manufacture, handsome hosiery and silk suspenders, with initials, and in every variety of elegance, will also be found. When you are giving your orders to Santa Claus be sure and insist that the bill is to be filled at H. Le Brun & Co's. They can fill the bill to your satisfaction every time. Their stock is superb and of great variety, and the prices are very reasonable—

When you deal with Santa Claus,
Send him straight to H. LeBrun's,
If you ask him why—because
At his store, on George street found,
Beautiful Christmas goods abound,
The best in all the country round;
The staple, solid and the gay,
For lasting wear or neat display,
And, best of all, tout bon marche.

ON THE FOUR-SQUARE PLAN

The four-square plan means that all customers, regardless of rank or station, receive the same careful attention and treatment at our store. We are as particular with the child who is sent to purchase some small article as we are with the experienced adult. We never substitute inferior drugs when filling your doctor's prescription. We never recommend the "something just as good."

SURE AND UNFAILING.

Under all circumstances of sickness and disease Paine's Celery Compound is safe, sure and unfailing. It cleanses and purifies the blood, braces the nerves, corrects digestion and builds up those who are weak and rundown. If you are nervous or sleepless, try one bottle; the results will surprise you. Our stock of Paine's Celery Compound is always fresh and pure.

LOOKING BACK

To the time when she was plucked from the very grasp of death, the natural impulse of the womanly heart is thankfulness for the means which saved her, and a desire to help other women in like case. Those are the motives which prompted Mrs. Eva Barnett to write the accompanying testimonial to the curative power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This is only one cure out of thousands. No one would dare say that the average woman was not as truthful as she is good. And it is the truthful testimony of the average woman that "Favorite Prescription" cures womanly diseases when all other means and medicines absolutely fail. It establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves, restores the appetite and induces refreshing sleep.

"I have intended for some time to write to you," says Mrs. Eva Barnett, of Russellville, Logan Co., Ky., "and give a testimonial in regard to what your medicine has done for me. My baby came in July, 1899, and I had congestive chills, and lay at death's door for ten long weeks. I was in a dreadful condition and had six of the best doctors of the city. After everything had been done and I had been given up to die I asked my husband to get me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. He had no faith in it, but he got it, and when I had taken it two weeks I was able to walk to the dining room to my meals, and by the time I had taken three bottles I was able to cook for my family of four. I can never praise Dr. Pierce and his medicine enough."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness.

CHAINED FOR TEN YEARS
HAY FEVER
ASTHMA
EVERY [illegible]
RELIEF.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DRS. TAFT BROS.' MEDICINE CO.:
Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows at 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,
O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

Professor O'Brien

CANADA'S GREATEST PHRENOLOGIST and the only recognized SCIENTIFIC PALMIST (by law) has removed to 263 Hunter st. Terrace, near railway crossing. See name in window. As Professor O'Brien is a very busy man, he will not be able to leave Peterboro for a few days yet. The more people he examines the more he has to examine, which fact alone speaks for his ability and the esteem and popularity he has gained during his short stay in Peterboro. It will be well for skeptics of either science to investigate before condemning either Phrenology or Scientific Palmistry. The latter should not be confounded with the common fortune telling. Professor O'Brien has proved in open court before Crown witnesses at the Toronto General Sessions, March 14th, 1901, that Palmistry as demonstrated by him is a pure science and has no connection with the so-called fortune-telling. Anyone wishing to be enlightened on the science should call on Professor O'Brien, who will be pleased to explain his scientific methods.

A photo read free to patrons.

Over 150 persons have consulted him during his short stay in Peterboro.

Remember there is only ONE Professor O'Brien. Don't forget his new address. Office hours, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

CAN DANCE A TWO-STEP

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Nineteenth Century.

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir,—In my youth I was fond of dancing, and took in every dance for miles around. That is years ago. I fell a ready victim to rheumatism 12 years ago, and have been a sufferer ever since. Nothing seemed to give me relief, until I secured a box of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. My recovery since I began taking these pills has been miraculous, and for the first time in 12 years, I was able to participate in a social dance, and am now almost entirely well. I hope others may profit by my experience. E. J. Hall, G.T.R., Lindsay

Sir,—Please use my name in any way you like to show the wonderful results that Dr. Clarkes' Little Red Pills have wrought in my case. I was a sufferer for 22 years from dyspepsia, and could get no relief. Six boxes of the pills made me a well man. I might also mention that a friend, who was a lifelong sufferer from rheumatism, is also bearing testimony to these marvellous pills, having been entirely cured. A. N. Brown, Odessa, N. Y.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by Ormond & Walsh. The Canada Chemical Company will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not permanent-

PLEASE NOTE THIS FACT

OF

THE NORTH AMERICAN OIL AND REFINING COMPANY

OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

Incorporated under the laws of Wyoming.

Location of Property, Acton, California.
Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent.
General Office, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Branch Offices, Los Angeles, California, and 150 Nassau St., New York City.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

E. A. Sunderlin, President, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
Joseph H. Parker, Vice President and Gen. Mgr., Los Angeles, California.

INTRODUCTION

The North American Oil & Refining Company invites the public to investigate its proposition and for the purpose of explaining its plans and describing its property this prospectus is issued.

The petroleum industry of California is becoming so vast and so well known that it is not deemed necessary to give any statistics in this pamphlet concerning the industry in general. If any person desires to obtain such information they may call at our offices or address us by mail, and we will gladly furnish any data or reading matter of a general nature that may be desired.

As to Organization

The exceptionally favorable and hearty reception given the announcement of the organization of the North American Oil & Refining Co. has been a source of extreme gratification to the management of this company, and is but another evidence of what a combination of business integrity, capacity, experience, capital, and unvarying success, such as has followed the business career of these gentlemen whose names appear as Officers and Directors of this new Corporation, can easily accomplish in the direction of commanding the confidence and endorsement of successful, shrewd, and experienced men, representing the most important financial and commercial interests.

The phenomenal sale of this Company's stock from the moment it was placed on the market, readily determined the absolute confidence of its friends and the general public in the property owned, its promising profit paying productive power, and its progressive, economical, and thoroughly business like and successful management, by men of experience in oil development.

Incorporation

This company is capitalized for 1,500,000 shares, par value one cent per share, the incorporation having been effected under the laws of Wyoming, and the stock being all common issue (no preferred stock), absolutely full paid and forever non-assessable. The incorporation laws of Wyoming are peculiarly favorable to oil enterprises, and the par value of the stock has been fixed at one cent per share in order to avoid the excessive revenue tax paid on stocks of a high par value.

It has placed upon the market a block of [illegible] shares of Treasury stock, which is offered at the nominal price of Ten cents per share, fully paid. As soon as this block is disposed of, the next offers for sale will be advanced to such price as existing conditions then warrant.

Liabilities.

The Company has no debts; all stock is fully paid and non-assessable. There are no stockholder's liabilities. The land is owned by the Company and it is PAID FOR. We have no royalties to pay for any purposes.

Acton White Oil Field.

The Acton White Oil Field lies about [illegible] miles north of Los Angeles, running parallel with the Southern Pacific Ry. The Newhall Oil Field is divided into several smaller fields or sections, each bearing different names, so as to distinguish one section from the other. To begin with, there is the upper Newhall field and the lower Newhall field. In the lower field is Rice Canon district, Wiley Canon district, Pico Canon district, Towsley and Temple district. The grade of oil found in the lower Newhall district is a 40 degrees gravity. In the upper Newhall field is the famous Placerita Canon district and the Acton district.

The grade of oil found in the upper Newhall field is of 47 degrees gravity. It sells for $4.00 per barrel, and is as clear as water when it comes from the wells. It can be used for illuminating or in gasoline engines, the same as refined distillate. In this part of the field, are the only white oil wells in the known world.

In this field The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns [illegible] acres of white oil land, West of the North American Oil & Refining Co.'s property in the [illegible] Oil Co., Pioneer White Oil Co., C. O. G. P. Co., the famous New Century Oil Co., (having struck a 400 bbl. white oil gusher) Hermosa White Oil Co., Overman & Parks, Placerita White Oil Co., besides numerous smaller companies and individual wells. All of the above named are producers of 47 degrees gravity oil. All other wells in the field are in the lower Newhall and produce 40 degrees gravity oil.

This field has been distinguished by the State Mineralogist as the oldest and the best known oil fields on the Pacific Coast. (X-Report Page [illegible]).

The first well was bored in the Newhall field in [illegible], and has been a constant producer to the present day. The wells of the entire field extending for some 8 miles east and west, and four miles north and south have proven of remarkable longevity, and the first well is probably the longest lived of any in the world. The permanency of these wells can well be understood when it is considered that the oil strata varies from [illegible] to [illegible] feet in thickness. The great secret of success in the oil industry is the securing of permanent wells. The average life of oil wells in Pennsylvania in its palmy days, is stated by Wm. Wright, in "Oil Regions of Pennsylvania," to have been eighteen months. California wells have been vastly better, but none have equalled those of the Newhall locality in stability and permanency.

This district has been producing oil for over a quarter of a century. The Pacific Coast Oil Company, operating in this district, has paid its stockholders $12,000,000, and has recently sold its property to the Standard Oil Co. for several million dollars.

Market.

The entire Newhall field produces oil given by the State Mineralogist as 40 to 47 degrees gravity. This oil is now refined at San Francisco. This being high refining oil it practically has the world for a market, and will never be subject to the fluctuations that affect fuel oil. There is a vast new market for refined oils, that will be controlled by California, consisting of the Pacific Coast of North America and South America, Asia, and Australia. Oils are now shipped in large quantities to these places, and the demand is constantly increasing.

These light grades of oil are worth to-day $1.75 to $4.50 per barrel on the field, nearly 10 times the price of fuel oil. When the difference in the price and stability of the market are considered it will be readily seen that our proposition possesses merits far beyond the ordinary propositions that are now being handled in Southern California. The North American Oil & Refining Co. intends when conditions warrant to erect a refinery to handle the product of the Newhall-Acton-Placerita Field, as well as to develop the holdings of the company.

Our Lands.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. owns [illegible] acres of white oil land in the upper Newhall district, known as the Acton White Oil Field. The land has been carefully selected by the Company's engineer, Joseph H. Parker, in conjunction with four of the best oil experts in California, whose reputations as oil experts are well known throughout the State.

The geological formation is perfect, the Anticlinal passing through the entire property, and being unbroken by granite formations.

The North American Oil & Refining Co.'s lands are in a line with and on the same strike as properties already developed and yielding splendid revenues. This section is underlaid by a subterranean reservoir of natural petroleum of 40 to 47 degrees gravity, as is proven by the wells on the adjoining property.

Maps and Reports.

The Company has on file, in its office, full and complete reports with maps and field notes of all its lands, made by its engineer, J. H. Parker. Details of these are too lengthy to embody in this prospectus, but can be seen any time at the Company's office.

The Directors call special attention to the map which will be sent on application. It has been drawn from actual surveys and personal inspection of the land and is accurate. The Company's lands are distinctly shown as well as their relation to other oil lands and the location of oil wells, oil seepages and oil springs. A careful inspection of the map will aid prospective investors to judge of the probability of oil under the Company's lands.

Refining and Storage.

The North American Oil & Refining Co. proposes to engage in the business of refining oil, and in connection with a refinery intends to construct storage tanks for the purpose of storing oil for individuals and corporations, charging therefor the customary rate per barrel. Negotiations are now pending for the lease or purchase of suitable land in Los Angeles upon which it is intended in the future an up-to-date refinery and storage tanks will be constructed and operated. The profits accruing from both enterprises will be considerable.

Shipping Facilities.

The Company's lands lay from one-half to two miles from the railroad, and a pipe line can be laid from any part of the field to the railway, which will eliminate the cost of and inconvenience in using tanks and wagons.

Facts Not to be Overlooked.

1st. [illegible] acres of land in the "Oldest and best known oil field in the State."
2nd. Land owned by Company and paid for.
3rd. Stability and permanency of wells.
4th. Refining oil, 40 and 47 degrees gravity.
5th. Pacific Coast Of North America and South America, Asia and Australia for a market.
6th. 47 degrees gravity, white oil well within short distance of our land.
7th. One-half to two miles from railroad station.
8th. Pipe line to railroad.
9th. Wood and water on land.
10th. Entire land a mass of oil sand and shale.
11th. Organized under the laws of Wyoming, no indebtedness; no assessment; no stockholders' liabilities; stock full paid and non-assessable.
12th. Over one-third of stock in treasury.
13th. Management well known and conservative.

General Conclusions.

The Company's manager, Mr. J. H. Parker, is regarded throughout this district as one of the most reliable oil experts in this country. He has spent a great deal of his time upon the Company's property, and is familiar by personal investigation with all the best oil fields of California. He states without reserve that the showing of this property is better than any oil fields he has visited.

Stock Offering.

The Company now offers for sale [illegible] shares of its treasury stock at the low price of 10 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of erecting a 500 barrel refinery, and sinking of wells. Active work has been started and it is practically certain that oil in great quantity and exceptionally high quality will be found.

Registration.

Stock is registered with The Colorado Title and Trust Company of Colorado Springs, Colo.
